Insull on Stand Rages at Prosecutor

DEFENDS STOCK DEALS AND DASH ACROSS EUROPE

Defense Has Long Witness List.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Samuel Insull, on trial before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson for mail fraud, battered his way belligerently through a final cross-examination yesterday, but is to return to the witness stand tomorrow for re-direct questioning by his own attorney, Floyd E. Thompson.

Attorney Thompson last night denied a report that the defense would rest after the old master of the Insull billion dollar utility empire has had his final say. Other defendants—there are 17 in all—are expected to testify in their own behalf and it was Mr. Thompson's opinion that the trial would consume at least two more weeks. It now is in its sixth week.

Defense to Use Experts.

It was expected that those to follow Mr. Insull would be William M. Hamilton, former expert statistician for the Illinois commerce commission, and two defendants, Clarence McNeille and Waldo F. Tobey.

Through his ordeal yesterday Mr. Insull, like the skipper of a battered ship, clung to the bridge, his voice sometimes rising like the wail of the wind. At other times he shouted denunciations of the government's imputations there was anything dishonest in his financial operations.

He was in turn cautious, grimly humorous, jovial, anxious, admonitory, impatient and highly angry. Throughout he was more alert than on the previous day.

Thunderings Draw Smile.

The suave young prosecutor for Oklahoma, Leslie E. Salter, let his voice grow more soft and his smile more sweet as Mr. Insull thundered away at him. It was a deadly duel from which each, considering he had made his points clear to the jury, took satisfaction.

The case, technically, continued to revolve around the matter of intent; whether acts performed by the defendants were designed to defraud or were undertaken with good motives.

In Business of Making Money.

Once Mr. Insull accused the prosecutor of making an "immoral" use of a document setting forth his financial contribution to the formation of Corporation Securities company. In the next breath he admitted that he had made a profit out of a certain transaction, remarking: "I am in the business of making money."

His mentality is fixed in the atmosphere of 1929, before the big break in all his life's work.

"I was doing what I thought was absolutely honest," he shouted once at the prosecutor. "I have lived in an atmosphere of honesty in business."

He scoffed at the idea that he had misled the public or concealed anything of the assets of Corporation Securities for the purpose of selling stock.

The examination concerning his trip to Europe in the summer of 1932 provided the most brilliant lightning flashes of exchange of this session.

Clash Over Trip to Europe.

He had no idea of running away, he told the prosecutor. Asked why he chose to go by way of Quebec, he said that it was because he always chose that route when he had time.

"There is no bogey in that," he said, grinning at the prosecutor. "I dined at the Ritz in Montreal and had breakfast at the Château Frontenac in Quebec. Lots of people knew me there and spoke to me."

"Did you let any one know you were going away?"

"Yes, lots of people, P. J. McEnroe [a defendant], for one."

Prepared for Long Stay.

He carried a great deal of luggage, he said, and "believed" he had a man servant with him and intended to stay a long time.

"Did you read in September, 1932, that District Attorney Dwight H. Green was starting an investigation?"

"This is the first that I heard of it."

TRAGIC MOMENTS IN THE HISTORY OF AMERICAN POLITICS

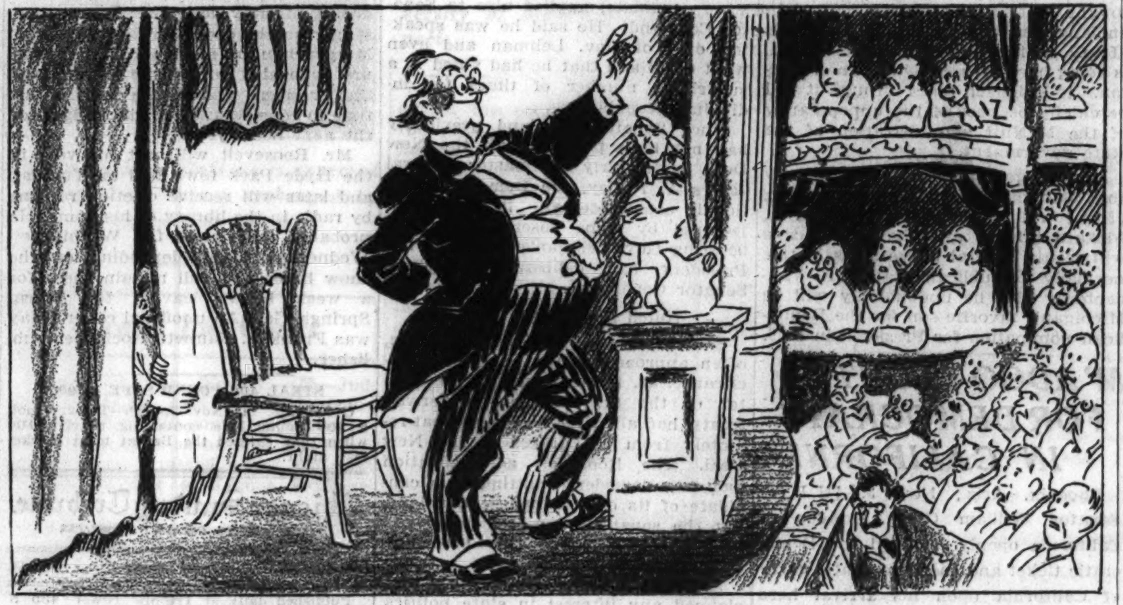
Gentlemen, we are now engaged in a bitterly contested political campaign. Feeling runs high. The winds of controversy are raising a fog of dust. Strange currents of thought are whirling throughout the land. Our anchors begin to drag. We worry. We fear for the future.

And yet, why worry? Worry never solved anything. In times of fierce dissension your minds become overwrought! Molehills become mountains because viewed at too close a range! You need perspective. You must learn to regard your worries objectively! For calm and sane judgment, you need the perspective of a detached point of view! You must summon philosophy to your aid!

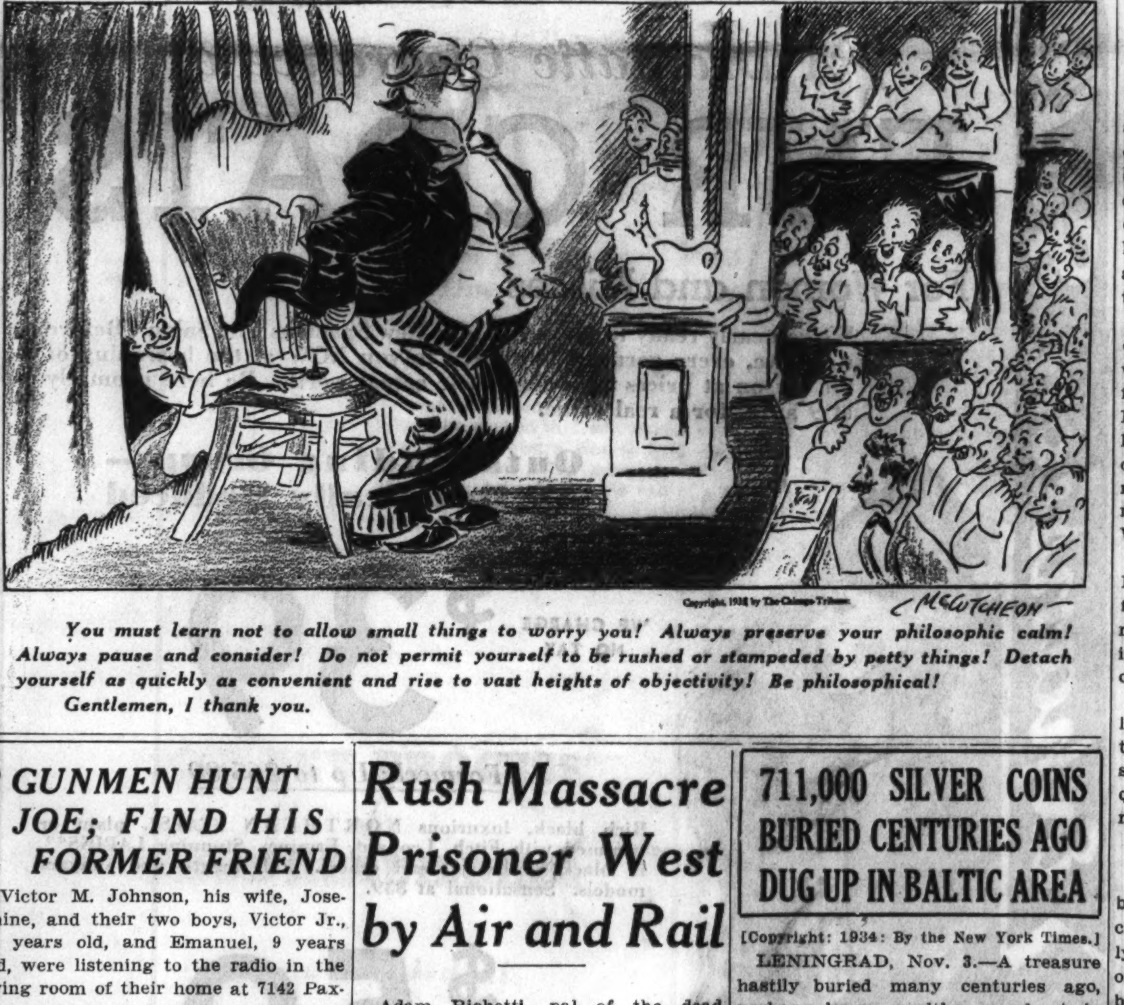
Let me tell you my philosophy, gentlemen. The philosophy which enables me to rise above petty worries!



Imagine yourself upon a distant star, and the more distant it is the smaller your worries will look. Remember that we are but infinitesimal atoms in the vast immensity of space, hurrying through our moment of existence! Consider that our planet is but a mere speck among the millions of worlds adrift in the fathomless depths of the universe!

Our life is as a flicker of light, now here, now gone! In this mood you may appraise your troubles and worries. Politicians, statesmen, kings, dynasties, administrations come and go, leaving but a ripple upon the ocean of Time.

When worries beset you, project your astral body to distant Canopus and you will be amazed to note how insignificant your worries will seem from that remote perspective. You will then cease to worry whether William Howard Taft is re-elected.



Copyright 1934 by The Chicago Tribune.

You must learn not to allow small things to worry you! Always preserve your philosophic calm! Always pause and consider! Do not permit yourself to be rushed or stampeded by petty things! Detach yourself as quickly as convenient and rise to vast heights of objectivity! Be philosophical!

Gentlemen, I thank you.

2 GUNMEN HUNT JOE; FIND HIS FORMER FRIEND

Victor M. Johnson, his wife, Josephine, and their two boys, Victor Jr., 15 years old, and Emanuel, 9 years old, were listening to the radio in the living room of their home at 7142 Paxton avenue last night when there was a knock on the door.

"Does Joe Holy live here?" asked one of two men who were standing at the door.

"No," said Johnson, "he used to be a salesman for me when I was in the realty business, but I haven't seen him since he cheated me out of $200."

Both the men drew revolvers. "We don't like Joe Holy, either," one explained, "but we need money." They took $17 from Johnson and searched the home for more money.

Charles D. Duncan, gasoline dealer, convicted recently of defrauding the state of $30,000 gasoline taxes, was sentenced to serve one to five years in prison and fined $36,000 by Judge Harry B. Miller in the Criminal court yesterday. The fine is one of the largest recorded here in recent years.

Duncan, who is 55 years old and former head of the bankrupt Blue Rose Oil company, 5820 Ogden avenue, Cicero, had been found guilty on each of 18 counts in his indictment for tax evasion by a jury in Judge Miller's court. He was fined $2,000 on each count, and one to five year jail terms were imposed on four of the counts, to run concurrently.

Rush Massacre Prisoner West by Air and Rail

Adam Richetti, pal of the dead Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, who is accused of having participated in the machine gun massacre of five men in Kansas City's Union station last year, stopped in Chicago for three hours yesterday on his way back to Kansas City in custody of United States marshals.

While Richetti was being taken from an airplane at the Chicago airport to the Union station, where he was put aboard a 7 p. m. Burlington train for Kansas City, a federal grand jury in Missouri indicted Eugene C. Reppert, director of police at the time of the massacre; Thomas J. Higgins, chief of detectives, and George Rayen, head of the police automobile theft bureau, for perjury in connection with the case.

Sift Crime-Politics Alliance.

This grand jury has been investigating the relation between crime and politics in Kansas City—a relation which is alleged to have paved the way for the station slayers to make good their escape after they had mowed down four peace officers, one a federal man, and Frank Nash, their prisoner.

Arrangements had been made to rush Richetti from Cleveland, where the gunman has been held captive since his seizure by federal agents two weeks ago, in order to bring him before a special night session of the grand jury, but last night the United Airline officials canceled the run of the regular Kansas City plane.

This unexpected delay caused a change in the grand jury's plans. The term of the jury, which has spent most of the month investigating the massacre, expired at midnight, but Judge Merril E. Otis announced that he would reconvene the jury tomorrow.

Richetti Under Heavy Guard.

Richetti, who is alleged to have aided his pal, Floyd, and Verne C. Miller, former South Dakota sheriff and badman, in the slaying, is the last survivor of the desperate trio.

So dangerous is he considered, that in addition to the three marshals, Richetti was guarded by a Chicago police squad during his brief stop. He was also trussed in a special straitjacket and handcuffed.

The link between Richetti and Kansas City gangdom was further tightened last night with the announcement of United States District Attorney Maurice Milligan in Kansas City that the gunman's pistol, taken from him two weeks ago, came from the Kansas City armory.

711,000 SILVER COINS BURIED CENTURIES AGO DUG UP IN BALTIC AREA

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LENINGRAD, Nov. 3.—A treasure hastily buried many centuries ago, perhaps by a wealthy merchant in fear of a raid, has been unearthed near Lake Ladoga. It was brought to the Hermitage museum here today.

The treasure consists of 711,000 silver coins and hundreds of pieces of unminted silver. The coins are Saxon, Danish, Czech, and Italian. Some date back to the eleventh century. Similar treasure has been found at Wissy, once chief city of the Hanseatic league on the island of Gothland.

The coins brought here today were found in a copper kettle by a hunter digging a pit in the forest to trap fur bearing animals.

U. S. SPOTLIGHT TURNED ON THIS STATE'S BATTLE

Rivals Claim Gains All Down Line.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Illinois is in the national spotlight in Tuesday's election with a string of congressional battles of unusual intensity. Both Chicago and other industrial areas and the prairies of the corn-hog belt are scenes of furious contests over seats in the house at Washington.

Republicans have concentrated upon an effort to recapture districts which were swept by the 1932 Roosevelt landslide. Democrats have pitched in all possible resources, patronage and otherwise, to hold what they have and to make gains, if possible.

Furious Battle in State.

Next in popular concern is the battle for seats in the legislature. Here the main question is whether Gov. Horner and the Democrats are to keep or lose control of the lower house.

Topping the ticket are state-wide races for Illinois offices, while out in front in local interest are the struggles over county offices. All told, it is perhaps the most furious, desperate off year election within memory of the present generation.

On a separate ballot the voters will vote on a 30 million dollar bond issue for emergency relief, the importance of which is being stressed by civic and other organizations.

Both Parties Claiming Gains.

Managers of both parties yesterday put out the usual "Sunday before polls" predictions. Republicans claimed they will carry 73 counties, regain 8 seats in congress, giving them 16 out of 27, capture the house at Springfield, elect its state ticket. The Democrats claimed they will elect more county officers than ever, sweep the state by large majorities, keep the legislature and gain two or four seats in congress to add to their present 19 seats.

Most blazing of the battles is that over congressmen at large, two of whom are to be elected. The G. O. P. fight is being led by C. Wayland Brooks, known far and wide as "Curley." His dynamic force leads Democrats to regard him as their most formidable opponent. Brooks' Republican running mate is Milton E. Jones of Williamsville.

Brooks and Igoe have been the headliners downstate for their rival parties. To indicate Brooks' popularity, some veterans at Democratic headquarters say Brooks and Igoe are most likely to win.

"Easy Money" Is G. O. P. Hurdle.

Reports of shifting sentiment have been sent in by Republican county chairmen all over the state, particularly in the rural regions. The millions of easy money pumped in are regarded by the G. O. P. as its hardest hurdle. The Democratic view is that the "bread and circuses" theme will give them the victory.

Never before has an Illinois campaign experienced an instrumentality in politics such as is thrown in by the doles, corn-hog checks, and the alphabetical agencies' jobs. Many Democratic candidates take the view the corn-hog checks and doles will result in victory for them.

Downstate there are five districts out of fifteen which have horse-race finishes. One of these is a Republican district. In the others, THE TRIBUNE'S local correspondents see small chance of any changes.

In Chicago are four blistering battles.

Britten Faces Hardest Fight.

The veteran Congressman Fred A. Britten, Republican, is faced with the struggle of his 11-term career in the 9th, on the near north side. His Democratic adversary is James McAndrews, former west side congressman. This district is a mixture of gold coast and flophouses; highbrows and racketeers, cathedral and booze joints, upper crust and underworld. The Democrats are entrenched as never before, and Postmaster General James A. Farley is cheering them on with messages from Washington, and for weeks they have been claiming McAndrews will win.

Oscar DePriest, Republican, sole Negro member of Congress, is faced with a hard struggle in the First district. This time he is opposed by a

BULLETIN.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 3.—(AP)—In a message relayed from the liner Lurline, Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith reported tonight that his plane had passed through a "hard rain" storm shortly before midnight (central standard time). The message added: "Above clouds now, 1,000 feet. All well." No position was given.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australian flyer, sped down the final leg of his daring flight from Australia to the United States tonight, aiming straight for Oakland, Cal.

Bidding "aloha" to Hawaii at 2:15 p. m. (6:45 p. m. central standard time), the flying knight and Capt. P. G. Taylor, his navigator, charted their course to reach California tomorrow morning.

Signals Are Picked Up.

A suddenly interrupted message, one hour and fifteen minutes after the takeoff, raised fears for the plane Lady Southern Cross for a time, but the Radio Marine corporation here reported at 7 p. m. (9 p. m. central standard time) that it had picked up Kingsford-Smith's signals.

Capt. Taylor announced before the takeoff the flyers would fly straight for Oakland, avoiding the great circle course taken by steamships

Leave Australia Oct. 20.

Kingsford-Smith's schedule called for arrival at Oakland, the starting point of his three hop flight to Australia in 1928, by 9:20 a. m. [11:30 a. m. C. S. T.].

Kingsford-Smith and Taylor left Brisbane Oct. 20 for Suva, 1,760 miles away, and reached their destination in 11 hours and 45 minutes.

Takeoff difficulties held them at Suva a week. They got away Oct. 28, on the 3,197 mile dash for Honolulu, longest leg of the flight. The hop required 25 hours and five minutes.

DEMOCRATS TO WIN CONGRESS; MAJORITY CUT

Senate Gain 3-6; Lose 30 to 40 in House.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

In the congressional election next Tuesday—an election of fateful import to the future welfare of the country—a qualified vote of confidence in President Roosevelt may be looked for.

The country will return a congress overwhelmingly Democratic, which may be expected to back up the President's policies, though not so blindly as its predecessor.

The indications are that the Democrats will gain from 3 to 6 seats net in the senate, which will give them two-thirds of the membership of that body.

At the same time it appears likely that the Democrats will lose from 30 to 40 members of the house of representatives, which will reduce their majority in that body from the present 200 to somewhere between 120 and 140.

House Cross-Section of Opinion.

Inasmuch as only one-third of the senate is being elected, the house, all members of which are being chosen, presents a more comprehensive cross-section of public sentiment. From the viewpoint of Democratic National Chairman Farley, who does not concede the loss of more than 10 Democratic seats, the loss of from 30 to 40 Democratic congressmen would constitute a signal rebuff of the party at the hands of the electorate.

It is usual, however, for the party in power to lose members of the house in the midterm or "off year" elections. The average loss in the last 60 years is 49. Two years ago the Democrats captured 100 normally Republican seats. A loss of more than 50 seats next Tuesday might fairly be regarded a Republican victory. But the loss of less than 50 seats could not fairly be construed a Democratic defeat.

These Slated for Election.

In addition to Senator Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.], who was reelected in September, the candidates for the senate who certainly or probably will be elected on Tuesday are the following:

Arizona—Henry F. Ashurst* [D.].
California—Hiram W. Johnson* [R.].
Delaware—John G. Townsend* [R.].
Florida—Park Trammell* [D.].

Outcome Doubtful in Seven States.

Connecticut—Frederick C. Walcott* [R.] against Francis T. Maloney [D.].
Nebraska—Edward R. Burke [D.] against Robert G. Simmons [R.].

Can Count on Only One Gain.

The Democrats virtually are assured of gaining senate seats in Maryland, Missouri, New Jersey, and Ohio. The Republicans can count on only one gain—in Wyoming.

Although the Democrats will retain control of both branches of congress by large majorities, the degree to which the election will represent an indorsement of the New Deal will be open to dispute. In few states and congressional districts is the New Deal program a clear cut issue. Almost everywhere it is confused by local and individual considerations. There are Republican candidates giving lip service to the New Deal and Democratic candidates pledging themselves to an independent course in the next congress. Few Republicans are unreservedly attacking, few Democrats unreservedly defending the New Deal.

So far as one may read the surface signs on the eve of the election the country's attitude appears to be that of suspending judgment, of a willingness to give the President's program a further trial. Noteworthy is the general immunity of the President from political attack. His popularity may be diminishing, but he still retains an undoubted hold on the people. Many Democrats and some Republicans have attached themselves to his coattails as the surest way of riding to victory.

Given Credit for Trying.

The tendency is to give the President credit for trying to bring the country out of the depression, to blame his advisers for mistakes, and to give him a further chance to make good. He will not come to judgment till 1936. In the meantime he is to have a Democratic congress to give him the legislation he will want for further experimentation with economic panaceas.

Although the farmers' vote against further agricultural regimentation in such states as Kansas and Nebraska and the Literary Digest poll recording an 18 per cent decline in the popularity of the President's policies denote a widespread questioning of the wisdom of the New Deal the people, it is evident, are being influenced more by the real or fancied benefits of the moment than by prophecies of ultimate disaster. They have got jobs or bounties or doles and are not worrying about the future.

The Democrats are profiting politically from the fact that there are more than 20 million persons subsisting wholly or partly on the federal treasury and that business has been improved to some extent by the outpouring of billions of government money. In vain have the Republicans uttered warnings that some day the country will pay a ruinous price for these momentary benefits in burdensome taxes, inflation of the currency, destruction of national credit, increased cost of living and loss of individual liberty.

Prime the Pump Program.

The Democrats contend that prosperity is reviving as a result of the Roosevelt prime-the-pump program for increasing purchasing power through the distribution of public funds. The Republicans by way of retort cite the American Federation of Labor figures showing a greater volume of unemployment now than a year ago. If there has been any improvement in business, assert the Republicans, it is in spite of, not because of, the New Deal. What is holding back recovery, according to the Republicans, is the stagnation of the heavy industries, a revival of which cannot be financed so long as investors distrust the administration's monetary and labor policies and fear the brain trust public ownership schemes.

The methods resorted to by the Democrats to mobilize the support of those subsisting partly or entirely on the federal treasury have evoked Republican wails that the whole country is being Tammanyized on the principle of "feed 'em and vote 'em."

Under the captaincy of Postmaster General James A. Farley, who also is Democratic national chairman and New York Democratic chairman, the Roosevelt administration, with 100,000 new jobs at its disposal has organized the greatest and most powerful political machine ever put together. The Democratic national committee is not only amply financed by contributions from persons who have received or who expect favors from the administration but it has exploited the enormous distribution of government funds in the several states in a manner designed to make votes for the ticket.

Asks Gratitude for Relief.

In his speeches Mr. Farley has suggested the gratitude to the Roosevelt administration for relief and public works allotments which he expects the voters to record at the polls. Gov. Brann of Maine and numerous other Democratic candidates have boasted of the funds their influence has procured in Washington for their respective states an dwarned that those constituencies which return Republicans will risk a cessation of the federal largess. The Democratic national committee has furnished Democratic state organizations with tabulations of the amounts of government money poured into their states for use in cultivating a sense of popular gratitude to the Roosevelt administration.

To such lengths has this political exploitation of the recovery expenditures been carried by the Democratic organization that the Republicans have complained that the Democrats were treating the federal allotments as a campaign fund—the largest ever placed at the disposal of a political party.

President Goes Home to Vote

President Roosevelt, photographed on special train on which he arrived in Hyde Park, N. Y., his home town, yesterday. He went home to cast his ballot Tuesday.

[Associated Press Photo.]

In contrast with the well organized and well financed Democrats the Republicans are disorganized and virtually without funds. The business interests that formerly supported the Republican organization failed to contribute for this election, either because they deemed it futile or because they haven't the money to spare or, as some intimated, because they feared the consequences in subsequent relations with a Democratic administration possessing autocratic control of business.

California and Radicalism.

One of the most important aspects of the election is the bearing it will have upon the development of radicalism. The balloting will indicate whether radicalism has been promoted or checked.

In this connection California will be the center of interest. In that state radicalism had become so formidable that Socialist Upton Sinclair, with his EPIC plan for the sovietization of industry and agriculture and the general redistribution of wealth, was able to win the Democratic nomination for governor. Early in the campaign, before the conservatives became thoroughly alarmed, it looked as if he might be elected. Everywhere radicals were saying that if Sinclair were elected a wave of socialism might reasonably be expected to sweep the country.

It was also predicted that the election of Sinclair would tend to cause the Roosevelt administration to swing farther to the left. At that stage, when Sinclair seemed destined to win, he received much encouragement from the Roosevelt administration. The President received him and held him in conversation for two hours. Farley told him to "call me Jim." He came to Washington and fraternized with Harry Hopkins and other radical New Dealers. The famous Farley letter was sent to California urging Sinclair's election.

Democrats Run Out on Sinclair.

Then a fortnight ago came the Literary Digest poll showing that Sinclair would be snowed under. The New Dealers lost no time in tumbling off the Sinclair bandwagon. Farley repudiated his letter, blaming a clerk for sending it out with his rubber stamped signature. George Creel, whom Sinclair defeated for the nomination, conferred with the President and then announced his repudiation of Sinclair. Senator William G. McAdoo [Dem., Cal.] already had taken to the tall timber, though last night he said in Phoenix that he was "standing on the Democratic ticket in California." However, the Democrats generally ran out on Sinclair, even including members of his executive committee. It looks as if Gov. Frank Merriam, Republican, will defeat Sinclair by 200,000 to 300,000, maybe more.

Predict Swing to Right.

There is a widespread feeling among conservatives that the Sinclair episode marks the high water mark of radicalism as matters now stand, at least. The tendency is now toward the right. The fate of Sinclair has had a profound effect outside of California. In Washington the Democratic candidate for senator. Lewis Schwellenbach, is radically inclined. He had flirted with a scheme similar to EPIC. Since Sinclair's tailspin Schwellenbach stock has been going down, according to dispatches from TRIBUNE correspondents. Schwellenbach still is expected to win but by no great margin. His Republican opponent, Reno Odlin, is now accounted to have a fighting chance.

In Minnesota Gov. Floyd B. Olson, whose Farmer-Labor party wrote a platform as radical as Sinclair's, has found radicalism less of an asset today than when he was renominated. He is soft pedaling the platform, which was withdrawn from circulation. He probably will be reëlected, for one reason because the conservative opposition is divided.

Cutting Threatened with Defeat.

In New Mexico the radical senator. Bronson Cutting, is threatened with defeat. And Theodore G. Bilbo, Democrat, who will be elected senator in Mississippi, now denies he ever said he would "raise more hell than Huey Long."

Radical young Bob La Follette is slated to be reëlected to the senate from Wisconsin chiefly because the conservatives are divided between John B. Chapple, Republican, and John M. Callahan, Democrat. Mr. Callahan was an Al Smith Democrat, a circumstance that earned him the ill will of the Roosevelt administration. The President gave young Bob what amounted to an indorsement.

Whether or not the tide of radicalism is actually ebbing the President appears at the moment to be veering to the right. His address to the bankers' convention was conservative in tone. He gave it out that he had rejected the inflation scheme submitted by former Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma. He has been at pains to repudiate the brain trust notion that the profit motive has no place in the New Deal.

Spectacular Fight in Pennsylvania.

The most spectacular fight in the election is in Pennsylvania, where the Roosevelt administration is moving heaven and earth to defeat Senator David A. Reed, Republican. The indications are that Reed will win, but by only a fraction of the normal Republican plurality of other days. Pennsylvania has sent none but Republicans to the senate since the civil war.

The administration has a number of excellent reasons for wanting to beat Reed. He is the ablest opponent of the New Deal in the senate and it would be a great triumph for the New Dealers if they could point to his defeat as a vindication of the New Deal.

Finally, a sense of gratitude moves Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Farley to do all that is possible to elect Reed's Democratic opponent, Joe Guffey. It was Guffey who came out for Roosevelt a year before the Chicago convention in which he controled 60 of Pennsylvania's 78 delegates.

Close Race in Indiana.

In the central states attention centers chiefly on Indiana and Michigan, both of which are scenes of hard fought battles over senate seats. In Indiana Senator Arthur R. Robinson [Rep.], a bitter critic of the New Deal, is being hard pressed by Sherman Minton. If Robinson pulls through it will be chiefly because of the unpopularity of the McNutt administration of the state government.

In Michigan unbiased observers say that Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep.] will be elected over Frank A. Pickard [Dem.] and the Republicans will regain several house seats in this normally Republican state. If Vandenberg wins he undoubtedly will be Michigan's favorite son for the Republican nomination for President in 1936.

M'ADOO IS OUT FOR DEMOCRATS IN CALIFORNIA

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 3.—[U. P.]—Senator William Gibbs McAdoo of California openly indorsed the Democratic ticket and the Democratic party of California upon his arrival here tonight from Texas.

"I said from the start I'm standing on the Democratic ticket, and the Democratic party, and that goes for California as well as for the rest of the United States," he told the United Press when he alighted from his private plane at Sky Harbor.

Statement Seen as Move to Dispel Rumors.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today let it be known that he is not only supporting Herbert H. Lehman for reëlection as governor of New York but also Royal S. Copeland for reëlection as United States senator.

The President's position in the senatorial campaign, in which Senator Copeland, a Democrat, is opposed by E. Harold Cluett, Republican, and Col Henry Breckinridge, independent, was disclosed by Marvin H. McIntyre, White House secretary, shortly after the special train bearing Mr. Roosevelt arrived here today.

Counteracts Current Impression.

The disclosure was authorized, it was believed, to counteract any impression that by making a specific appeal for the reëlection of Gov. Lehman yesterday that the President has intended to snub the Democratic nominee for senator. Mr. Roosevelt was asked whether his public indorsement of Lehman, the first time he has made a direct appeal for the election of any state candidate, applied also to Senator Copeland. He said he was speaking only of Gov. Lehman and even went on to add that he had voted in a surprising number of times for individual Republicans.

Since Senator Copeland previously had not been popular with the New Deal, particularly Postmaster General James A. Farley, the Democratic national committeeman, it was conjectured by some observers that by boosting Gov. Lehman exclusively the President had deliberately slighted Senator Copeland.

Noted for Independence.

Senator Copeland's independence, often approaching the point of recalcitrance, as, for example, on the matter of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty, had alienated him somewhat remotely from the graces of the New Deal. The Roosevelt administration had even considered putting up a candidate of its own to oppose Copeland, but the senator's personal popularity in New York made this procedure impolitic.

Although having consistently disclaimed any interest in state politics, the President yesterday made his appeal on behalf of Gov. Lehman as a citizen and voter of the state of New York and the supposed snub to Senator Copeland—embarrassingly, perhaps—forced him to go a step further in bestowing the White House accolade.

The President was met at the station by his mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, and motored directly to the family home here on the Hudson. Only McIntyre and his personal secretary, Miss Marguerite Lehand, accompanied him, and he expects to do little official work during his stay here. However, a passenger on the special train was Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury, who also came home to vote, and the President will devote some of his time to consideration of the budget for the next fiscal year.

Mr. Roosevelt will cast his vote in the Hyde Park town hall on Tuesday and later will receive election returns by radio in the library of his home. He probably will leave for Washington Wednesday night—depending on the snow here—and will remain there for a week before leaving for Warm Springs, Ga. An unofficial caller today was Frank E. Gannett, Rochester publisher.

N. Y. PAPERS' SURVEY PREDICT DEMOCRATS WILL WIN CONGRESS

New York, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Several New York newspapers, in news stories tonight on Tuesday's elections, published nationwide surveys which said, in part:

New York Herald Tribune [Independent Republican]—"The most important by election campaign since the civil war drew to a close . . . with the country apparently preparing to return decisive Democratic majorities to congress for the rest of President Roosevelt's term.

". . . Upton Sinclair . . . seemed definitly beaten for the governorship of California. . . . Unbiased newspaper observers returning from surveys in the field are agreed that the Democrats either will attain a two-thirds majority in the senate or come within two or three votes of it. . . . It is the consensus that the Republicans will be lucky to make a net gain of 30 [house] seats."

New York Daily News [independent], "The best political opinion is that the Democrats will gain at least six seats in the senate and lose not more than 50, possibly 30, in the house."

New York Sun [independent]—"It is conceded in all political camps that the Democrats will hold a big margin in both houses of the new congress, probably in excess of the two-thirds majority in both cases."

TAMMANY, DOLES CINCH N. Y. VOTE FOR DEMOCRATS

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 3.—[Special.]—Bruised and battered under an avalanche of sensational charges made during a seething campaign, almost all the Democratic candidates in New York nevertheless will achieve easy victories in Tuesday's election, political experts conceded today.

The Democratic ticket lost thousands of votes as the result of uncontradicted accusations made by the Republican aspirants, it was admitted. But against the power of Tammany Hall and the billion dollars in New Deal money distributed in the Empire state the Republicans had no chance of victory.

See Farley as Monarch.

The election will make Postmaster General James A. Farley absolute monarch of his home state, it was pointed out. The genial "Jim" acted as campaign manager of Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who is seeking reëlection and who is an odds-on favorite over his opponent, Robert Moses.

Lehman, assisted by ex-Gov. Alfred E. Smith, who once more moved into the front lines of a municipal campaign, delivered one of his set speeches tonight in which he asked to be allowed to continue his policies.

Moses delivered another of his cutting addresses in which he repeated his charges that Gov. Lehman was a minion of Tammany hall.

Only Doubtful Spot.

The only doubtful spot is for the New York City controlership, where Joseph D. McGoldrick, incumbent, opposes Frank J. Taylor, Tammany choice.

Launching into the campaign, ex-Gov. Smith joined Farley and Lehman to help defeat McGoldrick. Before the primary he had urged Democrats to indorse McGoldrick.

SPINET GRAND
by MATHUSHEK
He noted the following points:
(1) perfection in craftsmanship
(2) a beautiful tone. (the string length is actually 4" more than that of a 5'7" grand.)
(3) an extremely smooth and most "finger-inviting" action.
(4) a floor area 2'10" by 4' 11", perfect size for the modern home.
(5) interesting variety of woods: maple, mahogany, ebony, walnut.
(6) Mathushek's record of 71 years of fine piano building.
(7) considerate terms of purchase..only $25 down payment necessary.
He was convinced, as are all who see and hear it, that the Spinet is the logical solution to the piano problem.

COUNTY ELECTION CAMPAIGN ENDS WITHOUT BATTLE

G. O. P. Unanswered as Rivals Spurn Fight.

BY PARKE BROWN.

When, for all practical purposes, the election campaign in Chicago and Cook county reached an end last night, observers of many years of experience said it had been a strange one, unique in the history of the county.

It closed as it began. So far as fighting between the rival tickets was concerned, there was none. Unceasingly the Republicans sought to goad the Democrats into an argument or a series of them over the relative merits of contestants on a man to man basis. The Democrats, just as persistently, avoided a scrap. Deliberately they sought to keep their army marching along under the Roosevelt banner.

Unprecedented Political Army.

That was because never before was there such an army in the history of local politics. Thousands upon thousands of jobs were represented. Not only did they come from every normay patronage office—from those in the federal service down on through state, county, city, sanitary district, the parks, the courts, and even congressional and legislative spoils, an unprecedented monopoly—but they included the so-called temporary forces of the federal alphabetical system and the regiments of relief workers.

Opposed to this well fed, disciplined multitude was a faction-shattered, crushed, politically starving remnant of the old Republican organization, husky and active until 1928 but smashed to pieces by half a dozen years of bitter defeat. Without pay rollers, without funds, those that were left began last winter the process of picking up the pieces, rejecting those that were undesirable as far as possible and putting new faces before the voters.

Democrats Bank on Roosevelt.

In this way the leaders thought to regain some of the public confidence they had lost. They saw the veteran jobholders again lined upon the Democratic slate and one by one they assailed their individual records. As nearly all their own candidates were new they had the advantage here. But the Democrats refused to go on the defensive. Despite straws to the contrary, they banked on what they considered the magic of the name of Roosevelt.

One of the results was a managerless campaign, one actually lacking a commander-in-chief on either side. This was expected so far as the Republicans were concerned, as no one man could be found capable of handling all the old factions in a newly formed team. The Democrats were deliberate in leaving their affairs in the hands of a board of strategy immune from the taunts and jabs that might have stirred an individual manager.

Thus the battle closed with the individual G. O. P. candidates hurling insults and challenges at the enemy's strongholds, with only a few irrepressibly irritated opposition nominees replying, and with the big officeholders, Senators Lewis and Dieterich, Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, and State's Attorney Courtney in particular, none of whom is a candidate, carrying the Roosevelt banner and the records of local administrations out in front.

Some Trading in Prospect.

So far as last minute indications go, the committee control policy has sufficed to maintain the unity behind each headquarters. Although warned time and again against overconfidence, it is said that Democratic subleaders here and there are concentrating on their favorites even to the point of trading with the enemy and have found Republicans willing to trade, but there has been no breach in the ranks of an important nature.

The Republicans weren't so extremely careful to avoid family rows. In fact, they invited them when in what they called purging their ranks they disowned Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney, and Secretary of the Interior Ickes. Each of these prodigals replied with an attack on the G. O. P. remarkably similar in tone and wording. But neither of these bits of oratorical violence is considered as having hurt any more than it helped.

Forgetting much of their earlier interest in state, congressional, and legislative contests since they mean less in practical results than do local power and spoils, the Democrats gradually have made support for County Judge Jarecki the principal purpose of their efforts and their test of loyalty to the organization.

Post Is Focal Point of Battle.

They see a possibility of danger in the fact that Judge Jarecki has jailed Democrats as well as Republicans for vote frauds and has refused to give carte blanche to ward committeemen in the selection of judges and clerks. Recognizing this just as clearly, the Republicans have gradually swung Municipal Judge Samuel Heller, opposing Jarecki, into the foreground.

Heller has told over and over again of the discovery of fraud during the recount which gave him the seat he now occupies, and a last minute attack was made in the name of a woman's organization which charged that thousands of spurious names are still on the registry. The backing of the organization, including its financing, is mysterious but it is believed Republican.

Another center of the restrained interest of the campaign has been the race for the sherif's office. Ald. John Toman, the Democratic nominee, has been the frequent target of attack because he draws a pension from the library board and a second municipal compensation as a member of the city council, and on charges that he has been involved in real estate purchases by the city and library board.

General Support for Ringley.

He is opposed by James P. Ringley, a service man with a clean record in the business field, who has campaigned almost without funds and has refused to make personal attacks on Toman. As he is not tied up with any of the old factions, he is receiving more general support from the Republican ward leaders than some of his associates on the ticket.

Contests over the county tax machinery have been vigorous but free from any considerable amount of personalities. Ald. John S. Clark, Democrat, long experienced chairman of the council committee on finance, is opposed by another member of that body, James C. Moreland, who lacks any such record and has made most of his campaign of publicity in attacks on the city administration.

Attack Directed at Whealan.

One of the Democratic nominees for the board of tax appeals, Emmett Whealan, now president of the county board, has been hurt by disclosure during the last few days of his issuance of 100,000 "courtesy cards" and the appearance of his name on a letter to county employés—including those under civil service—holding them responsible for their precincts. No attacks have been made on the other Democrat seeking one of these two places, Fred W. Brummel, one of the members of the present appeals board.

One of the Republican nominees for this office is Thomas O. Wallace, whose record as an alderman and as clerk of the Circuit court, has received much praise and no criticism. His running mate is David L. Shillinglaw, a service man of high standing in the American Legion.

The races for two of the big county offices, the county treasurership and the presidency of the county board, have attracted attention because of the well known names involved, but there has been no excitement marking them.

Honors Even in Treasurer Race.

In the contest for the treasurership the two nominees, Robert M. Sweitzer, the Democrat now holding the county clerkship, and James A. Kearns, the one Republican now holding a local elective executive office, that of city treasurer, are considered much alike in qualifications. Each has seen many years of public service.

Clayton F. Smith, the present recorder, is the Democratic choice for president of the county board. He also has a long record of public service in the city hall and the county building. His opponent is George F. Nixon, member of the board of tax appeals by Emmerson appointment, is running on the catch-vote slogan of a one per cent limitation of taxes which has been severely condemned by experts as a menace to the vital services of local governments.

DOKE TO TESTIFY THIS WEEK IN MURDER TRIAL

Heads Jail Court

Woodland, Cal., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Judson C. Doke held his own court today in the Yolo county jail, and between his duties as head of the "kangaroo bench" talked about his trial for the murder of Lamar Hollingshead, poet.

The former San Leandro city official, charged with slaying the student poet on a ranch near here last July 26 at the climax to a love affair with Doke's wife, said the last week had been "pretty tough." Doke said he was "glad that I'll get an opportunity to take the witness stand next week and tell the facts to the jury."

"It has been a tiresome week but I'm glad it's under way and getting toward the end," he said. "I don't know what the outcome will be but I'm hoping for a favorable verdict."

Deputies said Doke's direction of the 15 men in the jail tank with him had been satisfactory. As head of the jail "kangaroo court," Doke assigns cells, keeps a sort of informal order, and settles disputes. His fellow prisoners selected him to head the "court."

When Doke's trial is resumed Monday his counsel is expected to make a vigorous effort to introduce love letters exchanged between Hollingshead and Mrs. Doke. It was indicated the state would resist the move.

$1,200 IS ENOUGH, SO BANDITS WILL RETURN CHECKS

Four swift working, mannerly bandits raided the office of the Farmers' Coöperative Milk company, 515 North Crawford avenue yesterday afternoon, held up six employés and escaped with a $500 pay roll and $700 from the safe.

As the bandits turned to go Harry E. Ellis, the auditor asked that they leave the checks they had taken with the $1,200 cash. The gang leader obligingly did so, and added that if he found any more in the loot he would mail them to the company.

At Last It Happens! Some One Steals Bass Drum

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Somebody did steal the bass drum Miles Cutler, Kansas City, Kas., musician, reported to police tonight that it was strapped securely in a car which he parked in front of the place where an orchestra was to play. Cutler was absent a few minutes. When he returned he found the straps cut and the drum missing.

FAKE REGISTRANT LISTS GO OUT TO POLLING PLACES

Jarecki Calls Vote Fraud Precautions Complete.

Lists of names suspected of being fraudulently registered on the poll books were sent to judges and clerks in more than one hundred precincts yesterday with instructions to the judges to challenge any persons who attempt to vote under the names given. County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, who has supervision over the election in Chicago and a number of towns in Cook county, said this was the last step in a series of moves to prevent fraudulent voting in Tuesday's election.

To make the voters' lists correct the board of election commissioners has spent $420,000 on registration, revision, and canvassing, according to Chief Clerk John S. Rusch. The election tomorrow is to cost $250,000.

Honest and impartial tabulation of the votes is assured so far as advance preparations and precautions can guarantee it, Judge Jarecki asserted.

Prosecutors to Be on Guard.

At least one policeman is to be assigned to each polling place, according to Police Commissioner Allman, and in some wards two. Detective bureau squads will cruise about the city, and State's Attorney Courtney will hold a reserve of police and assistant state's attorneys to rush to trouble points. United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green is to keep his office open all Tuesday to handle election complaints.

Capt. C. B. Hopkins, secretary of the Voters' Nonpartisan association, of which Rush C. Butler is president, will have from 800 to 1,000 watchers at the polls in territories where there is some reason to anticipate that fraud may be attempted.

Place Fake Names at 1,500.

Judge Jarecki said that of names submitted by Capt. Hopkins, 5,417 were erased by the election commission after revision night. It was the joint opinion of Judge Jarecki and Capt. Hopkins that not more than 1,500 names are now wrongfully on the poll lists, and special attention will be given these names.

At 5 a. m. tomorrow 50 trucks will assemble at the city hall to carry 9,050,300 ballots to the judges in each of the fifty wards.

Each truck is to carry a policeman and two representatives of the election board. Of the nine million ballots, 2,292,500 are candidate ballots; 2,292,500 are emergency relief ballots; 2,188,900 are judicial ballots; 2,188,900 are aldermanic term extension ballots, and 87,500 are prohibition ballots, for the precincts where liquor is an issue.

Massacre Suspect

ONE SLAIN, ONE SHOT DEFYING EXTORTIONISTS

Joseph Carraccio, 29 years old, was shot and killed and his brother, Frank, 21 years old, was critically injured last night by two men who entered a disorderly house allegedly operated by the Carraccios at 1547 West Van Buren street.

According to the story told the Des Plaines street police by Joseph's wife Rose, the two men entered the house while Joseph was away, apparently trying to extort money. She said that the younger brother, who was in the house, telephoned Joseph that there was trouble.

Joseph returned from a saloon at 1940 West Van Buren street, met his brother in the street, and then both entered the house. The two men opened fire as they stepped inside and then fled. One bullet pierced Joseph's eye, while another entered his brother's chest.

Police arrested for questioning three women, all said to be inmates of the house.

CHARGE BREACH OF ELECTION ACT TO NEW DEALERS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—America First, Inc., declared tonight that "all congressional candidates supported by the New Deal and the federal government have violated the corrupt practices act of 1925."

This conclusion, made public in a statement, was based on the premise that such candidates and federal officials had made "extravagant and profuse," promises to expend public money in various states where New Deal candidates were up for election.

It added "no such candidate has included in his preliminary statement of receipts and expenditures the 'contributions' promised by the White House and other federal agencies for their election."

CITY SCHOOLS TO BE CLOSED ON ELECTION DAY

The Chicago public schools will be closed Tuesday, election day, William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, said yesterday. The schools also will be closed Monday, Nov. 12, in observance of Armistice day. The state law designates Monday as a legal holiday when Nov. 11 falls on Sunday.

RICHMAN PILOT HURTLES TO SEA IN ROLE OF HERO

New York, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Pilot George Daufkirch crashed into the sea in his crippled plane today rather than endanger the lives of persons below him by abandoning the broken ship for the comparative safety of a parachute jump.

Twenty-five hundred feet above the busy streets of College Point, Queensborough, the motor in the plane exploded. A crash of the plane there might result in heavy loss of life.

So Daufkirch, pilot for Harry Richman, stage star who owned the plane stuck to his post. In a flat spin he dropped like a plummet, crashed into Flushing Bay 100 feet off shore.

He has been flying for 15 years.

Gas Receipts Forgeries Charged at Belleville

Belleville, Ill., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Henry Paule, chief city mechanic of Belleville, told the city claims committee yesterday his name had been forged to receipts for 350 gallons of gasoline which the city did not receive.

Four Die When Automobile Is Demolished by Train

Middletown, N. Y., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Four persons were killed at a grade crossing near here today when their automobile was demolished by an Erie road train. The dead: Albert Shoemaker, 57, of Belleville, N. J.; Theodore Sloat, 46, of Summittville, N. Y.; Mrs. Catherine Sheil, 34, and Mrs. Alice Lang, 26, both of Cuddebackville, N. Y.

STATE'S INTENSE ELECTION BATTLE IN U. S. SPOTLIGHT

Both Parties Claim Gains All Down the Line.

Battle to Replace E. A. Kelly.

In the Third [Englewood] district Republicans are making a mighty effort to defeat Edward A. Kelly, Democratic congressman. Their candidate is Frank M. Fulton. Normally it's a Republican district, but in the 1930 and 1932 landslides it has elected Kelly. In the four years the Democrats have built up a strong machine.

On the northwest side, the 7th, largest district in the United States, with 900,000 population, Republicans backing Raymond J. Peacock are working to regain the seat held by Congressman Leonard W. Schuetz, Democrat, and the battle is fast and furious. Democrats are relying largely on the Polish vote in the district; Congressman Schuetz was born in Poland.

Out of the Cook county contests observers hold the Democrats may make a net gain of one seat.

For state officers, the Republicans are resting their hopes on two of their strongest vote getters. Francis G. Blair, superintendent of public instruction since 1906 survived the 1930 landslide which elected Senator James Hamilton Lewis by 744,000, and was elected that year by 84,000 plurality. He is opposed by John A. Wieland, Calumet City Democrat.

Stratton Accorded Good Chance.

William J. Stratton, running for state treasurer against John Stelle, Democrat of McLeansboro, is another champion vote getter. Two years ago he was high man on the G. O. P. ticket and was beaten for secretary of state by only 59,000 in the face of the 449,000 Roosevelt plurality landslide.

Last April in the primaries, the Republicans polled more votes downstate on state-wide candidates than did the Democrats. On the office of state treasurer, which got the highest vote, the total tally in 101 counties outside Cook was: Republican, 474,115; Democrat, 390,348.

In all the balloting more voted in the Democratic primaries than in the Republican, the total downstate standing: Democratic, 587,563; Republican, 578,473. But a large proportion did not vote on state candidates, local contests being their apparent interest. It goes that way. Two years ago 210,045 more votes were cast on president than on United States senator.

Many observers take the view that the Republicans are likely to come up to the Cook county line with a lead of more than 75,000, and that the outcome on state-wide offices will depend on Cook county, where the Democrats in April polled 123,000 more votes on treasurer than the Republicans.

Intense Battle Downstate.

An analysis of the situation downstate compiled from reports sent in yesterday by THE TRIBUNE's local correspondents, all picked men of experience, indicates that the most intense fighting and the closest races lie in five districts. Of these, four are now represented by Democrats.

In the 12th [Rockford], where Congressman John T. Buckbee, Republican member since 1926, is opposed by C. H. Smith of La Salle, it seems a hard race from all accounts. The Rockford correspondent says Buckbee is fairly certain to be reëlected, while the La Salle observer, in the southern end of the district, says it is a toss-up, with La Salle county doubtful. This district since its establishment thirty years ago has never elected a Democrat to congress. The Republican state ticket is regarded as strong in this part of the state.

In the old "Uncle Joe" Cannon district, the Eighteenth, an exceedingly close race is reported between Congressman James A. Meeks, Danville Democrat, and Elmer A. Taylor, Watseka Republican. One district correspondent says the odds are in favor of Taylor, while another says Meeks may squeeze in, although the Republican state ticket appears away out in front. For congressmen at large this district looks like Brooks, Republican, and Igoe, Democrat.

19th District Doubtful.

In the old corn belt Champaign district [19th] the struggle between Charles H. Fletcher, Mattoon Republican, and Congressman Donald C. Dobbins, Champaign Democrat, who won in the Roosevelt landslide two years ago, is close. THE TRIBUNE's correspondents in the district report Dobbins has apparently a slight edge, being an "in," but, with no decided advantage on either side, the district is doubtful.

The Republican state ticket is regarded strong in the district with "Curly" Brooks apparently leading the field. The Democrats have worked intensively in the district, while the correspondents report the local Republicans have not overexerted themselves.

Along the Mississipi in the Alton-East St. Louis district [22d] Judge Jesse R. Brown, Alton Republican, is reported apparently in the lead of Congressman Edwin M. Schaefer, Belleville Democrat. As Circuit judge it was Judge Brown in Madison county who first enjoined the collection of the 3 per cent sales tax. Merchants in the river cities have been protesting that the sales tax has driven much business across the river into St. Louis.

Odds Favor Brown in 22d.

Brown's strength is recognized by the Democrats, and last week Gov. Horner went to Belleville to speak for Schaefer. THE TRIBUNE's local correspondents report it is a close race, with the odds favoring Brown, although St. Clair and Madison counties will apparently go Democratic on state and county tickets, the Democrats having built up a powerful patronage machine in East St. Louis and the other cities.

In southern Illinois in the Twenty-fourth district an intense struggle is being waged between Judge James V. Heidinger, Fairfield Republican, and Congressman Claude V. Parsons, Golconda Democrat. Republicans hold this district is the most likely of the Egyptian districts to go Republican. THE TRIBUNE's local correspondents report it a stubborn race.

Coal vs. Oil Big Issue.

In the Twenty-fifth district, Carbondale, on the edge of the southern Illinois coal fields, has been the center of a controversy involving the brain trust and the New Deal professors. Coal is what Carbondale has most of, but the PWA has approved an oil burning municipal power plant for the city. Oil and coal do not mix in this region and the populace is up in arms.

J. Lester Buford, Republican, of Johnson City, has been accusing Congressman Kent E. Keller, Democrat New Dealer of Ava, of abetting the brain trust in trying to squeeze out coal by increasing the use of oil, while Keller has declared he demands coal for fuel. The correspondents say the controversy will cut down Keller's old pluralities, but that he seems to be still in the lead.

Claims Indicate Doubt.

The "Sunday Before Election" forecasts of the Republican and Democratic state managers, which they declare are founded on reports from local workers, indicate the uncertainty:

Justus L. Johnson, Republican state chairman, put out the following forecast:

"Illinois will reduce the Democratic representation in congress from 19 seats to 11 or less. Republicans will gain eight or more congressmen in Illinois, giving them a total of 16 or more in the next congress.

"Illinois will return a Republican majority in the lower house at Springfield and there will be a substantial gain in Republican members of the state senate.

"Seventy-three of the counties of Illinois will elect Republican county officials.

Asserts Democrats Demoralized.

"The Democratic organization has been demoralized the last week of the campaign to such an extent that their major party leaders have been rushed into their Democratic stronghold in Chicago in an effort to save their county ticket.

"The Republican state central committee appreciates the wonderful assistance given by the women's division, the young people's division, colored division, ex-service men's division, the press of Illinois, the county organizations, and others devoted to the retention of American principles in public life.

"It has been a campaign based on ideals and the voters have shown the greatest interest."

How Democrats See It.

Bruce A. Campbell, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, at Springfield, issued the following forecast:

"Downstate Illinois will give the Democratic state ticket at least 150,000 majority, and if there is a full vote out it may reach 200,000. We will elect our congressmen in the eleven downstate districts which went Democratic in 1932 and may gain one or two seats in districts which went Republican that year.

"We will have more than two-thirds majority in the state senate and will elect from 82 to 85 members of the lower house of the general assembly. We will elect more Democratic county officers than ever elected in Illinois in one election before.

"Reports from the Cook County Democratic organization indicate that Cook county will go Democratic by more than 200,000 and that we will gain at least two congressional seats in Cook county.

"We confidently expect for the entire state a majority for the state ticket ranging from 350,000 to 500,000, depending upon the vote that is cast."

SAVE THE CONSTITUTION

	YES	Shall a convention be called to prepare a revision, alteration or amendments of the Constitution of the State of Illinois?
X	NO

The Tribune recommends a vote of "no" on proposition to call a state constitutional convention. This is a facsimile of how proposition will appear in upper left hand corner of main ballot.

ASSAIL CON CON PLAN AS COSTLY 'WAY AROUND'

Foes Cite Many Failures of Tax Proposals.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Opponents of the proposal to call a constitutional convention on which voters will vote Tuesday argued yesterday that it seems an expensive way of trying to get changes in the revenue article which already have failed to pass when submitted to the electors on three occasions.

They pointed to the cost of the last "con con" experiment, to employ the language of politics, in 1920-'22, which ran about $2,500,000 and whose output was overwhelmingly rejected by the voters by a vote of 5 to 1.

The Democratic organization is marking its specimen ballots in favor of the convention idea, Gov. Henry Horner being its advocate, but little attention is being paid to it in the campaigning.

$500,000 Cost of Convention.

The cost of the last "con con" some dozen years ago which got nowhere is being advanced as running counter to the idea of reducing the tax burden and cost of government. The Fifty-first general assembly appropriated $500,000 for the expenses of the convention. This was spent, according to the auditor's reports, as follows:

July 1, 1919, to June 30, 1920..	$278,925.63
July 1, 1920, to June 30, 1921..	47,627.25
July 1, 1921, to June 30, 1922..	64,435.38
July 1, 1922, to June 30, 1923..	109,011.74
Total spent..................	$500,000.00

Delegates were selected at a special primary and election in 1919.

The fruit of the $500,000 convention was a proposed constitution which was submitted to the voters at a special election Dec. 12, 1922. It was buried under an avalanche of ballots.

Election Cost $2,000,000.

Attorney Urban A. Lavery, who has represented the election board, estimated some years back that the cost of these special elections was about $2,000.000. This was divided, he figured, with Cook county paying a little more than a million and downstate paying somewhat less than a million.

The cost thus seems to have been about $2,500,000. An amendment to the revenue article of Illinois' constitution, which critics argue is the chief reason for the submission of the proposal, was submitted to the voters in 1916, 1926, and 1930. Each time it failed to get the required majority of all votes cast at the election. By many this requirement of a majority of all votes cast at the election has been regarded as a protection of the citizens against continual tinkerings with the basic law such as have occurred in some other states.

Revenue Features Opposed.

The failure of the voters to give the necessary approval to revise the taxation system in 1916 was regarded as occasion for the submission of a convention proposal to voters in 1918. This received the required vote and delegates were elected in 1919 and convened in 1920.

The changes in revenue system, especially in reference to income tax, proposed by this convention, in turn, were one of many reasons why the proposed new constitution was turned down in 1922. Four years later, in 1926, another amendment to the revenue article was submitted. It failed because, just as in 1916, it failed to get a majority of all votes cast at the election, although it got majorities of the votes cast on the proposition itself.

Under Gov. L. L. Emmerson the election law was changed in 1929 and constitutional amendment proposals were printed on the candidates' ballot instead of on a little ballot. This was on the theory the proposals would get a larger affirmative vote. Apparently it did not work out that way, for in 1930, when a tax amendment was submitted, 513,000 votes were marked against it and 371,000 for it. It was argued that an income tax was in the governor's mind.

Then the general assembly in 1932 enacted an income tax law anyway, but it was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme court.

Gateway Plan Voted Down.

A gateway amendment to open up the amending clause was submitted in 1932. It failed to get a majority of all citizens casting votes in the election, although it had more than a million affirmative votes. Now critics say the idea of a "con con" has been revived in a period of unusual uncertainty and one of its objectives is to get revenue changes which already the voters have declined to accept three times. In a booklet issued by the legislative reference bureau, with Gov. Horner's name as chairman, the question of revenue change is brought out as chief factor.

It says the failure of the gateway amendment, "together with the urgently felt need for revision of the revenue article" led to the proposal for another "con con."

The last constitutional convention met Jan. 6, 1920, and adjourned finally Oct. 10, 1922. At a special election Dec. 12, 1922, the proposed new constitution was rejected by the people by a 5 to 1 vote, the poll standing 19 to 1 against it in Cook county and 2½ to 1 against it downstate.

D. A. R. BATTLES TO SAVE CONSTITUTION HALL FROM TAX MAN

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The D. A. R. today prepared to make the next court move in its battle with the District of Columbia to keep its million and a half dollar Constitution hall tax exempt.

The Daughters were ready to file on Monday a suit to enjoin the threatened advertisment and sale of the property for delinquent taxes for the year 1934.

Meanwhile D. A. R. headquarters here was kept busy assuring alarmed members of this substantial society, based on early American ancestry: "The threat of sale is merely a formality provided by the law in connection with the collection of taxes."

The Constitution hall assessment and threat of sale followed complaint by the proprietors of the Washington Auditorium, just across the street, that the place was in direct commercial competition with them. The Daughters deny this.

ELECTION BOARD TO ACCEPT VOTE OF ANNA DALL

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The eligibility of Anna Roosevelt Dall will not be challenged by the two man Dutchess county board of elections unless the question is brought before it.

Her absentee ballot already has been cast from the White House, although any question of her right to vote would hinge on her residence last summer in Reno, Nev.

The President's daughter successfully applied for an absentee vote, explaining she could not be at her home in Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 6, because she would be "collecting data for articles" in her profession "of writer."

CITY TO ELECT 12 TO MUNICIPAL BENCH TUESDAY

Bar Approves 6 of Each Party for Court.

Twelve Municipal court judgeships for the full term of six years will be voted upon in the election on Tuesday. Although the campaign for the Municipal court bench has been carried on in a quiet manner, the judicial ballot, which contains the names of twelve Republican and twelve Democratic candidates, will command much attention from the voters.

Three veterans of the Municipal court bench are candidates for reelection on the Republican ticket. They are Judges John F. Haas, Theodore F. Ehler and Howard Hayes. Judge Haas, who has been on the bench since 1916, led the other candidates in a poll conducted by the Chicago Bar association last June for endorsement of the judicial candidates. Of 2,059 ballots cast by lawyers of the association, Judge Haas was given approval in 1,805 ballots.

Veterans High in Rank.

Judge Hayes, who has also been on the bench since 1916, was second highest in the lawyers' poll, receiving 1,779 votes, while Judge Ehler was third with 1,760 votes. He has served on the Municipal court bench since 1920.

Judge Frank M. Padden, seeking reelection on the Democratic ticket, was fourth in the bar association poll and led in the endorsement of the Democratic candidates with 1,681 votes.

The lawyers in the poll divided their vote by approving six Republican and six Democratic candidates. Of the eleven sitting judges who are candidates for reëlection three did not receive the indorsement of the associatian. They are Judge Gibson E. Gorman and Francis Borrelli, Democrats, and Alfred O. Erickson, Republican.

O. K. Four Others on Bench.

The remaining sitting judges who were approved by the bar members are Judges William E. Helander and Frederick W. Elliot, Republicans, and Judges Harold P. O'Connell and Matthew D. Hartigan, Democrats.

The association also approved the candidacies of Emmet Byrne, Republican, and George B. Weiss, J. M. Braude and Le Roy Hackett, Democrats.

Unendorsed by the bar association are four Democrats, Joseph J. Drucker, Joseph B. Hermes, Stephen Adamowski, and Eugene L. McGarry; and six Republicans, Helmer C. Patterson, Archie I. Bernstein, L. H. Gladstone, William H. Haynes, colored, and Horace M. Sharpe. Sharpe was lowest in the bar poll.

GIRL, 7, DIES FROM POISON; 3 BROTHERS, SISTER UNCONSCIOUS

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Apparently poisoned to death, the body of a 7 year old girl was found in the bathtub of her Fairport home tonight, while her older sister was unconscious in the tub and three small brothers lay unconscious on the kitchen floor.

When their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Corkish, returned from a shopping tour they found Alice dead in the bathtub, and 14 year old Florence, both unclad, lying unconscious on top of her sister. Richard, 10 months old; Robert, 2, and Frank, 3, were stretched on the floor. Two of them may die. County authorities started a search for a fiend who may have given the children the poisonous plant spray which was found in the stomachs of three of them.

They waited for Florence to recover consciousness in her hospital room. She was the eldest and described as mature for her 14 years. Her brothers were too frightened to give coherent explanations when they had regained consciousness.

The boys were dressed, although their sisters were nude. Their parents discovered Florence first in the bathtub, three-fourths filled with water. Upon lifting her out they saw their youngest daughter's body underneath.

Woman Found with Throat Cut; Coroner Orders Quiz

An investigation into the death of Miss Anna Henneman, 50 years old, was ordered by the coroner's office after her body was found yesterday at the foot of a flight of stairs in a three story apartment building at 1749 Hastings street where she lived alone. There was a four inch gash in her throat which apparently caused her death. The body was found by Miss Lucy Hack, 1655 West 21st street, the landlady, and Miss Marie Giocomo, 1708 Washburne avenue, a friend, who gained entrance by a pass key.

Kin of Countess Sue to Keep Huge Estate from Prince

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Relatives of the late Countess Elisa Nevrouz-Khan began suit today to prevent Prince Nicholas, brother of King Carol, from receiving an estate of $240,000 left to him last summer by the countess. The relatives claimed the countess was of unsound mind when she willed the property. They said she imagined herself a royal princess and therefore felt that she must leave her fortune to Nicholas.

BROOKS WINDS UP FIERY CAMPAIGN; BLASTS NEW DEAL

Attacks TVA Experiment as Employment Blow.

C. Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for congressman at large, launched a broadside yesterday at the Democratic spending spree for "experimental schemes" in various parts of the country, which, he charged, increased unemployment in the state of Illinois. Winding up his campaign in Chicago, Brooks spoke before overflowing crowds who had gathered to hear the oratory of the young attorney and world war hero.

Urging the election of Republican congressmen to bring about "a balancing hand" for the security of the nation's future, Brooks singled out for especial attack the Tennessee Valley Authority upon which hundreds of millions of dollars will be spent for the building of dams and the creation of hydro-electric power.

Deplores Plight of Miners.

"In the coal mining sections of our state, and thousands of the citizens of this commonwealth are coal miners," said Brooks, "you will find these humble men walking around the town squares waiting and wondering when they will hear the word that we are to use more coal, while the government is spending hundreds of millions of dollars to create hydro-electric power that will permanently throw these men out of employment.

"Whom else does this affect in Illinois? They're spending those hundreds of millions of dollars of America's money to create this hydro-electric power in other states to compete with the steam railroads of our state that use our coal and give employment to thousands of men who take and handle that coal. In normal times no fewer than 184,000 men and women are directly employed in railroads in this state."

Points to Foes' Record.

Brooks recalled that 18 of the 19 Democratic congressmen from Illinois had voted "in favor of appropriating these hundreds of millions of dollars to create an economic scheme in another state in direct conflict with the interests of the people." Of the eight Republican congressmen, seven voted against the TVA.

"In addition this government-paid-for hydro-electric power is in direct conflict with the thousands of humble folk, many past middle age, all over our state that have their life savings invested in the little individual electric plants in the communities of Illinois," asserted Brooks.

Pledges Fight on "Professors."

Then Brooks made a solemn pledge that he would not follow "the theories of the communistic minded professors who want to impose economic planning on this country and play with the destinies of one hundred and twenty million people."

A letter arrived yesterday from Mrs. Edward Zoeller of Dixon, Ill., who was Brooks' grammar school teacher in that city when he was 10 years old. She declared that even as a youngster he had exhibited in classroom speeches "superlative straight thinking and character" behind his words.

Among the many service men's organizations that have pledged their support to Brooks is that of Park Ridge, which announced during the day its unanimous indorsement of the candidate.

Candidates for Mayor Boost for Each Other

Hoquiam, Wash., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Hoquiam's two candidates for mayor wound up their campaigns today by urging voters to elect the other. Drafted to run for office, Ralph Chilbrick and Oliver Morris, long time friends and both Republicans, could find no campaign issues. So each electioneered for his opponent.

Report Big Payment

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 3.—It was reported here today that the suit for divorce filed by Lord Ashley, which is scheduled for hearing within a week or so, will not be defended by his wife, Lady Ashley, or Douglas Fairbanks Sr., who was named as co-respondent.

It also is said that the American movie star paid a large sum in compensation.

If the suit is not defended only the barest skeleton of evidence will be introduced, and the case will end in ten or fifteen minutes.

MARY IN CHICAGO.

Mary Pickford, pausing here yesterday en route from Hollywood to New York, neither confirmed nor denied a report published Friday that she had been reconciled with her estranged husband, Douglas Fairbanks.

The film actress in good humor turned to reporters with her usual answer to questions concerning the Pickford-Fairbanks marital difficulties.

"I have nothing to say about my private affairs." She did admit, however, that "we are friends, yes."

Miss Pickford said she is New York bound on business pertaining to her serial novel, "The Demi-Widow," which she declared had nothing to do with her own life.

During her stop in Chicago at the Blackstone hotel, Miss Pickford found time to help open the nation-wide contest for poetry and short stories being conducted by the northern Illinois branch of the National League of American Pen Women. Graciously the actress offered her first poem as a starter.

DYNAMIC WIFE PLAYS BIG PART IN BROOKS' LIFE

Leads Him Into Law, Acts as Adviser.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Mrs. Gertrude Brooks, red haired and attractive 32 year old wife of C. Wayland Brooks, candidate on the Republican ticket for congressman at large, will await election returns next Tuesday with more than a wifely interest. Hers will be the interest of a collaborator, albeit one who has stayed distinctly in the background.

It was the original idea of this dynamic young woman, not Brooks', that he should study law, she revealed in an interview in their home at 7614 Eastlake terrace. That was two years after their marriage in 1920. He did not want to study law—but she won and he did. Since that time he has written comparatively few speeches that she did not hear at least in part, and usually she advised him on them. context.

With the Brookses It Is "Us."

Mrs. Brooks almost never alludes to "him" or to "me" in talking of her husband. Her praise is "us." They were married in her home town of St. Joseph, Mo., after Mr. Brooks was discharged from the Great Lakes hospital following the war. He had enlisted in the marine corps when he was 18 years old. They met in Chicago when he was on a week-end furlough from the hospital after the war.

"We didn't even have a job when we were married," she said. "I was 18 years old and he was 23. We went blithely out to a town of 800 persons, Scotland, S. D., and he went in the garage business with an uncle. We expected to live and die there.

"He was given charge of near east relief work in the state, raising funds for Armenian children. He got a hearing before both houses in the capitol and his speech led me to the definite realization that he possessed unusual ability as a speaker. He went from there to Denver after he was made director of the near east relief work for Colorado and Wyoming.

"It was at that time I made up my mind he should study law. I insisted that he go back to school. In eight months he had raised his $100,000 near east relief quota for the two states, and we packed our trunk, our sole possession, and returned to Illinois."

Starts Study, and Wife Helps.

The state university authorities made an exception in Brooks' case and he was given enough credits to enter the law school, providing he remained on the honor roll for the four year course. His wife matriculated, too, but the $135 a month allowed by the government did not enable them to manage, and they obtained a transfer to Northwestern university. Mrs. Brooks then obtained her first job selling dresses in a State street shop, and they pooled their funds, she said.

"In 1924, when we were expecting a baby, we started housekeeping," she said. "That year he entered politics. He became precinct captain of the 49th ward. Meanwhile, he continued his study.

"Those were difficult years, full of hardship, in which there was nothing for us but work and trying to stretch a dollar an impossibly long way. I wouldn't give anything in the world for having had those struggles now," Mrs. Brooks said.

Peacock Obtains Libel Warant for Publisher

Raymond J. Peacock, Republican nominee for congress in the seventh district, yesterday swore out a warant before Municipal Judge Edward B. Casey charging Tomaz F. Deuther, publisher of a political circular, with criminal libel. The action is based on statements made in a paper called the Greater Chicago News. "Deuther's statements are not only absolutely untrue, but are exceedingly malicious," said Mr. Peacock. "The sentiment in the seventh district indicates a clean-cut victory for me, and Deuther's action is a brazen attempt to stave off certain defeat for my Tammany opponent."

HOUSE NOMINEES PLEDGE REPEAL OF TYRANNY LAW

Downstate Republicans Take Resolute Stand.

Downstate Republicans who are running in contested districts for the lower house of the general assembly are, with but few exceptions, heartily in favor of repeal of the Illinois tyranny law—the state NRA compliance act.

Results of a canvass conducted yesterday showed that most of the Republicans are pledged to join others whose election is not contested in voting to wipe the tyranny law from the statute books. It was placed there last July 1 after Gov. Horner had succeeded in driving a bill through both houses during a special session.

A few downstaters did not answer the question; those who did had no hesitancy in declaring they favor repeal. Most of them would "welcome" the first opportunity to cast such a vote, they said. Unopposed nominees have agreed to introduce a repeal bill.

Northern Candidates Voice Views.

Both sitting Republicans in the Rockford district, Leroy M. Green and David Hunter Jr., were among the first to say they would support a repealer. In the northwestern corner of the state, the Freeport and Galena section, Representative John A. Bingham voted against the tyranny law last May. His running mate, Edward E. Laughlin, said he was of the same opinion.

Republicans running in the Kankakee district, the Twentieth, are Representatives Luther B. Bratton and Harry L. Topping. Bratton voted against the bill and Topping will do likewise, if elected.

Representative Roger F. Little of the Champaign [24th] district was another of the forty-two house members who opposed the tyranny law. Everett R. Peters, the other Republican nominee, would also do so, he said.

Veteran Against Statute.

Representative Gus J. Johnson of the Twenty sixth district, longtime Republican leader, was, like Little, recorded against the tyranny law, and Representative W. C. Chenoweth of the Twenty eighth [Decatur] district, who was not present when the bill passed last May, said he favored its repeal.

Representative Claude R. Thomas of the 32d district was another Republican who opposed the NRA. T. Mac Downing, nominated with Thomas, was one of those who said he would welcome the chance to join the repeal movement. A similar situation prevails in the 34th district where Representative Charles G. Strohm and Orion B. Goble are second Republican candidates.

Both Representative Frederick W. Rennick and James A. Nowlan, Republican candidates in the 37th district, echoed that position, and Representative Ole E. Benson of the 39th district is another who cast a vote against the bill last May. Representative H. D. Sparks of the 40th district also opposed the tyranny law and his running mate, Will P. Welker, would do likewise.

Three Staunch Repealers.

Three Republicans were nominated last April in the 41st [Joliet] district. Representatives Lottie Holman O'Neill and John L. Walker voted against the state NRA, and Warren L. Wood, the third candidate, takes an identical stand. Representative E. W. Mureen of the 43d [Galesburg] district, is also on record against it.

Election of Representative Elbert Waller and R. G. Crisenberry of the 44th district would mean two more votes for the repealer. Representative Hugh Green and William J. Lawler of the 45th [Springfield] district also opposed it, as did Representative Glenn H. Sunderland of the 46th. Sunderland's running mate, E. H. Childress, would vote to repeal, "the sooner the better."

CANDIDATES PLEDGED TO REPEAL OF STATE NRA TYRANNY LAW

The following candidates for the Illinois house of representatives, who are running in downstate districts in which there are contests, are recommended for election. CHARGES G. O. P. SEEKS CHURCH AID FOR PARTY

Wymore, Neb., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The political cry, "rum, Romanism and rebellion" of another generation was recalled here today by Attorney General Paul F. Good as he flayed what he called an "attempt to make the Protestant churches of Nebraska into a political department of the Republican party."

In the attempt, he said in a speech prepared for delivery here, "Republican leaders have caused the Rev. Ben F. Wyland, president of the Lincoln Ministerial association, to send out an appeal to all Protestant ministers in Nebraska. This urges the Protestant ministers to use their pulpits tomorrow as political stumps from which the ministers are asked to urge their congregations to vote for Republican candidates and against the Democratic party.

"One is amazed," the Democratic attorney general who has been active for years in the Episcopal church, said, "at the effrontery of Republican leaders and of the minister who is their tool. I believe that the Protestant churches are too big, too inclusive, and too earnestly doing their job of religious leadership, to allow themselves to be subordinated to a political party."

Good said when just before an election about 50 years ago, a Protestant minister announced "The Democratic party was the party of rum, Romanism and rebellion," and called upon Protestants to vote for Republicans, that the Democrats were elected overwhelmingly. He predicted the same result in Nebraska in next Tuesday's general election.

VOTERS TO MARK SMALL BALLOTS ON THREE ISSUES

Relief Bonds to Be One of Questions Tuesday.

Adding to the interest of a trip to the polls on Tuesday will be three questions on individual little ballots that voters will answer: "Shall the state issue $30,000,000 in bonds as the 'least painful' way of repaying money already borrowed and spent for the unemployed?" "Shall the terms of Chicago aldermen be increased from two to four years?" and "Shall 103 precincts in eight wards of the city go dry?"

A fourth referendum proposition is to appear on the big general election ballot. It is the question of calling an Illinois constitutional convention.

The bond issue proposal has the indorsement of virtually every important civic and business organization, but the other two must survive serious divisions of opinion. Local liquor options and the proposal to lengthen the tenure of aldermen have been presented to the voters in past years, but in the long intervening period there may have been changes in public opinion that will serve to bring the "old story" up to date.

Reasons for Bond Issue.

A large "yes" vote is needed to carry the bond issue because the law requires that it receive a vote equal to a majority of all ballots cast for legislative candidates. Therefore failure to mark the separate little ballot on which this proposition appears will count the same as a "no" vote.

If the bonds are approved they will be redeemed over a period of twenty years by diverting revenue from the state gasoline tax. Officials estimate that $4,000,000 will be taken thus from the annual gasoline tax total of $24,000,000.

If, however, the bond issue fails in the referendum a special levy of $38,000,000 on all property must be collected during next year alone. The money has to be raised, either by bonds or by taxes, to retire tax anticipation warrants. Funds derived from these warants were spent for relief.

Both Republicans and Democrats have indorsed the bond issue, pointing out that it is the only alternative to an added tax of 63 cents per $100 of assessed valuation on all property, real and personal.

The Cook County Emergency Relief Bond Issue committee issued a last minute appeal yesterday for "Yes" votes on the bond proposal. The committee's bulletin said:

"With only 48 hours left until voters are handed separate ballots and asked to decide how they prefer to repay the $28,500,000 borrowed by the state for the relief of unemployed this year, all candidates in both parties are taking time in their speeches to warn taxpayers not to neglect voting this ballot 'Yes' if they wish to avoid a stiff increase in next year's tax bills, higher rents and serious difficulties in financing next year's relief."

Speeches for the $30,000,000 issue are to be made today and tomorrow by David L. Shillinglaw and Harry C. Kinne, Republicans, and Ald. John S. Clark, Robert M. Sweitzer, Fred W. Brummel, and Emmet Whealan, Democrats.

Disagree on Council Term.

The proposal to lengthen aldermen's terms from two to four years has the opposition of the Citizens' association, which believes "the present two year term is as long as it should be under existing civic conditions.

In 1920 a similar proposition failed by 392,000 to 132,000, but in 1927 the movement for a new referendum on the matter gained strength.

The Municipal Voters' league favors the proposition, declaring a four year term would attract better candidates and allow aldermen more time to become familiar with ramifications of city government. A saving of $800,000 in the cost of elections would be made every four years, according to the league. Also aldermen would not be so taken up by preëlection campaigning as they are now.

Voters in 103 city precincts who will decide whether their immediate neighborhoods shall enforce prohibition have before them the example of twenty precincts, all but one in the Beverly Hills residential district, which went dry at the April elections. At that time three precincts remained wet in the local option contests.

The greater number of the precincts voting on this issue on Tuesday are in the 37th ward, which includes nearly all of the Austin district which was dry for years before prohibition. Other precincts in which citizens face the question are in the 6th, 8th, 9th, 13th, 19th, 30th, and 36th wards.

Ex-Service Men to Hold Rally for J. P. Ringley

Ex-service men backing the candidacy of James P. Ringley, Republican, for sherif are to gather at Kinzie and State streets at 1:30 p. m. today in an open air massmeeting. Later 500 automobiles will parade through twenty-five miles of city streets. C. O. Wiley, secretary of the Republican ex-service men's organization, expects 4,000 to take part. Mr. Ringley will lead the parade.

TERM WHEALAN'S LETTER INIMICAL TO CIVIL SERVICE

Election Orders Declared Merit Law Violated.

A letter sent to Cook county employés over the facsimile signature of Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, was criticized yesterday by officials of organizations devoted to protecting the civil service. Whealan is a Democratic candidate for member of the board of tax appeals, and the civil service defenders declared his letter violated the "merit law."

The missive was printed on stationery bearing the letterhead: "Office of Emmett Whealan, president Cook county board of commissioners, 523 County building, Chicago." Under the salutation, "To Cook county employés, dear friend," it addressed all county workers, not excluding those under civil service.

Text of Form Letter.

The letter read as follows:

"The letter had not previously been brought to my attention, but if it is as purported, it is quite clear that such direction to civil service employés is a violation of the first principles of civil service. Merit employés should not be subjected to political pressure."

Below a letter head reading "Office of Emmett Whealan, president Cook county board of commissioners, 523 county building, Chicago," and under the salutation, "To Cook county employés, dear friend," the letter read as follows:

"You are on trial in connection with the election Nov. 6 and this election will gauge your interest in the Democratic party. Your precinct will be closely scrutinized and your services will be measured by the number of slate Democratic votes in your precinct. Unless you make a special effort, you cannot expect full results. I am enclosing herewith a tally sheet and stamped return envelope and it is imperative that this be received in the president's office not later than Thursday noon, Nov. 8."

"The provision of the merit law that civil service employés should not be required to render political service is clear," said Henry P. Chandler, president of the Civil Service association of Chicago. "This letter seems plainly to be a violation of that law."

William H. Weber, chairman of the Republican county central committee, took Whealan to task for flouting the civil service laws.

Deems Act Characteristic.

"Mr. Whealan's open flaunting of the civil service laws," Mr. Weber said, "is astounding. It is valuable to voters, however, as proving that if elected to the board of tax appeals he would show just as little regard for the law in that position.

"Perhaps Mr. Whealan feels that his political party might as well come out in the open and admit that it has no regard for law. The Nash-Kelly-Horner machine has been flagrantly violating the civil service laws of the state, county, and city, but never quite so openly as Mr. Whealan."

Harry E. Kelly, vice president of the Civil Service association of Chicago, said the letter showed a "brazen" attempt to control the employés on the basis of political patronage. Mrs. Murray Nelson, chairman of the joint committee for the merit system and civil service, and W. J. Thorp, president of the Civil Service Protective association, added their protests.

Whealan has sent out also an "I Gotta Drag" courtesy card, which informs members of county departments that the bearer is to be extended all of the departmental courtesies. The card goes along with a windshield sticker, bearing Whealan's name.

An Error, Secretary Explains.

Representing Mr. Whealan, John F. Delaney, secretary to the president of the county board, said that if the letter went to any civil service employés it was sent by mistake. The letter, he said, was not intended for merit employés.

"An old mailing list was used," Mr. Delaney explained, "so if any civil service employés received the letters it was only because they were temporary appointees at the time the list was made up. A number of civil service examinations have been held recently at the direction of Mr. Whealan and some of those certified to positions probably were temporary employés before they took the examinations.

"As for the letter itself, a girl in the stenographic force was requested to get out a letter used by the late Mayor Cermak when he was president of the county board. By mistake she got out the form intended for the organization force."

ASSASSIN FIRES ON MORELAND AS HE SITS IN HOME

Alderman and Wife Are Periled by Two Shots.

While sitting with his wife in the dining room of their home at 5909 North Mason avenue last night, Ald. James C. Moreland of the Forty-first ward, was the target of a shotgun assassin who fired through the window. He was not wounded. Ald. Moreland is the Republican candidate for county assessor in the election Tuesday.

The alderman and his wife, Mrs. Izora M. Moreland, were seated at a dining room table two feet from the window. Two seconds before a double charge of shot ripped through the window pane, shattered a crystal chandelier, and tore into the ceiling, Ald. Moreland had leaned far forward over the table, with his back to the window. This circumstance was credited with saving his life.

Alderman's Move Saves Life.

Acting Lieutenant Anthony de Grazio of the Irving Park police station stated that the assassin or assassins stood in the thick shrubbery below the window sill. If the alderman had not moved, he said, the two charges would have struck him in the back of the neck. Mrs. Moreland was sitting close by at her husband's right side assisting him in preparing credentials for his watchers at the polls.

The shattered chandelier showered both of them with broken glass. After ascertaining that his wife was unharmed, Ald. Moreland telephoned the police.

Earl Derx, 5600 North Mason avenue, who was sorting campaign literature in the rear of the house with the Morelands' daughter, Eleanor, 17 years old, rushed outside, but saw no one. The house is of Colonial design, situated 100 feet north of Elston avenue on the east side of Mason avenue, and set back 25 feet from the street.

Knows No Reason for Attack.

Two other children of the alderman, William, 18 years old, and Marie, 21 years old, both students at the University of Illinois, were not at home.

Ald. Moreland told Lieut. De Grazio that he knew of no motive for the attack. He said he had received no threats.

Ald. Moreland is serving his second term in the city council and is in his second term as Republican ward committeeman. He was defeated in 1930 as Republican nominee for congress from the Seventh district.

WOMAN AND DRUG CLERK CHARGED WITH PLOT TO ROB

Mrs. Ethel Eifert, 26 years old, blonde bride of a street car motorman, and James Tracy, 28 years old, 5411 Winthrop avenue, a drug clerk, were charged by the Chicago Lawn police last night with having conspired to rob a rent collector in Mrs. Eifert's apartment at 3303 West 61st place. The rent collector, T. C. Gibson, 2415 West 79th street, was robbed of $252 on Thursday by two men who invaded the Eifert apartment while he was there collecting the rent.

Sergt. Joseph Leonard, investigating the robbery, learned from Mrs. Helen Rose, the tenant in the apartment below, that she had seen two men run out of the back door of Mrs. Eifert's apartment just before the collector arrived and then had watched them enter again at the front.

Taken to the station, Mrs. Eifert finally admitted that she knew one of the robbers. She named Tracy and he was arrested. A search is being made for the other man.

SALESMAN ROBBED OF $510.

George M. Pettit, a salesman for the General Pen company of Los Angeles, Cal., who is staying at the Morrison hotel, was robbed of $510 last night by two bandits who forced him out of a taxicab into their car at Ogden and Western avenues and later ejected him at South Troy street and Douglas boulevard.

MAYOR DRIVES RIVET TO START WORK ON PIERS IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Mayor La Guardia drove the first rivet today in the steelwork of the new 1,100 foot piers that are to be constructed along the East river at 48th, 50th, and 52d street, to accommodate the latest and largest ships projected for trans-Atlantic travel.

Calling attention to the necessity for the piers to maintain the supremacy of New York as a port, the mayor also declared in an address to those who witnessed the ceremonies that work on another development, the establishment of a free port on Staten Island, would be started as soon as permission could be obtained from the federal government.

The free port project, the mayor said, would make use of the city owned piers at Stapleton, S. I. Although he did not go into details of the plan, he was known to have favored a report prepared at his request by the Port of New York authority. This stated that a part of the twelve piers at Stapleton, erected during the Hylan administration, might be developed into an initial plant suitable for a free port at a cost of $7,000,000.

MUSICIAN TELLS FAN MAIL WOES; WINS A DIVORCE

Mrs. Margaret Whetstone Devron objects to her husband being in a business where his success depends on having a host of feminine admirers.

And that, according to the testimony given yesterday before Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Superior court, is what caused the series of quarrels extending over the entire three years of her married life with George Devron, radio violinist and orchestra leader at the Congress hotel.

Mr. Devron, in answer to questions by his attorney, Norman Becker, testified that he was married in Waukegan on May 20, 1930, and that his wife deserted him on May 25, 1933.

"She always quarreled with me," he said, "because of other women. I don't mean that I kept company with other women, but so many women are always attracted by music and musicians. Girls kept asking me for my autograph, or writing fan letters."

Mr. Devron went on to explain that fan letters were fine things to get, as they were an index of popularity, but his wife could only see it in a personal, and not a business light. Mrs. Devron did not appear to contest the divorce, and it was granted.

Oriental Rugs
KESHANS
Masterpieces of Oriental Art

The city of Keshan, in Central Persia, was a great center of textile arts and the home of Maksoud, the famous 16th century weaver. Its hand woven velvets enjoyed the highest reputation throughout the Orient as early as the 15th Century. The rug weavers of Keshan, following the technique of the velvet weavers, produced the Keshan rugs, which to this day have an excellent reputation for their very fine weave, velvety short pile, and gorgeous color harmony.

Our new importations have brought to us a large variety of these magnificent Keshan rugs, from throws to extra large room sizes, at such low prices, that we doubt we can ever offer them again at their present prices.

Our SAROUKS, ISPAHANS, KIRMANS and CHINESE rugs are offered at equally great values. Come and see them.

'ALL MY STOCK DEALS HONEST!' SHOUTS INSULL ON WITNESS STAND

DEFENDS FLIGHT TO GREECE AFTER INDICTMENT HERE

Feared Heat of Politics, He Declares.

torney, a member of the firm of Lincoln, Isham and Beale, advising him that there was no extradition treaty in Greece. He admitted he had received this. He did not return, he said, because of the political campaign of the state's attorney in Chicago.

"Would Have Been Crucified."

"Why did you not come back and face the music after the campaign was over?" was the next question.

"I had seen much of the literature of the campaign. Swanson [John. A. Swanson, who was running for reëlection as prosecutor] even had me being brought through the streets in chains.

"I think I would have been crucified if I had come home, and self-preservation is the first law of nature."

Later, he said, he was advised that the indictment under which it was sought to bring him home was not an extraditable offense.

"You stood on a technicality?"

"I chose to stand on my rights. I had no funds. I was unable to find out about the indictment except by rumor."

No Turning of Cheek.

Mr. Salter reminded him that a good way to have found out would have been by coming back, but Insull said:

"You know the ordinary man, when he is slapped on one cheek, doesn't go 8,000 miles to get slapped on the other."

As a final effort at pinning him down to some admission, the prosecutor took the witness back to the circular offering Corporation Securities for sale in 1929. He wanted to know why this circular did not contain the information that 94 per cent of the stocks carried by the company were in the investment instead of the operating companies of the Insull system.

"Why did you not tell the public?" asked Mr. Salter.

"It never occurred to me. Both investment companies held the stocks of the operating companies. It was all the same interest."

Flares at Prosecutor.

"You invited the public to contribute $31,000,000?"

"Yes." Then came this blast:

"I can't get myself into the mental attitude of yourself. I was doing things I thought absolutely honest. You are drawing inferences of dishonesty. I know the belief that people had in my integrity, and still have!"

"Do you not think that belief would have been shaken a little if you had told the whole truth?"

"I do not."

Much of the last phase of this examination was devoted to examining into the reasons for reorganization of Middle West Utilities company, which preceded the launching of Corporation Securities. The government contends that Middle West was shaky at that time. Mr. Insull maintained stoutly that there was no trouble at all, that everybody was ready to buy his securities. He admonished the prosecutor for not sticking to the point, then apologized to the judge for the digression.

Mr. Insull finally admitted the authenticity of a paper containing a list of securities turned in at the organization of Corporation Securities. It showed, according to the interpretation which he insisted on getting before the jury, despite interruptions, that the stocks he turned in brought him in at the time half a million dollars in income, and that the immediate returns were cut by the transfer to $49,600 a year. The government statement, he said, was based on original cost.

Likens Self to Ford.

"You might say, on that basis, that Henry Ford had nothing, as he made his money by development, as I made mine," said Mr. Insull. There was objection to this and the court said the time to argue in this manner was before the jury.

"That part of the statistics is untrue and unjustified," stated the witness. "It's use by the government is one of the most immoral things I ever have seen perpetrated."

He admitted that he hated to pay out cash dividends, as he wanted money for extensions. He added this was one of the reasons for reorganization of the financial structure of Middle West Utilities.

"Isn't it the fact that the company was not making enough to pay the dividends?" asked the examiner.

Justifies "Inside Profits."

"No, sir, that had nothing whatever to do with it."

He was asked about the system of recording intercompany profits. There was perfect justification in this, he said.

"Don't you know that in your income tax reports for 1928 you show losses and depreciation of $12,400,000 that was not taken on the books of the Middle West company, and if this had been taken it would show a loss of a million? Answer yes or no."

Insull smiled.

"You may think it is funny," said Salter. "Answer yes or no."

Mr. Thompson came to the rescue of his client with an objection which was overruled.

"Wanted to Help Others."

"I have no knowledge of the income tax returns of 1928," said the witness. "I put my money in that stock, the money of my friends, widows, people that I wanted to help."

"You sold in a year at a profit?"

"I probably did."

Middle West was not bankrupt at the time, Mr. Insull insisted. "The purpose of the reorganization was to make savings for stockholders."

"You were claiming losses of $14,000,000?"

"I know nothing of it."

"Do you think that where there are three companies all operating at a loss that they can become prosperous by paying each other dividends?"

"I make no such assertion. I'd say no, although I've bought lots of companies that were losing and put them together and they made a profit."

The market purchases of Middle West stock at this time, the witness insisted, were not to run up the price, but with the intention of buying cheaply.

Insull Grilled About "Flight"

Samuel Insull and his son, Samuel Jr., as they left the United States courthouse yesterday after the elderly defendant had endured another session of cross-examination by prosecutors in mail fraud trial. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

INSULL STILL LIVES IN VANISHED GLORY OF UTILITY EMPIRE

The days of his glory as a La Salle money czar keep recurring to Samuel Insull as he parries prosecution thrusts in his federal mail fraud trial. He seems still to be living in 1929.

"Why didn't you tell the public," demanded Special Prosecutor Leslie Salter, at one point, "that 94 per cent of the securities carried in the portfolio of Corporation Securities was made up of investment stocks and only 6 per cent of operating stocks?"

"It wasn't necessary," said Insull proudly. "They used to say about that time that if we issued a piece of brown paper with a signature on it we could raise all the money we wanted to."

DAY STARTS CALMLY

Insull Arrives Early and Keeps Wary Eye on Prosecutor.

Insull appeared at the courtroom half an hour before Judge Wilkerson took the bench. He was smiling and confident, chatting with his companion defendants and newspaper men. He said he was "tired but feeling fine after a day on the stand." When court convened at 9:30 o'clock he stepped to the witness stand and turned the same wary glance he had adopted during Friday's cross-examination upon Prosecutor Salter.

As on the previous day the hearing began quietly with the prosecutor leading Insull into the affairs of Corporation Securities company in March, 1930. At that time, Insull testified, he and his associates were planning to sell common stock of the company which hitherto had never been offered to the public. About the time the first offers were made to the public, Insull said, he went to Europe.

"No Dividend Decision."

Q.—Now, at the time you left for Europe had there been any decision arrived at—between Feb. 25 and the time you went to Europe, some time in March—as to whether the company would declare a common stock dividend on the Corporation Securities common stock? A.—I have no recollection as to whether the subject was up or not before I went away.

Q.—Do you recollect that in this offering circular which was issued to the public you did announce that it had been decided that the common stock which you were offering to the public would receive a dividend? A.—The clause on that subject—in the circular—here it is: "The common stock of the corporation has been placed on a dividend basis through the declaration of an initial stock dividend at the rate of 6 per cent or twelve two-hundredths of one share of common stock per annum on each share of common stock" (Insull was reading from a circular Salter handed him).

Admits Approving Payment.

Q.—Now, did you approve of this new corporation beginning to pay stock dividends so early in its history? A.—Undoubtedly I approved of it.

Q.—I will ask you if as a matter of fact, Mr. Insull, you did not rather frown upon the idea that the company should pay stock dividends so soon after all of this write-off and depreciation in securities and before the time that the company had any real earnings. Didn't you disapprove of that practice? A.—That is a very complicated question, Mr. Salter. If you want me to answer it I will be glad to, but I would have to split it up for the purpose of answering.

Insull was beginning to shift his position in the chair. His eyes turned from Salter to the jury to Attorney Thompson who sat near the witness stand. Salter, announcing that he would refresh the witness' memory, read a series of telegrams which passed between Insull and various officials of his enterprises, in which the defendant reiterated his objections to payment of dividends.

A final message stated Insull "would prefer not to pay dividends for a year, but would consent if Martin Insull and Mr. Stuart (of Halsey-Stuart & Co.) agreed."

Q.—Then you relied upon whatever Mr. Stuart and your brother and your son and your other associates agreed to do? A.—Yes, and naturally so, because I was 4,000 miles away and could not know the immediate situation.

Public Assured of Dividends.

Q.—Then the circular was issued advising the public that this common stock which you were offering to them and on which you expected to receive some thirty million in new capital would be on a dividend paying basis? A.—Undoubtedly.

Q.—Now, Mr. Insull, isn't it true that you put that stock on a dividend paying basis against your own judgment and against the judgment of H. L. Stuart simply in order to make the stock look more attractive to the public whom you were asking to invest their savings in this company. A.—I don't think that this—I don't think—in reply to that if I gave you a direct answer I would have to say no. You stated it was against my judgment and Mr. Stuart's judgment, but it is quite a possibility that Mr. Stuart changed his mind entirely. (Insull was red of face. He had moved in his chair until he was bending forward, elbows on knees, and was speaking in a loud voice.)

"All Ready to Buy."

Q.—Let's leave the question of judgment out of it if that confuses you. Isn't it a fact that the reason you put this stock on a dividend paying basis was to make it more attractive to the public and induce them thereby to purchase this stock when they would not otherwise have bought it. A.—(Turning away from Salter and making his reply in a pleading tone directly to the jurors). Now, gentlemen, at that time there wasn't any trouble about selling a million and a quarter shares of Corporation Security stock. Everybody was ready to buy it, even with a market condition that was not as good as the previous year.

Q.—Then it is your opinion now, your judgment and your testimony, that this reference in here in this circular and the action taken to put this stock on a dividend paying basis had nothing to do with your desire to sell the stock to the public? A.—O, I wouldn't say that.

Insull Protests Questions.

Q.—As a matter of fact it is the very reason you put it there, is it not? A.—You might ask me at the same time whether I think that an earning statement should be dropped.

Q.—I might ask anything, but let's stick to this point. A.—All right, if you will stick to the point.

Q.—I am sorry. I didn't want to get anything out of you other than the truth. A.—(With a wide grin and a patronizing tone). Well, we will get along famously if that is all you want.

Here followed a series of questions about certain securities which Insull, his son, his wife, and brother, Martin, had pooled in forming Corporation Securities. Insull identified as correct a typewritten list of the stocks and then went into a rambling discourse which lasted half an hour despite efforts of Judge Wilkerson and Prosecutor Salter to halt the flow of words.

Consul Clash Over Story.

Salter's efforts provoked the wrath of Attorney Thompson and for the first time in the trial the barbed words which the lawyers had so frequently exchanged were unaccompanied by the smiles that hitherto softened the effect.

Still Insull continued, eventually saying: "Naturally, when I was borrowing money at the bank I used the primest securities that I had, and I had outstanding against my loans that were collateral some of these primest securities. The use made by the government of that, of those loans, as a reduction of cost of securities is one of the most immoral things I have ever seen perpetrated."

Court Bars Accusation.

JUDGE WILKERSON—That may be stricken.

INSULL—Excuse me, your honor, do you mean my last remark?

JUDGE WILKERSON—The last sentence.

INSULL—Not with relation to the fact that these loans were a part of my obligation.

JUDGE WILKERSON—The "immoral" part of it, that is hardly for you to characterize.

INSULL—It may be true, then. (The remark was a question and Insull was addressing the judge quite as an equal.)

PROSECUTOR SALTER—Mr. Insull, this question of just what the securities which you put into these companies cost you is rather a touchy question with you, isn't it? A.—No, sir. (Very emphatically.)

Q.—Kind of gets under your skin? A.—[Throwing himself back in his chair with a nervous movement of impatience]—Not a bit of it, not under my skin, and if that is your effort you are failing signally.

Explains Stock Holdings.

Q.—You stated yesterday that you had more of the common stock of the Insull Utility Investments and Corporation Securities at the close when the ship went down, as you put it, than you had at the beginning. A.—I may have said something like that, but the fact was that I had a little less Insull Utility Investments and I had more Corporation Securities stock at the close than I had at the beginning.

Q.—Now, to close this up, I want to ask you this question: Isn't it a fact that you took out in the way of profit from the sale of securities and cash in the way of stock dividends from Insull Utility Investments and Corporation Securities more than the cost of all that you had ever put in those two companies? A.—No, sir. Not in my judgment.

Doesn't Recall $29,000 Purchase.

Q.—Do you recall that you bought $12,000 worth of I. U. I stock in 1931, and $17,000 worth of Corporation common stock the same year. A.—No. But I assume if you have it in the record it is correct.

Q.—Do you recall that during the year 1931 you sold 80,767 shares of common stock of Insull Utility Investments for a price of $12,228,030? A.—I do not know what transaction you are referring to.

Q.—I am referring to the sale of stocks as reported in your income tax. We have checked the returns and the evidence, I think, speaks for itself.

The prosecutor then began asking Insull about the reorganization of Middle West Utilities in June, 1929 at a time the stock was selling on the market at $170 a share. Insull said he and H. L. Stuart began purchasing stock.

TELLS OF STOCK SPLIT

Q.—As I understand your testimony some of the things you attempted to gain by that reorganization of the capital structure of Midwest was, first, to split up the common stock on a 10 to 1 basis so that the stock, which formerly had been selling above $100 a share, would then sell for $10 a share, and that was done to make it more accessible or more attractive to the smaller investor who would not ordinarily have enough money to buy the high priced stock? A.—It was done primarily to cure a disadvantage in which we were placed owing to the small units of stock having become very fashionable—and there are just as many fashions in connection with stock issues as in ladies' dresses and hats—and the market in Middle West was in a prejudiced position because other concerns had small values to trade in and we had too large values to trade in right through the panic, and it affected Edison company, Public Service company, and Peoples Gas company on account of their position in that respect.

Stops Outgo of Cash.

Q.—Another reason that you stated was that prior to this time common stock of Middle West had been on a cash dividend basis. A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And you wanted to relieve the company of the necessity of paying out all that cash each year? Is that correct? A.—Yes, sir. The amount payable in cash was around—or would have been right after the reorganization—about twelve million dollars a year. And that amount was needed for extension of plants. We knew that if we did not pay out the cash as a dividend we would have it for the purpose of our extension, and I might say as an operator of forty years' experience the one great bugaboo to me has always been paying out cash dividends we could otherwise use for extension of plants.

Q.—And another reason was in order to repair some prior preferred stock that was being carried at a high dividend rate. A.—That wasn't of nearly so much consequence, but it was of consequence, as we have already indicated, in the reorganization of the capital structure—it was desirable.

Denies Break in Earnings.

Q.—In addition to the reasons that you have given for wanting to discontinue the cash payment of dividends on the common stock, wasn't it a fact that during the year 1929, the Middle West Utilities common stock did not earn its dividend. A.—No sir.

Q. [With heat]—Isn't it a fact that Middle West Utilities company was not earning enough money to continue paying a cash dividend on the common stock? A. [Insull's face began to crimson]—No, sir.

Q.—Wasn't that the real reason you wanted to reorganize? A.—No, sir. It had nothing whatever to do with it, sir. To begin with, the question raises a point which is not a fact.

Q.—You say it is not so? A.—Yes.

Q.—Now, Mr. Insull, I will ask you if you did not know this to be a fact, that in your income tax returns of Middle West Utilities company and subsidiaries for the year 1928, you claimed losses on depreciation and losses on abandoned property of more than $12,400,000, which never were taken up on the books of the Middle West Utilities company at all, and that if these losses had been recorded on the books your books would have shown a loss of more than a million dollars and there would not have been a dollar's worth of profits for either preferred or common stockholders for that year?

Tax Return Done by Experts.

Attorney Thompson raised a loud objection, but after an extended colloquy Judge Wilkerson ruled that Insull might answer the question: "Do you know whether that was shown in the income tax return?" Insull then asserted he had not known what was in the return because it had been prepared by his experts and he had merely "signed my name."

He then admitted he was chairman of the board of directors of Middle West Utilities and as such should have been familiar with affairs.

INSULL SHOUTS DENIAL

Salter then turned back to the financial condition of Middle West Utilities and drew an angry shout of denial from Insull that he, himself, had lacked faith in the company. This was followed by an admission that he had profited heavily through sale of his holdings.

Q.—Now you knew that after you got the common stock of Middle West Utilities company on a stock dividend paying basis that it wouldn't cost the company anything at all to issue these little pieces of paper, these stock dividends. A.—O, yes, it would.

FLIGHT FROM PARIS TOLD DRAMATICALLY BY DECODED CABLES

How Samuel Insull darted this way and that in vain attempts to escape the American government's closing extradition net was told simply and dramatically in decoded cablegrams introduced at the former utility magnate's mail fraud trial in federal court.

GEORGE A. COOKE.

All the messages contained advice or findings by Chicago lawyers. The first sent to Paris and dated Oct. 3, 1932, read:

"Samuel Insull should not comply with any requests or demands for return . . ."

The second cable was sent to Turin, Italy, and read:

"Gilbert E. Porter says advices from Washington state no extradition treaty with Greece. George A. Cooke says no existing treaty between Greece and the United States, but one being negotiated. This makes extradition impossible. Advise domicile there. Greek steamship is Greek territory."

The third message, sent to Milan, Italy, Oct. 7, as Insull's position grew precarious, read:

"Porter says although no treaty with Greece, government on request might surrender as matter of policy. Suggest seeing Zaharoff immediately if you think wise."

Q.—It would cost for the printing, wouldn't it? A.—O, no, sir. The purpose of doing it was to prevent that amount of money leaving the treasury in order to enable us to use it for construction purposes in connection with the development of the business. That was the purpose.

Q.—Isn't it a fact. Mr. Insull, that in June and July when you started purchasing your stock on the market, you and Mr. Stuart, that it was your intention and plan then to raise the price of this stock greatly above $200 a share in order to effectuate your reorganization plan. A.—No, sir, our intention and plan, when we put in the order for that stock, was to buy it as cheap as we possibly could, not to rate it. That was our only consideration.

Prosecutor Salter asked on what date the reorganization plan had been decided. Insull replied he could not tell whether it was in 1929, 1928, "or when we had it in mind."

Can't Remember, He Insists.

Q.—Well, you did have it in mind before you started in acquiring stock in June and July? A.—I don't know that we had an exact plan in mind at the time we acquired the stock in June and July. You will be able to find that out from witnesses who had more to do with the purchase of the stock than I had.

Insull persisted, in the face of dogged questioning by the prosecutor, that he could not remember whether it was early in 1929—as Salter insisted—or late in that year when the plans to reorganize Middle West were formed.

GRILLED ON "FLIGHT"

Ex-Magnate Braces Self for More Unpleasantness.

Q.—All right. Now, Mr. Insull, yesterday you told about leaving here, going to Europe for your health.

Here Insull underwent a visible change. Previously he had angrily resisted any slur on his judgment in connection with his finances. Now he settled back into his chair with the air of one expecting a disagreeable probing into his private affairs.

A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Was that the only reason you left here? A.—I gave my reasons.

Q.—You went for the reason you did not want to embarrass some of your friends here. You were still out of the other company? A.—Yes.

Q.—You had no idea of running away from anything? A. [very softly]—No, sir; none whatever.

Why He Sailed from Quebec.

Q.—What was the date that you left here? A.—I don't know that I have the exact date. It was in June, I think. Yes, June 14.

Q.—You sailed from Quebec? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—How did you happen to go to Canada instead of New York? A.—I almost invariably sailed from Quebec during the summer months. I am very fond of going through the Straits of Belle Isle, and I presume in the 200 trips I have made to Europe I have probably been through the Straits of Belle Isle at least 15 or 20 per cent of the time.

Q.—How many times did you ever go from Quebec before? A.—[In chiding voice], I stated—if you do not pay attention to my answer I cannot help it.

5 Sailings—Not from Quebec.

Mr. Salter then brought out that Insull had sailed three times in 1930 and twice in 1931, and each time had not sailed from Quebec. Insull's answer was that he had been in a hurry to reach London and he added that in 1930 and 1931 he came back to Quebec.

WANTED TO ASSIST WIDOWS, ORPHANS TO RICHES, SAYS INSULL

Samuel Insull, testifying in his own defense in his mail fraud trial yesterday, referred to the losses of widows and orphans in his securities.

Special Prosecutor Leslie Salter had asked:

"Wasn't Middle West Utilities and its financial condition the biggest worry you had with respect to all?"

Insull broke in, waving both hands, his face red and his voice vehement:

"No! No! No! No! I was such a believer in it that I put not only corporation investment company money, but all my friends' money, widows and orphans, and people I wanted to help improve their income."

Later he admitted that he had sold at a profit, adding, "I am in the business of making money, when I am in business."

Q.—Then there was no significance in your going this time from Quebec? A.—There is no bogey in that at all. [Here the defendant waved his hands excitedly.]

Q.—You were not trying to go from some port other than New York City? A.—No. When I go to Europe I do not consider whether I will go from New York City because it is New York City, but I consider as a rule going the quickest possible way. I was out of business at that time and I had no business and it made no difference to me. I wasn't well, and I went to Montreal and dined there at the principal hotel, the Ritz. Lots of people there knew me, and the next morning instead of going to the steamer I went up to the Chateau Frontenac and breakfasted; lots of people there knew me, I imagine.

Pinned Down by Prosecutor.

Q.—How many people in Chicago knew you were leaving? A.—Lots of people knew that I was down and sick.

Q.—How many people knew the day you left here that you were leaving? Name some of them. A.—[Disturbed] I don't know. I was out of business.

Q.—Of course you were, but answer my question. Did you let it be generally known that you were leaving? A.—What was there to be let generally known?

Q.—Answer the question, did you? A.—I was entirely out of business. There wasn't any one interested but my family.

"Lots of People Knew."

Q.—Did you let any one know but your family that you were leaving? A.—Yes, sir, lots of people who know.

Q.—Who went with you? A.—Mr. P. J. McEnroe went as far as Montreal with me. Let's see. I think my man servant went with me. I don't remember. I think so.

Q.—How much baggage did you take? A.—[With a broad smile] I took quite a good deal; all I needed.

Q.—You intended to stay for a long time, did you? A.—Yes, sir.

Salter then questioned the defendant about his stay in Paris, obtaining the information that Insull read in Paris newspapers three months after his arrival in June that there was a possibility of his being indicted. He denied, however, reading of United States District Attorney Green's announcement of the federal investigation into Insull affairs.

Ignorant of U. S. Action.

Q.—Did any one write you and tell you the government had started investigating you? A.—Not as I recall it. I don't know. They might have. Wait a moment. That was September. No, I have no recollection of it. My son came to visit his mother and myself early in October, 1932, and he probably told me of it at the time. I don't remember whether he did or not.

The prosecutor then mentioned the cablegram Insull received from State's Attorney Swanson Oct. 3, 1932, asking him to return to Chicago. Insull replied that instead of answering he cabled Gilbert E. Porter, head of the law firm of Isham, Lincoln & Beale, for advice.

Then followed introduction of three coded cablegrams advising Insull to go to Greece because there was no extradition treaty, warning him that the Greek government might surrender him anyway and finally urging him to see Zaharoff [Sir Basil Zaharoff, famous European financier with vast political influence] at once.

P. J. McEnroe (left), whom Samuel Insull named as companion on trip to Montreal when former magnate went to Europe after companies crashed; and John O'Keefe, who denied telegram to Insull advising against return to United States was in his handwriting.

TAKES LAWYERS' ADVICE

The witness identified the code used and indicated that news of the Greco-American extradition treaty's status had determined his course.

Q.—And did you consider the possibility that although Greece did not have an extradition treaty they might as a matter of policy surrender you to the United States? A.—No. I went right on there.

During the next few questions Insull became highly excited. He took off his spectacles, hunched forward in his chair and waved both hands to emphasize his answers.

Q.—Now I believe you stated that the reason that you left Paris so suddenly was because you did not want to be brought back here in the heat of a political campaign? A.—Yes.

Denies Knowing of Indictment.

Q.—Why didn't you come back and face the music after the campaign was over? A.—I had received no request to come back. I had received no notification of the existence of any indictment against me.

Q.—After you were indicted by the United States government why didn't you come back? A.—I had seen so much of the literature issued during the campaign—Attorney Swanson even had dodgers being distributed around here with me being brought through the streets in chains, and I thought there was a political situation here that I had better let quiet down before I ever made an attempt to come back. To put it shortly, I think I would have been crucified if I had come here, and self-preservation is the first law of nature. [Insull had half risen, his voice deepened into a roar and his hands shook as he completed his answer.]

Q.—And that is the reason why you did not voluntarily return here after you learned you were indicted by the government, which did not occur until February, 1933? A.—February, 1933. No. I tried to make inquiries as to the indictment under which my extradition was asked at the time that Mr. Harness went to Athens. The indictment on which I am now being tried was not extraditable.

Insull contended that he stood on his own rights and added that he did not have the necessary funds to return. Salter suggested a good way to find out about the indictment would be to return and enter a not guilty plea.

Insull replied that a man slapped on one cheek does not travel 8,000 miles to receive a slap on the other. He admitted knowing Zaharoff socially for many years, but said he did not see him, because "when I am in trouble I am inclined to keep to myself."

Grilled on Stock Circular.

Salter abruptly went back to the offering circular on which he had previously questioned Insull so closely. He demanded to know why the circular did not state what securities the company carried in its portfolio. Insull contended he knew nothing of the matter.

Q.—Isn't it the real reason that 94 per cent of the total amount of securities carried in the portfolio was made up of the stocks of two companies; namely, the Insull Utilities Investment and the Middle West Utilities company?

A.—No, that could not have been. That would have helped the sale of the securities at the time, with the reputation that those securities had in the market.

Insull contended that the company had a substantial block of stock in the three operating companies, as stated in the circular, but added, "you and I may not agree on what we would call substantial."

Salter demanded to know if it was true that the company had only 6 per cent of the operating companies' stock and 94 per cent in Middle West and Insull Utility. Insull replied that both holding companies had large holdings in the operating stock—so it was "all practically the same interest."

He denied that he tried to make the public believe that the corporation had the same percentage of holdings in the three operating companies as it had in Middle West and Insull Utility.

Challenges "Attitude."

Q.—You were inviting the public to contribute some 31 million dollars new capital for this company? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Didn't you think it was fair to let the public know that 94 per cent of the portfolio was made up of Middle West Utilities and Insull investments? A.—I can't answer your question because I cannot get myself into the mental attitude of yourself in asking questions. I was doing the things I thought were absolutely honest and you are asking me whether I was doing things that I thought to be dishonest.

Q.—That is a question for the jury to decide. A.—Well, it must affect me in replying to a question when I sit here and see that is the inference to be drawn from the question. I lived in an atmosphere of honesty in business.

Insull had become steadily more excitable as the government's prodding questions grew to a close, and at the conclusion he was fairly shouting his answers. He sank back in his chair with visible relief when Salter announced his conclusion. "Your honor, I am about tired out," he said.

PAMPHLET BARES SINCLAIR ATTACK UPON CHURCHES

Seen as Potent Factor in Election.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—A most important factor in the decision of California's electorate on governor at the polls Tuesday is seen here in the unearthing of the prolific written utterances of the Democratic candidate, Upton Sinclair, Socialist author and radical. A pamphlet called "The Unmasking of Upton Sinclair," quoting his attacks on religious denominations, has been circulated throughout the state.

"The Unmasking" was the work of the Rev. Martin Luther Thomas, pastor of the Metropolitan Federated church of Los Angeles. Dr. Thomas declared that any man or woman who votes for Sinclair becomes an enemy to the Christian religion and the nation. The clergyman took verbatim excerpts from Sinclair's book, "The Profits of Religion," published in 1918, to prove his case.

Quotes "Slave-Catechism."

Dr. Thomas called attention first of all to page 89 of the book in which Sinclair used the phrase "slave-catechism" in speaking of the Episcopal church. "I wonder how many Americans realize the treason to democracy they are committing," Sinclair had written, "when they allow their children to be taught a symbolism and liturgy based upon absolute ideas."

Turning to the Catholics, the clergyman quoted from a paragraph on page 123. Here Sinclair had written of the Knights of Columbus as follows:

"The one thing that you can be certain about these votes is that on every public question, of whatever nature, they will be cast on the side of ignorance and reaction."

On the next page of Sinclair's book he had asserted that in New York vice raids "it was a common thing for them to get priests in their net."

Criticizes Christian Science.

Of Christian Science, on page 258, Sinclair had written:

"I once invested three of my hard-earned dollars for a copy of the Eddy Bible and let myself be stunned and blinded by the flapping of metaphysical wings—Christian Science is a Yankee religion and practical; it will remove your wen, nail down your floating kidney, and enable you to hustle and make money."

Returnnig to the Catholics again on page 260 Sinclair had stated that the church is controlled by "an absolutely irresponsible self-perpetuating body of five men, who alone dictate its policies."

In speaking of the clergy, Dr. Thomas had culled out the Sinclair sentence that follows:

"Their ministers of religion are occupied to scrub and clean and dress up their disreputable founder—to turn him from a proletarian rebel into a stained-glass-window divinity."

"Supreme Irony of History."

Further along in the book Sinclair had written as follows:

"Beyond all question, the supreme irony of history is the use which has been made of Jesus of Nazareth as the Head God of this bloodthirsty system; it is cruelty beyond all language, a blasphemy beyond the power of art to express. Read the man's words, furious as those of any modern agitator that I have heard in twenty years of revolutionary experience."

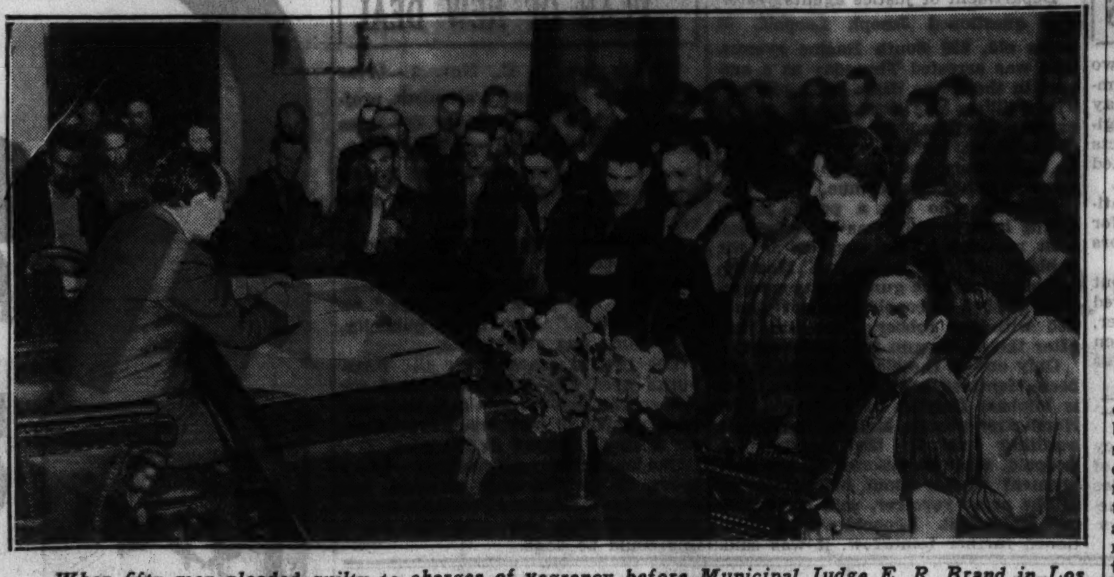
The debate will launch the tenth annual season of the Chicago Forum which runs until March 3. Fred Atkins Moore, forum director, will preside.

BANISHES VAGRANTS FROM CALIFORNIA



When fifty men pleaded guilty to charges of vagrancy before Municipal Judge E. R. Brand in Los Angeles the judge promised to dismiss the charges when the men sent him postcards from any other state than California. The picture shows Judge Brand and the "tourists." They said they had gone to California in search of jobs, "beating" their way on railroads and hitchhiking.

CORN-HOG AID LESS THAN TAX ON COTTON CROP

Mound City, Ill., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—While the government finishes handing out $40,000 in corn-hog checks to signers in Pulaski and Alexander counties it is busy collecting about $60,000 from the cotton growers of these two counties. Day by day the wagons and trucks go to the gin to pay the tax or come to the farm bureau office to buy surplus certificates of exemption that were not used in the south.

The cotton allotment in these two cotton growing counties of Illinois is 648 bales. That much is tax free. But a crop of 3,000 bales was raised, and some 2,400 bales of cotton will have to pay about $27 each at the gin. If the growers buy the surplus exemption certificates, the price is 4 cents per pound instead of 5½ cents at the gin, and farmers therefore are buying them.

No one can explain why the cotton quota in these two counties happened to be so far from the crop. The government did not come into this area and ask for cotton reduction. Land owners might have asked for it. But suddenly this summer a cotton man appeared and annouced that only 648 bales of the cotton grown would be exempted and all over that must pay the penalty.

G. O. P. SPEAKER POINTS TO COST OF 'SANTA CLAUS'

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Former Gov. Ralph O. Brewster of Maine, speaking at a Republican rally here last night, said that "Illinois is getting the worst of the New Deal, being compelled to pay 54 millions in taxes for the two millions in governmental bounties which it received."

In reference to expenditures of money by the government, Brewster said, "The American people will find to their sorrow when they wake up that the federal Santa Claus is one-half composed of the tax collecter, the other half of the Tammany Tiger."

Offering planks quoted from the 1932 Democratic national platform as good Republican doctrin and a suitable substitute for the Roosevelt administration, Brewster advocated reduction of government expenses, abolishment of needless bureaus, and maintenance of a sound currency.

CCC Vets Score Transfer as Plot Against Sinclair

San Luis Obispo, Cal., Nov. 3.—(AP)—A hundred civilian conservation corps war veterans transferred near here today from Los Angeles protested they had been moved in an attempt to eliminate their votes for Upton Sinclair, Democratic nominee for governor. A delegation carried their protest to T. B. Weber, county Sinclair organizer.

REPUBLICAN PARTY'S IOWA CHIEF PREDICTS VICTORY BY 125,000

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Iowa will return to the Republican party by a margin of 125,000 votes next Tuesday, it was predicted here today by Pressey Frank, G. O. P. state chairman.

"Since the beginning of August, there has been a definite, consistent swing to Republican candidates and Republican principles," Frank said. The Republican party offers a haven of stability to the Iowa voter."

The state chairman quoted a letter from Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, saying that if he were still a resident of Iowa, he would esteem it a privilege to vote for Dan W. Turner, because of his foresight and efforts for agriculture.

Democrats also were confident today as the campaign neared an end. E. J. Feuling, Democratic state chairman, expects that the Democratic party will be elected by a majority of more than 100,000 votes.

France Asks Extradition of Assassin Suspects by Italy

ROME, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The French embassy requested the Italian foreign office today to extradite Dr. Ante Pavelich and Egon Kvaternik, arrested at Turin recently on suspicion of being implicated in the assassination of King Alexander of Jugoslavia at Marseilles. The foreign office announced that extradition proceedings would follow a course similar to any criminal case. The Court of Appeals at Turin will hear the case first and the minister of justice will give a final decision.

QUAKE SHAKES WESTERN PART OF WASHINGTON

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Northwestern Washington was shaken slightly by an earthquake today a few hours after a gale had swept the coastal area.

The earth tremor, starting at 6:52 a. m. and continuing for two minutes, rattled dishes and awakened many persons but no damage was reported. It was felt in Seattle, Mount Vernon, Tacoma, Bremerton, Bellingham, Skykomish, Sedro-Woolley and Concrete, and in the Baker river area.

Earlier an electrical storm was borne in by high winds. The gale registered 36 miles an hour here and was precided by hail and thunder.

Old Mount Si, so called because it is older than others about it at the edge of the Cascade range, was blamed for the earthquake by G. E. Goodspeed, associate professor of geology of the University of Washington. He said a geological fault runs north and south along the juncture of the Mount Si rock and the newer Cascade mountain rock formation in the Snoqualmie area.

Ellensburg, on the east side of the Cascades, had 10 distinct shocks Thursday night.

VOTE WILL OIL NEW DEAL SKIDS, FLETCHER SAYS

G. O. P. Chairman Sees Gains Throughout Nation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Skids under the New Deal will be greased at Tuesday's election by substantial Republican gains over the country as an expression of resentment by voters against the administration's policy of officious interference at costly expenditures, Chairman Henry P. Fletcher of the Republican national committee declared today.

He predicted the party will retain its strength in the senate and increase representation in the house by from sixty to seventy members. Further, he said he believes state tickets will win in all normally Republican states and several Republican governors will be elected in states now Democratic.

Answers Lewis "Forecast."

Chairman Fletcher's predictions, carrying an attack on government through alphabetical agencies, came as an answer to a glowing forecast of complete Democratic triumph by Senator James Hamilton Lewis issued through the Democratic national committee.

The anticipated Republican gains are regarded by Chairman Fletcher as a mere preliminary skirmish in the battle against wasteful New Deal policies and interference with liberty. He said the Republican party will not rest on its oars after the election, but will carry on its fight for rugged individualism until the New Deal is swamped.

"New Deal on Way Out."

In a formal preëlection statement Chairman Fletcher said:

"The New Deal is on the way out. It is slipping fast and the voters will give it a further push Tuesday. The Democrats will lose many seats and the Republican party will make substantial gains throughout.

"Regardless of our gains in the election next Tuesday, the Republican party regards it as a preliminary skirmish. The fight on the administration and its costly experiments will go on. We are convinced the New Deal is a failure, that the voters of the country want the artificial alphabetical agencies abolished, the restrictions on business and agriculture removed, and the people given a chance to work out their own salvation without governmental dictation and officious interference.

"Artificial Jobs Can't Last."

"We believe American citizens prefer a job to a handout. They know government jobs and artificially made work cannot last. They know that real jobs depend upon a resumption of our business, which is now prevented by the government's unsound policies.

"This is a straight-out fight against the administration's ruinous course during the last eighteen months.

"If losing Democratic seats is a victory for the New Deal, it will have that kind of a victory next Tuesday."

In his election windup statement Senator Lewis said the administration of President Roosevelt will be given a full vote of confidence in the coming election. He made no reference to the Republican claim of gains in the house, stating merely that the President will hold a two-thirds majority in the senate.

Cites New Deal's "Benefits."

"The tremendous scope of the accomplishments of the administration has brought relief to every section and every class," Senator Lewis said. "Though a huge drought blighted the middle west, the administration's agricultural relief instrumentalities were immediately put into operation, minimizing the conditions and restoring order and health to the stricken communities.

"Wages have been increased by the millions, buying power has been increased by billions, industry shows a profit, and business failures have been minimized to the vanishing point. Banks have been reopened. Farm income has increased by healthy advance of farm prices; exports show improvement. There is a wane in unemployment and a constant advance in all trades and progress in all industrial and agricultural conditions."

At the Republican national committee headquarters the statement of Senator Lewis was dismissed as a "generalization of what the New Deal hoped to accomplish at its inception and failed to bring to fruition in every major aspect."

BEG YOUR PARDON

An item in last SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE stated that Louis Olesen, 47 years old, committed suicide in his home, 3008 South Oak Park avenue, Berwyn, because his wife had scolded him for coming home intoxicated. This was an error, according to the widow. Evidence presented to the coroner showed that Olesen was despondent over financial worries.

Mrs. Frances E. Edwards Sues to Regain Furniture

Mrs. Frances E. Edwards, wife of William Rufus Edwards, head of the Edwards and Bradford Lumber company, filed suit yesterday in the Circuit court to recover furniture and other household furnishings which she values at $50,000 from the 2130 Lincoln Park West Building corporation. The suit charges that the Edwardses occupied a coöperative apartment in the building until two years ago, when they moved. Their furnishings were left in the apartment in consideration of an option to reacquire the apartment, according to the suit, but the option has expired and the corporation refuses to return the furniture.

5 NEW DEALERS, 2 CABINET MEN WILL NOT VOTE

Roosevelt in Hyde Park to Cast Ballot.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Although President Roosevelt has journeyed back to his Hyde Park, N. Y., estate in order to cast his ballot personally next Tuesday, five of his leading New Dealers are passing up their right to vote in the coming national elections, it was discovered today.

The five New Deal chieftains for whom the home town tellers will find no ballots on election day are Donald Richberg, erstwhile "Assistant President" from Chicago, Brief Brain Truster Rexford Guy Tugwell, Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, Secretary of State Hull, and Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper.

Nine other cabinet or near cabinet officials are going home to vote or are mailing in their ballots. Like the President, the New York triumvirate in the cabinet, Jim Farley, Henry Morganthau, and Frances Perkins, are all planning to appear at the polls personally next Tuesday.

Wallace to Vote by Mail.

Secretaries Harold L. Ickes, Henry Wallace, Homer S. Cummings, George Dern, Claude Swanson, and Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation are th six voting by mail.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt will vote next Tuesday at the little yellow town hall in Hyde Park. The Roosevelt children, except James, who lives in Massachusetts, will vote by absentee ballot. Anna Roosevelt Dall's vote may be challenged because she established a residence in Nevada to obtain a Reno divorce from Curtis B. Dall.

The five New Deal chiefs who are letting their voting prerogatives go unused have various reasons for their actions.

"Mr. Richberg," the office of the former Chicago lawyer explained, "found it impossible to comply with registration requirements without taking time from his public duties. He felt his public duties should come first, so he is not voting."

Ickes Marks Mail Ballot.

Richberg's fellow Chicagoan and schoolmate, Secretary Ickes, has marked his ballot and sent it off.

Chief Brain Truster Tugwell, who skipped to Europe to avoid a court summons and to disembarrass the Democrats during preëlection days, is thereby forfeiting his chance to vote.

Secretary of State Hull is holed up in a North Carolina resort, resting under doctor's care. He has no plans for voting.

BROKER IS HELD UP.

Two young robbers held up Arthur W. Jones, 542 North Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park, insurance broker, and Mrs. Jones yesterday at the garage at their home. They got $1.400 in jewelry and $20.

GOV. HORNER CALLS FOR ARMISTICE DAY OBSERVANCE IN STATE

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner today asked that Sunday, Nov. 11, be observed as Armistice day.

He urged that at 11 a. m. that day all activities cease throughout the state and that citizens face the east for two minutes "in silent and reverent homage to those of our soldiers of the world war for whom taps have been sounded."

"Nov. 11 this year marks the sixteenth anniversary of the signing of the armistice which brought to a conclusion the greatest armed conflict the world has ever experienced," says the proclamation.

"Enlisted in our cause, many of our brave men fought and died. During the intervening years many more suffered permanent injuries. Many of our great statesmen and soldiers of the conflict have departed from the earthly scene, but they remain imperishable upon the pages of history and within our hearts. With us who are the survivors and the successors remains the task of upholding the mighty purpose for which they strove."

TWO SUBURBAN GIRLS WIN U. OF I. POPULARITY VOTE

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—After six weeks of voting, Dorothy Randall, Peoria, Ill., a member of Chi Omega sorority; Annette Wolfram, Des Plaines, Ill., a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority, and Mathilda Simpson, Oak Park, Ill., a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority, were tonight declared winners of a contest to select the three most popular co-eds on the University of Illinois campus. They will be given all expenses paid trip to the Wisconsin-Illinois football game at Madison Nov. 17. The contest was sponsored by Illinois Union.

POLITICS BARRED IN RELIEF WORK, HORNER ORDERS

Says Those Who Disobey Will Be Discharged.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner today sent to the Chicago headquarters of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission an order directing the discharge of any employé found making use of emergency relief for political purposes. It said:

"It has been called to my attention that as the campaign draws to a close certain politicians have been endeavoring to obtain partisan advantages through the administration of the emergency relief funds.

Reports Are Cited.

"In some instances, it is reported men and women on relief have been told they would be taken off the relief lists unless they supported certain candidates for office. In others, relief workers have been asked for contributions to political funds.

"I cannot condemn such practices too strongly. The Emergency Relief administration is not and should not be partisan. I have insisted and do insist that there shall be no politics in administration of relief funds.

Calls It Cowardly.

"The men and women who are on the relief rolls through no fault of their own are American citizens and have forfeited none of their rights as citizens because of their misfortune To attempt to coerce them politically is despicable and cowardly.

"I want to assure all those on the tion stands ready to support them in relief rolls that the state administra all of their rights and to aid in the punishment of those who are so lost to self-respect as to take advantage of their situation. Any employé or representative of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission in any county of the state who violates the principles I have here announced will be immediately dismissed from the relief service."

VIGILANTES CAPTURE TWO BANK ROBBERY SUSPECTS IN KANSAS

Marion, Kas., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Two men suspected of robbing the Farmers' State bank at Canton, Kas., today were captured near here by two vigilantes who shot one of the suspects through the head. He was expected to die, the sherif's office here said.

The suspects had not been identified some time after their capture. Nor was the identity of their captors known immediately.

The Canton bank was held up about 8:30 a. m. by two men who followed B. L. Ginder, an assistant cashier, into the bank as he arrived to open the place for business. The loot was less than $50.

QUIZ POSSESSOR OF GUN STOLEN FROM ARMORY

Department of justice agents yesterday questioned Joseph Leopold, 32 years old, 828 South Racine avenue, who was arrested Thursday as a suspect in the Aetna State bank robbery. The grilling was done after ballistic experts identified an army revolver found in his home as one stolen Jan. 8, 1930, from the Eighth Regiment armory, 3719 Giles avenue.

Leopold, who has a police record dating back to 1921, was one of eleven men rounded up as suspects in the robbery of the bank last Monday, when six machine gun bandits escaped with $18,500. Leopold was not identified with the robbery, but was held after the stolen gun was discovered.

Only one of the eleven suspects has been identified with the holdup. He is Michael Derrico, 29 years old, 111 North 21st avenue, Melrose Park, now awaiting trial in the county jail. Leopold, when questioned by the government agents about his possession of the army revolver, said a "boarder" had left it. Leopold will be questioned further tomorrow, it was said.

BOOSTERS OF PRICES PERILS PLAY CENTER PLAN OF NEW DEAL

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—One of the New Deal's altruistic projects—purchase of millions of acres of submarginal land to give the working man cheap vacations—was threatened with failure today due to high prices asked for the land.

Directors of the plan to create recreational centers on non-productive farm land close to industrial centers said they had been "hamstrung" by price "kiting." Too much publicity, they said, was responsible.

The project planned for the Pittsburgh area has been abandoned for this reason and officials said they had been unable to complete negotiations for a single project in the east.

Condemnation proceedings may prove to be the only solution, but there were indications President Roosevelt would have to be won over before this could be done.

BYRD PREPARES TO EXPLORE POLE REGION BY AIR

Big Biplane Loaded for First Long Range Trip.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, Nov. 3.—(AP)—[Via Mackay radio.]—The big Condor biplane William Horlick that is to carry the heaviest responsibility of Admiral Richard E. Byrd's long range polar exploration was given another test flight today.

Admiral Byrd took advantage of a 40 minute flight to direct the ponderous craft 25 miles south of Little America to investigate the reported appearance of land in that vicinity, some distance west of the present southern trail.

No exposed land was seen, Admiral Byrd said, but the ice barrier thereabouts was broken up and disturbed.

First Exploration Flight.

This afternoon the aviation unit was loading the plane with gasoline for the first exploration flight of the season, a reconnaisance journey to the east and southeast.

The weather, however, was not promising. A streaky wind arose from the east and an east wind down here usually means storms or cloudiness.

Pilot Harold I. June reported this morning after a short flight that the Ross sea was still frozen over to the limit of vision, but a few open leads marked by curtains of dark sea smoke were visible.

Parachute Jump Made.

Bernard Skinner, former army parachute rigger, who has charge of the parachutes carried on all flights, decided to relieve the monotony by making a jump. He jumped at 4,000 feet. Four hundred feet from the snow he released his second 'chute to lessen the shock of landing. The 'chute fouled and when he landed he was struggling to clear himself of the folds of silk. He was unhurt.

South of here tractors No. 21 and 3 have been trying to locate a safe transit through the crevassed area at latitude 81 south. Admiral Byrd instructed the tractors as well as the two sledging units of the geological and plateau parties which were ahead of them to retreat northward a bit and endeavor to find a safe passage around the crevasses to the east.

One of the tractors became trapped across the mouth of a crevasse 60 feet deep. The crew unloaded it and cautiously pulled it out with the second tractor.

RUSSIA TRIES 3 TRAINMEN FOR CAUSING WRECK

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Nov. 3.—Three railwaymen went on trial at Kharkov today on charges of having caused a wreck south of that city a month ago. Only one person, a trainman, lost his life in the wreck, but it caused what is not less serious from the Soviet viewpoint—destruction of public property and an 18 hour tieup of an important railway line which hampered transport of coal and steel from the Donetz basin for several days.

There is a counter revolutionary angle to the case, for the three accused are charged with deliberately sending two freight trains together, resulting in the destruction of 24 cars and damage to 14 others. The chief accused in M. Linnik, station master, whose father, according to the charges, was exiled for anti-soviet activity. Linnik once before was tried for causing a collision. The other defendants are M. Yunoshev, a switchman, and M. Pavlenko, both of whom are said to have been expelled from the communist party of the Ukraine for drunkenness and anti-soviet propaganda.

Testimony today brought out the fact that Linnik, refusing to answer a telephone call from a dispatcher inquiring about the movement of one of the trains, had replied he had no time for telephone conversations.

JEAN M'VOY BECOMES BRIDE

Miss Jean McVoy and William H. Fellowes, photographed yesterday preceding their marriage at home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Fortunato Jerace, at 3030 Lake Shore drive. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

MISS JEAN M'VOY IS MARRIED TO W. H. FELLOWES

75 Guests Attend Pretty Rites.

BY JUDITH CASS.

At a quiet ceremony at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Miss Jean Dorothy McVoy, daughter of Mrs. Fortunato Jerace, became the bride of William H. Fellowes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Adler of Evanston and Hayward, Wis. Dr. Edward Scribner Ames of the University of Chicago, a family friend, read the ceremony at the bride's home, 3030 Lake Shore drive, before 75 guests.

Eugene McVoy Jr. gave his sister in marriage. She wore a beautiful gown of ivory velvet which was embroidered with pearls at the waist and on the sleeves. The slit skirt was corded down in sections into a water lily train.

Wears Sister's Wedding Veil.

She wore the rose point veil in which her older sister and matron of honor, Mrs. Walter Kohler Jr., was married, and carried white orchids.

The attendants, Mrs. Sidney S. Gorham Jr., Mrs. Kohler, Miss Caryl Bloomingston, Miss Nancy Traylor, and Miss Grace Fitzmorris were gowned in varying shades of brown and russet velvet skirts with gold blouses. They wore halo hats of brown osprey feathers. Their flowers were chrysanthemums in shades that flattered their gowns.

Bridegroom's Attendants.

Nathan B. Swift served Mr. Fellowes as best man and ushers were William E. Graham, John Goodwillie, Ralph Swanson, and Robert Walker.

Mrs. McVoy chose a becoming gown of blue velvet with long sleeves and a tiny train, and the bridegroom's mother wore green velvet. Ex-Gov. and Mrs. Walter Kohler of Wisconsin, the Robert Kohlers, Miss Antoinette, and Miss Corinne Aymond, Mrs. Jerace's sisters, and her cousins, Miss Margaret Dyer and David Dyer of St. Louis, were among the out of town guests at the wedding.

Mr. Fellowes and his bride will make their home in Evanston after a wedding trip.

WINS SPELLING CROWN.

Hillsboro, Ill., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Dorothy Rogers, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Rogers and pupil at the Bowser school, Nokomis township, won the championship annual Montgomery county spelling contest held here today.

FINE WELLESLEY SENIOR $5 AFTER CRASH IN AUTO

Brookline, Mass., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Jane Fraser, 21, Wellesley college senior of Boise, Idaho, paid a fine of $5 today after she pleaded guilty to driving an automobile without a license.

W. Stanley Davidson, 23, of Wellesley, riding with Miss Fraser last night when their car was in collision with a police cruising car, pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness and his case was continued.

Miss Fraser, former crew captain at Wellesley, said "her foot had slipped off the brake" and that this caused her car to strike the cruising auto.

GOES BACK TO "FACE MUSIC."

Harry M. Bennett, 20 years old, was returned yesterday to Lansing, Mich., where he is wanted on charges of automobile theft, passing bogus checks and stealing a pistol. Bennett approached three policemen here before he found one who believed his story of wanting to go back to "face the music" because he was unemployed, and without funds.

VAN RENSSELAER ELOPES 19 HOURS BEFORE WEDDING

Tells Guests When They Arrive "We're Married."

New York, Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Despite elaborate preparation and previous announcements, Killian Van Rensselaer and Mrs. Lorraine Wood were not married at 5 p. m. today. They had eloped nineteen hours earlier.

Not until wedding guests began to assemble in the new Mrs. Van Rensselaer's apartment on Park avenue this evening for the ceremony did society discover that the two were married Friday at 10 p. m. in the Church of Heavenly Rest on 5th avenue.

Rector Routed Out of Study.

The Rev. Dr. Henry Darlington, rector of the church, performed the ceremony after he was routed out of his study at his home, around the corner from the church, in East 90th street.

For a member of the dignified house of Van Rensselaer to elope, even with his own fiancée, is a bit strange. The groom confesses to 53 years and the bride admits 45. It was her fourth marriage.

It was while dining with the groom's old and dear friends, the Schuyler Smiths, last evening, that they decided to be married at once. They got in touch with Dr. Darlington. Then, with Mr. and Mrs. Smith as witnesses, they motored directly to the church and there were married. The bride and bridegroom and their witnesses turned out in correct evening dress.

Fun to Surprise Friends.

"We thought it would be fun to surprise our friends," was the only explanation they had to offer.

But the wedding reception today went off on schedule and was twice as gay as most such parties.

The bridegroom is the descendant of one of America's most distinguished families. He is a direct descendant of the Killian Van Rensselaer who settled in America in 1630 and who was the first patroon of Van Rensselaerwyck, a land grant including all but a small part of the present counties of Albany and Rensselaer.

This is the groom's second marriage. His first wife, the former Dorothea Manson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lincoln Manson, died several years ago. Their only daughter, Barbara, is the wife of John T. Sherman II. The bridegroom's sisters are Mrs. Lewis Gawtry of Manhattan and Mrs. Benjamin W. Arnold of Albany. The new Mrs. Van Rensselaer is the daughter of the late Alvah Miller of Ossining.

REPORTS $1,500 STORE LOOTING.

George Sanders, 6237 South Parkside avenue, manager of a dry goods store at 5019 63d street, told police yesterday that burglars had looted the store of $1,500 worth of dresses, shoes, and other goods Friday night.

FOUR OLD TARS MEET ABOARD A WINDJAMMER

And Spin Some Yarns About the Sea.

New York, Nov. 3.—[Special.]—An elderly man, sunburned and windburned by the sea, sat today on a hatch on the deck of the Tusitala, the last full rigged windjammer of American registry and one of the few left in the world.

He stretched and lapped up sunshine like a cat on a window sill.

Some Yarns Are Spun.

"It's a fine day," said one, grinning.

"It is," replied the man on the hatch, gravely. Then calling to the watchdog to be quiet, he told the trio, "He won't hurt you." The three came on board.

"It's a fine ship," they agreed, looking over the Tusitala critically.

The new trio sat down and began to spin yarns.

"I made a voyage once," said one, "from Freemantle in western Australia to Port Elisabeth, South Africa, without touching a sail—without putting a hand to a thing. Day after day went by and we sailed right on and on."

Said the second: "I missed a ship once at Port Elisabeth. Saved my life, I did. I came down to the dock at midnight and found the vessel had sailed already without me. That ship was lost with all hands. Never heard a word from her from that day to this."

"Twas Off the Chile Coast."

The third told of loading 2,000 tons of guano on board a sailing ship off the coast of Chile. "We loaded it ourselves with only two lifeboats. Took us six months.

"The island was 1,400 feet above sea level when we started loading the ship. It was only 800 feet high when we finished."

For two hours they talked. Then they said they ought to leave.

"Going ashore?" they asked.

"I think I'll stay aboard a while longer," said the other.

"Well, so long," said the sailors. And over the side they went.

They left behind, sitting in the sun on the deck, James A. Farrell, former president of the United States Steel company. Mr. Farrell, son of a Cape Horn skipper and sailor himself in his youth, maintains the old windjammer Tusitala as a touch of sentiment.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rappal and Charles E. Collier Engaged

The engagement of Mrs. Elizabeth Rappal of Kenilworth to Charles E. Collier of Evanston, widely known Chicago advertising man, was announced yesterday at the harvest home party at the Chicago Athletic club. Mrs. Rappal is the sister of George Fraser of Kenilworth. Mr. Collier's wife, Mrs. Dorothy Clugston Collier, died April 29, 1933. The wedding is planned for Thanksgiving in a lodge on the Mad river, near Mellen, Wis.

Launch Drive to Find Work for Idle Jews in Germany

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—(AP)—An appeal to Jewish firms to engage Jewish unemployed was made here by the German Jewish welfare center in a proclamation inaugurating a campaign to find work for Jews in Germany. The proclamation stressed the hardships suffered by Jewish employés who were sent away from their positions after many years of employment.

FREED ON MURDER CHARGE.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 3.—[U. P.]—Peter Haines, Taylorville, stood acquitted today of a charge of murdering Melville Staples, Taylorville, here Oct. 16, 1933. Haines pleaded self-defense and the jury returned its verdict after ten minutes' deliberation. The two men were members of rival mine unions.

TRACES STORY OF PHYSICS DOWN TO COSMIC RAY ERA

New Book Explains Science in Simple Terms.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

From the first laws of motion to the latest wave mechanics, which projects an algebraic equation into unknown regions and forms a bridge between man's prison house and a consciousness of worlds of higher dimensions, is the scope of a book just issued by the University of Chicago press.

Just how a beam from the star Arcturus opened the flood lights of A Century of Progress every night, what is the reason for the experiments in cosmic rays that lead to all these stratosphere flights, what is the basis for the change of conception of all matter and the strange duality of nature, are a few of the subjects explained in simplest terms in "From Galileo to Cosmic Rays," by Harvey Brace Lemon, professor of physics at the university.

Will Be Used in Classes.

This is a book that is intended not only for the new general course in science at the university, but for the library of every man who needs a comprehensive background in physics in order to understand the trend of modern thought in the highest of speculative fields, even that of the New Determinism and changes in religious thought. It is physics, more than any other branch of science, that is taking the lead today in reforming men's concept of the universe and its forces.

One must say on reading this book, with Prof. Edwin Brant Frost, that "nature is wonderful enough."

"This material," Prof. Lemon writes, "is the solid substance of science, proved, checked, and cross-checked. It is not the tenuous stratosphere of speculation."

Nevertheless it shows how far one may go in such speculations.

How Arcturus Worked.

Matter, for instance, which seems so solid and durable, is found to be of the same atomic character as electricity. And here is his description of the way Arcturus worked:

"The photo-electric effect is the effect of light upon electricity. Light shinning on a piece of metal gently removes a little of the negative that is always there associated with the immobile positive. The touch of light is feathery almost beyond belief, as if it were an insect with wings of gossamer that flew by and dusted off the surface with the faintest contact."

How Newton, passing light through a prism and breaking it into its constituent rainbow colors, led to the science of spectroscopy, which is the basis of modern astronomy, disclosing the fundamental unity of the inorganic physical world, is another part of the story.

Latest Views Explained.

The latest views on the neutron and the positron, from the nucleus of the electron, are explained.

"Every manifestation of energy," he writes, "whether in radiant form or in the form of atoms and their constituents, possesses dual characteristics—those of particles and those of waves—depending solely upon how we observe there manifestations."

Prof. Lemon's favorite method of explaining the first law of motion, that of inertia, is to put a brick under a plug hat and watch some one kick it and find the immobile brick.

The book follows this simple method all through, and is profusely illustrated with photographs by the author and with drawings by Chichi Lasley which add greatly to its understanding and attractiveness.

A unique feature of the book is the inclusion in the box cover of a set of two prismatic lenses, which may be used in bring the photographs into solid relief. The photographs of experiments are taken at different angles and at different moments of action. The lenses poised over these pictures give what may be called a "giant vision," a third dimension of height, leading almost to the fourth dimension of time.

BANKER HERE TO IDENTIFY BONDS OF 'DR.' BROWN

Carl Reynolds, vice president of the Wallingford, Conn., Bank and Trust company, came to Chicago by airplane yesterday to testify before the grand jury tomorrow in the case of "Dr." Spencer Brown and five aids, charged with conspiracy to receive stolen bonds.

Brown was arrested Thursday in his room in the Hotel Sherman. He had $53,000 in bonds taken, with $25,000 in cash, in a robbery of Reynolds' bank on Oct. 2. He was reported named with the other five men in true bills voted on Friday. The other five men, all in custody, are Seymour Cohen, an attorney; Odell Kirk, real estate salesman; John Epps, said to be a gambler; Sam Block, attorney for Brown, and Mike Schulte, alias Milton Lipschultz.

Reynolds, who was accompanied here by Oscar Shaw, Connecticut state highway policeman, is expected to establish ownership of the bonds before the grand jury, according to Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty, in charge of the state's case.

NORWAY, FINLAND TO BUILD 250 MI. FRONTIER FENCE

Aim to Keep Reindeer in Own Country.

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The world's longest fence—400 kilometers or about 250 miles—is to be erected along the Norwegian-Finnish border to prevent the nomadic Laps' stray flocks of reindeer wandering uncontroled from one country to the other.

The fence, exceeded in length only by the Chinese Great Wall, will be built of fir poles and wire. It is estimated four years will be required for the work.

Fence To Be 6 Feet High.

The poles, to be placed at intervals of 10 feet, will be 6 feet high. The reindeer will not be able to jump over the fence in summertime, but what will happen in winter when the snow is piled high remains to be seen.

The fence was decided on at a joint meeting of Norwegian and Finnish government representatives, who felt it would be of considerable value to the nomadic Lap. He usually spends several weeks each summer searching for herds which have strayed.

The wandering Lap population in the Scandinavian countries now is about 10,000, of which about two-thirds are Norwegian citizens and the remainder Swedish and Finnish.

"World's Most Honest Men."

The nomads, none of whom has any definite conception of nationality and few of whom can read and write, are considered in the great north country as probably the "most honest men in the world." Reindeer rustling is unknown in the wide open spaces they roam.

The reindeer herds are the only property of the nomads, who, while recognizing the authority of the Norwegian, Swedish and Finnish governments as far as border regulations go have been made to understand that if they are citizens of one country they cannot without restraint take their herds across the border to another to graze.

From ancient times, however, the practice has been permitted by special permission, governed by "reindeer conventions," at which provisions have been made for allowing the animals to cross the borders in search of adequate food.

Agency Set Up to Find Jobs for Fair Workers

In an effort to find employment for the thousands of persons thrown out of work with the closing of the Fair, A Century of Progress Exposition Employment association started operation yesterday. The association, intended to be a contact organization between the employés and various industries in Chicago needing men, is sponsored by officials of the Fair, concessions, and exhibitors. No charge is made either to the registrant or to the employer. All expenses of the organization are to be defrayed from the proceeds of dance to be given at the Aragon ballroom tomorrow night.

A. & P. WORKERS IN CLEVELAND GO BACK TOMORROW

428 Stores to Be Reopened During Week.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Reopening of the 428 Cleveland stores of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company was assured here today when the seven point peace plan formulated by the national labor relations board was accepted by both employés and employers.

The board was formally advised of the adoption of its compromise peace proposal by the warring parties shortly after noon today. Thomas S. Farrell, secretary of the Cleveland Federation of Labor, telegraphed acceptance in behalf of the unions involved. A few minutes later company officials reported their agreement by long distance telephone from New York.

Workers Return Monday.

On the heels of acceptance of the peace pact came an announcement from Cleveland that the 2,200 employés of the company will go back to work Monday. The stores themselves will not be reopened until about the middle of the week because they have been stripped of goods since the company closed shop in Cleveland Oct. 27.

In his telegram to the board Farrell said: "Please be advised that unions involved in the A. & P. controversy have agreed to your proposal as a settlement of that dispute."

The company's acceptance was voiced by John A. Hartford, president of the nation-wide chain of grocery stores. He said the company's board of directors had voted to accept the labor board program, after two hours of conference in New York.

Strike Forces Closing.

The company closed its stores as an answer to a strike and reign of terrorism launched by local unions of grocery clerks, truck drivers, and meat cutters. The company explained that it was withdrawing from business in the city because of obstacles raised there by organized labor.

When the company resisted pleas of civic organizations and insisted its action was final, the national labor relations board summoned the opposing parties to a peace parley here Oct. 30. The board became alarmed when indications pointed that the Cleveland unrest was spreading to other cities, noticeably Milwaukee.

In an all day conference the board presented its program. The foundation of the suggested plan was that the company reopen its stores and that the unions call off their strikes.

Agree on Arbitration.

Other important peace points are that the company agree to a binding arbitration arrangement through which all future disputes are to be handled and that the unions abandon all coercive methods in their drive to unionize the grocery chains.

In addition to these four articles, the program calls upon the company to reinstate the employés as of Oct. 25, to resume contracts with trucking companies, and to meet with union representatives for collective bargaining.

Plans to reopen the stores by the middle of the week were put in motion in Cleveland within 15 minutes after the settlement was announced. Employés greeted the announcement with cheers.

Although with few exceptions all of the A. & P. employés there were discharged when the company closed its stores, none will suffer financially, it was announced. All those dismissed, and now rehired, were paid a week's wages in advance at the time of the shutdown.

Apparently all parties concerned were happy with the peace plan.

"Gratified," Says Hartford.

"I am particularly gratified with the happy solution of our Cleveland difficulties," Hartford said in New York. "I am especially glad that the disagreement has caused no loss of pay to any of our 2,200 employés in Cleveland, who might have been the innocent victims in the controversy."

The labor board gave out this statement:

"The decision by both sides to accept the board's mediation proposal for settlement of the dispute is most gratifying.

"We believe the terms of the settlement are fair to both parties and that both the A. & P. company and the several unions involved are about to open relationships in a spirit of confidence and coöperation."

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

Crops Weighed in Tests

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

November 3, 1934.

OUT at THE TRIBUNE Experimental Farm near Yorkville and Plano men recently have been at work with scales weighing the crops grown on the special test plots during the summer. Guesses are being taken out of the results of the various crops tested in the farm's first year in experimental work.

Up to this time the yields of the new and rare crops have been estimated. Today Clarence Thurow, manager of the farm, completed the weighing of four early varieties or strains of soy beans known as Sciota, a medium early bean, and Cayuga, Wisconsin Black, and Minnsoy, all three early beans. The beans were grown in rows 136 feet in length. The plants were left in the ground to ripen the beans. Recently the plants were pulled, dried, piled, and then weighed. Perhaps no soy beans have ever been grown in northrn Illinois under more adverse dry weather conditions.

Despite the unprecedented lack of rain and scorching winds, the report of the weights taken at the farm today indicate fair yields when all factors are taken into consideration. Estimates based on actual weights indicate that the Sciotas yielded at the rate of 1.8 tons of plant material to the acre. The plants were weighed with the beans in the pods. The beans alone yielded at the rate of 15.11 bushels an acre.

All of the leaves had fallen off the other three varieties or strains while the beans were ripening. Wisconsin Black produced beans alone at the rate of 12.31 bushels to the acre. The Cayugas yielded at the rate of 11.6 bushels of beans to the acre and Minnsoys 9.4 bushels an acre.

Mr. Thurow said that the Sciotas were late enough to be green and growing when the late summer rains came and for that reason this variety produced more plant growth for hay than the other three early varieties. After the leaves had fallen, Cayuga and Wisconsin plants, with the beans attached, yielded at the rate of less than a ton an acre, while Minnsoy yielded less than a half ton to the acre. The weights would have been greater if the beans had been cut at the proper time for hay instead of saving them for seed.

After the soy beans and other new and rare crops have been weighed, Mr. Thurow will use this information, plus the records of observation made during the growing season, in deciding upon the crops that have made a good enough showing to be tried out on a field test basis next year. Before planting time, 1935 cropping plans will be discussed in this column for the benefit of other farmers, especially those producing crops in northern Illinois.

JUDGE MAY CALL VANDERBILT GIRL TO COURT AGAIN

New York, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Gloria Vanderbilt, 10 year old heiress, may be called back to the Supreme court next week to tell Supreme Court Justice John F. Carew what part of the letters she wrote her grandmother three years ago was her own idea.

The celebrated trial for the custody of the little girl goes into its sixth week on Monday, despite all the efforts of Justice Carew to wind it up yesterday. One of the things that prolonged it was the letters.

Written in 1931 when Gloria was seven years old, they told of the child's unhappiness at the life she was leading with her mother—being dragged around Europe with only her nurse for companionship. Many of the letters were addressed by Gloria to her grandmother, Mrs. Laura Kilpatrick Morgan, who has testified she thinks the little girl would be best off with her aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

Hours of legal wrangling preceded the introduction of the letters, and when they were introduced yesterday, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt spent more hours undergoing cross-examination about them.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, who is trying to get legal custody of her daughter, contended that some of the expressions in the letters were too mature for a child of seven. She said Gloria could not have written as she did unless some one had dictated to her.

Peruvian Congress Accepts Treaty Ending Leticia Row

LIMA, Peru, Nov. 3.—(AP)—A treaty for settlement of the Leticia controversy between Peru and Colombia was approved today by the Peruvian congress. The vote ended, in so far as Peru is concerned, the conflict initiated Sept. 1, 1932, when Peruvian civilians seized the border town of Leticia.

NEW DEAL STUDY GROUP IS NAMED BY AMERICAN BAR

Committee to Make Survey of Legislation.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 3. — [Special.]—The appointment of a committee of seven prominent American leaders "to study the effects of the New Deal upon the rights and liberties of American citizens" was announced here today by Scott M. Loftin, president of the American Bar association.

The committee is headed by Clarence E. Martin of Martinsburg, W. Va., former president of the Bar association. Other members are Owen D. Young, New York industrialist; William D. Mitchell of New York, former United States attorney general; George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia, former United States senator; George L. Buist, of Charleston, S. C.; Charles P. Taft II. of Cincinnati, son of the former President, and Dr. John D. Clark, economist, of Cheyenne, Wyo.

Authorized in Resolution.

The naming of the committee was authorized in a resolution at the Bar association's convention in August, which pointed out that "the rapid development in recent months of novel legislation and governmental trends in the federal government, affecting the rights and liberties of American citizens and our constitutional form of government, has resulted in a great diversity of opinion throughout the United States as to the effect of those theories.

"The people of this country at all such times look to the bar for advice and guidance in such a crisis."

President Loftin at the time was instructed to "create a special committee to study the effect of recent developments in national legislation and governmental policies, as affecting the rights and liberties of American citizens and the maintenance of the guarantees furnished by the United States constitution. . . ."

The committee will report its findings to the association's executive committee, which in turn will pass the report on, with coments, to the next convention.

Loftin Tells Aim.

Loftin said today he had endeavored to find "able and outstanding lawyers, without regard to their political affiliations, to serve on this committee, in whom both the bar and the public have confidence, who have not publicly expressed themselves on the questions to be considered, and who will proceed in a calm, dispassionate and competent manner to their study and report.

"I have been fortunate in securing the consent of outstanding members of the bar, who are willing to give their time to the work, and it is with satisfaction that I announce the personnel."

"I regard this group as the most important association committee of the year," he concluded.

TWO RIVAL PICKETS ON PARADE BEFORE CAPITAL TAILOR SHOP

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The Roosevelt administration for more than two months has had a labor controversy almost under its nose, a dispute unsettled despite the national labor relations board being within shouting distance.

"I have talked to NRA, to AAA, to everybody, anybody," said S. L. Love, manager of Kassan-Stein, Inc., tailors, sighing resignedly. "The government says it can do nothing. The Federation of Labor says the same thing, and those two continue to prance up and down."

"Those two" were pickets, marching back and forth outside the firm's place of business on 11th street. One carried a sign of the United Garment Workers' union which said that Kassan-Stein was "unfair to organized labor."

His companion carried a placard of the Journeymen Tailors' union which said that Kassan-Stein was "not unfair to organized labor."

"Those two pickets have walked back and forth for weeks," Love said. "I had them arrested, but the judge said there was no law against peaceful picketing. They are peaceful enough all right. They eat together every day. Look at them talking and laughing!

"I used to worry about the notoriety. But business is good and getting better. Their stay may be helping. It just shows what advertising will do."

VOTE FOR REPUBLICAN CONGRESSMEN.

A year and a half of virtually unchecked authority executing revolutionary policies has not produced any of the results advertised as certain. The New Deal has failed in achievement, although it has not been stinted in money or power. It has not been able to overcome the errors inherent in it. The party responsible for retarding the recovery of the United States is trying to escape the full political responsibility for it by pouring subsidies into the different constituencies. It is an unusual election in that there never before was so large a percentage of the American electorate with government money in the pocket and promises of more to come.

The voters have been given money for cotton and corn they plowed under or did not raise, for pigs they didn't fatten, for cattle taken off their drouth lands, and for acreage they didn't cultivate. They have been given money to satisfy their debts, to put shingles on their roofs and heating plants in their basements. They have been given electric power, toasters, and curling irons. They have been promised cheap rents, subsistence farms, theaters, and places of amusement. They have been given money for schools, dams, parks, bridges, tennis courts, and roads. They are promised work and they are promised subsistence without work. Every one of these expenditures is a political advantage to the party able to make them out of the public treasury, and the total is a burden on every worker, a threat to everything he possesses or could hope to possess, and a peril to the financial stability of the United States.

Another congress like the one which has authorized the NRA to put small business men in prison, the AAA to destroy food, the TVA to establish a little Red Russia in the Tennessee valley, will do unimaginable damage to the American people. Republican congressmen will be opposed to this. The voter who wants to stop it will vote Republican.

The Republican party is opposed to Sinclairism. It is opposed to a system of government which winds up in depriving a widow of her chance to earn a living for her children, in fining a dealer for giving away bread with milk, in putting a small manufacturer in jail for trying to run his business in the only way in which it can survive.

The American who is opposed to it will vote for a Republican congressman in his district.

VOTE YES ON THIS BOND ISSUE.

An impressive list of citizens, including the present governor and four former governors of Illinois with other men active and prominent in the affairs of the state, appeal to the voters to give approval to the 30 million dollar relief bond issue. Both parties have approved the issue, which indeed is in no sense a party matter.

With such support there ought to be no doubt of the result of this referendum. For voters who understand the alternative offered them if they do not approve the issue the decision hardly permits a doubt, for if the issue is not approved the 1934 property tax will be raised, in Gov. Horner's estimate, from 8 per cent to 15 per cent or more throughout the state.

The question before the voter is not whether 30 millions are to be spent. They have been spent. The question, as summarized by Gov. Horner, is whether it is to be repaid by means of an immediate increase of the general property tax or in instalments, over a period of twenty years, out of a part of the motor fuel tax receipts, with each locality paying only in proportion to the amount of relief it received.

If the bond issue fails to carry, immediate payment will have to be provided for, which would necessitate an increase in the property tax rate for 1934 of about 63 cents per $100 on assessed valuation of homes, farms, and other taxable property.

The bond issue, in short, will not increase property taxes. Its failure to pass will.

With the case so clear for approval, the danger of failure is not in any weakness of the argument supporting it, but rather on its strength, which may cause some voters to think their vote is not needed on so clear a proposition. But the issue requires an affirmative majority of all votes cast for members of the general assembly, not merely a majority of votes cast on the bond question. If therefore a voter fails to vote on this referendum he really votes no.

Also the bond proposition is on a small separate ballot and this causes some fear that many voters may overlook it.

Every citizen who wishes to avoid the prompt and substantial increase of the general property tax, an increase which will be felt directly or indirectly by every one in the state, will not forget to vote his approval of this bond issue.

DEMOCRATS IN THIS ELECTION.

When the Democratic voter takes up the pencil to mark his ballot for a congressional candidate he must make a decision the like of which never before confronted a party member in our political history. He or she must decide whether to vote for his party candidate and against his party principles or for his party principles and against his party candidate.

He has been put in this predicament by his national party leadership, which has deserted the party principles and is embracing their opposites.

The great service of the Democratic party since its founding has been resistance to the centralization of the powers of government at Washington, to the undue increase of federal authority, to the spread of federal burocracy, to the overpowering of local self-government and the impairment of individual liberty.

But the Democratic voter must now face the fact that the present control of his party has abandoned this historic service and is engaged in a program of supercentralization which overrides every principle of government which Democracy has asserted and fought for since its birth. They cannot be loyal to Democratic principles while supporting leadership which has repudiated these principles in practice. They cannot be loyal to Democracy or even to democratic government while giving their strength to a program which is marching on to socialism, though it shirks the name.

THE ENTERING WEDGE OF THE NO DEAL.

Norris, Tenn., is the town built by the Tennessee Valley authority. Certain facts concerning it have leaked out. They were so incredible that we asked the TVA to confirm or deny them. The persistent and stubborn refusal to reply is an eloquent confirmation of the truth of the reports. There is no longer room to doubt that at Norris the communism of Lenin and Stalin has taken root in the United States, for

No man in Norris may engage in private business.

No man in Norris may work for wages except for the government.

No man in Norris may worship in church or build a church to worship in according to his conscience.

Can any one doubt that in the inaccessible mountains of Tennessee is being grown the germ culture that is intended to infect America?

CRY OF ANGUISH.

Something ought to be done about the so-called comedies in the movies. As a starter, we suggest that the spectators groan out loud. That will not be difficult, and it might produce results.

The trouble with the comedies is that they are designed to amuse children and no one else. The humor is concerned largely with the fatness of fat men, tubs of water, teetering ladders, dynamite, and posteriors. These are all funny items to old as well as young, but they tend to become tedious when exploited for their own sake. They are amusing to adults only in connection with a situation that is inherently funny, and such situations the writers of the movie comedies don't often invent. The evidence suggests that the authors may even have been discouraged from invention.

It is not to be expected that all comedies can be as good as the W. C. Fields series, which included "That Fatal Glass of Beer," but Hollywood might try, at least, to approach that level more frequently.

Editorial of the Day

ENGLISH SPELLING.

[London Times.]

A thorny subject has been reopened by an honored Cambridge professor now on the verge of retirement and by others. Looking back on almost half a century of teaching Prof. Emery Barnes declares himself to be a strong spelling reformer, though his letter today is too short to indicate how far he is prepared to go. Presumably it must be a good distance, or he would not speak of the "riot of unreason" with which education now begins, and the "insults" which the young, and the more naturally phonetic, intelligence has to endure. He attacks Dr. Johnson, in particular, for having fixed a great deal of spelling in ways which he dislikes; Johnson, he points out, wrote "death" and "pleasant," but Chaucer "deth" and "plesant," while Johnson's fondness for "ea" led him to prefer "near," "clear," and "year" to the Miltonic "neer," "cleer," and "yeer."

Now it is agreed that spelling reform is an extremely serious business, and, that being so, there is at least one question which ought not to be begged. Is it strictly true that English children, all of them now taught to read at an early age and confronted with print on all sides, find spelling as difficult as is sometimes represented? Do they not now lern to reed so eesily that spelling is no longer the greevance calling for releef that it once was?

A more important question is whether writing or printing is for the eye or for the ear; and the answer can hardly be that both are for the eye—the adult eye, moreover, and not the infant's. It is the eye which has to skim quickly, to dive hastily here, to peep hurriedly there, and to be on the perpetual lookout for its quarry that deserve consideration. Above all, the eye wants no caprices, but as much continuity with the past as it can get. There is, said Johnson, "in constancy and stability a general and lasting advantage which will always overbalance the slow improvements of gradual correction." Caprice, before his time, had "long wantoned without control," and even if he was not infallible, his dictionary by encouraging uniformity made reading all the easier. The main reason for leaving things much as they are lies in the ordinary convenience of everyday readers and writers whose spelling, though undoubtedly illogical in places, has now been so long fixed that they cannot stand by and see it changed without suffering. Johnson, it is true, was not disposed to think that "a particular combination of letters" had "much influence on human happiness"; but were he alive now in the present universe of standardized print he might find cause to modify that opinion.

MISSED HIS CHANCE.

Mother entered the room and saw her small son in the process of putting a bandage round his finger.

"My poor child," she said tenderly, "how did you come to hurt your finger?"

"I hit it just now with the hammer," said the boy.

Mother looked surprised.

"But I didn't hear you crying, you brave boy," she said.

"No," replied the child, blindly, "I thought you were out."—Stray Stories.

$200,000,000 FOR POLITICAL PATRONAGE

[Arizona Daily Star.]

Jobs, $200,000,000 worth of jobs; jobs at good salaries; jobs where the work is easy and pleasant; jobs that require no civil service examination; jobs for the politically faithful, and of course only for New Deal Democrats, are in the making with the administration's plan for rural rehabilitation now under way.

The rural rehabilitation program is now being organized in every state in the Union. We have before us the detailed official announcement, a government document, consisting of seventeen pages of single space mimeographing, in which this new program is outlined in detail. Farmers in distress are to be given seed stocks, farm animals, equipment, buildings, and land for subsistence purposes. "Trained" specialists in agriculture and home economics are to aid in formulating plans for subsistence farming and home making operations, and in supervising the execution of such plans. Supplementary employment is to be provided when needed to complete the budgetary needs of these families. Of course beneficiaries of such assistance are supposed "to make repayment in cash, in kind, or in work on approved public works projects for all capital goods."

The second part of the program is to take care of "border line cases." Displaced farmers are to be provided new lands and accorded new credit facilities, while still others who were once farmers and who are now in the cities are to be "rehabilitated" by being placed on land with government help. By means of the FERA, the AAA, state and county relief organizations this new burocracy is to be established by means of which the government will direct the private lives of perhaps millions of its citizens.

This government document then explains how this new burocracy is to be created. One chief rehabilitation coördinator and four regional rehabilitation coördinators have already been employed. They are supposed to work "in close coöperation with the regional agents and the home economics extension supervisors." The Federal Emergency Relief administration has set up a division of rural rehabilitation—and has employed a staf of regional rehabilitation advisers. . . . It is recommended that the state relief administration organize a state rural rehabilitation and employ [here is where the political jobs come] a state director of rural rehabilitation who should have charge of the department subject to the authority and direction of the state relief administrator. . . . There should also be a woman assistant director of rural rehabilitation who should have charge of rural home rehabilitation—[note the following]—as the work develops district rural supervisors in agriculture and home economics may be required.

The above is only the beginning of new government jobs. Then follows: "In order successfully to carry out certain important projects—the state director of rural rehabilitation may require the services of technical specialists in these various fields." What an opening for political patronage! Here is a new opportunity for faithful men and women political workers to get themselves nice, easy, well paying, pleasant jobs.

We go on. Page 8 tells how "in each county having more than fifty cases there should be employed a county rural rehabilitation supervisor . . . working under the district or county rural rehabilitation supervisor and subject to his direction there would be a number of rehabilitation assistants as may be required personally to supervise a group of rural rehabilitation subjects. In general outstanding farmers in the community familiar with good agricultural practice, who can be employed on a per diem basis, will be qualified for this work." What a glorious opportunity for building a political organization!

The jobs continue. "On the staf of the state emergency relief administration will be a home economist. . . . She will develop such a staf of district supervisors as may be required. . . . In counties that have home demonstration agents, home rehabilitation assistants will be employed by the county relief administration." Then follows detailed instructions for "coördinators and assistants"; "Functions of State Rural Rehabilitation Directors; Functions of District or County Rural Rehabilitation Directors; Functions of Assistant Supervisors; Functions of Extension Agents."

All that has been quoted above has been taken from the official government document which we have before us as we write. It takes little imagination to see how this program will create a number of new, well paying, easy work jobs in every county in the United States. Appointments will, of course, be political, just as they have been in the formation of the Home Loan offices, the NRA offices and the other new bureaus the government has set up in each state. Only New Deal Democrats need apply. . . .

Meanwhile every other citizen who is working hard trying to make the ends meet will have the pleasure of paying for this new $200,000,000 burocracy with its thousands of new jobs for the faithful.

And what pikers postoffice employés and other civil service employés are. They have to study and pass examinations for jobs that do not pay two-thirds as much as do these new jobs for the political faithful. The government requires brains for postoffice and other civil service jobs. Evidently brains are not necessary to teach the farmers how they must farm and the farmers' housewives how they must cook and keep house.

EXECUTIVE LAWMAKING

We have traveled far since the simple days when the makers of the federal constitution provided that "All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a congress of the United States."

From the inauguration of President Lincoln in 1861 to June, 1900—thirty-nine years comprising the four years of the civil war, the four years of economic depression following 1873, the three years of economic depression following 1893, and the Spanish war of 1898—the President's executive orders totaled less than 150, being at the rate of less than four per year.

From March 4, 1933, to June 15, 1934, the President's executive orders totaled 674, aggregating approximately 1,400 printed pages and being at the rate of more than 500 per year, which is twice the annual rate of the previous four years and 125 times the annual rate of the 39 years from March, 1861, to January, 1900.

To June 25, 1934, according to the estimate of a committee of the American Bar association, 485 codes and 95 supplemental codes have been approved under the National Industrial Recovery act, averaging ten closely printed pages to each code and supplemental code.

On a rapid calculation this committee of the American Bar association estimates that the trade practice provisions of these codes and supplemental codes prohibit between 4,500 and 5,000 methods of business conduct.

Each of these codes and supplemental codes has the force of an act of congress.

Violation of any provision of any of these codes or supplemental codes is a criminal offense.

To June 16, 1934, according to the estimate of a committee of the American Bar association, the administrator for industrial recovery had issued 2,998 administrative orders approving or modifying codes or supplemental codes, and providing for exceptions and exemptions therefrom, and covering a multitude of other activities of lawmaking character.

"The total legislative output by, or in connection with, this one administrative agency," declares this committee of the American Bar association, "staggers the imagination."

"Any calculation involves guesswork, but a safe guess would be that the total exceeds 10,000 pages of 'law' in the period of one year."

ACUTE TONSILITIS.

OUR old enemy, the streptococcus, is abroad in the land during all seasons of the year. However, beginning in the autumn and extending into the winter, infections with streptococci definitly increase. Strains of the organism manifest at different times varying degrees of virulence, no doubt influenced by the resistance of the individual and the site of the infection.

Acute tonsilitis is, in most instances, of streptococcic origin. The infection found its way into the air passages of the nose, and it is but a short step from infected nasal passages to the throat and tonsils. A slight infection of the tonsil, if not quickly overcome, may in a short time involve the entire gland. The organisms find lodgment in a spot from which the mucous membrane has been lost, swelling results with a pouring out of fluid from dilated blood vessels, and a luxuriant culture bed is thus provided. Of all the organisms against which the human body can build resistance the streptococcus is the most obstinate.

Tonsilitis is infectious, and one member of a family may pass it on to another, just as an office worker or a school child may communicate it to others in his immediate vicinity.

One or both tonsils may be involved. The lymph glands of the neck usually enlarge and the infection may spread to adjacent structures such as the middle ear. Aside from the symptom of sore throat the patient frequently complains of chilly sensations and pains in the back and the legs. The infection is accompanied, as a rule, by a rapid rise in temperature to 104 degrees F., or even higher. The patient is usually prostrated and both pulse and respiration may be greatly increased. The tongue is coated and the throat appears swollen and dusky red in color. Within a day or two there appear on the tonsils yellowish white spots marking the mouths of the tonsil crypts.

Though recovery usually follows good nursing and good management, complications are frequently severe and serious. The kidneys are sometimes attacked and the urine should be watched for the first appearance of albumin, which, if found, calls for prompt measures to prevent permanent damage to the all-important kidney tissue. Occasionally the organism may fasten itself on the lining of the heart [endocardium], and now and then the disease may be followed by a typical attack of acute rheumatic fever with swollen, painful joints.

There is no specific treatment for the disease. Although a streptococcic serum has been prepared, and in some cases appears to help, it is nowise comparable in its neutralizing power to antitoxin used, for example, against diphtheria.

It is necessary, therefore, that the patient's energy be conserved and that he remain in bed for at least two or three days after the temperature has returned to normal. During the acute period the patient should not be allowed to leave his bed even to visit the bathroom. A nutritious but largely fluid diet is recommended with a large amount of water and alkalis. The mouth and throat should be kept as clean as possible through frequent rinsings and gargling with sodium perborate or some mild antiseptic. Care should be taken not to use strong solutions that will further destroy the normal protective mucous membrane of the throat, thus opening additional gates for the entrance of bacteria.

Patients who have had their tonsils removed are far less likely to be attacked by streptococcus infections of the throat. Lymph tissue, however, exists in other parts of the throat, and in spite of the removal of tonsils now and then a streptococcic infection will occur.

Good mouth, throat, and teeth hygiene, keeping the nasal passages clear, maintaining the body at as high a degree of resistance as possible, and the avoidance of exposure will help to prevent this vicious organism from gaining a foothold.

BLACK EYE.

H. V. S. writes: What would be the best cure for a black eye, outside of cold applications and a blood sucker? Is there a quick cure?

REPLY.

Blackening of the skin around the eye is caused by blood that has oozed out of broken capillaries. The color is at first yellowish and gradually becomes darker. Nature absorbs the discoloration after a while.

Absorption may be hastened by the use of a leech or the application of hot or cold packs. Hot packs are preferable. The old fashioned remedy of applying a piece of raw beefsteak is nothing more than a superstition. There is no quick cure.

TONSILS.

E. M. S. writes:

1. Do tonsils get smaller as a person advances in years?

2. In the case of imbedded tonsils, by what means can a doctor ascertain whether they are diseased or not without operation?

3. Is it advisable for a woman of 50 to have the tonsils removed?

4. Will an infected tonsil injure the eyes permanently?

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. By gently squeezing the tonsils and testing the character of the material that seeps out of the tonsil crypts.
3. Yes, if they are diseased.
4. It may.

CAR SICKNESS.

Mrs. A. J. writes: My 2 year old child vomits every time she rides on a street car or auto. Why is this and is there a cure?

REPLY.

Car sickness and sea sickness are caused by a slow adjustment of the body to a sense of balance. With experience the body adjusts itself readily. It is sometimes a reflex from the stomach or the eye muscles.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AUCKLAND, New Zealand.—The range of government control in this country moved wide when the government announced its intention of taking over the supervision of commercial aviation just as it now rules over railroads, motor routes, and street cars.

The intention is to regulate the trafic of commercial airplane companies in precisely the same way that regional transport boards set up by the state now exercise regulative powers over highways transport. Legislation which the government has prepared on the subject provides that it shall be an offense to operate an airplane service in any part of the country without an aircraft service license and that all airplane lines now operating must apply for a license within 28 days. Failure to do so will render them liable to a fine of $500 and a further $50 for every day the application is deferred.

These licenses will be granted by the transport coördination board and provision is made for any member of the board to give permission for the operation of a service should an emergency arise. The coördination board is charged with the task of considering whether the proposed service is in the public interest, whether it is needed by the districts served, and the value of the service and ground organization. The financial ability of the promoter to carry on the service is another thing which the coördination board must study.

Before licenses are granted the board must be satisfied that insurance has been arranged covering accident risks to the passengers and pilots, and once a service has been begun it must not be stopped unless with the consent of the board. If any operator ceases a service without consent of the board his license is to be revoked and he himself may be disqualified from obtaining a fresh one. In addition a fine may be imposed.

All classes of airplane works will be covered by new legislation, the air minister, John G. Cobbe, said. If an airplane lands in New Zealand from a foreign country and deposits mails and passengers it must register with the transport coördination board. Pilots must place their names before the board.

The fees for regulation will be nominal, the minister said. If commercial aviation is to be successful here it is essential that steps should be taken to eliminate airplane pirates, Cobbe added.

The new move ends the old practice of having civil aviation under control of the defense department and appointing the director of air services to be controler of civil aviation as well. Even radical labor members of the house of representatives have considered that the government is premature in taking control of the routes of civil aircraft, but the minister claims that this is the one way to encourage companies with large capital to begin operations. At present the state of uncertainty was retarding development of aviation in New Zealand, he told the house, during discussion of the new act.

The New Zealand attitude was well set out by J. G. Coates, minister of transport, during the labor party's assault on the act.

"Why not a government service?" asked Robert Semple, labor member for a district of Wellington city.

"We are still in the pioneering stage and I would prefer the pioneering to be done by private enterprise," countered Coates.

WRECKING PROGRESSES.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—[Friend of the People.]—I am a property owner of a brick building. A frame two story building next door is partly torn down with the second story side supporters facing the sky. Up to the sidewalk there is a fence about seven to eight feet in height made of lumber of various sizes. It seems that the building is being torn down as the lumber is being used or sold. This has been going on about a month. I believe this building should be torn down or built up in order to clear the appearance of the street and community.

S. E. P.

This was a two story frame building, found by this department to be structurally unsafe on July 31, 1934. The owner was notified at that time to put building in safe condition or wreck same. On Sept. 21 the owner promised to wreck the building, and on Sept. 27 our inspector found that the second story was wrecked. The wrecking of the first story is now under way, and about twelve feet on the front has been removed.

WAGE ASSIGNMENT.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please advise [1] if it is legal for a former landlord to assign my $18 pay wage for back rent on an apartment I had no lease for. 2. I'm forced to pay back rent and support five in my family on these earnings.

W. H.

1. You are the only one who can "assign" your pay. Your statement that there was no lease implies that you have executed no assignment and that what you mean to ask is whether garnishment would be possible. The answer is a garnishment would be possible as to your wages in excess of $20 per week after the landlord has taken judgment against you.

2. See 1.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

GUARDIANSHIP.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A sum of money, the gain of a lawsuit, is being held in trust by the Probate court, until I reach the age of 21. As I will be 21 next week, I would like to know: [1] Where to call; [2] what sort of identification do I need; and [3] if I need a lawyer to get this money.

F. S.

1. If you do not know the name of the guardian who holds the assets, you should examine the files in the office of the clerk of the court. If you do know the name of the guardian, you should apply to him.

2. Depends on what information the guardian has. Take the matter up with him.

3. Not if you are satisfied with the settlement that is offered to you without the employment of an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DEPOSIT INSURANCE.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please inform me about insurance on state banks in Illinois for a depositor. A bank in this state has a letter showing it is insured, but they say they will not have the plates until Oct. 15 to hang above the cashier's and tellers' cages. I hear they must have these plates hanging or the insurance company would not protect the depositor. Is this correct?

J. R.

An amendment approved June 16, 1934, to subsection "Y" of section 12B of the federal reserve act as amended provides in part as follows: "Each bank, the deposits of which have become insured . . . prior to Sept. 10, 1934, . . . shall continuously display on and after Oct. 1, 1934, . . . a sign as hereinafter prescribed at each station or window where deposits are . . . received."

This would seem to imply the propriety of their not displaying the sign now.

ROBBING THE DEFENSELESS.

River Forest, Ill., Nov. 1.—How inflation may jeopardize or destroy a man's efforts to provide for the future of his family has come home to me with fearful force in making my will. Some months since my seven little children lost their mother. As they have no relatives on whom they could depend it became vitally necessary that my insurance should be paid out to the guardian in such a way that each child would be carried to the age of self support, which means that the oldest would have to be supported by the insurance for five years, the youngest for nineteen years and the others for periods ranging between.

An actuary calculated that my existing insurance would pay each child $40 per month until he became of age. This should support and educate each child, but here the dreaded question of inflation enters in. Already the value of the dollar has been greatly depreciated—in plain words 41 per cent of the value of our savings or insurance has been stolen by the government through devaluation of the gold dollar.

What if the purchasing power of the $40 per month should be reduced to $4 per month or 40 cents per month? This means that my insurance estate which it has required twenty years of saving to build up with hard earned, real money would be paid back to my children in stage money of little value or worthless. In France inflation wiped out 80 per cent of all savings and life insurance values. In Austria and Germany its destruction was complete. Life insurance, savings, money itself became worthless.

When will the holders of the billions of dollars of savings and insurance in the United States wake up and demand that this undermining of their life work and their provision for old age and for their wives and children go no further? Why can't people realize what a hideous crime inflation is? Nothing but irreparable harm and inconceivable suffering ever came of it.

JOHN FREDERICK.

THE FUTURE OF LITTLE BUSINESS.

White Hall, Ill., Oct. 30.—I enjoyed much the piece in your paper entitled "The Future of Little Business." I think the sooner the NRA is thrown into the ash pile the sooner business will recover.

I am deeply interested in what the federal government is doing. The Illinois Emergency Relief commission has been placing orders with the merchants for the needy. The federal government now has shipped foodstuffs, clothing, bedding, etc., into this and other communities to be distributed direct to those who may or may not be in need. Thus the merchant who has gone to the expense of hiring more help, paying more and higher wages than he could afford to help the NRA to bring life and prosperity to the country, wakes up to find the federal government is taking from him that which rightfully belongs to him. They expect him to pay sales taxes, process cotton taxes, general taxes, extra help, higher wages, and then in turn take from him that which helps to produce the income which is his only source of revenue out of which to pay these necessary expenses. How are we to stop it? I, as an independent merchant, protest against such unjust and unlawful practices.

H. L. STORY.

SOMETHING TO BE PRESERVED.

Oak Park, Ill., Oct. 29.—Many suggestion have been made in regard to making some of the Fair buildings permanent, but no one has mentioned the Illinois Host House, to my mind the most beautiful building on the grounds. A Century of Progress was created to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of Illinois and Chicago. What could be more fitting than to retain the Illinois Host House as a memorial to this event?

OLD TIMER.

AND NOT ONLY THE LEGION.

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 31.—In THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE of Oct. 30 your leading editorial was headed "The Legion Wants the Bonus" and then at some length you expounded why the Legion was asking for the bonus now.

The real reasons the Legion went on record for immediate cash bonus payment are, first, that the average veteran can use and actually needs the cash involved in the bonus payment, and, second, for the past four years the Veterans of Foreign Wars has made a consistent, energetic fight for cash payment, a fight which has aroused sentiment to such an extent that it was folly for any veteran group to try and withstand the attempt to secure cash payment at this time. We of the V. F. W. welcome our new ally in this fight, but we like to see credit given where proper credit is due.

M. D. ABBOTT.

SPECULATION.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Your editorial this morning entitled "Bankers and the Farley Machine" was very good and very much to the point. In his campaign speeches and elsewhere President Roosevelt frequently made the statement that "speculation with other people's money must stop," and apparently it did practically stop. Now, seemingly, the bankers are being coerced to substitute loose speculation for sound investment and thereby to speculate with their depositors' money and with the taxpayers' money. No other administration ever tried so ridiculously to go in opposite directions at the same time, but it is possible that President Roosevelt has at last realized that all business is "speculation," more or less; that any business, large or small, is more or less speculative, and that "speculation" is not merely the stock exchange game. In any event, let up hope that the banks will not be coerced into a return to "speculation with other people's money" if we are not to witness a run on practically every bank in the country, for nothing could frighten the depositors more.

A. F. D.

THE FUTURE OF THE FAIR.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 29.—One cannot help but carry a mental picture of A Century of Progress around with him the rest of his life. The vast panorama of modernistic buildings [more beautiful at night], the Goodyear blimps droning lazily overhead, curious throngs crowding inside buildings to see man's miracles, spacious concessions and exhibits—all this makes up the picture of A Century of Progress.

It all seems like a dream. Over $42,000,000 was required to build the Fair. Now the park board is debating as to how much of the Fair will be demolished. Why don't you people in Chicago maintain the whole Fair grounds with all of its buildings? It would certainly be the greatest monument to man's courage that has ever been erected. Curious throngs will still travel to Chicago, made famous by the Fair, to see the remains of a wonderful exhibit. If you leave it untouched you will be able to hold another Fair within a few years on the same grounds.

You may wonder why this letter is written. The thought of having the beautiful exhibit destroyed is the reason. You know, we never realize the worth of something until we are deprived of it. So it is when a friend dies. And so it will be when A Century of Progress ceases living.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Mothers, raise your boys and girls to be half-wits, and if you have a little freak you're in luck. For with the advent of the radio and movies, half-wits and freaks are no longer a drug on the market, as these ingenious inventions have been the means of establishing a place in the world for them. Now every half-wit and freak is a potential radio or screen star.

BABY OF LINDY SUSPECT MARKS FIRST BIRTHDAY

Grabs at Candle on Cake, Almost Burns Self.

Flemington, N. J., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—As Bruno Richard Hauptmann, accused of kidnaping and murdering the Lindbergh baby, sat in his cell in the county jail here today, his little son Mannfried happily celebrated his first birthday at a party across the street.

Too young to understand his father's predicament, the child crooned gleefully in his mother's arms and grabbed some icing from a birthday cake with one candle as reporters, photographers and newsreel men crowded around the table. Earlier he had seen his father for ten minutes in a tearful reunion at the jail. The visit was granted as a special favor, for Wednesday is the regular day appointed.

Chuckles with Delight.

As Mrs. Hauptmann held the baby close to view the cake, on which was written "Happy Birthday" in iced letters, he snatched at the flame on the candle and almost burnt himself. Then, sensing that it was a special occasion and that he was the center of things, he chuckled with delight.

Mrs. Hans Mueller, Mrs. Hauptmann's niece, had brought the cake from New York. It was placed on a table in a room at the Union hotel. There also were a few birthday presents, including a teddy bear as big as Mannfried, a gift of his father. That as his favorite.

The party was held about 4 p. m., after the visit to Hauptmann, which had been delayed until 2 p. m. because the guard had no instructions to admit Mrs. Hauptmann when she arrived in the morning.

Sees New Attorney Tomorrow.

Edward J. Reilly, Brooklyn attorney who took over the case from James M. Fawcett yesterday, will have a first conference with Hauptmann and C. Lloyd Fisher, his associate here, either on Monday or Tuesday morning, Mr. Fisher said.

Mr. Reilly also made an appointment with Attorney General David T. Wilentz for Monday. He has not been to Flemington yet. It was said that the meeting with Hauptmann would be in the nature of "a lengthy confidential conference," and that following it the two lawyers would go to Mr. Fisher's office and map out a defense to be followed at the trial on Jan. 2.

BRITISH LABOR GIRDS FOR NEXT GENERAL VOTE

LONDON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Fresh from sensational victory in Thursday's municipal elections, labor tonight trained its guns on still bigger targets.

A meeting to celebrate the party's triumph heard Herbert Morrison, secretary of the London Labor party, declare that labor should point its efforts "to lay the foundations of success and so consolidate our organization that at the next parliamentary election we shall repeat the wonderful successes of 1934."

The former minister of transport, in urging particular attention to the next London county council elections in 1937, also made the novel proposal that seats be exchanged between borough councils that are wholly Conservative and those that are wholly Laborite.

Final figures today showed the full extent of the Labor sweep. The party captured 741 municipal council seats in England and Wales, making its most impressive showing in the London area where it holds 729 of 1,385 seats and will control 15 of 28 boroughs.

HERO'S FUNERAL GIVEN BY PARIS TO BUTCHER BOY

PARIS, Nov. 3.—(AP)—A prince walked behind a butcher boy today at the funeral of 16 year old Lucien Gabriel, meat shop assistant, who died after nine months in a hospital of wounds received in the Stavisky riots of Feb. 6.

The prince was Joachim Napoleon Michel, prince of Ponte Corbo and head of the house of Murat. Along with an assemblage of veterans' "shock troops," he followed the butcher boy's bier. Gabriel was the twenty-eighth to die of wounds suffered in the February riots. He had a bullet in his spine.

The city gave him a hero's funeral. Hundreds of police and mobile guards armed with carbines blocked the streets to prevent a hostile demonstration against the thousands massed before the Church of St. Philippe du Roule. Hundreds of wreaths were contributed, including one from the Taxpayers' federation, which also demonstrated against the government last February.

U. S. GIVES APPROVAL TO A NEW SEARCH FOR BLACKBEARDTREASURE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The ghostly cutlass of Capt. Blackbeard rattled again today as the federal government granted a group of men permission to dig for his buried treasure on Blackbeard Island, off the coast of Georgia.

The bureau of biological survey has the island under its administration and gave the word to go ahead and dig.

"Only me and the devil knows where it is and the one who lives longest gets it," the pirate is reported to have roared 150 or so years ago when his crew speculated on the location of his spoils.

Edward Teach, popularly known as Blackbeard, terrorized the Carolina, Georgia and Florida coast during the period shortly after the revolutionary war. He was killed by an American naval party in 1780 and since that time his rendezvous, Blackbeard Island, has been practically shoveled over by treasure seekers.

The newest group is a party of 10 men headed by Herbert L. Nelson, Georgia and Alabama contractor. By use of a delicate instrument they claim to have found the exact location of the cache.

Robinson Sr. Will Get Stoll Kidnaping Hearing

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 3.—[U.P.]—Federal Judge Harry B. Anderson of the western Tennessee district, said today he would hear the removal proceedings against Thomas H. Robinson Sr., in the Berry Stoll kidnaping case in Nashville next Thursday. Officers are hunting Robinson's son as the abductor of Mrs. Stoll from her home in Louisville.

FRENCH PREMIER DEFIES FOES IN PLEA TO NATION

Plans to End Parliament if Reforms Are Defeated.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 3.—Defying parliament and denouncing the partisan spirit of his own cabinet ministers, Premier Gaston Doumergue tonight broadcast an appeal to the country to back his plan for constitutional revision, which he declared is necessary to avert a dictatorship in France.

At the same time, the septuagenary premier, no longer the "smiling Gastounet," announced a fight to the finish Tuesday when the chamber of deputies reconvenes. He said he would demand an immediate vote on the truncated three month budget to forestall any obstruction, and then call for a showdown on the issue of calling a constitutional assembly to vote on his amendments to the constitution.

If the chamber refuses the project, Premier Doumergue threatened to ask the senate to dissolve it and call new elections, thus submitting the proposed reforms to an indirect referendum.

Régime in Crisis.

Doumergue's radio address, which followed a dramatic but indecisive two day cabinet consultation, opens the first political crisis directly involving the régime which France has known in this century. The country is more nervous than at any time since the Stavisky scandal riots last February. An evidence of the tensity is the public order issued by Col. de la Roque, chief of the semi-Fascist Croix de Feu, to his partisans not to participate in any demonstrations which may take place.

Politicians are nervous at the idea of plunging the country into a feverish electoral battle at this moment, but they fear an uprising worse than that of last February if the senate refuses Premier Doumergue's demand for new elections.

The battle all hinges about the amendment by which Premier Doumergue proposes to give the president of the republic and the premier the right to dissolve the chamber of deputies at any time after the first year of the legislature without consulting the senate, as obligatory now. The senate, jealous of its prerogatives, raised the cry that Doumergue is paving the way for a dictatorship. That cry was taken up by the strong Radical-Socialist party, headed by former Premier Edouard Herriot, at a recent congress.

Negotiations Break Down.

Negotiations between Herriot and Doumergue having broken down, three or four councils of ministers were held yesterday. Doumergue refused to modify his amendment taking the power of dissolution out of the hands of the senate and the Radicals were equally stubborn.

A sickly compromise procedure has been patched up by which the contentious amendment was voted by a majority of the cabinet with the radical ministers "reserving their freedom of action"—which means that the Radicals will probably vote against the proposal in the chamber next week.

Doumergue in his address defended the amendment, declaring that it is the only thing which will end the ministerial instability and administrative anarchy prevalent in France. This instability might one day be fatal to the republic, Doumergue warned, because "governments without authority always pave the way for dictators."

JAP NAVY ENVOYS VISIT M'DONALD AT CHEQUERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The naval conversations among the United States, Great Britain and Japan, except for social functions, have gone underground. No formal meetings have been arranged, although individual delegates on all three sides are known to have been getting together to discuss various features of the problem.

Today all the Japanese delegates were luncheon guests of Prime Minister MacDonald at Chequers. The American delegates were week-end guests of Lord and Lady Astor at Cliveden, Taplow, Buckinghamshire.

So far there is no indication of any real yielding on the part of Japan to American and British views, and neither are the western powers very hopeful. The Japanese, however, remain smilingly optimistic, professing faith that the United States and Great Britain will see the justice of their demands for equality.

Surgeons Ring for Orderly; Discover He Is the Patient

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 3.—[U.P.]—An unidentified man, his face disfigured in an automobile accident, was brought to a hospital here. Surgeons preparing to operate called for Floyd Dowell, an orderly. He didn't answer. After the operation they rang again for Dowell. Several hours later, Dowell was found. He was the accident victim.

Cooking School Entertainers

LAWSON Y. M. C. A. GLEE CLUB WILL APPEAR ON COOKING SCHOOL BILL

The Lawson Y. M. C. A. Glee club, directed by Frank Bennett, will sing Wednesday afternoon at the second of the four day south side School of Cookery programs which will open Tuesday afternoon at the Trianon ballroom, 6201 Cottage Grove avenue.

This group is one of the outstanding male choruses of the middle west and is heard each Saturday night over W-G-N. Mr. Bennett, its director, will be one of the community song leaders at the Cooking school. The accompanist is Cathryne Bennett, who will present her prize winning World's Fair Ladies' quartet on Wednesday, Nov. 14, at the west side Cooking school, in Guyon's Paradise ballroom.

Other entertainers to appear on the south side will be Bob Becker, outdoor editor of THE TRIBUNE, and Harriet Krauth White, dramatic soprano. Mr. Becker, who will talk on "How to Prepare and Cook Game," will speak the opening afternoon, and Miss White will sing Thursday. Men interested in cooking are especially invited to hear Mr. Becker's talk.

The culinary lecture demonstrations again will be given by Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, home economics expert, in coöperation with Miss Mary Meade, THE TRIBUNE's Cooking Editor.

KILLS SELF IN GARAGE.

Rock Falls, Ill., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—S. D. Cary, about 65, locked the doors of his garage, turned on the motor of his car and lay down beneath the exhaust pipe yesterday afternoon. He was found dead. A coroner's jury today returned a verdict of suicide.

Nazis Ask Hunters to Give Bag of Game for the Needy

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister of air and premier of Prussia, urged hunters of Germany today, in his capacity as national hunting master, to donate one week's bag of game to winter relief. "I expect every hunter to do his duty and turn over the bag shot the week before Christmas to give Christmas joy to the needy," he said.

BERLIN PROTESTS RULE OF SAAR'S GOVERNING CHIEF

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—Germany plans to lodge a protest against Geoffrey Knox, British president of the league of nations' governing commission in the Saar territory, for his "inability to insure fair conditions in the basin and to safeguard European peace." The protest will be made to the signatories of the Locarno treaty—England, France, Italy, Belgium, Poland, and Czechoslovakia—and draw their attention to the pact's nonaggression clauses.

A proclamation issued by Jakob Pirro, chief of the German Saar front, charged that anti-Nazi refugees are "systematically organizing for guerilla warfare against Germany under the protection of the administrators of the Saar mines." He threatened to expel terrorists found in the ranks of the German front.

Crush Terrorism, Is Demand.

"The Saar commission must either crush terror ruthlessly, especially the terrorism of refugees, and forbid refugees to speak publicly or cooperate with the Saar newspapers, or it must summon French troops. The calling of troops would precipitate a catastrophe for Germany and civilization in western Europe."

Nazi resentment against refugees, as a result of activities considered hostile to Adolf Hitler, was shown again today, when twenty-eight Germans were deprived of their citizenship. Thirteen were branded outcasts because they signed an anti-Hitler proclamation which was addressed to the people of the Saar.

Prince Max Karl zu Hohenlohe-Langenburg heads the list of outcasts who are said to have signed the proclamation. Others are Count Hubertus von Loewenstein-Scharffeneck, author of "Germany: The Tragedy of a Nation"; Klauss Mann, actor, publicist, and son of Thomas Mann, the novelist; Erwin Piscator, theatrical producer; Otto Strasser, brother of Gregor Strasser, who was killed in the June 30 blood purge, and Carola Neher, movie actress.

Others Are Listed.

Among others deprived of their citizenship are:

Martin Plettl, who is living in New York and described as a "clever speaker and therefore especially dangerous"; Dr. Alfred Dang, head of the Pestalozzi school in Buenos Aires; Leonhard Frank, communist novelist; Dr. Gustav Regler, communist author; Prof. Julius Schaxel, former councilor of the ministry of education in Thuringia; Balder Olden, communist author; Willi Bredel, communist editor; Gustav von Waugenheim, actor; Jacob Simon, a Jew who wrote for anti-Nazi newspapers.

Berhard Segar also was named. He was an editor of German Socialist periodicals and a member of the reichstag. Segar escaped from the Oranienburg concentration camp and wrote about his experiences while a prisoner. Another was Waldemar Ploetsch, charged with distributing communistic literature on German ships and with anti-German activities in Antwerp.

Most of the persons listed live in Prague and Paris.

Village to Evacuate Homes for 100 Ton Dynamite Blast

ANYOZ, B. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The 1,000 inhabitants of the village of Hidden Creek, two miles east of here, have orders to evacuate their homes. The orders say "temporarily evacuate," but whether their homes will still be left standing after a 100-ton dynamite blast in the old Hidden Creek mine is problematical. The blast, which experts say will be the biggest in the history of North American mining operations, is for the purpose of cleaning up the old workings.

INTIMATE FACTS!

Send for free copy of "Things People Won't Talk About," a new 32-page illustrated book telling what venereal diseases are, what they do, how they are contracted, how to avoid them, and how they can be cured. Mailed in plain sealed envelope.

A Happy Marriage

rewards those men and women who guard against these diseases

Before you marry, be examined for venereal infections by your family doctor or a good clinic such as the Public Health Institute

Many a matrimonial disaster has been prevented by a timely examination for gonorrhea and syphilis. For these infections are an outstanding cause of unhappy, childless marriages! Yet if caught before marriage, or even during its earlier years, their tragic results can be avoided.

Hence no man or woman should dream of marrying without undergoing an examination for venereal diseases. Then, if infection is discovered, proper medical attention will usually make it possible to marry without risk. This does not necessarily mean a long wait, for it is often possible to treat even those with active syphilis in such a manner that they can shortly marry.

Unless this precaution is taken, there is little chance for an infected couple to live happily together and bring healthy children into the world. Untreated gonorrhea, for instance, is a leading cause of sterility in both sexes, and even if it does not prevent child-bearing it may infect a baby's eyes at birth and result in loss of sight!

Untreated syphilis is an even greater wrecker of marriages, for it makes it practically impossible for a mother to have a normal child. It is responsible not only for most stillbirths, but for the great majority of deformed and feeble-minded infants! That is why every expectant mother should be examined for syphilis as early in her pregnancy as possible.

Aside from their disastrous effects on children, neglected gonorrhea and syphilis are the cause of untold suffering among adults. The former may lead to crippling rheumatism and other disabling afflictions, while the latter may result in blindness, deafness, heart disease, bone destruction, apoplexy, locomotor ataxia, paralysis or even insanity!

Thus every man or woman who contemplates matrimony should lose no time in being examined for venereal diseases. The same applies to married couples as well, for many a wife has been unwittingly infected by a husband who did not know he was diseased or who supposed himself cured.

Your family physician will gladly examine you, or you can go to a good medical clinic such as the Public Health Institute. Here at the Institute, every possible effort is made to spare the patient embarrassment. Semi-private waiting rooms and individual examining rooms are provided, and as an added measure of privacy each patient is known by number instead of by name.

Founded by public-spirited citizens NOT FOR PROFIT, the Public Health Institute specializes in the treatment of venereal diseases at remarkably low fees. An examination for gonorrhea and syphilis, including blood and other tests, costs only $3.00, while some treatments for syphilis cost as little as $1.00 and some of those for gonorrhea still less. Even persons pressed for funds can arrange to be treated.

NOTE: The Public Health Institute has no connection with any other Chicago health or medical institute, and should not be confused with those operated for personal gain!

VALIANT STUDENT ARMY RISING OUT OF TRYING TIMES

New College Type Gains as It Beats Depression.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

"What has the depression done to your students?" THE TRIBUNE has asked presidents and deans of the four great universities in Illinois.

Their answer is unanimous. All agree that it can fairly be epitomized thus:

"It has done them a great deal of good."

The four schools — named in the order of their foundation—are Northwestern university, 1851; the University of Illinois, 1868; Loyola university, 1870, and the University of Chicago, 1892.

They are teaching nearly 35,000 students this autumn.

Located in the heart of the middle west, they provide a most important cross-section of American student life and unfold the only cheerful story which the depression can tell.

U. of C.'s Great Record.

Of this autumn's enrollment of 8,041 at the University of Chicago about 2,000 students are earning their way in whole or in part.

At Northwestern university, where last year's enrollment was 12,280, the school's bureau of employment recorded 724 students as earning their way in whole or in part, and the total of their earnings was nearly $102,000. The highest single earning was $650 and was made by a girl student. The highest single earning by a boy was $598.

At least one-tenth of the 517 students on the lake shore campus alone —as distinguished from its downtown plant—of Loyola university are earning their way in whole or in part.

Of the University of Illinois' 10,616 students it is estimated that 4,250 are "working for part or full expenses." Last January, before the Federal Emergency Relief administration began, about 3,200 students were earning part or all of their expenses.

A New Field of Economics.

These resolute, resourceful battalions of hard studying, wage earning boys and girls are not a new type in American university life, but the depression has developed, emphasized, and multiplied the type as never before, and it has so vastly extended and systematized juvenile part-time employment that it may be said to have created a new field of economics.

Utterances of presidents and deans on the situation make the most cheering of messages to parents who have sons and daughters in our universities, because not only are the student wage earners giving a gallant account of themselves but the whole student body has been toned up by the rigors of the times.

Dr. Scott's Tribute.

Dr. Walter Dill Scott, an educator since 1901 and president of Northwestern university since 1920, said:

"Among Northwestern's teachers there is greater satisfaction with the work our students are doing than I ever saw during what we now call 'the luxury years.'

"And among the students there is greater enthusiasm for their work and greater appreciation of their opportunities than ever before in my experience. They are working harder and spending less. That is true of the girls as well as of the boys. Nor have hardships made them morose. They are not enjoying life less but they are enjoying it more wisely. They spend less on living and get more out of living.

Arthur Cutts Willard, new president of the University of Illinois, faces many large problems and he acknowledges that he is facing them with greater courage because the nearly 11,000 students on the Urbana campus and in the university's professional schools in Chicago are resolutely facing the problems which hard times have compelled them to face.

"I am proud of them," he said, "but let me be specific rather than exclamatory. For example: With fewer students —by nearly 1,800—the demands on our library of a million volumes are now far in excess of pre-depression years. It never was so freely used. Students are more interested in their self-government problems than ever before and they are taking greater care of their health. They have been repaying loans from student funds more scrupulously and are more reluctant to go into debt. Many a student has been willing to submerge his own needs in behalf of a student whose needs were more urgent. Dean Turner will tell you of the frequent remark, 'If you know of a case more urgent than mine I'll withdraw my application.'

Fraternities Bucking Up.

"Scholarship has held up and in the fraternity group it has improved. Many fraternities are taking into their houses graduate students to act as tutorial advisers—not coaches. If a boy is not doing well in his studies they tell him what is wrong with his method. This personalizes scholarship. It is no longer aloof. The prime result is the emphasis on scholarship outside the classroom.

Coming to U. S.

Salvador Dali, young Catalonian artist whose "sur-realistic" paintings startled Paris, will sail for New York this week to exhibit his work.

[Acme Photo.]

"Depression has caused the reduction of 85 fraternities on this campus to 60, largely by mergers. That deflation has been healthy."

"Do your young men get blue in these hard times?" I asked the Rev. Father William A. Finnegan, dean of the Junior College of Arts and Sciences of Loyola university.

"Anything but that," he replied, and took from a file of similar documents a letter from a student who was a sophomore at Loyola last year and who began last August to make plans which would carry him through his junior year as a part time wage earner. "I am," he wrote to Dean Finnegan—wrote him as if the reverend father were more a dear friend and brother than a dignified clergyman—"a first class dishwasher and an expert at scrubbing floors. (See Mrs. ——— for recommendations.) In fact, I scrub to get in shape for wrestling. You should see how I punish those floors!"

"That letter," said Father Finnegan, "is typical of the spirit of our students in these times. The depression has not disheartened them. It has steadied them. Many of them come from homes of moderate means where there is a real spirit of sacrifice. The spiritual and disciplinary value of sacrifice is impressed upon them at home, and certainly it is impressed upon them here in their classes on religion and economics, in their annual retreats, at their weekly masses, and in frequent conferences with their advisers on the faculty. We emphasize to them that these are serious times and that they must get down to serious business.

Checks Up on Hungry Student.

"To one student, to whom we had assigned wage earning work that carried over into the noon hour, I said, 'What time do you get your luncheon?' He evaded the question with a cheerful 'O, one time or another!' That was too vague to suit me. Investigation showed that the boy was really undernourished and we had to take measures which assured him a more definite luncheon both as to time and quantity.

"Two of them are earning money by cleaning blackboards in the classrooms. Some are doing clerical work in the offices of the deans. Some clean and catalog books in our library. Some are working in nearby grocery stores or running elevators in apartment houses. Some are directing recreation at community centers and some are painting scenery and arranging lighting devices for our dramatic performances. Advanced students are assistant readers of papers submitted for examination. You will see from that partial list that much of the work is not only wage earning work but educational. It helps the worker in more ways than one. It is paid for from FERA funds allocated to Loyola."

Dean Finnegan has found that students from small towns have the most initiative in "scouting up jobs," as he put it, and he cited the case of a young Texan who arrived on the Loyola campus without a cent and who now, by part time work, has paid for his books, is earning his living, has won a scholarship, and, above all, is a thoroughly good student."

Great Executives on the Job.

At the University of Chicago a remarkable group of men, old and young, is active in solving student problems and difficulties created by hard times.

Among them are Emery T. Filbey, now dean of faculties and with the university 25 years as teacher and executive; Aaron J. Brumbaugh, dean of students and assistant professor of education, who is a veteran teacher and was once a college president; James Madison Stifler, member of the board of trustees and chairman of its committee on development, who for 22 years was pastor of the First Baptist church of Evanston, and who has written important books on the life of that apostle of thrift and common sense, Benjamin Franklin; John C. Kennan, placement counselor on the board of vocational guidance and placement, and William E. Scott, assistant dean of students and professor of economics in the school of business.

Nothing Escapes Them.

No aspect of a student's anxieties escapes those men. For example, a colleague remarked to Dean Brumbaugh as they passed a student, "That boy looks as if he weren't getting enough to eat." "He was not," replied the dean, "but he is now. We found out about the sacrifices he is making for an education and we have eased his burden a good bit."

"They make me humble," said Trustee Stifler as he told of boys who had been existing on a diet of milk and dates, "and," he added, "these things make me happy," and he held up a check for $500 from an alumnus who prefers to remain anonymous and who does want to see the diet of milk and dates given a touch of variety."

And so it goes—fortitude among the students, intense solicitude for them and pride in them among the executives and teachers. Mr. Kennan relates this: "A few days ago I found a student one hour's work setting up pins in a bowling alley. 'That's fine,' he said. 'That earns my dinner tonight'—and he beamed. To another I said, 'Take this package downtown and we will give you your carfare and 40 cents.' He leaped to the job."

At Northwestern one student is earning his way by taking telephone calls during the long night watch in an udertaker's establishment. At the University of Illinois, says Dean Turner, there is a far greater sense of responsibility among the students. The scandal of "N. S. F. checks" and "No Account checks" written by students, which was so prevalent a few years ago, has completely disappeared.

"The courage and determination," said Dean Filbey, "which these young people are showing are an inspiration to us all. They are going to be great alumni—and great citizens."

FIVE STATE DINNERS, FIVE RECEPTIONS ON WHITE HOUSE PROGRAM

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Delayed by the construction work in progress at the White House, the social program of official entertainments will open one month later this year and continue three weeks longer than usual.

Five state dinners and five receptions are on the White House schedule announced today by President and Mrs. Roosevelt, which with one exception is identical with the 1933-'34 program.

The only change from last season is the restoration to third place on the schedule of the dinner in honor of the Vice President, which was postponed last winter due to the absence of the Vice President and Mrs. Garner. The date of the dinner in honor of the chief justice of the Supreme court, advanced last year, will be the seventh official function on the 1934-'35 program.

The restoration of the congressional reception, divided during the Hoover administration, and the elimination of the New Year's day reception, again reduces by two the total number of official entertainments echeduled annually by President and Mrs. Hoover.

POLITICAL PARTY SEIZES CATHOLIC CHURCH IN MEXICO

MEXICALI, Lower California, Mexico, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The National Revolutionary party, answering what was described as an attack made in a sermon by Father José Torres against the administration of church policies by the government, today opened headquarters in the Catholic church here.

Persons who visited the church reported the party's black and red emblem was tacked on the cross.

They said religious pieces of art had been supplanted by pictures of President Rodriguez and Gov. Augustin Olachea and that pews had been torn from the floor and arranged along the side of a room for union workers. Father Torres had taken refuge on the American side of the border.

ROBBERS SEIZE PAY ROLL.

Four robbers followed George W. Kuepper, 313 North Ogden avenue, from the Pioneer Trust and Savings bank yesterday and took from him $350, the pay roll of the Kuepper-Fabor Novelty company, by curbing his automobile at 1626 North Spaulding avenue.

3,000,000 CENTS COLLECTED AS BISHOP'S PENCE

Episcopalians of the Chicago diocese have contributed in the last twelvemonth nearly 3,000,000 one cent coins as "Bishop's pence," according to Bishop George Craig Stewart. The diocese has 8,000 families coöperating.

Bishop Stewart spoke yesterday before 100 pence collectors at 185 North Wabash avenue. He discussed the progress of the Bishop's pence enterprise since he originated it a little more than a year ago. Fifteen other American dioceses have adopted the plan and last week in Atlantic City the church's triennial general convention endorsed it.

"From Oct. 10, 1933, to Oct. 10 of this year," Bishop Stewart reported, "we collected more than $28,000. Half of this money has been sent back to the parishes. The other half I have used as a mobile fund for the restoration of social service work that had to be shelved off the budget last year."

Under the plan, each coöperating family in the parish receives a pence can. After grace at each meal, a penny is deposited in the can.

Prince von Starhemberg Gets Plane, Pilot's License

VIENNA, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, vice chancellor of Austria, qualified today for an aviator's license. At the same time the head of the Fascist heimwehr army purchased for his private use a two seater, 145 horse power plane.

NURSING LEADER TO TELL WORK IN KENTUCKY HILLS

Mrs. Mary Breckinridge, voluntary director of the Frontier Nursing Service, will address the Northwestern university chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi, national sorority, at dinner tomorrow night in the chapter house on the campus.

Mrs. Breckinridge will speak on the social service work being conducted in connection with the Frontier Nursing Service's health and midwifery activities in the remote Kentucky mountains. The social service phase is financed by the national sorority. Deans of the various schools of the university will be guests at the dinner.

NEW BOOK ASKS GREATER POWER FOR PRESIDENT

Volume Is Published by Brookings.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—A suggestion that the President should be given wide regulatory and rule-making powers to supplement legislative action and so assure proper administration is made in a book entitled "Administrative Legislation and Adjudication" written by Frederick F. Blachly and Miriam E. Oatman and just published by the Brookings institution.

The suggestion is one of several made in recommending a radical revision of the present system of administrative legislation and adjudication that would be designed to dissipate confusion in the government.

600 Authorities Exist.

"About 600 authorities in the federal government alone," it is pointed out, "are now exercising the function of making rules and regulations which affect the lives and property of individuals and which operate to all intents and purposes as a part of the law of the land. These quasi-legislative authorities include not only the President and the heads of the government departments, but also bureaus and divisions within departments, special independent administrative bodies, proprietary corporations, and nearly 500 economic code authorities.

"Quite often cumbersome methods of handling certain types of administrative cases, together with the uncertainty and artificiality of the established procedures, defeat the very purposes of the law. At times the cost and delay of litigation constitute a denial of justice."

Lists Major Provisions.

Among the major suggestions made for revision into a new system of the procedures are the following:

The legislature should fix the main outlines of organization, and lay down the most important standards and methods for carrying on the various functions of government.

The President, assisted by a special board and by the executive authorities, should be given wide regulatory and rule-making powers, so supplementing and implementing legislative action as to furnish a complete and satisfactory basis for proper administration and adequate control over administration.

The administrative and regulatory agencies should receive broad powers of discretion, as well as authority to find facts and to make detailed rules for the administration of their own functions.

Control over the actions of the administrative and regulatory agencies should be exercised by administrative courts acting in first and in second instance. There should be no control over administrative action by the ordinary courts, except in respect to questions of constitutionality.

SHOT TO DEATH IN TAVERN; BODY IS LEFT ON FLOOR

More than a dozen couples were eating and drinking in a saloon at 3227 West Madison street last night when a shot was fired.

Police, called by a neighbor who heard the report, found the body of Lawrence Howard, 26 years old, 3336 West Monroe street, unemployed, stretched out on the saloon floor with a bullet hole in his forehead.

The saloon was deserted, but nearly thirty half filled glasses, plates with food still warm, and smoking cigarets attested to the crowd that had fled at the sound of the shot.

After questioning Archie Kerr, owner of the saloon, who said he was not present when the shooting took place, the Fillmore police began a search for W. J. Herbster, 31 years old, 3229 West Madison street, the bartender on duty.

TRAFIC DELAYED NEAR LOOP AREA AS BRIDGE JAMS

While workmen tried to repair a defective lock which was keeping the La Salle street bridge from opening, the 300 foot sand barge Gilbert waited under the open Clark street bridge for nearly an hour last night, holding up trafic on the street. The workmen finally found a short circuit in the electric lock release in the La Salle street bridge, and the Gilbert was able to continue westward.

Di Nardi Gets Year to Life in Mitchell Gem Robbery

Dominick Di Nardi, Chicago gangster, who was convicted Thursday by a Lake county jury of participating in the $150,000 jewel robbery at the Lake Forest home of William H. Mitchell three years ago, was sentenced yesterday to serve one year to life in the state penitentiary at Joliet. Judge Ralph J. Dady of the Circuit court at Waukegan overruled a motion for a new trial and imposed the sentence made mandatory in the jury verdict. A thirty day stay of mittimus was allowed.

Afterward John Quinlan, HOLC district counsel will conduct a law clinic on the government refinancing program.

Twins Get Hospital Care Over Protest of Parents

Denver, Colo., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The twins of Mr. and Mrs. William Massey received special hospital treatment tonight by court order after the parents declined to believe the children were in a serious condition. For three days officials of Colorado General hospital and of the Juvenile court attempted to convince Massey that the babies, born prematurely on Oct. 30, would die if not taken to the hospital for special care.

NEW YORK ELEVATOR MEN WIN STRIKE; TO HAVE CLOSED SHOP

New York, Nov. 3.—[Special.]—The elevator operators won their strike today. They won the "closed shop" from most of the loft building owners throughout the garment district. Settlement agreements including a "closed shop" provision were signed by the owners of 350 or more of the approximately 400 buildings affected.

Operators returned to their jobs in buildings whose owners had signed, but picketing is to continue at the buildings of the few holdouts.

One of the picketed buildings was at 136 Madison avenue, owned by Samuel Levy, Manhattan borough president. Striking employés charged that he refused to recognize the union and threatened discharge to any man who joined it.

The workers' victory followed an all night conference held with members of the regional board in the offices of the Real Estate Board of New York.

In return for the closed shop concession the union promised the labor board that no new strikes would be called until the board had been given a chance to mediate.

42,000 TAX BILLS GO ASTRAY; WARN REALTY OWNERS

Property to Be Sold, Asserts Nash.

County Treasurer Nash reported yesterday that 42,000 revised 1932 real estate tax bills on homes and small apartment buildings have been returned to the treasurer's office by postal authorities because the taxpayers could not be found. The undelivered bills represent approximately $500,000 in tax collections, he said.

The treasurer warned taxpayers who have not received their revised real estate tax bills to communicate with the treasurer's office as soon as possible or the properties will be offered for sale to tax buyers.

All Bills Mailed.

All revised bills have been mailed out and should be in the hands of the taxpayers George Hagenauer, chief auditor for the treasurer, explained.

In most cases, he said, tax bills remain undelivered because the taxpayers have moved from their last known addresses or because the treasurer's office has their addresses incorrectly recorded. Revised bills were mailed to 350,000 apartment and home owners. Of these 88,000, who paid their taxes in full, were not allowed the 15 per cent reduction ordered by the County court.

Collection of real estate taxes during the last week was $2,237,547, making a total of $228,064,739 collected by the treasurer's office since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda law began, April 28, 1933.

The week's collections with the total amounts paid in and the uncollected taxes for the five years follow:

	1928.	1929.
Collected	$ 76,068	$ 227,883
Total collected..	155,582,212	167,603,536
Uncollected	12,966,829	34,817,991
	1930.	1931.
Collected	$ 354,953	$ 393,729
Total collected..	167,630,586	134,426,610
Uncollected	53,821,503	45,488,784

The week's collection of 1932 real estate taxes was $1,184,914, making a total of $83,147,135 collected, with $57,430,066 still due the county. Chief Auditor Hagenauer reported that from 5,000 to 10,000 of the revised 1932 bills are being paid daily. Delinquency penalties on the revised bills will not be added until 30 days after the taxpayer has received his bill.

INJUNCTION TIES UP BROOKFIELD VILLAGE FUNDS

Superior Judge Harry A. Lewis issued yesterday an injunction restraining village officials of Brookfield from disbursing any of the village funds except by court order until judgments totaling $15,272 obtained against the village in 1931 have been paid. Retirement of tax warants issued against the tax levies of 1932 and 1933 and payments on special assessment bonds are exempt from the order.

The restraining order was obtained by the Loewenthal Securities company, 33 North La Salle street, which holds a judgment of $4,372, and two other judgment creditors. Attorneys for the creditors charged that the village officials had violated a previous court order directing payment of the judgments from the proceeds of any tax levies.

Dr. Dushkin lives at 5480 Cornell avenue. He has been connected with the Jewish board for 11 years and is in charge of Jewish schools here. A staf lecturer of the University of Chicago, he has had previous experience in educational work in Palestine. Mr. Dushkin will leave for Jerusalem with his family next month.

Four Die of Asphyxiation After a Furnace Explosion

HULL, Que., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Four persons died from asphyxiation early today after a furnace explosion sent clouds of dense smoke into their apartment. The only exit cut off by flames, Jean Campeau and his wife made a frantic effort to get their two small children out through the windows but failed. Firemen found the father with one child in his arms close to one window and the mother with the other tot clasped to her breast at another.

Charges Warehouse Liquor Blended; Sues for $2,875

Suit to recover $2,875 invested in warehouse certificates for whisky which allegedly turned out to be blended liquor was filed yesterday in Circuit court by Charles W. Gillett against Gilbert D. Morse and Henry C. Morse, officials of the M. and M. Distillers' Distributing company. Gillett charged that an analysis of the whisky showed it to be a blend containing 50 per cent of alcohol and water.

Predicts New National Housing Act Unit Will Hurt Real Estate

REALTOR SAYS NATION NOW HAS ENOUGH HOMES

Suggests U. S. Aid in Bond Troubles.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

F. S. HENDRICKS.

Opposition to Title II. of the national housing act, which theoretically went into operation on Nov. 1 [but true to Washington precedent actually can't function until the New Deal experts make up their mind about details and also until the necessary forms are printed] already has bobbed up in Chicago.

F. S. Hendricks, head of F. S. Hendricks & Co., realty firm at 7528 Sheridan road, yesterday registered a protest with Percy Wilson, regional director of the Federal Housing administration, against home building with funds borrowed through FHA sponsorship, as provided for in "Title 2." Mr. Hendricks asserted that it was absurd to build more homes when the market was glutted with dwellings that can be purchased for less than their actual value.

Urges Refinancing Buildings.

He suggested that instead, a movement be started, with federal aid, to refinance on a fair basis buildings now in receivership. Such a step, he believes, would materially aid the real estate market.

Following, in part, is Mr. Hendrick's letter to Mr. Wilson: "For the last few weeks we have been treated to quite a discourse by various exponents of this new national housing act, and I read your speech in the paper today with a great deal of attention and some concern.

"If this movement of improvement would be concerned only with remodeling and repairing buildings which need it, I would make no comment, but you speak of having the banks supply money for new homes when Chicago, and, I presume, every other large city in the United States, has more homes of every kind for sale and rent than they can dispose of. It seems absurd to me to propose building more dwellings when we have so many on the market that can be bought far below their actual value.

Buildings For Sale Cheap.

"I have a list from one of the large banks in Chicago of bungalows, houses, apartment buildings [from two flats to over one hundred], which can be bought at ridiculously low figures. The reason for that, of course, is that nearly all of them carry a large percentage of vacancies.

"There is no need of me going into the cause of the depreciated real estate values in Chicago. Every man who is familiar with real estate knows that between 1920 and 1929 the city was overbuilt with office buildings, hotels, apartment buildings, bungalows, and every other kind of structure. We are still suffering from those overbuilt conditions, so why any one should propose to start an extensive building program is beyond my understanding.

"If events were permitted to take their course we would perhaps within one and a half or two years have our apartments rented, homes sold and rents restored to a fair basis, which would give the owners a fair income on their investments and restore real estate values to normalcy.

Says U. S. Can Help Market.

"If, in place of this national housing act, a movement would be started, with the aid of the government, to refinance buildings on a fair basis that now are in receivership, the real estate market again would become active and we real estate men would be again able to make sales.

"This could be done by putting a reasonable mortgage on these buildings to pay the bondholders, so that instead of losing everything they invested, they would receive a certain percentage on their investment in these bonds.

"As to the remodeling and repair program, I had a conversation with a local banker, the other day, who stated that out of several hundred applications for this kind of loan, only three were accepted and those three could secure the money from their bank without any aid from the government."

Loan Requirements Stringent.

Mr. Hendricks pointed out that the requirements on FHA loans are so stringent as regards both income and character that only the highest and most responsible type of citizen is able to qualify.

"It strikes me," he comments, "that a man in that position and of that character would keep his home in first class repair without any solicitation from any one.

"I might be censured for criticizing this movement, but I find this sentiment expressed, and justly so, by every one who comes into my office when the subject is broached. I am making these comments without any personal interest, as I own no real estate of any kind at the present time."

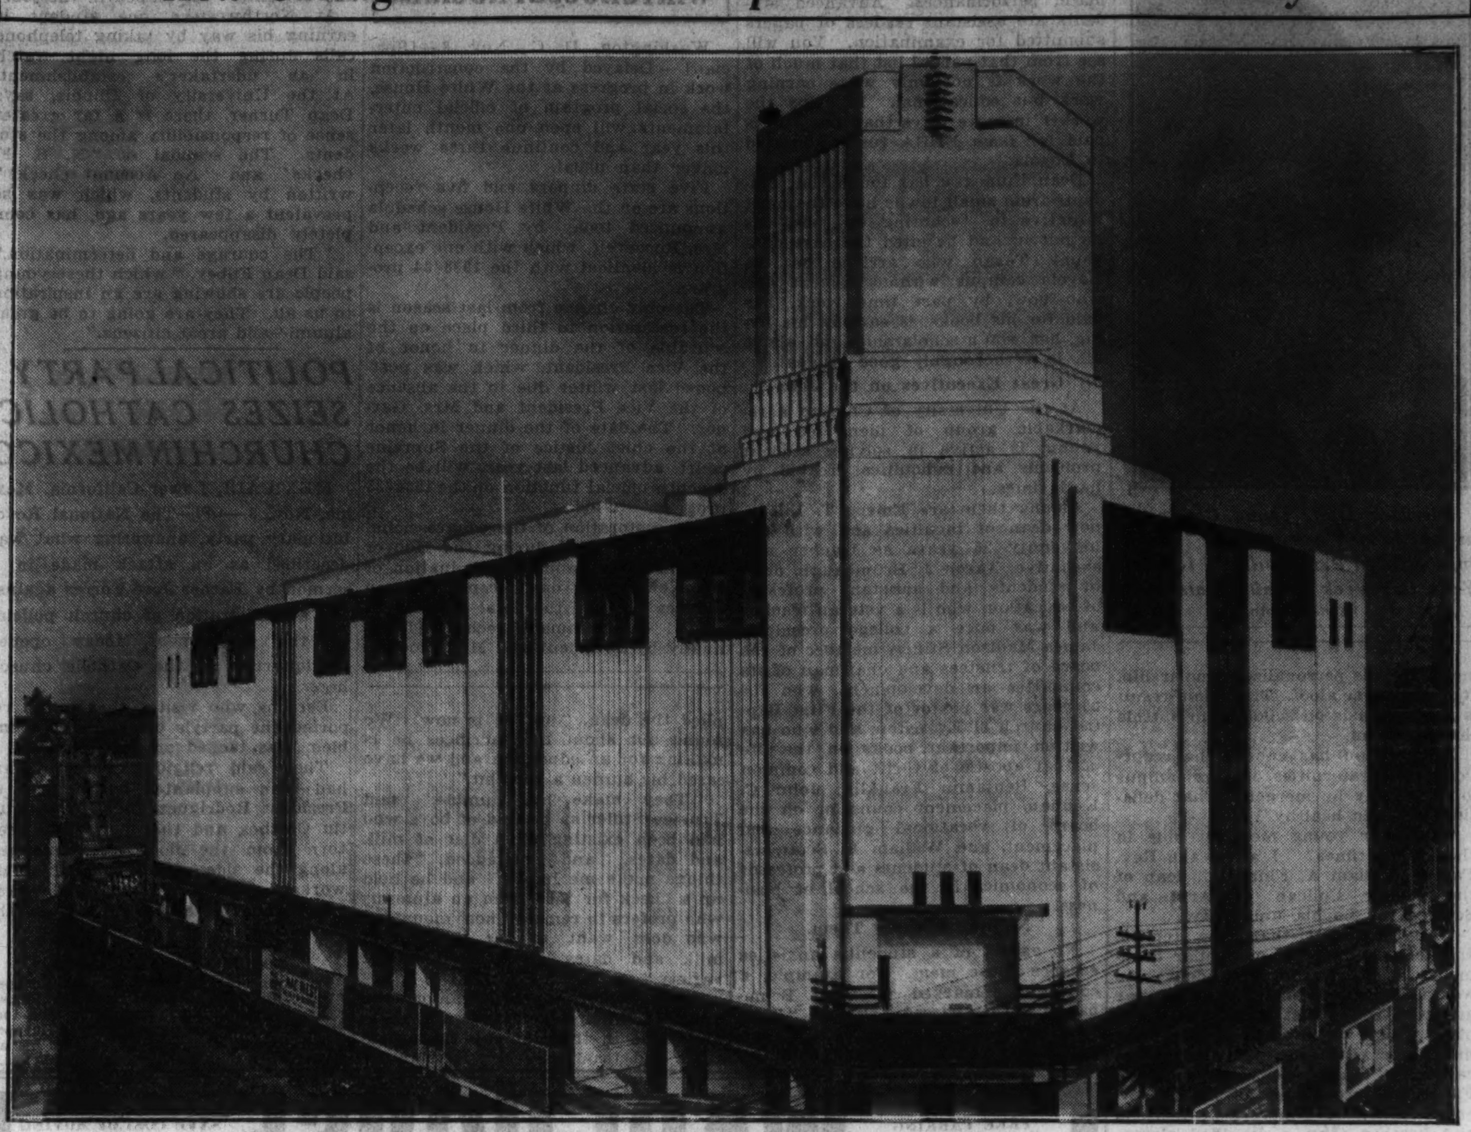
How Chicago's Windowless Department Store Looks Today



This is how the world's first windowless department store, the Englewood unit of Sears, Roebuck & Co., looks today. It is expected to be open for business about Dec. 1. The $1,500,000 building, designed by Nimmons, Carr & Wright and being erected by the B-W Construction company, will have no windows except those in the office section on the top floor and in the three shafts of glass extending from the street level to the roof. The building will be air conditioned. The exterior walls are of Bedford stone with black granite trim. The corner tower hides all the usual unsightly roof tanks and sprinkler equipment. The basement, or downstairs floor, will be occupied by a Hillman's food shop, said to be that concern's finest and one of the largest in the world.

ILLINOIS HOLC NEGOTIATES 7,012 LOANS IN OCTOBER

An average of 193 loans per business day, totaling $702,000, were made by the Home Owners' Loan corporation in Chicago during October, according to Henry G. Zander Jr., state manager for Illinois. He announced yesterday that 5,216 homes in the Chicago district were refinanced with $19,000,000 of HOLC funds in the last month. This, he said, was the best record since the HOLC was established.

"Production here increased 29 per cent over September," said Mr. Zander. "The single month's operations equal the number made from the inception of the local office up to the middle of June of this year. The total is almost a thousand loans greater than for any period heretofore. During September 4,051 loans were paid out.

"A new record also was set by the state agency which, for the first time, paid out over 7,000 loans in a single month. The October total of 7,012 transactions in Illinois amounts to about $25,544,716. This is almost a 20 per cent production increase over September, when 5,854 pay-outs were completed.

"Every day now an average of 260 loans, totaling almost a million dollars, are being made in Illinois by the HOLC. Over thirty thousand small homes in the state that were in danger of being thrown on the real estate market through foreclosure only a year ago, have been safeguarded through the long term amortization system of the government, while, at the same time, a like number of mortgage holders have been reimbursed."

FIGURES SHOW DIFFERENCE IN SUBURBAN SALES

A breakdown of total sales this year on the north shore by Baird & Warner, amounting to $986,035 up to Oct. 1, discloses some interesting figures.

The average price paid for nine residences purchased in Glencoe was $31,764. In Evanston the average for fourteen homes was $20,057. In Kenilworth six residences were sold, averaging $12,324 each. In Waukegan six homes were bought at an average price of $5,191.

The average amount of cash per transaction in the various suburbs was: Glencoe, $22,264; Evanston, $13,892; Kenilworth, $5,839, and in Waukegan, $515.

The total cash paid down in the $986,035 sales was $616,425. The average amount for all the north shore sales was $18,604 and the average amount of cash paid was $14,009.

Quarters of Mather Tower Club to Be Made Larger

Plans to enlarge the Mather Tower club quarters on the 37th and 39th floors of the Mather Tower building are announced by the board of directors of the organization. Holmes, Halstead & West, architects in the same building, have redesigned the interior of the club. Plans provide a card room on the 38th floor and the remodeling of the 36th floor for a lounge and library. Carroll H. Sudler Jr., of Sudler & Co., managing agents of the building, is treasurer of the club.

Uncle Sam Couldn't Kick—and Neither Could the Mule

The local head of a large federal initialed bureau, who has had considerable first hand experience with the intricacies and slowness of governmental red tape, tells this true story of burocratic inefficiency with great enthusiasm:

"A contractor on a big United States job in Oklahoma had an accident happen to a government mule which called for a hasty execution to save it from hours of agony. He ordered it shot and then happened to think that such speedy action without federal permission might cost him a hundred or so dollars.

"He called up a federal official at Oklahoma City, hurriedly explained the situation and asked authority to shoot the mule at once.

"'Just a minute,' the official replied, 'until I look and see if I can find any authority for shooting a mule.'

"The contractor sat patiently while the phone bill mounted rapidly. After ten minutes' wait a voice at the other end said:

"'Sorry, but I can't find any regulation covering this case. I'll wire Washington and ask them to send you the necessary authority by air mail.'

"Several days later a heavy envelope arrived from Washington granting permission to shoot the mule but pointing out that it must be done in the presence of two witnesses who must sign affidavits that they saw it done.

"Meanwhile the mule had passed on to wherever government mules go. The contractor, however, familiar with Washington and its ways, knew he must go through with it. He took two close friends out to where the mule still lay, pumped a couple of bullets into the body, the witnesses signed the affidavits—and presumably Washington was satisfied."

Carroll Sudler, Federal Housing administration director for northern Illinois, yesterday quoted a Chicago banker as saying: "For the first time in forty-four years our bank has made a loan to a poor man." He referred to an FHA loan negotiated under qualifications of the federal housing act.

WARNS AGAINST CHISELERS IN HOUSING PLAN

Property owners in the 160 acre tract selected by the federal government as a site for its $12,500,000 housing project, are being approached by persons who claim to be able to obtain more money than the property is worth, according to Victor F. Champagne, a real estate broker at 925 Blue Island avenue.

"Warning should be given owners of homes in that area not to deal with unscrupulous lawyers and chiseling real estate brokers with a view to asking unreasonable prices for their properties," he said.

"I already have been questioned by several property owners who have been approached by persons who claimed to be able by some influence or trick to get more money than the homes actually are worth."

Percy Wilson to Tell of Federal Repair Program

Percy Wilson, regional director of Federal Housing administration activities in Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Kentucky, will be the principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the Chicago Real Estate board next Wednesday evening. "Progress and Functions of the FHA" will be the subject of his talk. The annual election of officers and directors and a membership dinner will precede the speaking. Lester W. Porter, president of the board, will preside. An amendment to the by-laws to increase the rate of commission for selling or exchanging improved residential or business property will be voted on.

Lake Street Building to Make Way for Auto Park

The 48x140 foot lot at 54-60 East Lake street has been leased for a term of years by Moses Bortz for an open air parking station. Wreckers will have the present five story building out of the way in about four weeks, according to Harry C. Straus of Willoughby & Co., who represented the lessee. Albert H. Wetten & Co. were brokers for the lessors, Chalkley J. Hambleton, Maud Hambleton Kirk and Eleanor H. Rickcords.

Contracts Awarded

Contracts awarded in Chicago the week of Oct. 26-Nov. 1, according to figures supplied by the F. W. Dodge corporation, totaled 24, with a combined cost of $210,750. For the corresponding week last year there were 12 contracts, totaling $211,300. From Jan. 1 to Nov. 1, 1934, the total was $19,758,929, or $3,567,755 ahead of the corresponding period last year, which was $16,191,174.

Pan-American Airways Rents La Salle St. Space

Henry A. Knott of 29 South La Salle street has negotiated a lease with the Pan-American Airways, Inc., of New York, for a store in the Borland building, 103 South La Salle street, for five years at an undisclosed rental. The space, which will be occupied when alterations are completed, will be used for Chicago service and a ticket office.

Levering Cartwright Buys 51st and Ashland Corner

Levering Cartwright of 175 West Jackson boulevard purchased the store and office building at the northwest corner of 51st street and Ashland avenue from Lillian Burger for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $55,000. Kenneth Leigh of Parker, Holsman & Leigh was broker.

Fur Trade Monthly Rents Space on South Dearborn

The Central Furrier, national fur trade monthly, has leased space at 608 South Dearborn street and has moved to larger quarters from 185 North Wabash avenue. I. C. Greenburg is publisher.

OLD SAMOVAR CAFE WILL BE MADE INTO A NEW "STILLSON'S"

One of the best known names identified with the local saloon business of pre-Volstead days is to be revived. For many years Stillson's, in the Hartford building, at Madison and Dearborn, was one of the loop's most popular restaurants and bars. A syndicate known as Stillson's Crystal Bar, Inc., is to spend a reported $25,000 in rebuilding the old Samovar café, in the basement of the Blum building, 624 South Michigan avenue. None of the old Stillson backers is identified with the new saloon, however.

A crystal horseshoe bar, eighty feet in circumference, with seats for forty, is to be installed at a cost of $8,000. Back of the bar and visible to the occupants of tables seating 200 will be entertainers.

The syndicate leased the 3,550 square feet in the front part of the basement from Blum's, Inc., for a term of years, at a monthly rental of $600, according to Walter G. Sanderson, manager of the building, who represented all parties in the transaction. The McHugh Construction company has the general contract for the rebuilding. The opening is set for Dec. 1, but may be pushed up to Nov. 15, it was said.

The old Samovar has had a checkered career. At one time it was so successful that the owner is said to have cleared $70,000 net in one year. Then it ran afoul of federal agents and was padlocked. About a year ago it was reopened, but last June the lights again were dimmed, this time because of lack of business.

LEASES ENTIRE 14TH FLOOR OF PALMOLIVE BLDG.

One of the largest office building leases of the year is reported for the Palmolive building. The International Cellucotton Products company has taken the entire fourteenth floor, comprising more than 12,000 square feet, for a ten year term, at an undisclosed rental. The lessee is now in the Lake Michigan building.

The space will be used for the main general offices of the company and its subsidiaries, including the Kotex company and the Kleenex company. The lease was negotiated by Walter S. Ross and Carl E. Olin of Ross & Browne.

Mr. Olin, who is manager of the Palmolive building, states that during the last two months more than 21,000 square feet of space has been leased in that structure.

Surgeon Buys Hyde Park House for $22,000 Cash

Dr. Dallas B. Phemister, chief surgeon at the Billings Memorial hospital, has purchased the residence at 5621 University avenue from Fred A. Grow of Grow & Cuttle for a reported $22,000 cash. J. W. Lauren of the Frear-Delaplane company, broker, also reports having sold the residence at 4633 South Michigan avenue for Louise A. Harder of the Edgewater Beach hotel to Ella Harrington for $6,500 cash.

TELLS HOW TWO BOND OWNERS TIE UP FINANCE PLAN

ROBT. C. FENNER.
[U. & U. Photo.]

How a real estate bond issue of more than $100,000, near a peaceful reorganization, suddenly was thrown into foreclosure by holders of only 5 per cent of the bonds, was told yesterday by Robert C. Fenner, president of the Vortex Manufacturing company and chairman of the Reliance Bank and Trust company committee. Mr. Fenner formerly was a member of the faculty of Cornell university.

"This action was in complete disregard of the wish of a 95 per cent majority of the bondholders," said Mr. Fenner, "and did not result in any gain to those filing the bill. It already has caused a nine month delay in completing the reorganization and has forced an unnecessary receivership on the property for more than half of this time.

Committee Secures Title.

"The property, consisting of a large apartment and store building, had over $100,000 of bonds outstanding at the time of default. The trustee, as representative of all bondholders, carefully considered the entire matter with its attorneys and decided that as the bondholders and all others interested were willing to coöperate, it would not be necessary to foreclose.

"The committee was successful in promptly securing the title and redemption rights under an option agreement, and decided on a reorganization plan which also would remove liens and release criminal bonds appearing against the property, all without a cash outlay and without the necessity of a foreclosure.

Get 100 Per Cent Approval.

"The plan received 100 per cent approval of the bondholders. A corporation was formed to hold title for the bondholders and the stock issued to three voting trustees. All of the present trustees are former bondholders and are serving without compensation."

Mr. Fenner then told of how a real estate firm which had secured only a 68 per cent occupancy was removed and a resident manager installed whose only compensation was the use of a four room flat. Within a month he had rented all of the apartments except one. Under his management the building has had an average occupancy of 97 per cent.

This was the picture in January, 1934; the bondholders were virtual owners; the building had been placed on a paying basis and all of the net income was being applied against past due taxes, said Mr. Fenner.

Two Change Their Minds.

"Despite the fact that the trustees had previously decided it would be unnecessary to foreclose, two depositing bondholders who had approved of the plan for over two years, suddenly demanded the return of their bonds and moved for the appointment of a receiver," he said.

Mr. Fenner pointed out that as the bondholders already were virtual owners of the building they stood to gain nothing by a foreclosure but only to lose if a receiver were appointed. He listed several charges made by the two disgruntled bondholders, all of which were disproved in court.

"Although these charges were shown to be without foundation," said Mr. Fenner, "it took five months to remove the receiver and the bill itself has not yet been disposed of, all of this being to the detriment of the bondholders and of no advantage to those who started the foreclosure."

G-T RESTAURANT OWNER RENEWS LEASE 5 YEARS

Simultaneously with the renewal of his lease for the corner space in the 100 East Ohio building, at Ohio and Rush streets, for five years G. Terzake, operator of the G-T Corner House restaurant, has inaugurated extensive improvements. He has had constructed a "North Woods bar," lined with birch logs, equipped with a miniature waterfall, and strewn with pine needles. This innovation, representing a reported investment of several thousand dollars, will be opened to the public today. Mr. Terzake is owner and operator of The Ranch restaurant at 123 East Oak street.

Build Service Station at Michigan and Roosevelt

R. E. Major & Co., Inc., architects, have drawn plans for the service station now under construction at the northwest corner of Michigan avenue and Roosevelt road. It will stand on a site 100x171 formerly occupied by two five story buildings which recently were wrecked. The new service station will be owned and operated by the Northwestern Gas and Oil company. W. A. Reinert is structural engineer.

Brokers' Notes

Ralph J. Finitzo has moved his downtown office from 155 North Clark street to 201 North Wells street. His southwest side office remains at the same address, 4751 West 63d street.

EXPRESS AGENCY SEMI-TRAILERS LACK LICENSES

Move to Collect Fees on Extra Units Planned.

BY HAL FOUST.

The Railway Express Agency, known as a persistent violator of the Illinois hard tire law, is also operating semi-trailers over Chicago's streets without state license plates. In ten minutes yesterday, between 10:30 and 10:40 a. m., five of these semi-trailers without plates were noted in the vicinity of the Union and North Western railroad stations.

This lack of trailer plates on the express company's large fleet apparently has escaped the notice of Chicago police and of the secretary of state's investigators for the ten months of 1934. The police records fail to show any arrests involving the company's many hard tired trucks, although this may be due to the fact that the nominal defendants in these cases are the chauffeurs.

Manager Defends Policy.

"Under our interpretation of the license law," said A. C. White, general manager of the Railway Express Agency, "our fleet is properly licensed. We have 170 semi-trailers and about a third as many tractors. We bought plates for the tractors. These cover the tractors and one trailer each. We never haul more than one semi-trailer at a time."

Section 9 of the Illinois motor vehicle law reads in part as follows:

"A self-propelled vehicle operated as a tractor and one semi-trailer shall be considered as one vehicle in computing the above license fees. . . . Each additional semi-trailer to be used with a tractor licensed as above, $10."

Stanley R. Kosinski, chief clerk in the Chicago automobile license bureau for Secretary of State Hughes, said that steps will be taken immediately to collect 1934 taxes for the express company's extra trailers.

In the hard tire law enforcement, the express company is but one of many firms violating the statute that requires vehicles to have pneumatic cushioned wheels if driven over a public street or highway faster than ten miles an hour. The law was enacted by the 1931 legislature.

Violators Being Arrested.

The motorcycle police, on orders of Capt. David Flynn, chief of the trafic division, are arresting tire law violators, but defendants appear to be enjoying unusual leniency from Judge John Gutknecht of the Trafic court. He is also imposing nominal fines for excessively long trucks and for unmuffled engine exhausts.

Lieut. William H. Gainer, commanding the motorcycle division, reported that 180 tire cases have been filed before Judge Gutknecht since Sept. 1. Eighty-seven were fined $1, plus $1 costs; 23 received $1 fine and $2 costs, seven were taxed $2 fine and $2 costs, four were fined $1 and no costs, two discharged, and 57 failed to appear in court, and capias were issued for their arrest. The statute reads that violators "shall be subject to a penalty of not less than $10 nor more than $100 for each offense, together with costs of suit."

PITY THE POOR LAD WHOSE GIRL FRIEND 'JUST LOVES' RAISINS

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Seventy cents—that's the market price of the iron, calcium, and other chemicals in your girl friend's body.

And that's the way the committee in charge of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Catholic club dance will determine the admission price next Friday night.

They have arranged a system of laboratory tests to determine the amount of these chemicals in a person and attached a set of meters that automatically register the chemical price of the individual. All the girls attending the affair will be chemically analyzed and priced and the escort will pay the toll.

The average market value of the chemicals that make up the human body is about 70 cents, but it varies in individuals from 55 to 85 cents.

CALL OFF MINE STRIKE AS RIVAL UNIONS BATTLE

Anthracite Diggers Will Return to Jobs.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 4 (Sunday). (AP)—The strike of members of the newly formed United Anthracite Miners of Pennsylvania at the Susquehanna Collieries company plant at Nanticoke, which resulted in a series of hand-to-hand fights between miners of rival unions during the last four days, was voted ended early today. President Thomas Maloney of the new union announced after a four hour meeting that the men decided to go back to their jobs Monday.

Maloney said also he would bring suit against the company in Luzerne county courts tomorrow in behalf of the several members of the union over whose alleged discharge from their jobs the strike was called.

Controversy of Long Standing.

Before the start of the meeting which ended the strike, spread of disorders was threatened in the area, after the latest of the battles between members of the United Anthracite Miners and the United Mine Workers of America.

The controversy between the unions has lasted more than a year. The United Anthracite Miners, seeking to close the Susquehanna colliery at nearby Nanticoke, have appealed to employés of the big Glen Alden collieries for a "general strike."

Bullets and Stones Fly.

Pistols flashed as more than 1,000 men affiliated with the United Mine Workers of America fought with pickets over the streets of the mining town yesterday. Two were removed to hospitals with minor hurts after five minutes of wild firing and an exchange of stones, clubs, and bits of metal. At least three others received medical treatment elsewhere.

The United Anthracite Miners organized more than a year ago after a split with the United Mine Workers of America over policies and since then have been battling mine owners for recognition.

Last November the new union called a strike, demanding recognition, pay for "dead work"—the clearing of of débris from the working places—and equal distribution of work through the entire regions.

HOLD WOMAN OF BUS LINE AFTER 'ESCAPE'; $2,500 BOND IS SET

St. Paul Minn., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Helen M. Brewer, former Mason City, Ia., bus line owner, was placed under $2,500 bond today to appear at any time or place internal revenue agents may set for questioning concerning her alleged failure to pay $17,000 income tax.

The tax was said by agents to be due following the sale of the Red Ball Transit line to the Jefferson Transportation company for $200,000.

Following her arrest Mrs. Brewer disappeared from a United States marshal's office, where she was held and was recaptured at her home in Minneapolis last night.

"I was ill Friday," she told Judge M. M. Joyce, in explanation of her disappearance. "I walked out and went to the home of a friend where I slept until dark. I then called St. Paul police and was told the internal revenue department was closed for the day. Then I went home and was arrested again. I intended to return."

KILLED BY AUTO AS HE CROSSES STREET AT HOME

August Krause, 67, crossing the street in front of his home at 3358 South Ashland avenue, was struck and fatally injured late yesterday by a hit and run motorist.

Another man believed to have been Otto C. Goerner, about 60 years old, of St. Louis, Mo., was fatally injured when he was struck at State and Congress streets by a truck driven by Ozro Lockwood, 34 years old, 530 Elmore avenue, Park Ridge. The victim died at the County hospital. Lockwood, an employé of the Deppe Baking company, 1015 Willow street, was not held.

These deaths and two others yesterday brought the Cook county trafic toll for 1934 to 1,042. The other victims:

Marshall T. Chapman, 67 years old, colored, assistant pastor of the All Nations Pentecostal church, 3716 Langley avenue. Died at the County hospital of injuries incurred Oct. 8 when he was struck by a car driven by J. B. Costello, 41 years old, 8334 South Marshfield avenue, at 37th street and Cottage Grove avenue.

Clyde Hayes, 25 years old, 1738 West Madison street. Died at the Oak Forest infirmary of injuries incurred Thursday when he and E. A. Murphy, 55 years old, of the same address, were struck by an automobile driven by Fred Fraley, filling station operator at 147th street and Cicero avenue, as they were standing beside a parked car on 147th street a mile west of Cicero avenue. Murphy was killed.

2 FLYERS DIE ON TRIP TO SHOWER CHURCH WEDDING

NOTTINGHAM, England, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Two airforce flyers who set out to sprinkle confetti from their plane over the country church where a friend was being married were burned to death today when their plane crashed.

En route to the scene of the wedding they were seen to pitch suddenly to the ground. Showers of confetti they had intended to embellish the wedding shot into the air as the machine hit the earth.

The two flyers were Frank Dalton and Philip Rook, members of the Nottingham squadron of the auxiliary air force. Observers said a wing of their machine, which was a private one, appeared to collapse while they were stunting.

☒ Elect Toman Sheriff

John Toman, the Regular Democratic Candidate, is the man Cook County needs for Sheriff!

On his shoulders will fall the task of enforcing the law preserving peace and maintaining order.

He is big enough for the job—intelligent, energetic, fearless—a fighter!

No man has a finer record for efficient public service and personal executive ability.

Toman has been a member of the Chicago Council for 23 years—a member or chairman of practically all Council's standing committees.

On all occasions he has been consistently on the side of the great mass of wage earners.

Municipal employes have had his ardent support.

American Legionnaires have always found Alderman Toman a staunch champion for the ex-service man and his interests.

No let-down in the American standard of living or the American wage level—that's Toman's guiding principle.

For Cook County's drive on organized crime a unified drive is all-important.

Officials on Toman's staff will concentrate on cleaning out every criminal hideout in Cook County.

Real co-operation with Mayor Kelly, State's Attorney Courtney, Chief Allman, and all city, town, and village police will be Toman's policy.

Segregation of first offenders and casual offenders from hardened criminals in jails will be one of Toman's moves.

He will ask the County Board for ambulances for all highway police stations.

Every squad car will be provided with a radio to co-ordinate police efforts.

Rally to the support of a man who knows what must be done and how to do it.

Install Alderman John Toman in the Sheriff's Office!

The New 1935 Convertible Phaeton

They Look Like $3000 Cars But Sell for $695 and up at factory

• If you have owned only the costliest motor cars, you are accustomed to those things which are of the very highest order.

Any departure from them is distasteful to you. Nor is it necessary to make this transition, now.

The most expensive American automobiles have been taken as the exemplar in designing the New 1935 Auburn Models. This will be evident to you immediately when you inspect these New Auburns.

Here is personal transportation that makes no compromise with quality; that differs widely from mass-production cars; that is in keeping with your own standards; and in which your individual tastes find expression.

1935 Improvements and Betterments:—Long wheelbase; Lycoming Engine with great reserve of power; Unitweld steel body for quietness, safety, endurance; most rigid of frames; hydraulic brakes that insure a quick, safe, smooth stop every time; ride stabilizer and balanced weight that combine to provide exceptional roadability. —And of course Auburn's Dual-Ratio—is obtainable.

DUCE PICKS SELF AS PRESIDENT OF 22 'NRA CODES'

Working of Recovery Act in Italy Explained.

ROME, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The number of important state jobs Premier Mussolini holds will be increased by 22 when his corporative system of government starts functioning on Nov. 10.

On that date he will assume the presidency of one score and two corporations into which the nation's many spheres of working activity will be grouped for an experiment in what is advertised as self-rule.

These corporations are to be in their makeup somewhat similar to the 22 groups into which the 600 American codes are being divided under the NRA administration.

Aids to Run Corporations.

To assure proper coördination each corporation will be headed for an indefinite period by the minister of corporations, who is Mussolini himself. The corporations' portfolio is one of seven cabinet posts he holds personally.

The actual management of the corporations is to be left to vice presidents, who will be appointed by the premier from among three representatives of the Fascist party on each of the corporations' governing boards.

Thus has Mussolini made sure of strict central control over the infant corporative state. It has been in process of organization for more than eight years and is hailed here as an "economic and political revolution."

An assembly of the boards of all the corporations—in total 739 persons—will meet under the Duce's direction to inaugurate the system, which is expected with time to crowd out the old parliamentary régime.

Await Statement by Duce.

It is generally believed Mussolini will make an important pronouncement on that occasion, perhaps definitly sealing the fate of the present chamber of deputies. The corporations are to have lawmaking powers, and he has already said that with their perfection the chamber will have no further reason to exist.

Authority to enact legislation will be vested in a national corporative council. Next in grade to this will be the 22 individual corporations, each representing a "cycle" of the nation's producing or working activities. The corporations will draft the laws and forward them to the council.

Below the corporations come national federations, which will subdivide the corporative cycles into hundreds of different "categories." Each federation will be represented locally by provincial syndicates, and members of the governing boards of the corporations will be selected by Mussolini from candidates proposed by the federations.

The provincial syndicates and the national federations will maintain a division between workers and employers, who will be brought into union only in the corporations and the superior corporative council.

Scheme Is Explained.

For example, each province will have a syndicate of workers and a syndicate of employers for each line of working activity. The provincial workers' syndicates will come to a head in national federations for each line represented. There will be parallel national federations to group the provincial employers' syndicates.

The employers and the workers' federations will propose candidates in equal numbers to the corporation boards, and the government in its selection from among these candidates will accord an equal number of representatives to each side.

Hence, for instance, the grain corporation will take in 13 employers and 13 workers. Like all the other corporations it will also have three government appointed technical experts and three members of the Fascist party.

It will bring together all national federations which embrace categories having to do with the raising, selling, and utilization of grains. These are to include growers of wheat, corn, rice, and other grains, marketers of grains, bakers, and others.

HUNGARY HIDES TIME OF PREMIER'S TRIP FOR ROME

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Hungarian authorities, apparently nervous over the recent assassinations at Marseilles, tonight refused to reveal the Premier Julius Goemboes' departure for Vienna and Rome.

The foreign office even refused to say whether the premier—who will confer with Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria and Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy—would travel by train, automobile or airplane. It was known, however, that Goemboes expected to reach Vienna before noon tomorrow and spend the afternoon visiting Schuschnigg and Franz von Papen, Germany's special emissary to Austria.

Foremost topic between Mussolini and Goemboes will be revision of the treaty of Trianon which sliced off parts of Hungary's former territory and allotted them to Czechoslovakia and Jugo-Slavia. Unlike the rest of the central powers, Hungary has never ceased agitating for treaty revision.

ITALIAN MONARCH BEGINS TWO WEEK VISIT TO AFRICA

MOGADISHU, Italian Somaliland, Nov. 3.—(AP)—King Victor Emmanuel arrived here today to look over this African possession of Italy. The purpose of the king's two weeks' visit is to consolidate the respect and good will of the native population for its Italian masters, and to run a practiced soldier's eye over the colony's defenses. He was greeted by Gov. Maurizio Rava, the entire 30,000 population of the city, and thousands of hinterland natives.

Clad in white duck regimentals and sun helmet, King Victor Emmanuel slid into this faraway port aboard the royal yacht Savoia. All craft in the harbor were decked with flags, whistles were blown and guns were fired from the harbor fortifications in salute to his majesty.

ALL FAITHS JOIN PLEA FOR AID TO PRIVATE CHARITY

Community Fund Reveals Leaders' Statements.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Nationally known Protestant, Catholic and Jewish leaders, in statements made public yesterday by the 1934 community fund of Chicago, urged the public to support local welfare campaigns. They stressed the necessity for the continuance of private welfare work despite the huge sums being spent by the government for relief.

The spokesmen were Dr. Albert W. Beaven, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America; Cardinal Patrick Hayes of New York, and Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver of Cleveland.

Stresses Character Building.

Said Rabbi Silver: "Our federal government is spending vast sums on unemployment relief, but beyond a certain point these funds will not go. Our hospitals, clinics and dispensaries must go on, so must foster homes and orphanages and homes for the aged. Settlements and recreation centers are our character building agencies and they cannot cease without seriously increasing the tension of the crisis through which we are passing."

Cardinal Hayes reminded the public "that brotherhood widespread in this country which should never permit one's neighbor to suffer." He urged all to give to the private charity drives to help along those whose hope is almost gone.

Dr. Beaven appealed for the maintenance "of that element of friendly coöperation in time of need, which is one of the finest traditions of American life."

"They Built Comradeship."

"In the early days of our forefathers," he continued, "when a neighbor was ill or in distress, friends came in and helped. Such help built a comradeship which was the foundation of community solidarity. Our present community institutions, such as the community chest, express the same friendly social interest in our neighbors.

"While the government, through tax money, has been attempting to care for certain basic needs due to unemployment, the need for private social work has increased, for what is needed is not simply food and clothes but friendly interest and helpfulness in times when personalities have been hurt worse than bodies."

Drive Passes Half Way Mark.

The Chicago Community Fund for several weeks has been seeking 3 million dollars to help finance the work of 130 private welfare agencies in the city. More than half of this fund has been raised, chiefly through the efforts of prominent business men.

At present employés are being organized in firms and corporations, contributing at least a half day's pay each month for six months. The local Community Fund headquarters is at 111 West Washington street. Individual contributions are accepted there.

Carl Middaugh, Swift Co. Employe 33 Years, Dies

Carl R. Middaugh, 1515 East 67th place, who was for thirty-three years connected with Swift & Co., died yesterday at St. Luke's hospital of heart disease. Funeral services for Miss Mary E. Murray, retired school teacher and treasurer of the Chicago Teachers' federation, who died Friday night of a heart attack in her home at 4209 West Washington boulevard, will be held Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mel's church. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

Miss Murray, who was 72 years old, began teaching in 1879. At the time of her retirement in January, 1933, she was associated with the Seward grade school. She was one of the 68 teachers ousted by the Loeb rule in 1916, but she regained her job after a year. She was one of the leaders of the teachers' federation.

Survivors include a brother, John, and two sisters, Nellie and Katherine, all of 4209 West Washington boulevard.

FRANK H. CULVER DEAD; ATTORNEY HALF A CENTURY

Frank H. Culver, 81 years old, who for more than fifty years was a practicing attorney in Chicago, died yesterday at the home of friends at 5543 Winthrop avenue. He retired from the practice of law five years ago and had been ill for the last year.

Mr. Culver, who was graduated from the Michigan university law school in 1875, devoted much of his time to interests of the university. Following his graduation he opened his law office in Chicago and was the attorney for several railroads. He was the former law partner of the late Superior Court Judge Arthur H. Chetlain.

Funeral services for Mr. Culver, who was a bachelor, will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the chapel at 929 Belmont avenue.

ALICE OF "ALICE IN WONDERLAND" BATTLES DEATH

Doctors Give Up Hope for Book's Heroine.

WESTERHAM, England, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The original "Alice in Wonderland," Mrs. Alice Hargreaves, was critically ill tonight at her hilltop house in this Kentish village. Physicians pronounced her condition unchanged since this morning. They said she would not survive.

She is 82 years old. When she was a child of 10, the Rev. Charles Lutwidge Dodgson, a mathematically-inclined village vicar, told her the story of the little girl who went down a rabbit hole into Wonderland, peopled with such as the Mad Hatter and the Cheshire Cat.

Named Little Girl Alice.

He named the little girl Alice after his listener, Alice Liddell, who later became Mrs. Hargreaves, and wrote Alice's Adventures in Wonderland under the name of Lewis Carroll.

This and following books written by Carroll have come to be ranged with English classics.

Mrs. Hargreaves was taken ill about 10 days ago. At her bedside are her son, Capt. Caryl Hargreaves, and her sister, Miss Rhoda Liddell.

Honored in United States.

On her 80th birthday, May 4, 1932, Mrs. Hargreaves was present at a centenary celebration for Lewis Carroll at Columbia university, New York.

Accompanied by her sister and her son she was widely feted. Oscar of the Waldorf presented her with a birthday cake decorated with characters out of Carroll's Alice in Wonderland—the Unicorn, the Cheshire Cat, the Mad Hatter, the White Rabbit, and even little Alice herself.

Columbia conferred on her the degree of doctor of letters.

Carroll, more obscurely known as the Rev. C. L. Dodgson, also published several mathematical works under his own name. The original manuscript of "Alice" came into the possession of Mrs. Hargreaves and she sold it at a London auction in April, 1928, for $77,000.

SIX CIVIL WAR DEAD WILL BE REBURIED IN GRAVES OF HONOR

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Six civil war dead, who waited seventy years in shallow, unmarked graves on the Chancellorsville and Wilderness battlefields, will be buried with military honors Armistice day in the national cemetery at Fredericksburg, Va.

The bodies were discovered by CCC workers. For the new graves the national park service, which has charge of the cemetery, has chosen a beauty spot on Marye's Heights above the sunken road where thousands of fellow soldiers met death in the battle of Fredericksburg.

Some of their surviving comrades and veterans of the Spanish-American and world wars will attend the rites, which are to be directed by the American Legion.

Mrs. Dora E. Rohweder, 89, Is Dead in Geneseo, Ill.

Geneseo, Ill., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Mrs. Dora E. Rohweder, 89, mother of Mayor Louis Rohweder and Postmaster George Rohweder of Geneseo, died last night. Five sons, a daughter, four grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren survive.

REV. GROTEFELD, DOWNERS GROVE CHURCHMAN, DIES

Funeral services for the Rev. William Grotefeld, who died at his home, 1110 Grove avenue, Downers Grove, Friday night, will be held from the Evangelical Bethany church, Cullom avenue and Paulina street, at 2 p. m. tomorrow, with burial in Eden cemetery. The body will lie in the church, of which he was founder and pastor for 25 years, from 10 a. m. tomorrow until the funeral.

The Rev. Mr. Grotefeld, born in Holstein, Mo., 71 years ago, had been a resident of Chicago and vicinity for 40 years. For eight years he was pastor of St. Paul's church of Downers Grove, and recently had served as institutional missionary, visiting hospitals and other institutions. Surviving him are his widow, Amalie, nee Kircher, and six children. Four sons are William, Herbert, and Theodore of Downers Grove, and Oswald of Chicago. Daughters are Mrs. Alma Vanderhoef, who lives in California, and Mrs. Anna Mandel of La Grange.

N. Y. UNIVERSITY EX-CHANCELLOR IS DEAD AT 72

New York, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Dr. Elmer Ellsworth Brown, chancellor emeritus of New York university, died tonight at his home of cardiac pneumonia. He was 72 years old.

Dr. Brown retired on July 1, 1933, and was succeeded by Harry Woodburn Chase, formerly president of the University of Illinois and the University of North Carolina.

A native of Chautauqua county, N. Y., Dr. Brown received his bachelor of arts degree at the University of Michigan in 1889 and then studied in Germany.

He began teaching in Illinois and then went to his alma mater as assistant professor of science and art of teaching. In 1893 he went to the University of California and three years later became United States commissioner of education. He was appointed chancellor of New York university in 1911.

BURIAL SERVICE TOMORROW FOR J. I. M'CARTHY

Funeral services for James I. McCarthy, former assistant Chicago corporation counsel who died in Kalispell, Mont., last Monday, will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. from the residence, 11326 Parnell avenue, to St. Catharine of Genoa church, 118th street and Lowe avenue. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

Mr. McCarthy was 54 years old and a native of Chicago. His law offices were at 111 West Washington street. He had gone to Montana for his health. Surviving him are his widow, Elizabeth, and four children, Ione, Dorothy, James and Robert, all living at the family home.

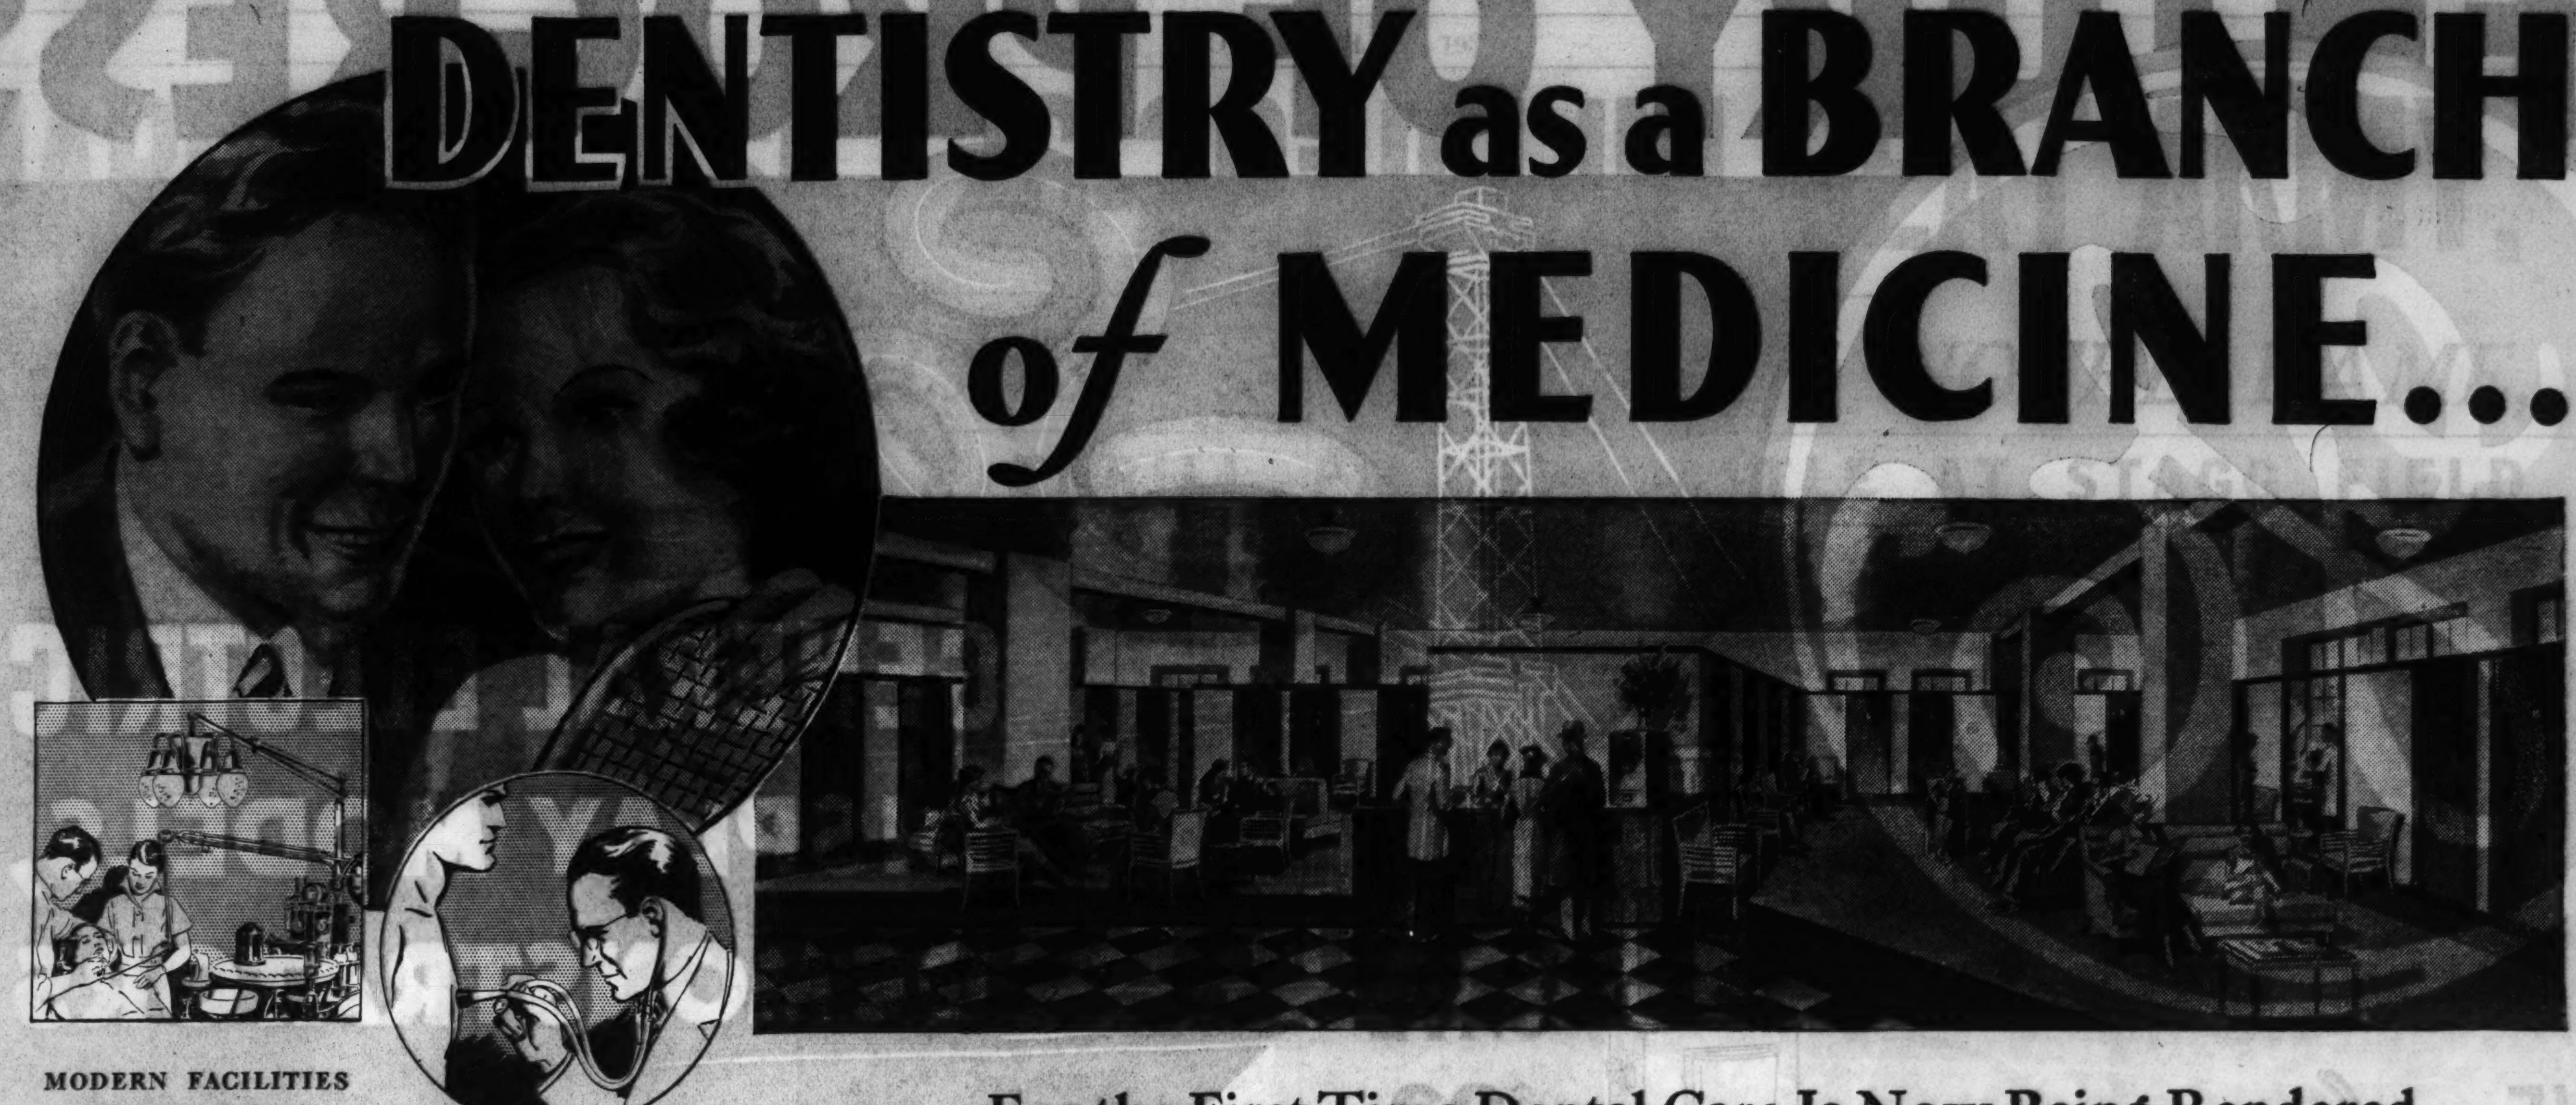
DENTISTRY as a BRANCH of MEDICINE...



MODERN FACILITIES AND LOW COST

No expense was spared in providing the most modern equipment obtainable. These illustrations will give some idea of the completeness of service, and the spacious and restful quarters which have been provided. Low costs are possible because of the close association of all the professions such as Medicine, Dentistry, Optometry, Pharmacy, Clinical Laboratory, X-ray, Hospital and all other associated activities under one administration.

With the development of the new Dental Department the UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE is giving to Chicago its first low cost, responsible dental service, which many private, charitable and philanthropic organizations, including leaders of the dental profession, have for many years deemed so necessary to public welfare . . . yet have been unable to provide.

For the First Time Dental Care Is Now Being Rendered As a Branch of Medicine, Where It Properly Belongs

The physicians who organized UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE, knowing the importance of the mouth and teeth in relation to ailments affecting other parts of the body, properly included Dentistry in order that a more valuable and completely protective medical service could be rendered. As a result, dentistry, for the first time, is operating as a branch of medicine along with other medical departments as one complete service. All dental examinations, care and replacement work are done as a medical protective procedure and no general medical examination can be considered complete without a thorough examination of the mouth and teeth. Associated dentists, responsible for this service, are graduated from A-1 schools, registered bythe State of Illinois and are considered members of the UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE staff.

Growth of the Division of Dentistry

UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE Division of Dentistry originally started with four dental chairs and one dental X-ray machine. Within a year the department had grown to eleven dental chairs and two dental X-ray machines. Now after scarcely more than 18 months' operation an entire new floor has been rented and practically all of this additional space devoted to

A New Dental Department

The new department includes 21 separate treatment and examining rooms, containing the newest and most modern dental service equipment obtainable. No expense was spared in the design and equipment of these individual rooms. Every facility necessary for adequate and competent dental examination and care as well as for the comfort of the patient has been provided. These complete facilities also include a CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT where special dental service for the protection and care of children's teeth is available. Attractive and comfortably furnished reception rooms afford pleasant surroundings for relaxation and rest.

The Dangerous Results of Tooth Decay

Nearly all teeth will eventually show signs of decay even with daily brushing and regular cleaning. In many cases decay begins early, so early in fact that the temporary teeth of childhood often decay and are gone long before the permanent teeth are ready to take their place. This condition can also affect the permanent teeth, causing decay and possible loss before all of the temporary teeth have been replaced. When decay attacks the teeth it must be stopped before it reaches the pulp, that vital part of the tooth which contains the nerve and blood supply. When this occurs the tooth will cause pain. After the nerve is destroyed and the tooth devitalized the pain may cease, but the remaining infection will cause its eventual removal. While the loss of a tooth is a serious thing the infection causing the loss often becomes a source of great danger to other parts of the body.

Infection developing around the roots of devitalized teeth often spreads to other parts of the body through the blood stream and lymph channels where it may involve seriously the joints, stomach and other organs, causing arthritis, inflammation, pain or swelling of the joints, stomach ulcer and other disabling conditions.

When necessary dental care of infected teeth is delayed too long secondary centers of infection may be set up in other parts of the body and continue its destructive effects long after the diseased teeth have been extracted. In such cases life itself may be endangered. Periodical examinations and early dental care will stop tooth decay and prevent infection with its consequent loss of teeth, and other bodily ailments. All persons should have their teeth and mouth thoroughly and carefully examined by a competent dentist at least every six months. These examinations should always include a full-mouth X-ray of the teeth, for quite frequently normal appearing teeth may harbor decay which the dentist cannot see. Only an X-ray can disclose hidden cavities, impacted teeth, broken roots and what is most important and dangerous, hidden infection. When decay is discovered early, valuable teeth can be saved through the use of fillings, crowns, in-lays and other dental procedures.

When Extraction Is Necessary

When teeth cannot be saved and extraction is necessary medical and dental progress have made it possible to do so with greater safety through the use of the X-ray and with scarcely any pain or discomfort through the use of a local or general anaesthetic, as the case demands or the patient desires. In most cases extraction is painless.

Patients at the UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE receive unusual protection when having teeth extracted. Before a general anaesthetic is given the heart and lungs of the patient are examined by a physician at no additional charge to determine whether or not gas anaesthesia is a safe procedure.

Fine Dental Laboratory Work Is Necessary

The proper replacement of teeth through bridgework or partial and complete plates or sets of new teeth, known as dentures, depends not only upon the scientific knowledge and skill of the dentist making the impression, but upon the quality of materials used and the workmanship of highly trained dental laboratory technicians. Realizing the importance of this branch of dental service UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE operates its own manufacturing dental laboratories. No expense was spared in providing all the necessary dental laboratory equipment and other facilities to aid our highly trained and experienced technicians. As a result, new standards have been set in quality and workmanship at substantial reductions in all previous costs for comparable services.

Complete Service at Low Cost

The UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE has made available to the public for the first time at a lower cost than was heretofore thought possible, modern medical and dental services including preventive, curative, corrective, replacement and other protective measures against local and general systemic dangers due to decay and infection of teeth. In this connection it must be remembered that no dental care or service can be considered permanent. Teeth that were originally sound begin to decay; teeth that have been treated by dentists can also again begin to decay; structural changes that occur with advancing years often make additional dental care and replacements of what were once perfectly fitting dentures necessary from time to time, in order to preserve the ability of the patient to masticate his food, maintain his appearance, and keep in good health.

GOOD TEETH, GOOD HEALTH AND GOOD APPEARANCE can only be had and maintained by regular visits to your doctor and dentist.

A medical, dental diagnostic examination, including a full mouth X-ray (14 films), cleaning of the teeth, examination by a competent dentist, urinalysis, complete blood and serological tests for $3.00.

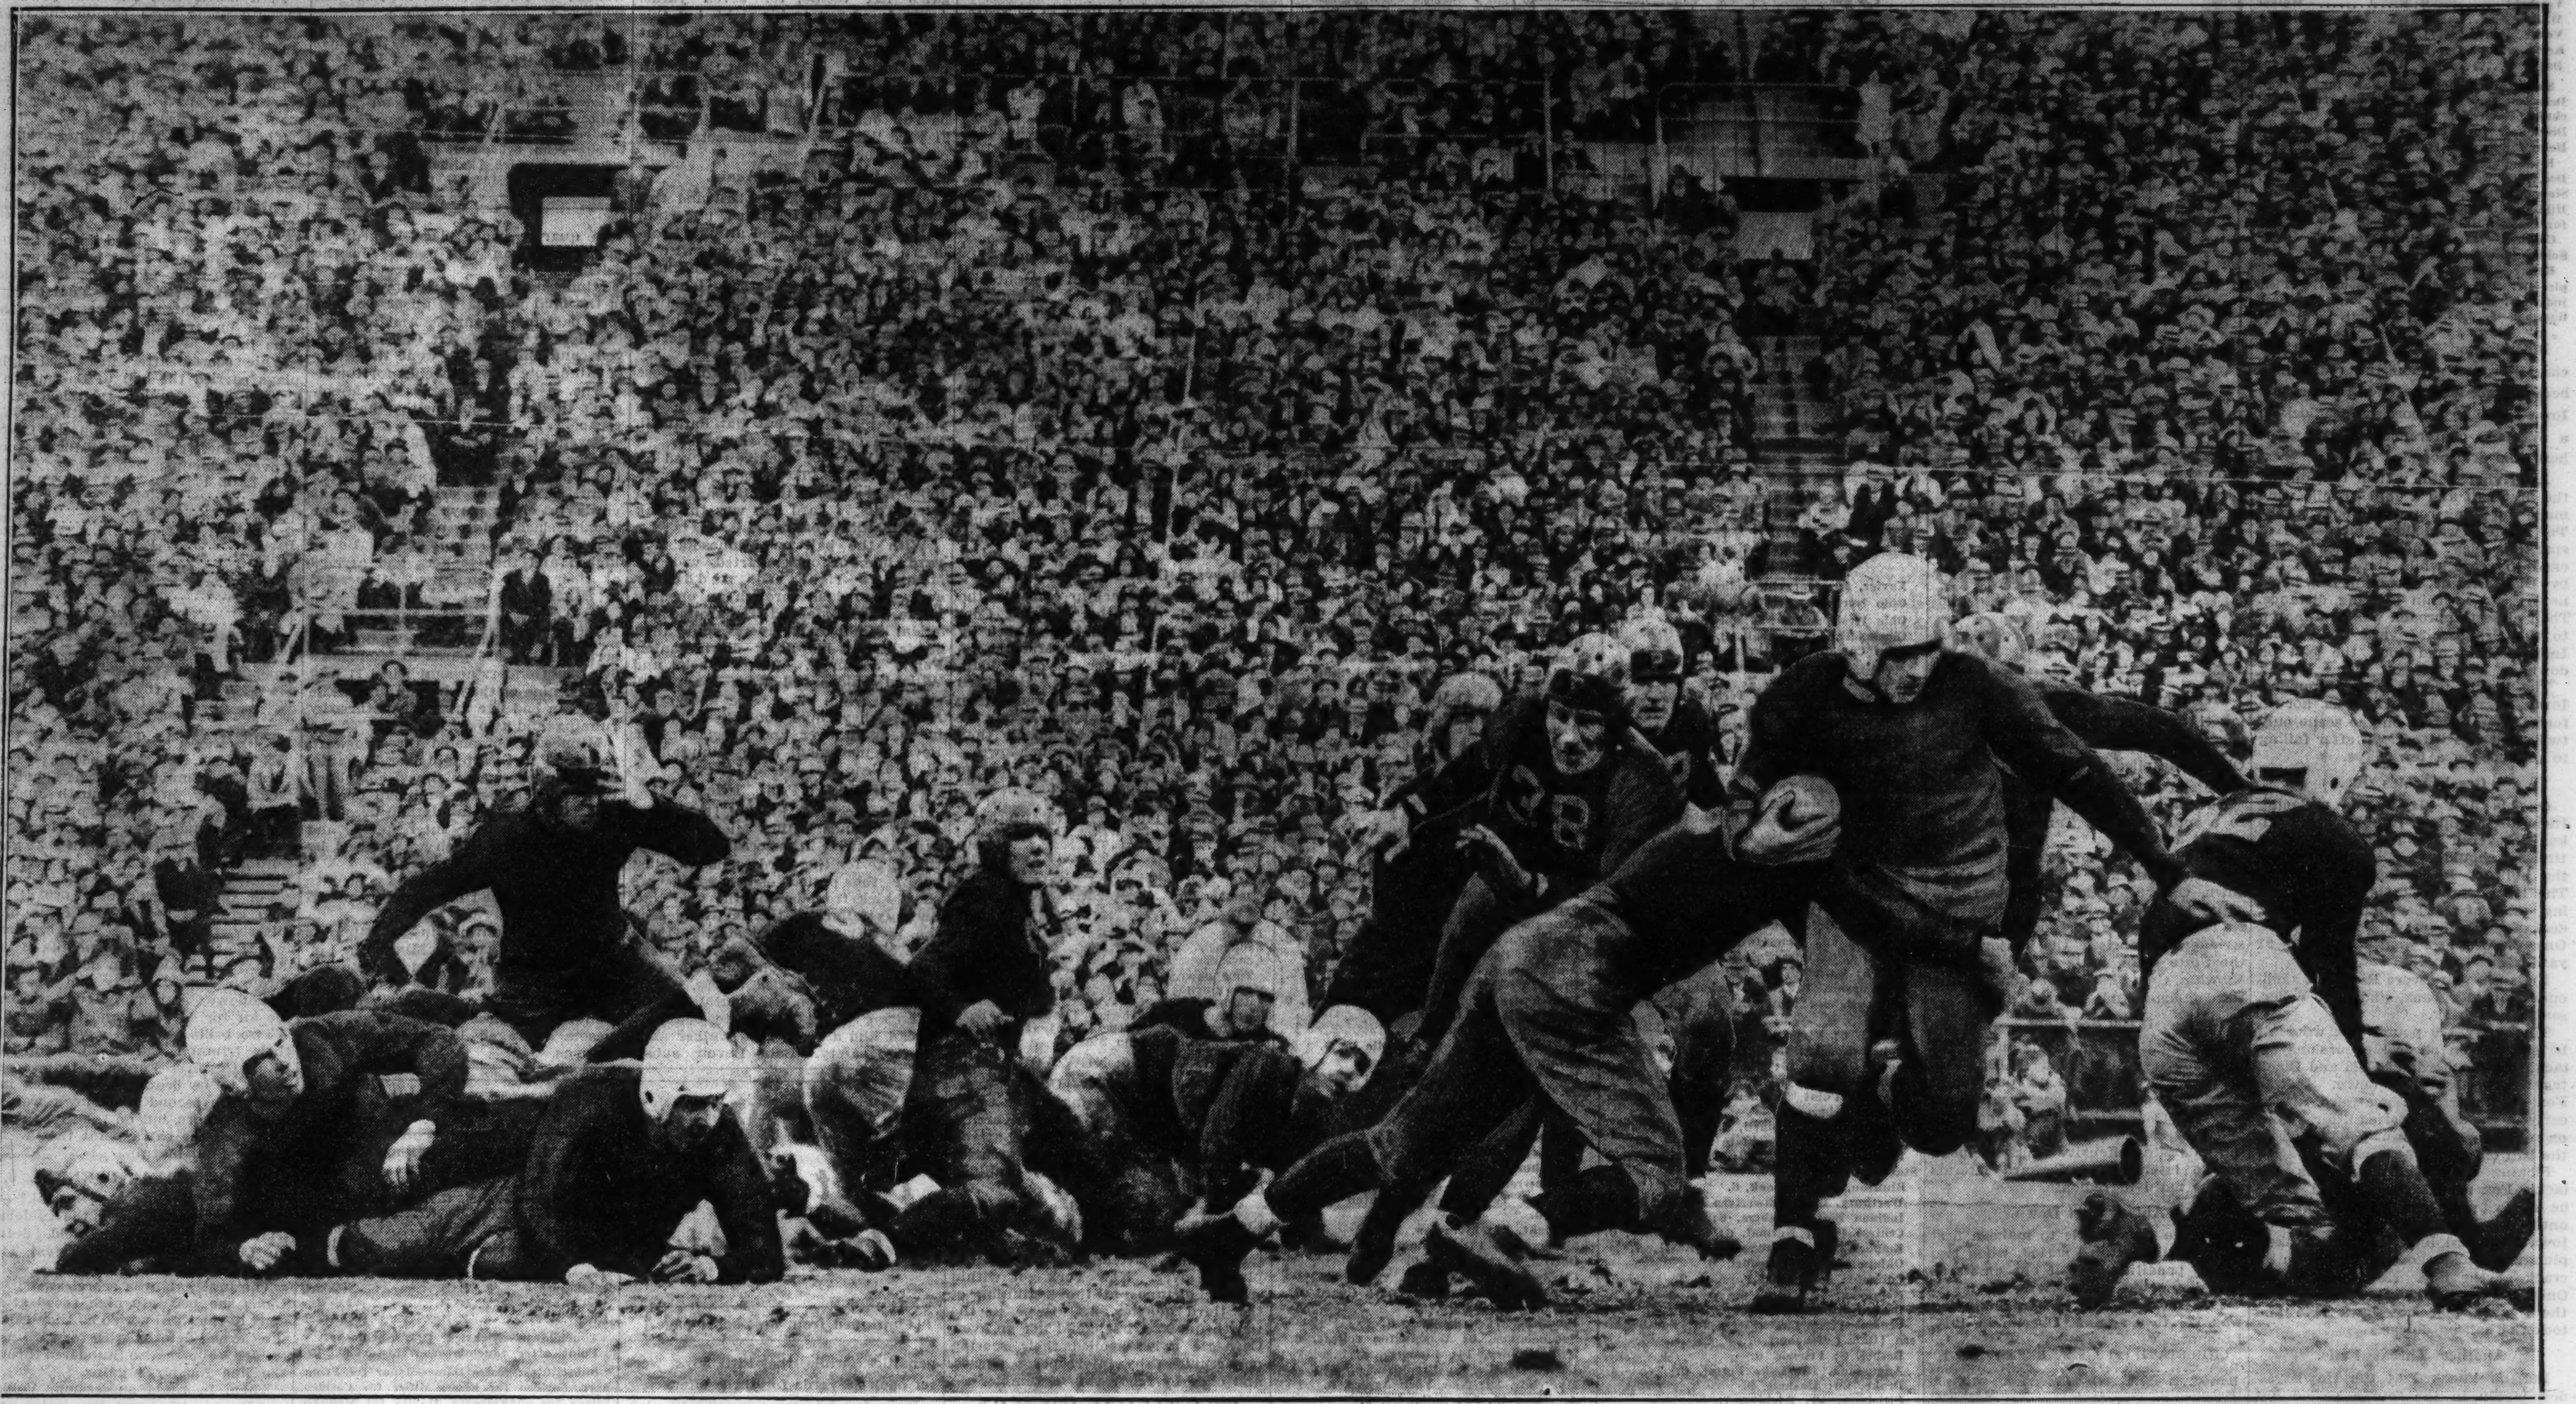
ONE OF THRILLS IN A THRILL PACKED BATTLE AT STAGG FIELD



Rainwater Wells, University of Chicago half back, is tackled after cutting through Purdue's line in the second quarter of yesterday's battle at Stagg field, where the Boilermakers finished on top, 26 to 20, in as thrilling a game as any one would want to see. No. 38 is Ed Skoronski of Purdue, a Chicago boy, who is dashing over to help bring down Wells. At the right, John Baker, Chicago end (No. 52), is helping to take out the Boilermaker end. A crowd of 32,000 saw the game, the second half of which was played in a steady rain. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

32,000 FORGET RAIN AS PURVIS, CARTER, BERWANGER RUN WILD

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Sages who forecast a great football game between Purdue and Chicago failed in their most extravagant moments to anticipate the extent of magnificent play shown in the Boilermakers' 26 to 20 triumph over the Maroons before 32,000 at Stagg field yesterday afternoon.

Wiseacres who said Duane Purvis and Jim Carter, Purdue's dynamic touchdown twins, would vie with Jay Berwanger, the Maroons' superb iron man, for the edification of the fans who claim that the trio represents the best the nation has in half backs, foresaw only part of the truth. If you saw the game and must pick a mythical team of satellites you can do nothing but have three half backs on your eleven—Purvis and Carter and Berwanger! And if you need another back, you can't go wrong in writing in the name of little Tommy Flinn, the Maroons' fighting quarter back.

A Hollywood publicist would describe the first half of yesterday's spectacle as terrific, stupendous, and colossal—a super classic of open style football. But our language must be temperate and we'll simply say that the first half was mighty swell football. It rained during the second half, rained hard, but, even so, the inspired young men didn't let the show become sloppy.

Purdue Starts Early

Purdue scored twice in the first quarter. Carter made a touchdown on a one yard end run after the ball had been advanced 36 yards on two Purvis-Haas forward passes in a 51 yard march. The score became 13 to 0 for Purdue later in the first quarter when Carter ran 61 yards off tackle for a touchdown.

In the second quarter the Maroons showed they had what it takes when they took the lead, 14 to 13. Berwanger went on a rampage in the closing minutes of the first quarter and on the first play of the second quarter the 26 yards to the goal line were negotiated on a pass, Berwanger to Flinn. Another pass to Flinn, backed up by the quarter back's 55 yard run, good for a total gain of 68 yards gave the Maroons their second touchdown.

Purdue had lost a point after touchdown on its second touchdown because of a holding penalty and as a consequence the Maroons went into the last two minutes of the first half leading, 14 to 13. But the lead did not prevail to the half. Purvis led a romp from Purdue's 32 yard line, which ended in a touchdown on his 35 yard pass over the goal line to Haas. The yardage, as such things are compiled, was 35 yards, but the toss itself was something like 50 yards.

One Period Without Score.

There was no score in the rainy third period and each team scored a touchdown in the final period, Purdue getting one on Purvis' 73 yard run off tackle in the first minute and Chicago rallying near the end, Berwanger going over on a 7 yard pass from Flinn after no end of preparatory heroics. The Maroons marched 85

Wildcats Push Badgers Into Cellar, 7 to 0

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Northwestern-Wisconsin football game at Dyche stadium yesterday afternoon, in which each was trying to break a mutual lease on the Western conference basement, wasn't four minutes old before hundreds of rain flecked Purple balloons, indicating a Wildcat touchdown, ascended to the glowering sky. Thereafter more than 15,000 loyal Northwestern and Wisconsin people sat through a dismal drizzle to watch the Wildcats cling to that touchdown and the subsequent conversion for a 7 to 0 victory, their second of the season and their first since the opener against Marquette.

The elements conspired against both teams once they had got under way, particularly against Wisconsin, which obviously was relying on passes after its running attack had failed. The customers who stayed through the rain were entertained considerably, however, by the good right foot of Steve Toth, Northwestern sophomore, whose punts kept the Badgers in their place throughout the afternoon.

Averages 50 Yards.

During the first half, Toth, a native of Hungary, who had played one year of high school football before coming to Evanston, averaged 50 yards on his kicks, including one prodigious boot which bounded 90 yards down the field. For the game, Steve's average was 45 yards. The young man added to these efforts by the manner in which he executed his punts, holding the ball until the last second to give the Wildcat stands heart failure several times, but he had nary a one blocked.

Toth was one of several young men accustomed to being sent in during the last two minutes of a game who were allowed to serve full time yesterday, and all served with distinction.

Among others who labored well were Freddie Lind, who called signals from the left half post and scored the one touchdown of the game from the Wisconsin 20 yard line on a neatly executed reverse; Park Wray and Dewitt Gibson at tackle, and Steve Reid at guard. Of the veterans Hugh Duvall,

GOPHERS' SECOND HALF PARADE ROUTS MICHIGAN BEFORE 58,000

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 3.—Minnesota's mighty men, modern Vikings of the Northland, rode again this afternoon and proud Michigan, once ruler of the west, fell before their terrific power, 34 to 0, while 58,000 who jammed the concrete slopes of Memorial stadium and overflowed to temporary bleachers and side line seats cheered Minnesota's greatest homecoming victory, the first in gridiron history over the Maize and Blue.

Minnesota today expected a smashing triumph and Minnesota received that triumph from her football sons, who tonight are heralded with unstinted praise as the greatest football machine of all time at this outpost of the Western conference. But this victory, so sweet to Minnesota after years of defeat and misplaced hopes, was not achieved until a stubborn foe had fought desperately throughout a scoreless first half and had given all its strength in vain effort.

Michigan lost, but Minnesota long will remember the first thirty minutes of today's battle. In that time the Gophers never reached midfield, accomplished only one first down and that just before intermission, and were backed to their own goal by Michigan guile and carefully planned line defense.

Michigan Threat Fades.

Michigan's high tide of advance began with a blocked Minnesota punt and flowed to within 5 yards of a touchdown in the first quarter before the Gophers dug in and stemmed the assault. When the teams quit the field at the half the honors rested with Michigan and the hopes of the vast throng were as gray as the lowering November sky above.

Was Michigan, already thrice defeated this fall, again to exercise its spell over the Gophers?

Minnesota men gave the answer. Returning to the battle, they seized obvious opportunity to pass over Michigan's furiously fighting line and thrust successfully through the undermanned secondary for the first score. Then, with victory still in doubt, since Michigan had blocked the try for the extra point, they raged along the ground with ever increasing power to add four more touchdowns. Another was called back because of infraction of the rules.

Only fifteen times in the second half did Michigan have the ball for plays from scrimmage. The Wolverines never touched the ball except to kick off, while Minnesota was blasting to its first pair of touchdowns.

Pug Is Guiding Light.

Capt. Pug Lund, dependable kicker, determined runner, and confident on defense, knitted together the Gopher eleven, which had faltered in the first half. Working with him was speedy

65,000 Watch Panthers Give Irish Beating

BY FRENCH LANE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 3.—Notre Dame's football team invaded Pitt stadium today and found a snarling bloodthirsty University of Pittsburgh Panther anxiously awaiting its arrival.

After 65,000 spectators had gazed upon the spectacle for nearly two hours, they saw Mr. Panther stroking his whiskers and smacking his lips. There was no doubt about it; the Panther had enjoyed a delicious feast. It had to be, for the score board read:

Pittsburgh, 19; Notre Dame, 0.

For the first time this year Notre Dame's inspired young men ran into an opponent so powerful that they were completely overwhelmed. They encountered an opponent that functioned perfectly. It was a team that could do everything a great football team is supposed to do; a team that blocked and tackled and formed interference like so much machinery; a team that might have beaten any college eleven in the world on this particular afternoon.

Just Too Good.

So the Irish were routed. They were dazzled by the sizzling speed and perfection of a superior football army. Yet throughout it all, they were the same old fighting Irish of Rockne days.

The statistics best tell the story of Pitt's power. The Panthers rolled up 232 yards from scrimmage to 60 for Notre Dame. However, Pitt made only nine first downs, two of them on penalties, to five for Notre Dame.

The Panthers completed none of their ten passes, but none was intercepted. It was usually a case of overthrowing the receiver. Notre Dame completed one pass, Andy Pilney to Marty Peters, for 37 yards in nine attempts. Pitt's speed and alert defense intercepted six others.

Plenty of Thrills.

Notre Dame averaged 42 yards on punts, compared to 36 for Pitt, but the Panthers offset this handicap by returning punts 101 yards to Notre Dame's 58 yards. Notre Dame, fighting for every inch, lost 50 yards on six

ILLINOIS BLOCKS PUNT, THEN PORTMAN RUNS FOR TOUCHDOWN

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 3.—Illinois' title seeking football eleven kept unblemished its season's escutcheon by defeating Army, conqueror of Yale, 7 to 0, at Memorial stadium this afternoon, before 45,000 spectators. Victory evened the all-time record between the two teams at two each.

The crowd, assembled to pay dual honor to Illini and their dads and to Army as a respected opponent, saw a contest of thrills despite most dismal weather conditions for the spectators, and a slippery, treacherous ball for the players.

Take Advantage of Break.

Illinois' lone touchdown represented the breaks between two elevens otherwise almost evenly matched as the game was played. Illinois capitalized a blocked punt after ten minutes of play in the first period into a touchdown. Thereafter they cautiously protected that lead. Army, with even better opportunity as the indirect result of a blocked punt in the fourth period, failed to profit from its break to the extent of scoring, and that failure represented its last chance of the afternoon.

Army apparently had more power in attack. Statistics recorded 7 first downs with 134 yards from scrimmage against 2 first downs and 50 yards by rushing for the Illini. Yet those figures are as misleading as statistics often are. Reading farther, one sees that Illinois punted eighteen times to 13 by Army with a 206 yards advantage therefrom.

Fumbles Are Frequent.

This was sound strategy for Illinois had the jump under conditions where possession of a slippery ball was almost as much a liability as an asset. Ten Army fumbles, three of which were recovered by Illinois, proves that point. Army recovered one of Illinois' fumbles.

Caution to the nth degree was Jack Beynon's field generalship with punts called for on second and third, often first downs, and never running out the string to four downs. Illinois, too, gave an impression of greater passing strength than it showed. The only four passes attempted were direct, with no laterals which might be intercepted or recovered.

Before the battle ended, from the muddy field, which would have been a quagmire if it had not been covered by a tarpaulin until game time, were taken "Texas Jack" Buckler, Army triple threat star and principal factor of the Cadets' stand for three quarters, and Chuck Galbreath, Illinois' fighting 177 pound tackle. Both appeared badly injured and were given applause from both east and west stands as they retired. Later reports from dressing rooms indicated no permanent injuries.

Rain Drenches Spectators.

Driving rain started shortly before noon just as special trains from Chicago and other points began discharging their alumni cargo on the stadium side tracks. It continued through the first half, at times such a downpour players were hardly discernible. Through that downpour sat the crowd, only about one-fourth of whom were under cover. The others were accoutered with raincoats and oilcloth coverings. In the second half the rain

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Twelve thousand drenched homecoming fans watched Indiana and Iowa battle to a scoreless deadlock in a Western conference football game here this afternoon.

A driving rain which fell during the first half and a chill 30 mile wind made the going rough for both teams. The contest was slow and devoid of sparkling play. Indiana twice threatened to score while the Iowans, led by Dick Crayne, ironman full back, never got within striking distance. Their closest approach was on a march to the Crimson 25 yard line, where Indiana held and took the ball on downs.

The highly touted Oze Simmons, Iowa Negro half back, was not in form. He appeared on the scene only twice and was withdrawn after failing to produce on a few plays.

Oze Fumbles One.

On his first play, after replacing Richards, Simmons fumbled and Walker recovered for Indiana. On the tireless shoulders of Crayne rested the bulk of Iowa's offensive efforts. The 190 pound back did all the punting, most of the passing and a great deal of the ball carrying for his team. One of Crayne's punts traveled 91 yards.

The shifty 170 pound Fox wouldn't be stopped on several excursions off tackle until a horde of Gold and Black tacklers brought him down. It was Fox who started a goalward march early in the second period after a gain on exchanging punts gave Indiana the ball on Iowa's 34 yard line.

Picking a hole through his left tackle Fox ran 11 yards. With Veller he kept ripping through the Iowa line until the Hoosiers had the ball on Iowa's 15 yard line. Wendel Walker, plunging back, then was sent in to crack at the line. He replaced Fox. On the first play Walker smashed to the 9 yard line, but Iowa held and took the ball on downs.

Another Threat Fails.

Indiana knocked at the Hawkeyes' door again in the fourth period but couldn't put it across. Brilliant runs by Fox and Veller put the ball in front of the goal posts on the 9 yard line with only 3 yards to go on fourth down. Reed Kelso tried a placekick, but it was low.

Both teams cut loose with passes in the closing minutes but neither connected.

Both coaches substituted freely in a futile effort to gain scoring punch. The Iowans played without the services of Hoover, star half back, and Page, regular end, who were injured in the Minnesota game.

Hoosiers Lead in Gains.

Indiana gained 127 yards against Iowa's 75 and held the advantage on first downs, 8 to 4. Each team tried five passes, completing none, with the exception of two Indiana laterals, and each side intercepted three tosses.

Indiana's punts, kicked by Keck, averaged 40 yards, to 36 for Iowa. Each team committed two fumbles.

ZEPP SETS NEW MARK IN LOYOLA CROSS COUNTRY

A record breaking race by Billy Zepp gave Michigan State Normal of Ypsilanti the individual championship in the fourth annual running of the Loyola university cross country race yesterday, while a flip of a coin brought the team championship trophy to the Michigan school. Milwaukee State Teachers had finished in a 45 to 45 tie with Ypsilanti.

Illinois State Normal of Bloomington finished third with 70 points. Other team totals were: Bradley Tech, 90; Wheaton college, 124; Loyola, 140; Illinois college, 166; North Central, 181.

In winning the individual trophy Zepp lowered the course record held by Lyle Hutton of Illinois State Normal by :23.4 seconds. Zepp's time for the three and five-eights miles was 18:14.4. Both Werbin of Michigan Normal, who finished second, and Gummerson of Bradley, third place winner, broke the old record.

DE PAUW BEATS GEORGETOWN OF KENTUCKY, 49-6

Greencastle, Ind., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—DePauw university today continued undefeated but not unscored upon as the Tigers trounced Georgetown college of Kentucky, 49 to 6, for their thirteenth consecutive victory. Fribley, DePauw half back and leading scorer in the state, made the first three touchdowns to bring his total to 62 points for the season. Georgetown marred DePauw's perfect record in the last fifteen seconds of the game. A short pass, Day to Patrick, scored from the 15 yard line.

Ohio State Has Picnic Beating Reserve, 76-0

Cleveland, O., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Romping through to a 76 to 0 victory over Western Reserve university today, Ohio State piled up its largest football score since 1916.

Outweighing its opponents 20 pounds to a man, the Big Ten team scored almost at will.

Although Reserve shifted its defense in a futile attempt to keep the score down, Ohio State scored at least two of its 11 touchdowns in each quarter. In the second half, second and third stringers comprised the majority of the State team, but eager to make a showing, they piled up 21 points in the third quarter and 27 in the fourth.

18,000 See Rout.

Western Reserve officials announced that the crowd totaled 18,000. The Buckeyes were forced to punt only three times. With those exceptions every time the Buckeyes gained the ball they scored a touchdown, displaying a dazzling offensive which included double laterals and forward laterals as the main ingredients.

Ah! A First Down.

Reserve was unable to make a first down until the third period, when two offside penalties gave it one on its 38 yard line.

The Buckeyes' last previous big score was 128 to 0 against Oberlin in 1916. Lineup:

RUTH AND STARS APPEAR BEFORE JAPANESE TODAY

TOKIO, Nov. 3.—[U. P.]—Japanese citizens by the thousands acclaimed two of their greatest heroes today, the late Emperor Meiji and the very much alive George Herman [Babe] Ruth, baseball's home run king.

While celebrating the former ruler's anniversary, the Japanese used the holiday to pay homage to the Babe, visiting here with an All-Star American league baseball team which will play its first game in Tokio against a Japanese nine tomorrow.

Wherever the Babe went a crowd was sure to follow. They bombarded him with hundreds of floral bouquets. They stopped downtown trafic as they pressed forward to shake his hand. They called on the home run hitter for speeches.

"I got a charley horse in my arm from shaking hands," the Babe said as he retreated temporarily from the acclaim. "My legs are stiff from sitting on cushions on the floor. I expected we'd get a welcome, but I never thought I'd cause trafic jams."

Every seat has been sold for tomorrow's opening game at Meiji stadium.

BUTLER ELEVEN BEATEN, 32 TO 7, BY WASHINGTON

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Washington university gave Butler its first defeat of the season today, 32 to 7, on a muddy field.

The Bulldogs led, 7 to 6, at the end of the first half, but the heavier Bears overwhelmed their weary opponents in the later stages.

Ed Wagner, 185 pound half back, stood out for Washington. He splashed 80 yards for a touchdown which gave the Bears a commanding advantage and broke the back of the Butler defense. Capt. Harry Brown, Chick Droke, and Ernest Curtis were the other Bears to score touchdowns.

A blocked kick after the Bears had held on their 11 yard line gave Butler its touchdown in the opening period. Eddie O'Connor broke through, blocked a kick by Hobbs, and fell on the ball in the end zone. Bob Stewart converted the extra point with a drop kick.

CREIGHTON BEATS GRINNELL, 12 TO 6, IN 4TH QUARTER

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 3.—(AP)—A pass, Moran to Navolchick, standing on the goal line, gave Creighton a touchdown in the last ten seconds of play and a 12 to 6 conference victory over Grinnell in a Missouri Valley conference game this afternoon.

Creighton's two touchdowns came in the last three minutes of the final quarter after Kingery smashed through in the third for the Pioneers' touchdown. The Bluejays tied the score at 6 to 6 when Zuercher squirmed through at center from the six yard line for a touchdown.

RICHMOND WINS WITH 2 SCORES IN 5 MINUTES, 14 TO 13

Richmond, Va., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—With only five minutes of the game remaining and behind, 13 to 0, Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite's University of Richmond team took to the air and with the aid of seven completed passes, a 15 yard Georgetown penalty for roughing, and the recovery of a Georgetown fumble on the 40 yard line, scored two touchdowns in as many minutes and kicked both goals to win, 14 to 13, here today.

Thistlethwaite and the team were carried from the field by the crowd after the game.

The game was delayed for ten minutes after the winning point was scored while officials cleared the field for the few plays which remained.

No Post-Season Games Is Rule for Minnesota

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Whatever the outcome of the University of Minnesota's remaining football games, there is no likelihood the team will accept any invitation to play in post-season games, a canvass of campus sentiment by Tom Steward of the University News Service revealed today.

A Western conference rule forbids post-season games, which in itself covers the entire ground, it was said.

CALUMET HIGH SCHOOL DEFEATS CULVER, 14 TO 7

Culver, Ind., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Calumet High school of Chicago beat Culver Military academy, 14 to 7, today. The visitors took the lead early in the second quarter when Gallovitsch caught a long forward pass and ran 20 yards for a touchdown. A few minutes later Daluga, Calumet half back, ran 40 yards for another touchdown. The Cadets came back strong in the closing minutes of the first half and drove the length of the field for their only score.

PRINCETON STOPS HARVARD ELEVEN; TRIUMPHS, 19-0

Tigers Break Through in Fourth Period.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Princeton came back to the football wars with Harvard today, after a lapse of eight years, and celebrated the end of an historic feud by whipping the gallant but powerless Crimson team, 19 to 0.

For three periods Harvard's courageous and effective defense checked Princeton's power and thrilled a crowd of 35,000, one of the smallest that has seen these old rivals meet in 30 years. For three-quarters of the game this stubborn Crimson team held Princeton to one touchdown, turning back eight other marches, but Harvard weakened and was swamped in the final period.

Pepper Constable, Gil Lea, and Paul Pauk lugged the ball across Harvard's goal line for touchdowns. Harvard registered only four first downs while the Tigers advanced the ball more than 400 yards and rolled up 18 first downs.

Fifth in Row This Season.

It was Princeton's fifth straight victory of the 1934 season. Picking up where they left off in 1926 with a savagely fought victory that was followed by an abrupt end in relations between the two universities, the Tigers made it four straight over the Crimson. Harvard has not scored a touchdown against Princeton since 1920.

In the second period Constable plunged across from the three yard line as the culmination of a 65 yard advance, during which Kats Kadlic, Tiger quarter back, and Ken Sandbach engineered two passes for a gain of 40 yards.

Harvard Cracks in Last Period.

The Crimson crackup came in the last period, after the plunging Constable twice had been hurled back by Harvard forwards. From Midfield Levan sped 22 yards for the day's longest run from scrimmage. Harvard was penalized 15 yards for roughness, giving Princeton first down on the 11 yard line. Ken Sandbach then passed to Gil Lea for a touchdown.

Pauk scored the last touchdown on a lateral pass from Kadlic.

CARNEGIE, 6; NEW YORK, 0.

New York, Nov. 3.—[U.P.]—Carnegie Tech broke its losing streak today when it defeated New York university, 6 to 0, before 14,000. The aerial attack of both teams was their greatest weapon, but interceptions nullified most gains.

After Terebus tossed a pass from the 40 yard line to Burns on the 6 yard line, Carnegie scored on its fourth line attempt when Mihm plunged over. New York got within scoring distance at the beginning of the third quarter, and twice in the fourth quarter, but could not go over. Carnegie twice spoiled their scoring opportunities by intercepting passes, and once by recovering a fumble.

PENNSYLVANIA WINS, 41-0.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 3.—[U. P.]—Overwhelming Lafayette, 41 to 0, before a crowd of 15,000, the University of Pennsylvania scored its 33d victory today against 10 losses and four ties since the two institutions started football warfare back in 1882.

Penn had little opposition, tearing huge holes through the Lafayette line. Ed Warwick, half back, twice crashed over the goal line for Penn.

Lafayette threatened only twice. In the first period Charles Stahley ran 60 yards, and in the third period Lafayette pushed the ball to the one foot mark.

TEMPLE, 14; HOLY CROSS, 0.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—One touchdown on a break and another after a 65 yard march gave Temple university a 14 to 0 victory over Holy Cross today. The result kept Temple in the undefeated ranks, although tied by Indiana.

Thirty thousand, the biggest crowd that has seen a game at Temple stadium since 1930, saw Elmer Anderson, the lighest end on the squad, and Don Watts carry the ball over for scores.

Full Back Dave Smukler place kicked two extra points to make it ten straight for the season.

CORNELL DEALS KNOX ITS 24TH DEFEAT, 6 TO 0

Mount Vernon, Ia., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Cornell college entered the victory column for the first time this fall, by deafeating Knox, 6 to 0 here today in a Midwest conference game. A drizzle fell during much of the contest. It was Knox's 24th straight defeat.

Cornell completely outplayed its opponents by making 13 first downs as compared to 4 for Knox, and 222 yards gained in scrimmage against 71 for Knox. During the second half Knox gained only 8 yards in scrimmage.

Columbia Surprises by Defeating Parsons, 7 to 2

Dubuque, Ia., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Columbia college surprised today by defeating Parsons college, Fairfield, Ia., 7 to 2. The defeat toppled Parsons from the lead in the Iowa conference. Croaker scored for the Duhawks when he ran 88 yards on the kickoff.

Julius Alfonse, smashing Stan Kostka, a human dynamo Michigan could not stop, and Quarter Back Glen Seidel, whose direction of this Gopher machine was as delicate and accurate as the performance of a master artist.

Minnesota's play in the second half today was superior to its final dash against Pittsburgh's defenses two weeks ago that brought national recognition. It emphasized again that Minnesota will finish this season undefeated.

Minnesota scored its first touchdown the second time it came into possession of the ball after the kickoff. John Regeczi's long punt—Regeczi's kicking was Michigan's greatest defensive weapon—was brought back twelve yards by Lund to Minnesota's 44 yard line. On the first play Lund ripped inside John Viergever, Michigan's left tackle, for seven yards. Again Lund ran to his right, but this time Maurice Johnson, substituted at right end for Frank Larson, who had been injured in the first half, cut through Michigan's secondary far to the left and took Lund's long pass to be run out of bounds on Michigan's 21 yard line. It was Minnesota's first pass of the game.

It's Mr. Lund Again.

Again Lund took the ball and this time as Michigan hesitated, uncertain of the play, Lund raced around Michigan's left end to the goal with a blanket of Gold interferers, knocking down the Blue defenders as ten pins tumble before a bowler. Big Edwin Widseth crushed the last Michigan man as Lund hurled his body across the line.

Bill Bevan, meteoric guard, whose helmetless thatch was seen in the thick of every clash, tried for the point by placement, but Mat Patanelli, Michigan end, blocked the ball.

Willis Ward of Michigan kicked off to Minnesota. Two plays later Alfonse had crossed the Michsigan goal line. This 76 yard run was the peak of Minnesota's offense.

With the ball on Minnesota's 24 yard line, Alfonse started wide at Michigan's right end, suddenly swerved to dash through an opening inside of end, stepped free around two fallen Michigan players and then straightened his flight down center. Ferris Jennings, quarter back, and Willard Hildebrand were his pursuers and while they were abreast of Alfonse they could not gain sufficiently to angle over and overtake him. Bevan's placement gave Minnesota a 13 to 0 lead.

Regeczi's Punt Fizzles.

Lund's accurate kicking [he punted out of bounds within Michigan's six yard line twice in succession] now set the stage for the third touchdown just before the period ended. Regeczi's short kick from behind the goal line, his only failure of the day, landed on the Wolverine 33 yard stripe. From here Minnesota scored with one pass, the same Lund to Johnson throw that had proved successful before. Johnson dashed down the south sideline, balancing along the white boundary thread like a tight rope walker shuffling to safety. Babe Levoir, substitute quarter back, place kicked the point as Bevan was resting on the sidelines.

Minnesota poured forth its reserves in the final period. In all 32 Gophers took part in the game. And to Kostka, George Roscoe, Art Clarkson, Levoir, and Bill Proffitt went the glory of Minnesota's two marches for touchdowns, a hammering assault Michigan's tired men could neither halt nor escape.

Seven plays covered 80 yards with Roscoe getting the last 14 yards for the touchdown and Bevan adding the point. The final drive covered 53 yards in eight plays and this time Proffitt slashed into the line for two yards and the score. Again Bevan kicked and the Gophers had arrived at their final tabulation: Minnesota, 34; Michigan, 0.

Was a Parade.

Minnesota piled up a net gain from scrimmage of 306 yards to Michigan's 60. The Gophers accomplished 11 first downs, nine of them by running, while Michigan had five first downs, three by running and two by penalty.

Minnesota completed three forward passes in three attempts for 77 yards. Michigan passed six times, completed two for eight yards and had one intercepted. This tabulation does not include Clarkson's interception and touchdown run which was erased by a Minnesota offside penalty.

Minnesota lost 25 yards by penalty and Michigan had one penalty, an offside.

Regeczi's punting in 11 attempts averaged 44 yards. Minnesota, including Roscoe's blocked kick in the first period, averaged 35 yards in 12 kicks. Jennings returned six Gohper punts for a three yard average. Minnesota averaged 13 yards on seven returns.

65,000 Watch Pitt Crush Irish, 19 to 0

penalties, while the Pitt boys were set back 35 yards for three offenses.

Pitt's touchdowns were spectacular. Each came after a long run down the field. They threw the tremendous crowd into a frenzy. Bill Shakespeare's brilliant play in the early stages had made it possible for Notre Dame to battle Pitt on about even terms. Going into the second quarter the situation was unchanged.

Shakespeare and the other regulars had left the game and an entire new Notre Dame front had lined up against a fresh Pittsburgh team. After an exchange of punts it was Notre Dame's ball on its own 17 yard line. The new troops had been pushed back toward their own goal line. Pilney could make only five yards in two plays. Then he punted.

The ball dropped into the arms of Leon Shedlosky, Pitt half back. He was on the dead run when he got it on Pitt's 43 yard line and he never hesitated. On and on he galloped, picking a path which led to his right as his team mates went to work cutting down the Irish.

The Scoring Starts.

Finally the last Notre Dame defense man was pushed out of the way, and Shedlosky whirled over the last chalk mark at the end of a 57 yard run for touchdown. Weinstock's place kick for the extra point was wide.

That was the extent of the scoring in the first half although Pitt narrowly missed another touchdown on the last play of the second quarter. At this stage Notre Dame was trying to score on passes. With a few fleeting seconds of the half left, Melinkovich tossed a long one down the field. Greene of the Panthers intercepted it and raced back 43 yards to Notre Dame's two yard line. Melinkovich ran him out of bounds there to keep him from scoring.

Both teams were fighting madly in midfield in the third quarter when Panther fury suddenly struck again. Pitt had the ball on Notre Dame's 46 yard line and needed but a yard for a first down. Nicksick went out to get it. He smashed through behind his own right tackle. There was nobody there to bring him down, and he suddenly cut back to the left. Perfect blocking swept Notre Dame tacklers out of the way. Shakespeare tried gallantly to catch him, but just could not go fast enough.

Pitt Marches On.

Nicksick went on to score standing up. This time Weinstock place kicked for the extra point. The Panthers now were in front 13 to 0 and Notre Dame was soundly beaten. The Irish must have been wondering what might next happen.

Something did happen about midway in the last quarter. Notre Dame was hurling one pass after another in a belated effort to score. Pilney tossed a long pass and Weisenbaugh intercepted it. He skimmed down the field for 43 yards, returning the ball to the Irish 32 yard line. Shedlosky led the next Panther charge and ran off his own left tackle for 29 yards before Elser finally drove him out of bounds just three yards short of a touchdown. Nicksick picked up the touchdown on a dive through center That ended the scoring, and Notre Dame started home tonight awaiting for another day and another chance at Pitt.

Blocked Kick Gives Green Automatic Safety.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Dartmouth was still looking for its first victory over Yale today as the Elis gained a hard earned 7 to 2 victory in the eighteenth meeting of these elevens since 1884 to eliminate the Green from the list of unbeaten teams.

In a battle that had the crowd of 40,000 roaring with excitement from the time that Yale put on an impressive march of 84 yards to a touchdown in the first quarter, the Blue won its highest laurels in a heroic defense of its lead in the waning moments of the game.

That defense against an aroused Dartmouth team, which had been decisively outplayed in the opening half, constituted some of the bravest moments in Yale's football recent history.

Yale's defense reached its peak after the Dartmouth line had stormed through to block two successive kicks by Tommy Curtin at his goal line to earn two points on a safety as the second one rebounded over the end zone line.

Yale scored after fifteen straight plays carried the ball to Dartmouth's 7 yard line. Rankin then lost eight yards, but came back with an end run which put the ball on the Green 1 yard line, from where Morton took it over. Lineups:

FORDHAM, 13; TENNESSEE, 12.

New York, Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Tony Sarausky stumbled as he shot off tackle early in the fourth quarter today, rocked in the grasp of Tennessee hands, and then shook loose for 60 yards and the touchdown that gave Fordham a 13 to 12 victory over the Volunteers.

For the gathering of 25,000 at the Polo grounds nearly all drama of a bitterly fought game was crammed into the thrill packed moments of that dash. The Dixie team had hammered through for 72 yards and its first touchdown, and had struck through the air for 44 yards and its second.

Two brilliant plays gave the Rams their triumph and saved them from being the first Fordham team in six years to be beaten three times in a row. The second touchdown was the winning score, but on the first Sarausky added the extra point that was to be the final margin.

COLUMBIA, 14; CORNELL, 0.

New York, Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Columbia continued along the comeback trial today at Baker field, defeating Cornell, its traditional rival, 14 to 0, before 18,000.

The first half was scoreless, but the Lions snapped into high speed at the start of the third period as they riddled the Cornell defense with forward passes. Joe Vollmer also thundered through the line for large gains.

Then, in rapid succession, Vollmer and Brominski scored. The latter made good on two placements for the extra points.

NAVY BEATS W. & L., 26-0.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—The Navy took high rank among eastern college teams this afternoon by defeating Washington and Lee, 26 to 0. The Generals lost to Princeton, 14 to 12, two weeks ago because they failed to convert on their two touchdowns while Princeton added the extra points.

The Generals did not get a first down until late in the third quarter, and made only three during the game. The Navy registered sixteen. The Sailors gained 196 yards on running plays to 62 for the visitors, and 253 to 50 on passes.

One thing Washington and Lee accomplished, and that was to almost stop Borries, Navy's star back, at scrimmage.

RICE INSTITUTE DEFEATS TEXAS A. AND I., 27 TO 0

Houston, Tex., Nov. 3.—[U. P.]—Rice institute's football team enjoyed what was little more than a workout in a game today with Texas A. and I., and won, 27 to 0.

Despite the fact that Rice was playing a nonconference rival, it jumped into undisputed leadership of the Southwest conference by virtue of the University of Arkansas' tie game with Texas A. and M. college.

John McCauley, Rice's ace quarter back, accounted for two of his team's touchdowns, both coming in the first period. Bill Wallace scored the other first period touchdown. The final Rice score came in the third when Friedman plunged over from the three yard line.

A TOUCHDOWN TWIN COMES TO GRIEF FOR ONCE AT LEAST IN GAME OF FREQUENT TOUCHDOWNS, THRILLING RUNS, LONG PASSES, AND EFFECTIVE BLOCKING. Here is one play on Midway in which Purdue's Jim Carter, one of the touchdown twins, did not get away through the Chicago defense yesterday. Carter (99) got 4 yards before he was stopped by B. Peterson (93) of the Maroons. Jay Berwanger, big man of the Chicago attack, who is wearing the nose protector, is coming up to lend a hand. Maroon players are in white headguards and Boilermakers are in gold. No. 33 is Nyquist, 52 W. Sandefur, 93 B. Peterson, 29 Capt. Patterson, 87 Gift, 82 Capt. Heldt, 44 Burmeister, 38 Skoronski, 36 Whiteside, and 52 Baker, alongside Purvis, the other touchdown twin. Bartlett of the Maroons is helping to put Carter down, and, doubled up nearby, is Drake, Purdue full back.

The 7 to 0 victory yesterday was Northwestern's first successful effort in the Big Ten and lifted it out of the conference cellar, a position now occupied by Wisconsin. SUPERIOR PUNTING IN RAINSTORM HELPS TO GIVE ILLINOIS VICTORY OVER ARMY IN BATTLE BETWEEN UNDEFEATED EASTERN AND MIDWESTERN TEAMS. Les Lindberg, who had a slight edge over Jack Buckler in kicking, gets off a long punt for the Illini in game at Champaign yesterday. After scoring a touchdown in the first quarter, the Illinois eleven played a cautious game and punted on first, second, or third down, always waiting for another break that might enable them to increase their score. Statistics gave the Cadets from West Point the edge, but a 12 yard sprint by Portman after an Army punt was blocked gave the Zuppke team its margin of victory, 7 to 0.

Wisconsin led in first downs, ten to seven, but gained two on penalties. Northwestern made six of its first downs by rushing, while five of Wisconsin's earned eight were the result of passes by Lynn Jordan and Tom Fontaine. The Wildcats, who kept the same back field throughout the 60 minutes of play, gained 173 yards and Wisconsin 275, 80 of them through penalties meted out to the earnest Wildcat sophomores.

Wisconsin completed seven of seventeen passes for a gain of 97 yards, while Northwestern failed to connect in two attempts.

Northwestern attempted a bit of monkeyshines on the kickoff, but the effort came to grief, and Wisconsin had the ball on the Wildcat 35 yard line before you could say Deanovich. Pacetti's kickoff was fielded by Reid, who attempted to throw a lateral to one of his associates, but it went awry and was recovered by Nellen of the Badgers. Freddie Lind finally put an end to the Wisconsin offense by intercepting one of Jordan's passes on his ten yard line.

Punts to Two Yard Line.

Jordan returned Toth's punt 15 yards to the Northwestern 40 yard line, but fumbled on beng tackled, Duvall recovering for the Wildcats. After being held for three downs Toth booted a fine kick dead to the Wisconsin two yard mark. Lind returned Null's punt to the Badger 30 yard line, whence Duvall and Toth got a first down on the Wisconsin 20 yard line. A double reverse, Toth to Lind, produced a Purple touchdown, Lind going over almost unmolested. Duvall made good on his place kick for the extra point to give the Wildcats a 7 to 0 lead after less than four minutes of play.

The Badgers then went to work with such zest that it seemed that they wouldn't be denied a touchdown, but the Wildcat line thought otherwise. After Wisconsin had scored a first down on a Jordan-Jankowski pass, the Badgers were halted, and Null kicked over the Wildcat goal line. Toth immediately returned the boot on first down.

Jordan got eight yards through left tackle on the first play, and then tossed a pass to Haukedahl for a first down on the Wildcat 37 yard line. He then tossed one to Jankowski which the latter caught on the Northwestern seven yard line before he was dropped by three Wildcats. In the next four plays, the Badger back field gained exactly one yard, and Northwestern took the ball on downs.

That 90 Yards Kick.

This provided the major excitement of the first half except for another Badger foray led by Donaldson and Fontaine, which brought the ball to the Wildcat 10 yard line. Donaldson drove through to the six yard mark, and on the next play Duvall intercepted Jordan's pass on his own two yard line. Toth then came through with a long low kick from back of his own goal, which went 90 yards before Fontaine recovered it.

The Wildcats opened the second half as though they might be after another touchdown, getting two first downs after Pacetti's kickoff. Duvall made one of these thrusts at the Badger line, and Cruice followed it up with a 15 yard sweep around his left end to the Wisconsin 30 yard line. An offside penalty and an incomplete pass followed, after which Toth got away a great out of bounds kick to the Wisconsin one yard line. The remainder of the third quarter was transacted within the 20 yard lines, with Toth's toe doing noble duty for the Wildcats.

The last quarter, in which the rain increased, became an out and out punting duel between Toth and Null. Between them they totaled 28 kicks for the game. Northwestern kept battering the Badger line in the closing minutes, Duvall, Toth, and Lind, bringing it down to the Badger 27 yard line, where Wisconsin took the ball on downs. Donaldson knifed through his left tackle for 15 yards, but on the last play of the game, Leeper drifted through and spilled him for a ten yard loss.

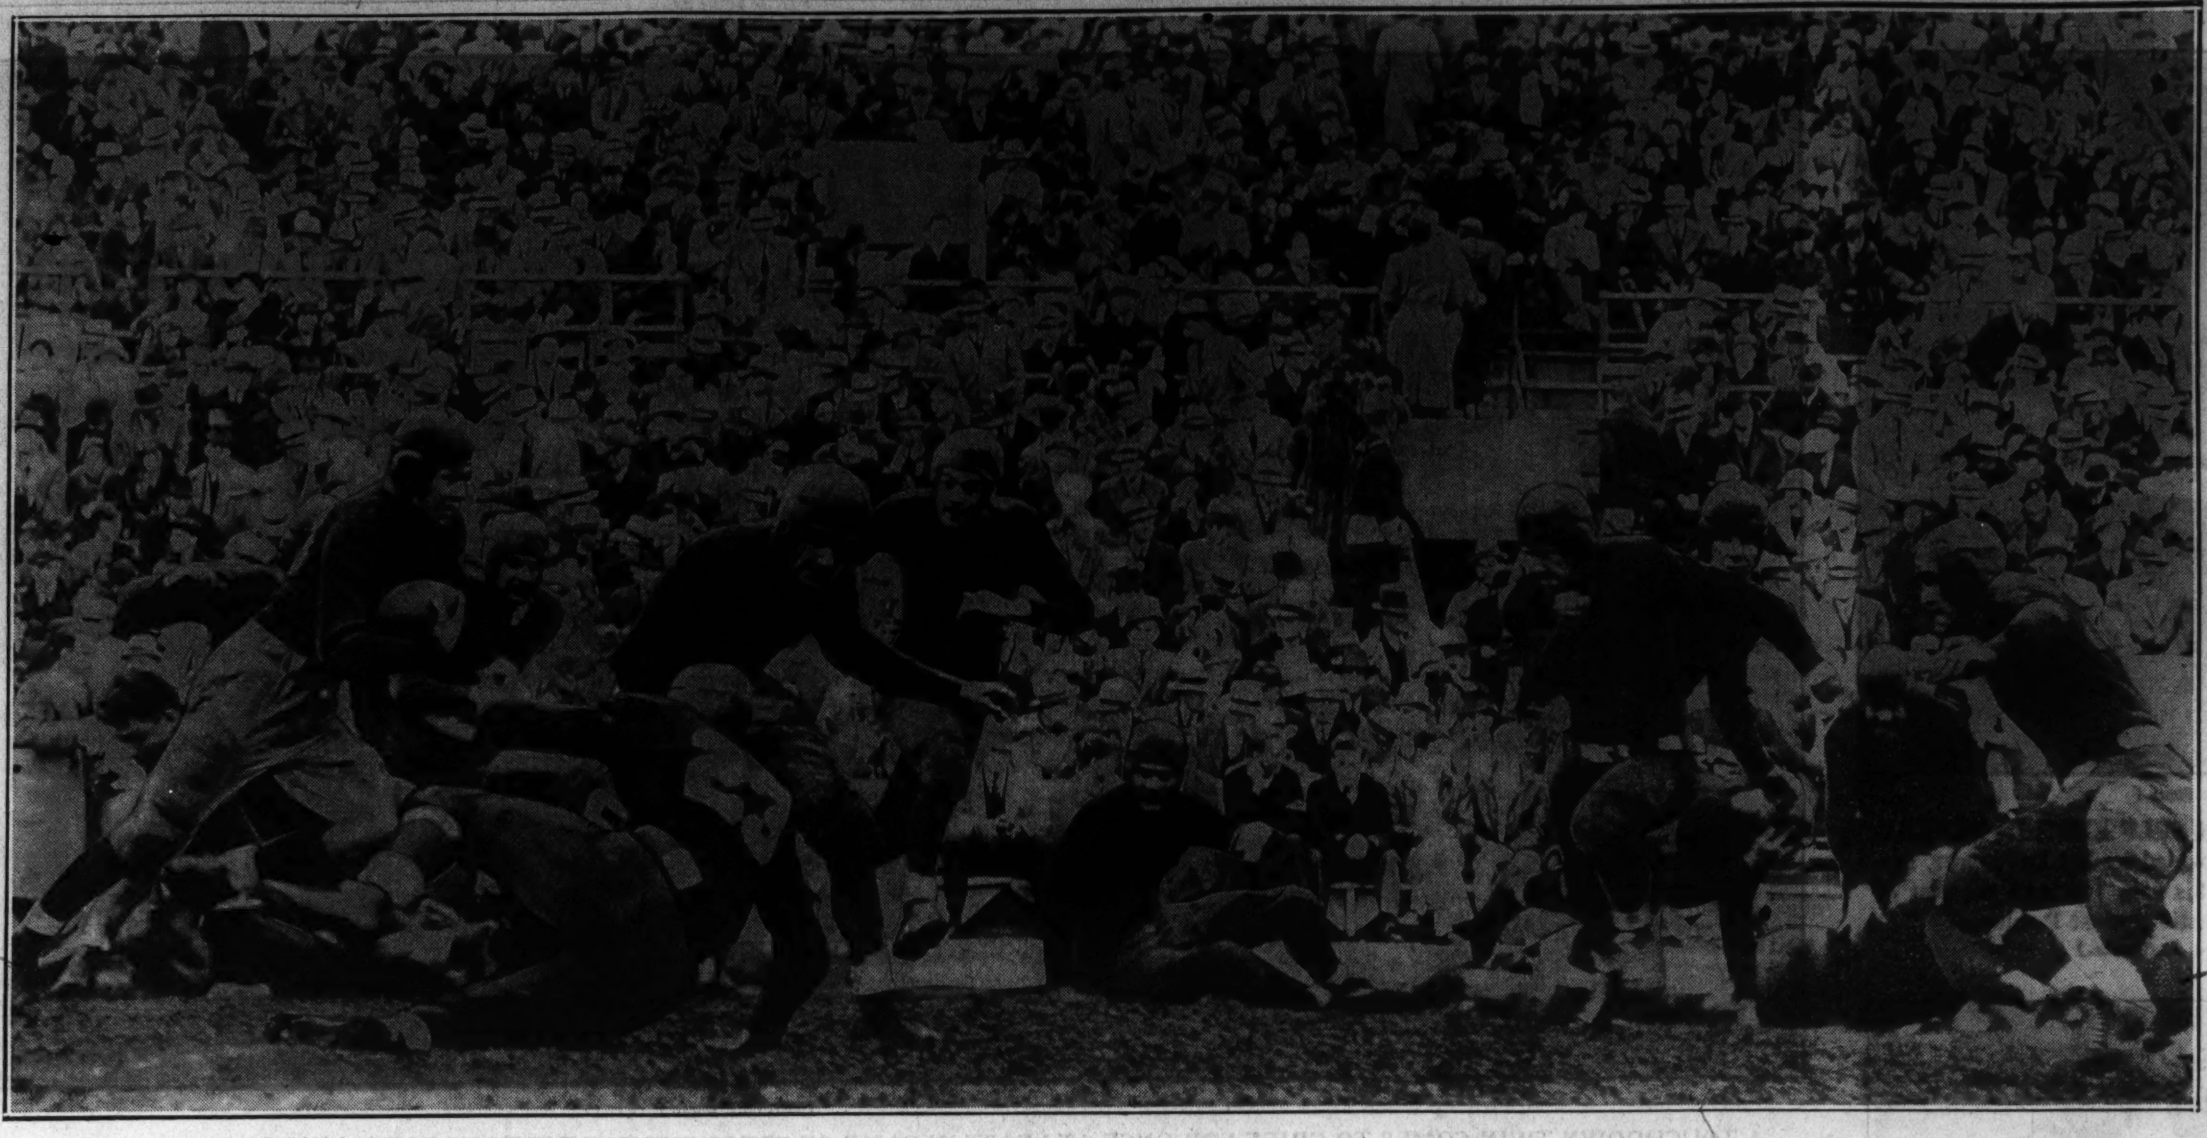
A BADGER RIPS THROUGH TACKLE, BUT HE DOESN'T GET FAR



Tommy Fontaine, Wisconsin half back, after faking an end run, cuts back and goes through tackle for a short gain against Northwestern at Dyche stadium yesterday. The play occurred in the second quarter while the Badgers were fighting to overcome a touchdown the Wildcats had scored early in the game. But the Wisconsin attack was stopped whenever there was a scoring chance and Northwestern won, 7 to 0. No. 23 of Northwestern is Wally Cruice.

DE PAUL GETS 13 TO 0 SETBACK AT VALPARAISO

Valparaiso, Ind., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Taking advantage of numerous breaks, Valparaiso defeated the De Paul university eleven of Chicago this afternoon, 19 to 0. By winning, Valparaiso maintained an unbroken streak of twenty home victories. Though outgaining Valparaiso, De Paul was able to threaten only on one occasion. Valparaiso scored in the first quarter when Smatlak's quick kick was fumbled by Cella near the goal line and Karr recovered.

Valparaiso's second score came when it marched seventy-five yards, climaxing the drive with an 18 yard pass from Smatlak to Dierker. The third touchdown resulted when De Paul fumbled on the three yard line and Bielauskas recovered. Karr sliced over tackle to the goal. De Paul rallied in the last quarter but its drive was halted on the seventeen yard line by a penalty. Lineups:

Who'll Succeed Heydler? Has Fans Baffled

New York, Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Baseball, recovering slowly from the shock occasioned by the totally unexpected resignation of John A. Heydler as president of the National league yesterday, began casting about today for a logical successor.

Although the 65 year old leader, who has found it necessary to step down because of ill health, will not officially retire until Dec. 11, when the National league will hold its annual winter meeting, a special meeting of the club owners has been called for Thursday. Doubtless it will bring forth the name of the new executive.

Frick May Get Job.

Until this meeting there promises to be no end of speculation on the club owners' selection. However, in baseball circles, the opinion appeared to be unaminous that the owners will decide to stick close to home and name some one in their organization already thoroughly familiar with the position.

To fit such a situation the name of Ford C. Frick appeared to come most readily to mind. Frick, a New York sports writer, was appointed head of the National league's service bureau and publicity department a year ago and has been in close contact with President Heydler's office since then.

Plans for Traband.

Other names also are being mentioned. The post may be offered to Harvey Traband, for years Heydler's personal secretary, though a slightly different course seems to have been mapped out for the quiet and industrious Traband. Upon the recommendation of President Heydler it is expected the league will sever the office of president from that of secretary-treasurer, and while so far as it known he has not recommended any one for the presidency, Heydler has expressed the hope that the league would name Traband secretary treasurer.

Another possibilty is Branch Rickey, although it is believed he would rather remain as Sam Breadon's associate. Rickey not only is vice president of the Cardinals, but head of that organization's far flung chain store system which he himself conceived and built up in minor leagues.

Purdue Beats Chicago, 26-20, on Long Runs and Passes

yards in fifteen plays for this touchdown.

Purdue made eleven first downs on running to nine for Chicago. Chicago made five first downs on passes and Purdue three, giving the teams a tie at fourteen all in the matter of first downs. Chicago completed seven of its fourteen passes for 73 yards and Purdue also completed half of its passes, making four of eight for 98 yards.

The punting was exceptional, especially in view of the sogginess throughout the second half. Purvis' eleven punts averaged 43.4 yards, while Berwanger's ten boots were good for an average of 41 yards.

Purvis carried the ball nineteen times for a gain of 128 yards, an average of 6.7 yards, and Carter tried twenty times for a gain of 105 yards, an average of 5.2. Carter received one pass for a gain of 45 yards. Haas received three passes for a total of 71 yards.

Five Yards Berwanger.

Berwanger carried the ball seventeen times and gained 99 yards, for an average of 5.8 yards. He made eleven of the Maroon passes and was the receiver in three others, gaining 35 yards. Flinn made the three passes caught by Berwanger and also received three. He made 111 yards on those he received.

Action was immediate in the great contest. Carter juggled the opening kick off, then came back to his 39 yard line. Purdue drew 20 yards in penalties almost immediately and Purvis punted to Berwanger. Jay was downed on his 25 yard line. After an offside penalty Berwanger got off a quick kick to the 50 yard line and Purdue went to work. Purvis and Drake cooperated for a first down on Chicago's 35 yard line after a pas, Purvis to Haas, good for seven yards. Another one, Purvis to Haas, put the ball on Chicago's 2 yard line. Drake then made a yard at center after which Carter, aided by some nice blocking, skirted his right end for a touchdown. Sandefur added the point.

It was just a few minutes later that Purdue got the ball on its 45 yard line on a punt. Then, after a Chicago offside penalty, Carter ran 60 yards for the Boilermakers' second touchdown. Purvis was out on wing back position. Carter took the ball and Purvis was ready for some handsome blocking. All Carter needed was the path clearing that Purvis gave him. With a full head of steam he cut inside Chicago's left end and outran the field to the goal line. Sandefur kicked the ball over the bar, but the effort was disallowed because of a holding penalty.

Maroons Take Lead.

Chicago grabbed the laurel wreath in the closing minutes of the first quarter after one of Purvis' punts had put the ball on Chicago's 37 yard line. Berwanger waded through the Purdue cast for 25 yards then made a pass to Bush good for eight yards and Nyquist went to Purdue's 26 yard line as the quarter ended. On the first play of the second quarter Berwanger passed 20 yards to Flinn, the toss being neatly received by Flinn on the 6 yard line. Tommy, with no one near him, whirled and easily negotiated the remaining distance for a touchdown. Berwanger added the extra point from placement.

The touchdown which gave the Maroons a 14 to 13 lead in the second quarter got its impetus when Nyquist made a first down on his own 32 yard line. Here the Maroons used their favorite pass play. Berwanger broke to the right, then pasesd to Flinn on the left. Flinn took the ball on the Maroons' 45 yard line and crisscrossed up the field behind good blocking, going over the Purdue goal line after a gallop of 55 yards. Berwanger's placement for extra point was good.

Purdue grabbed the lead again in the last minute and a half of the second period, setting the tabulation at 20 to 14. Stalcup returned Wells' kickoff to Purdue's 32 yard line. Purvis made four yards at center, then three more. Drake made a first down on Purdue's 44 yard line, then added five yards more at center. Purvis circled his left end for a 17 yard gain to the Maroon 35 yard line. Next he went back far and passed to Haas, who had outrun the Maroon secondary. Haas took the ball on the Maroon goal line for the third Purdue touchdown. Sendefur kicked the extra point.

Purdue scored its fourth touchdown in the first minute of the final period. Berwanger punted out of bounds on Purdue's 27 yard line. Purvis then gained clearance inside the Maroon's right end and outran the pack 73 yards for a touchdown. A bad pass from center prevented Toriello from getting a chance to try for the extra point.

Chicago's heroic drive for its fourth touchdown started when Purvis punted to Flinn on Chicago's 15 yard line. On a fake punt formation Berwanger passed to Flinn to Chicago's 31 yard line. Berwanger sped 12 yards and a pass, Flinn to Berwanger, put the ball on Purdue's 41 yard line. On a fake pass and reverse Berwanger ripped 12 yards to the Purdue 29 yard line. Another pass, Flinn to Berwanger, gave Chicago first down on the 16 yard line, then Berwanger plowed and skidded through the mud for first down on Purdue's five yard line. A pass, Flinn to Berwanger, was good for the touchdown. Berwanger failed to kick the waterlogged ball over the standard for the extra point, and the score had reached its final status.

"Car Watchers" Work Racket at Chicago Game

BY HAL FOUST.

The curbstone racketeers won another victory yesterday afternoon in downing motorists for "watch your car" tips preceding the Chicago-Purdue game at Stagg field. Few of the fans were able to break through the mob of misdirected youngsters, dirty urchins, and hard boiled thugs selling parking space on the public streets.

Of course, the streets are public property and you weren't forced to pay to park at the curb. But with the present inadequate police protection, the car owner who would defy the implied threat from these watchers deserves a major letter.

"Anything you want to pay," replied a lad of about 20 years when asked his fee.

"It's a lot safer," he added when he detected his prospective customer's hesitation. His unshaved chin over the soiled collar of a sweater was convincing.

Policemen Thomas McCann and Roy Costello, assigned to patrol the neighborhood on motorcycles, were asked about these parkers.

"Many are of the same gang that hangs around all large athletic events," said Costello. "We can't do much about it. They can see us before we can see them and it takes only a second to bury a match stem in a door lock or to let the air out of a tire for some one who refused to pay. A half dozen policemen on horses might be able to protect the cars if they first got rid of these 'watchers.'"

At 57th street and Kenwood avenue, a few blocks from the stadium, a gang of six or seven young fellows appropriated the yard of the old W. H. Wray school, now a branch of the Hyde Park High school, to operate it as a parking lot for the game.

"It's just a bunch of us guys from the neighborhood," said one of them when asked who was managing the lot.

These self-appointed "car watchers," as they call themselves, made their own trafic regulations. Alleys were blocked contrary to fire protection laws. Double parking was permitted in several streets under the auspices of these petty racketeers. In Drexel avenue, near 56th street, there were three lanes of parked cars on one side of the street and two at the other curb.

"Car watchers," they call themselves, but if any motorist pays except to keep them from watching his car with a malevolent eye, he's cheated. Thirty minutes after the football game started the mob that had infested the neighborhood was dispersed.

FIRETHORN WINS $11,900 RACE AT PIMLICO TRACK

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Walter M. Jeffords' Sun Briar colt, Firethorn, today won the $11,900 Walden handicap at Pimlico before 10,000 to gain the first victory of his career. A jam involving many of the sixteen horses occurred at the first turn, sent Jocky Johnny Gilbert and his mount Dowdy Dell crashing to the track, and changed completely the complexion of a race which many expected would result in Black Helen's eighth consecutive victory.

Black Helen was made an 11 to 10 choice, but finished twelfth after having once been close to the lead. The Greentree stable colt Sailor Beware, counted on by many to turn back Black Helen, also was smashed into defeat at this first turn where many jockies have been injured and horses cut down.

Field Bunched at Turn.

The turn is sharp, and when the field went charging into it with five riders setting a breakneck pace to gain position, all were well bunched. Things happened so swiftly that it was impossible to learn exactly what caused the piling up. Most observers agreed that it was Don Meade's ruthless handling of the E. R. Bradley filly which has won seven in a row.

From the No. 16 post position he tried to get to the rail and in front. To do this he had to cross the entire field. He was not in front when he went into the turn but bore over for the rail nevertheless. Other horses folded inward, away from Black Helen, squeezing tighter and tighter toward the rail. Gilbert and Dowdy Dell were pinched as in a vise. That Gilbert escaped serious injury was due largely to the fact that he was squeezed to the rear of the pack before his horse went down and thus was not kicked by following horses.

Wins by Half Length.

Firethorn won by a half length from J. H. Louchheim's Morpluck, victor in the Spalding Lowe Jenkins handicap. A length and a half back of him finished Catawba stable's Polar Flight, sent here from New England especially for the test.

The winner was clocked at 1:46 1-5 over a fast track and earned $9,370. He got in with 109 pounds and was well ridden by Jocky Wayne Wright. Firethorn returned $22.50, $8.30, and $6.50. Morpluck returned $12.40 and $7.80. The price against Polar Flight was 6 to 1 to show.

Doc Krone Calls Rasslin' Election Thursday Night

Promoter Doc Krone is going back to the old polling place Thursday night to elect the best out of a string of 10 candidates. Krone is staging one of his heavyweight wrestling shows with five bouts at the Broadway-Arcadia, 4444 Broadway.

Explaining his return to the north side spot after almost a year, Promoter Krone proceeded to justify his move by calling upon current election phrases to explain it all.

"You see," he explained, "people just naturally get into the habit of going to the same polling place to vote. Now why shouldn't the wrestling fans be the same way? They've been in the habit of coming up there for my show—er, election—and of course, they'll just naturally drift up that way Thursday night.

No better candidate for treasurer could be put up, the doctor contends, than Jim McMillen, who meets Gentleman Jack Smith in one and one-half hour time limit feature match.

For sherif Doc thinks Jim Clinkstock, the 300 pound Indian, and Harry [Baby] Jacobs, 312 pound Californian, are suitable candidates.

Dr. Patrick A. Mulligan and Abie Coleman meet in the semi-windup.

Fred Grubmier, the Iowa scissors king, tackles Jack Zarnos, Greek strong man, and Ole Olsen, the Swedish face lock master, meets Roughhouse George Mack.

MICHIGAN STATE PASS DEFEATS MARQUETTE, 13-7

Hilltoppers Give Unbeaten Spartans a Scare.

East Lansing, Mich., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Their unbeaten record imperiled all through the game, Michigan State's Spartans rose to the occasion today and turned back a stubborn Marquette university eleven, 13 to 7. The game was played on a dry field before a homecoming crowd of 12,000.

State was forced to come from behind for the first time this year in achieving its victory. The Hilltoppers took advantage of a strong wind and some breaks to score a touchdown in the first period when Cuff took a pass across the goal line from Buivid. The ball was fumbled, but the officials ruled the pass complete and Cuff added the extra point from placement.

Point Looks Big.

The single point looked big for a time when two brilliant plays by the Spartans achieved a touchdown in the second period, but Sebo, flashy sophomore back, failed to add the point. McCrary, State's colored full back, had broken through a hole in right tackle, eluded the secondary and ran 50 yards to Marquette's 10 yard line before he was downed. After Wiseman, who went in for McCrary at that point, had plunged four yards, Sebo went around his left end for the score with no Marquette player touching him.

A pass accounted for the Spartans' winning touchdown in the third period, Armstrong tossing the ball from Marquette's 29 yard line to Klewicki, end, on the 5 yard line from where he went over with ease. This time Sebo added the point.

Marquette Still Threatens.

A fourth quarter break put the Spartans in danger. They were forced to punt on fourth down and the alert Hilltopper line charged Armstrong, blocking his kick. McCrary recovered on State's three yard line, but the ball changed hands there. Art Guepe made a yard and then the Marquette back field muddled a play and the center's pass went out of bounds on the 15 yard line. A forward pass failed and Colina intercepted another, racing to Marquette's 25 yard line before he was downed. He fumbled there, however, and Marquette had a chance to try two more passes before the game ended just as McCrary intercepted the second of the two. The lineup:

MARQUETTE [7].		MICH. STATE [13].
Muth	L. E.	Zarza
Trost	L. T.	Zindel
McEssy	L. G.	Dahlgren
McGroarty	C	Buzolith
Peeples	R. G.	Williamson

ILLINOIS DEFEATS ARMY, 7 TO 0; 45,000 ATTEND

Blocked Punt Opens Way for Touchdown Drive.

stopped, but the field already was so slippery that ball carrier and tackler often skidded for yards after the impact. Fumbles, poor passes from center, and an occasional poor punt were inevitable.

Army won the toss and chose the south goal with a favoring wind. Both field generals were cautious, kicking not later than third down for the first ten minutes. With such prime punters as Buckler and Lindberg booting the oval, neither eleven had possession in enemy terrain. Then came the break which determined the issue.

Portman Scores Touchdown.

As Buckler dropped back to punt on third down with the ball at Army's 31 yard line, Nelson, who played a great game at left end for Illinois all afternoon, rushed in to block the effort. Dykstra from the other end speared the vagrant oval on its flight and ran to the Army 14 yard line. Carson picked up 2 yards at tackle. Then Crain Portman swung wide to his left, cut back, and sped past the spread out defenders for 12 yards and a touchdown.

Through all the second period, rain still falling heavily, Army sought to overcome this disadvantage. Just as it seemed likely to get started, either a fumble or penalty vitiated the effort. Illinois, content with its lead, punted on first or second down until a pass from a desperate Army thrower was intercepted by Center Sayre, who was a busy and effective young man all afternoon.

Illini Miss Chance.

It was Illinois' ball at the Army 32 yard line. An offside penalty and three rushes and it was at the Army 20 yard line. Beynon passed to Dykstra for a touchdown, but Illinois was offside. Clifford for Army intercepted a pass, but lost the ball when tackled and it was Illinois' ball, first down, at the Army 5 yard line. Two passes into the end zone grounded and the ball went over as the half ended, Illinois, 7; Army, 0.

After a third period marked by hard play, but uneventful so far as scoring opportunity was concerned, Buckler was hurt on the first play of the fourth period. Army hope fled, but Cadet substitutes, with true Army spirit, put up a battle which nearly evened the issue in the final minutes.

Cadet Miller recovered a fumble to give Army a break early in the period and Army pressed to the Illinois 28 yard line, where Sayre intercepted a pass. After an exchange of kicks, Illinois attempted to punt on first down at its 15 yard line. The pass from center was poor and before Lindberg could get the kick away Shuler blocked for Army. The oval skidded from another Army player and Portman recovered at the 1 yard line. Standing in his end zone, Lindberg punted to King, who returned 20 yards to Illinois' 10 yard line.

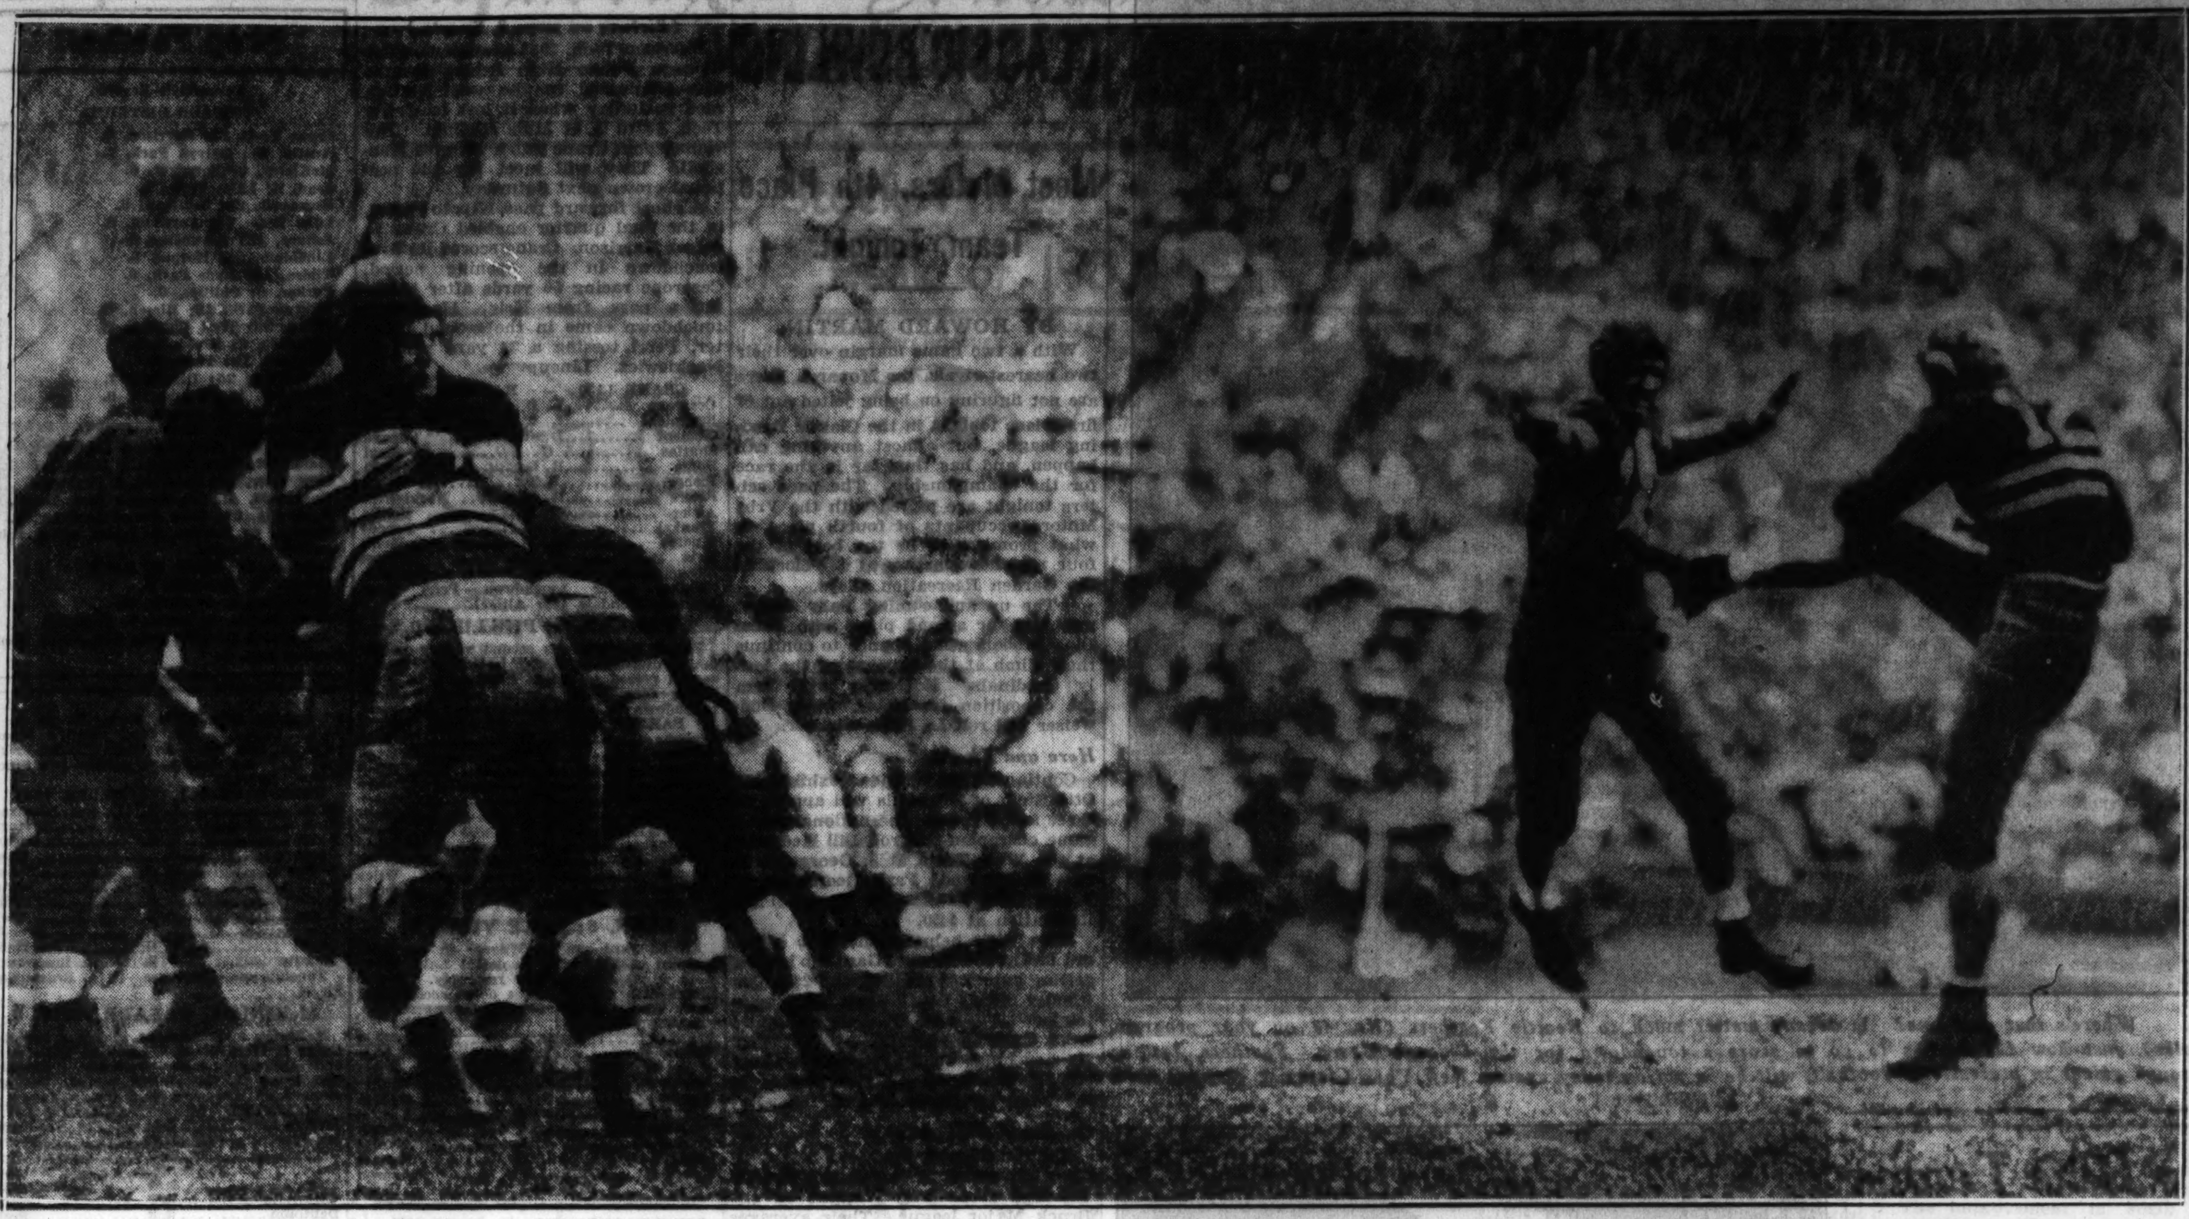
Illini Stave Off Attack.

Meyer, who had taken Buckler's place, picked up 5 yards in two attempts, then he fumbled but recovered a poor pass. Then Army was offside and was on Illinois' 21 yard line at fourth down. Meyer tried his own left end and Illinois took the ball on downs at its own 23 yard mar. The game ended with the ball in Army's possession on its own 30 yard line.

Statistics:

First downs—Illinois, 2; Army, 7. Yards from rushing—Illinois, 50; Army, 134. Forward passes—Illinois completed 2 of 4 for 18 yards; Army completed 2 or 8, with 2 intercepted, for 26 yards. Punts—Illinois, 18 for 692 yards; Army, 13 for 486 yards. Run back of punts—Illinois, 29; Army, 49. Fumbles—Illinois, 3 [recovering one of its own]; Army, 10 [recovering 7 of its own]: Penalties—Illinois, 4 for 30 yards; Army, 4 for 40 yards.

TORRENTS OF RAIN BEAT DOWN AS ILLINI OVERPOWER ARMY



Jack Buckler, Army star, just manages to get a punt away from a charging Illini in the first quarter of game yesterday which Illinois won, 7 to 0, at Champaign. Rain pelted the players throughout the contest and drenched the 45,000 spectators. Portman raced 12 yards around end for the Illinois touchdown in the first quarter shortly after Nelson blocked one of Buckler's punts on the Cadet 14 yard line. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 3.—Coach Robert Zuppke said today's game between Illinois and the Army was the best he has seen under such adverse playing conditions. . . . Charles Bennis and Jack Beynon, co-captains of the victorious Illini, agreed that Jack Buckler, Army left half back, was the hardest ball carrier to bring down they have opposed this season. . . . The gridiron gave the appearance of an island. . . . It was surrounded by water. . . . Illinois players needed a raft to get from their bench behind the running track to the playing field. . . . Every once in a while Coach Zuppke would come to the surface long enough to make replacements in his battle line. . . . Most of the time he appeared to be under water. . . . Gov. Henry Horner was seen bobbing around in the waves at the east side of the gridiron. . . . The Illinois band leader spied the governor before he went down for the third time and ordered the musicians to strike up "Hail to the Chief." . . . The state's chief executive then disappeared below the water line but a life guard pulled him to the surface and swam with him to a seat under a canopy where he was revived sufficiently to watch the rest of the game. . . .

Lieut. Gar Davidson, coach of the Army, said Jack Beynon, Illinois quarter back, was the smartest field general he has seen. . . . Davidson also expressed the opinion that Illinois was the best drilled team, both on offense and defense, the Cadets have encountered this season. . . . Charles Galbreath, Illinois tackle, who was carried from the field in the fourth quarter, was not seriously injured. . . . He had a cramp in his leg. . . . Lieut. M. P. Echols, West Point's public relations man, said all the Army players agreed today's game was one of the cleanest they had experienced. . . . Buckler, fire ball of the West Point attack, had to leave the game in the fourth quarter because of a leg injury. It proved to be only a bruise and he will be ready to play again next Saturday. . . . The wind was so strong before the game it ripped a flag flying from the south end of the stadium. . . . Twenty-seven per cent of the fans were fortunate enough to have seats in dry locations. . . . That percentage of the stands is sheltered by the top deck. . . .

The fact that 45,000 turned out for the game in a pouring rain that began two hours before the kickoff and continued until the half, may or may not be a reflection on the intelligence of the citizenry. . . . Among the scouts covering the game were Tommy Gorman of Notre Dame, Otto Strohmeier of Chicago, Waldo Fisher of Northwestern, and Joe Holsinger of Wisconsin. . . . All were here primarily to observe the personnel and formations of Illinois, except Gorman, who directed his attention to the Army. . . . Notre Dame meets the Cadets in New York, Nov. 24. . . . Gorman said the Army line this year was not as strong as that of last year. . . .

Of the Army's starting lineup only two players had previous college varsity experience before enrolling at the Academy. . . . They were Bill Shuler, end, son of Fighting Bob Shuler of Los Angeles, the evangelist who ran against William Gibbs McAdoo in the senatorial campaign a few years ago. . . . Shuler, who was a standout in Army's play today, was a member of the California Institute of Technology eleven for three years. . . . The other Cadet with college training was Norman Edwards, who also played end. . . . He won a letter at New River State College of West Virginia. . . . Woodrow Stromberg of Lake View High school, Chicago, who spent his freshman year at Northwestern, played the second half at end for the Army. . . .

The Illinois band of 360 pieces paid a special tribute to fathers of Illinois boys who came down for Dad's day. . . . Before the game the musicians formed "Howdy Army" and "Howdy Dads." . . . They then sang a greeting to the Army to the melody of "Benny Havens." . . . Between halves the band formed a cannon, rolled it onto the field and fired four shells from it, the shells exploding to form A-R-M-Y. . . . The huge group then faced the stands and sang "There's Something About a Soldier." . . . The ceremonies were closed appropriately with a new arrangement of "Sunrise," for at that moment the sun broke through the clouds for the first time of the day. . . .

Athletic Director George Huff several years ago purchased, at his own expense, oil cloths for the Illinois football players and then put them away waiting for a day like this. . . . He couldn't find them when he decided to get them out this noon. . . . Jack Buckler's mother, father, and brother came up from Texas to watch him play. . . . It was the first time they had seen him in college competition. . . . Lieut. Echols of the Military Academy, was technical director for "Flirtation Walk," a movie to be released soon, dealing with life at West Point. . . . Army hasn't had a sophomore in its starting lineup for three years. . . . Joe Stancook, captain of the Cadets, spent his freshman year at Notre Dame. . . . Lieut. H. Maury Jones, who keeps statistics at Army football games, is a brother of Capt. Biff Jones, former head coach of the Academy eleven who now is leading Huey Long's Louisiana State team.

The field was covered by a tarpaulin until shortly before game time. . . . Before the first quarter was completed the field was as slippery and muddy as if it had had no protection from the rain. . . . Coach Zuppke and Mrs. Zuppke dined at Urbana Country club after the game. . . . They later served as chaperons at a student dance given in honor of the Army eleven. . . . The guests of honor, however, left Champaign an hour after the game and were unable to attend. . . . Ill luck seems to pursue Charles Dunkley of the Associated Press. . . . A leak in the press box roof permitted rain to drip on his head and typewriter throughout the game. . . . Which prompted a brother workman to recall Roundy Coughlin's favorite expression: "What could be more fairer?"

Ten Years Ago Today—Red Grange and Illinois were picked to beat Chicago. . . . Michigan was going to play Ohio State at Columbus before a packed house. . . . Eastern football experts rated Notre Dame's football team best in the United States. . . . Utah took Southern California's place on Stanford's schedule. . . . Jim Londos and Renato Gardini were ready for their bout at the Coliseum. . . . Zev, with L. Fator up, won the feature race at Pimlico.

CHICAGO RIDING CLUB DEFEATS ARTILLERY, 17-5

The Black Horse troop defeated the 106th Cavalry, 9½ to 3½, as the indoor polo season opened at the Chicago Riding club last night. Lieut. William F. Kirby made six of the goals and Lieut. Roy D. Keehn Jr. five.

In the second game of the evening, the Chicago Riding club romped over the 122d Field artillery, 17 to 5. The upset was due largely to the scoring ability of Bud Collins, who made nine goals. Jim Hanna, playing back, scored eight.

Burro polo, which had its Chicago premier last night, proved to be so popular that Lieut. Kirby, in charge of the events, announced that those attending next Saturday's game would be treated to a repeat performance.

Lineups:

Eddie Moore Is Appointed Manager of Atlanta Club

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Appointment of Eddie Moore, third baseman, as manager of the Atlanta club of the Southern association for 1935 was announced today by the board of directors of the Atlanta Baseball association. Moore, named acting manager of the Crackers near the end of last season, led the Atlanta club to a whirlwind finish that included a winning streak of eight straight games.

Mishawaka Prep Eleven Beats Michigan City, 19-0

Michigan City, Ind., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Mishawaka High school took third place in the eastern division of the N. I. H. S. conference today by defeating Michigan City, 19 to 0. Mishawaka scored first on line plunges and a 15 yard penalty against Michigan City. The other two touchdowns were made on intercepted passes.

Onarga Wins, 18-0, from Morgan Park Academy

Onarga Military academy scored an 18 to 0 victory over Morgan Park Military academy in a Midwest conference game at Onarga yesterday. Lockhart of Onarga scored touchdowns in the first and second quarters. He ran 25 yards for the first and then ran 30 yards in the second period.

ALABAMA ROMPS OVER KENTUCKY ELEVEN, 34 TO 14

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Alabama's Crimson tide lashed Kentucky's Wildcats for a 34 to 14 victory here today and continued its march toward a possible national championship before the largest crowd assembled at Stoll field in four years.

Howell led Alabama's first quarter scoring drive, advancing the ball to the ten yard line, from where Hutson went around end for the first score. Alabama scored again a few minutes later when Campbell crashed over. After that it was all Alabama, Kentucky scoring on the Tide's substitutes.

TEXAS, 7; S. M. U., 7.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The University of Texas and Southern Methodist tied, 7 to 7, today in a Southwest conference game. Texas scored shortly after the game opened and place kicked the extra point. For nearly three periods the Texans fought to stave off a charging Southern Methodist attack, but faltered in the closing minutes of the third period. Bobby Wilson, Mustang back, slashed around his right end, cut back through the secondary and raced 31 yards for a touchdown. Orr tied the count with a place kick.

MARYLAND VICTOR, 20-0.

College Park, Md., Nov. 3.—[U. P.]—The University of Maryland's football eleven ran up its third straight victory by defeating Virginia, 20 to 0, today before a homecoming crowd of 7,000.

DUKE WINS, 13-6.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Duke university's football team scored twice in the fourth period today to defeat Alabama Polytechnic institute, 13 to 6, in a driving rain. Its first touchdown came on the only pass it attempted in the game. Parker threw to Cornelius for 15 yards and the score. Alexander ran 39 yards for the second touchdown. Alabama got its score in the second period.

GEORGIA, 14; FLORIDA, 0.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 3.—[U.P.]—Georgia scored its first victory of the Southeastern conference season here today, defeating Florida, 14 to 0, before a crowd of 22,000.

Augustana Triumphs Over Lake Forest Eleven, 13 to 0

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Augustana defeated Lake Forest, 13 to 0, on a muddy field before a homecoming crowd of 2,000 today. Lake Forest was held to two first downs, while Augustana piled up 16.

An Augustana march from its own 30 yard line brought the opening touchdown in the first quarter, Bob Marack taking the ball across from the 5 yard line. Smiley kicked the extra point.

The final score came in the second period, with Lloyd Johnson, Fran Grumley, and Marack leading the attack. Johnson plunged across for the points from the 2 yard line.

NORTH CENTRAL WINS, 19-13.

Elmhurst college eleven yesterday met its first defeat of the season at the hands of a powerful North Central team, 19 to 13. It was Elmhurst's homecoming and North Central's final Little Nineteen game.

Elmhurst scored the first touchdown early in the opening quarter on a 40 yard run by Baumrucher and its second in the fourth quarter as Vertovec took a pass from Robbins. Robbins kicked the extra point. Russell, Dittman, and Dieber each scored once for North Central. Spiegler drop kicked the extra point for North Central. Lineup:

DE KALB, NORMAL TIE, 0-0.

De Kalb, Ill., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—De Kalb Teachers and Illinois State Normal university battled to a scoreless tie on a muddy field this afternoon. Steady rain handicapped both Normal's running game and De Kalb's passing attack.

Fumbles marked the play of both teams with De Kalb having a slight edge on recoveries. Each team made six first downs. De Kalb gained 46 yards on three completed passes out of ten attempts. Normal threw two passes, both of which were incomplete. Neither team advanced farther than the other's ten yard line. Lineups:

KANSAS BATTLES IOWA STATE TO 0 TO 0 DEADLOCK

Ames, Ia., Nov. 3.—(AP)—A rejuvenated University of Kansas football team twisted and tore its way through Iowa State here today, but lacked the punch to score as a crowd of 5,000 homecomers saw the two Big Six opponents battle to a scoreless tie.

The Cyclones never were in scoring position, as the Jayhawkers continually ran Fred Poole's kicks deep into Iowa State territory. Neither team could get within 20 yards of the goal line.

OKLAHOMA A. & M. WINS.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The Cowboys from Oklahoma A. & M. staged a furious last period roundup here today to score three touchdowns and defeat the University of Detroit, 19 to 6.

After a scoreless first period, Detroit jumped into a lead when Doug Nott, Detroit half back, tossed two passes to Karpus to advance the ball to the three yard line. Karpus then smashed over for the Detroit touchdown.

In the fourth period Weber hurled a long pass to Asbury, who took it on the 29 yard line and raced over for a touchdown. His placement was good, putting Oklahoma in the lead.

Wright smashed over for the second Cowboy score after intercepting a pass. A few minutes later Nott tried a pass and Wright again intercepted it, racing 15 yards for the third touchdown.

OKLAHOMA, 31; MISSOURI, 0.

Norman, Okla., Nov. 3.—[U. P.]—The University of Oklahoma crushed Missouri, 31 to 0, here today before an Oklahoma homecoming crowd of 12,000.

Missouri never had possession of the ball in Oklahoma territory, while the Sooners repeatedly threw the Tigers back toward their own goal line.

52,000 WATCH STANFORD WHIP U. C. L. A., 27-0

Full Back Grayson Leads Indians' Attack.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Stanford overthrew another rival in its rush toward the coast football championship, by defeating University of California at Los Angeles, 27 to 0, before 52,000 at Olympic stadium today.

So enthused were the Palo Alto rooters that they uprooted the stadium goal posts in a victory celebration after the game.

Grayson Scores Twice.

Bobby Grayson, Stanford full back, made the first two touchdowns, one in the first period and the other in the third, after he had ended the half on the U. C. L. A. one yard line. Bones Hamilton, 195 pound half back, accounted for Stanford's third score when he intercepted a pass in the latter part of the third quarter and ran 46 yards to the goal.

Moscrip Kicks Goal.

Monk Moscrip converted the points for the 3 touchdowns by placements, besides figuring largely in each touchdown effort. Stanford's last score was in the fourth quarter when Ledbetter went over in two bucks from the six yard line.

Lineup:

STANFORD [27].		U. C. L. A. [0].
Moscrip	L. E.	McChesney
Reynolds	L. T.	Olson
Black	L. G.	Trotter
Muller	C	Chavoor

Topping	R. E.	Lott
Alustiza	Q. B.	Frankovich
Vandellen	L. H.	Cheshire
Hamilton	R. H.	Livesay
Grayson	F. B.	Key

Touchdowns—Grayson [2], Hamilton, Ledbetter.

Points after touchdown—Moscrip [3].

Substitutions: Stanford—Trompas for Moscrip, Drown for Reynolds, Callaghan for Black, Larson and Brandin for Muller, Rouble for Walton, Lettunich for Callaway, Clark for Topping, Anderson for Lustiza, Maentz and Reisner for Van Dellen, Head for Hamilton, Ledbetter for Grayson.

U. C. L. A.—Smith and Pike for McChesney, Ross and Dickerson for Olson, Womble and Hastings for Trotter, McConnell for Chavoor, Austin for Boyer, Denis for Stawisky, Schroeder for Lott, Murphy for Frankovich, Funk and Haradon for Cheshire, Wilton for Livesay, Olmstead and Livesay for Key.

Coaches: Stanford—Tiny Thornhill [Pittsburgh]. U. C. L. A.—Bill Spaulding [Wabash].

SANTA CLARA, 20; CALIFORNIA, 0.

Berkeley, Cal., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Santa Clara made three great touchdown marches today to defeat California, 20 to 0, in a game capped by a huge free-for-all fist battle between rival students.

A few minutes after the game rooters were tossing punches at each other on the field. The slugfest provided extra thrills for the crowd of 35,000.

The Broncos penetrated California territory in the second period and De Rosa ran the last thirty-three yards for a touchdown. Falaschi place kicked the extra point.

Bronchos Score Again.

Santa Clara pounded sixty-five yards down the field in the third period, crushing the Bear defense with line smashes until Frank Sobrero, left half, faked a pass and then ran thirteen yards to score.

In the fourth period, with the ball on California's 47 yard line, Sobrero faked a pass, dodged through tackle, and ran for another touchdown. Kaliski place kicked the extra point.

WASHINGTON WINS, 14-7.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Washington remained untied and undefeated today by beating Oregon State, 14 to 7.

Chuck Bond, Washington tackle, intercepted an Oregon pass from Red Franklin and raced away for the winning touchdown in the last period. He caught the ball on the Oregon State 36 yard stripe and reached the goal just as Franklin spilled him.

The victory was the fourth straight of the season for the Huskies and put them in a position to battle for the conference championship against Stanford at Palo Alto next Saturday.

HOW TO KEEP YOUR ENGINE YOUNG

The way to keep an engine young is to see that it gets a good supply of highest quality gas and oil and is equipped with Champion Extra Range Spark Plugs. Be sure they're Champions because Champion equipped engines have won practically every major race and record breaking event throughout the world for the past eleven years. For instance, a Champion equipped Ford V-8 driven by Bob McKenzie, recently smashed the stock car record between New York and Los Angeles. Remember that one of the simplest, surest, and most economical ways to keep your engine young is to change spark plugs every 10,000 miles.

TODAY'S GAMES.

New York vs. Chicago Bears [Wrigley field].
Chicago Cardinals at Brooklyn.
Cincinnati at Philadelphia.
Green Bay at Boston.
Pittsburgh at Detroit.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The football Giants of New York return to Wrigley field today to meet the undefeated Bears in a National Professional league game. On the occasion of their last visit, Dec. 17, 1933, they were beaten by the Bears, 23 to 21, in one of the most exciting football contests ever played. With the defeat went the loss of the world's championship, and today the Giants come back to the scene of that disappointment, prepared to conquer a greatly improved Bear eleven. The Bears will be after their eighth straight victory.

Passes were the Giants' forte in the championship game. Harry Newman alone threw 17, completing 12, six in succession. Newman again will lead the New Yorkers' attack. But the Giants, like the Bears, have a new open field threat which enables them to offer a more diversified attack. This menace to the Bears' continued occupancy of first place is Willis Smith, a 147 pound quarter back from Idaho university.

Small But Speedy.

Smith is the smallest player in the league. He spends the off season mining in Idaho, but no stratum of ore ever tested his mettle as the Bear defense, which has been stressed at the expense of offense all week, will this afternoon. Smith will not be in the game at the kick off at 2 o'clock. He will be held in reserve until Newman has had an opportunity to hurl passes at a Bear defense which has yet to become as efficient against an aerial attack as it has proved itself against power plays and wide runs.

If Newman's pitching is as baffling to the Bears as it was last fall, there may be little reason to use Smith. But should Bear secondary men cover receivers as well as they did against the Packers, another National league eleven stressing the overhead offensive, last Sunday, Smith will be relied upon to get away on some of the long runs with which he has hustled himself into stardom in his first year as a professional player.

Feathers Leads Bears.

The Bears, of course, will depend largely upon the ground gaining ability of Beattie Feathers, who has already established a season record for total yardage in the National league. Feathers is regarded by many as the greatest half back ever to play in the professional circuit. His kicking and passing also are integral parts of the Bears' attack, but it will be on his runs from scrimmage and from the safety position which the champions will count heaviest. The former Tennessee star had never played safety until he joined the Bears, but his aptitude at baseball made him a sure punt catcher and his broken field running, with or without the exceptional blocking of his teammates, makes him one of the most dangerous men on kicks in the league.

Feathers will be used primarily for offensive maneuvers. When the need arises for concentration on defense Red Grange will replace him. Grange is recognized as the best pass defender in football.

Bears Out to Guard Lead.

The Bears, in addition to striving for the preservation of their perfect record to remain in a tie for the league lead with the powerful Detroit eleven, have the task of preventing a recurrence of last year's embarrassment when the Giants whipped them 3 to 0 at New York. This was the Bears' last defeat in 26 games. They have won 10 of 16 games played against the Giants, winning twice last year and losing once. The scores of these games were Bears 14, Giants 10; Bears 0, Giants 3, and Bears 23, Giants 21.

The field was kept covered yesterday and last night and prospects are for a dry gridiron at game time.

Today's game will be broadcast exclusively by the Chicago Tribune station, W-G-N.

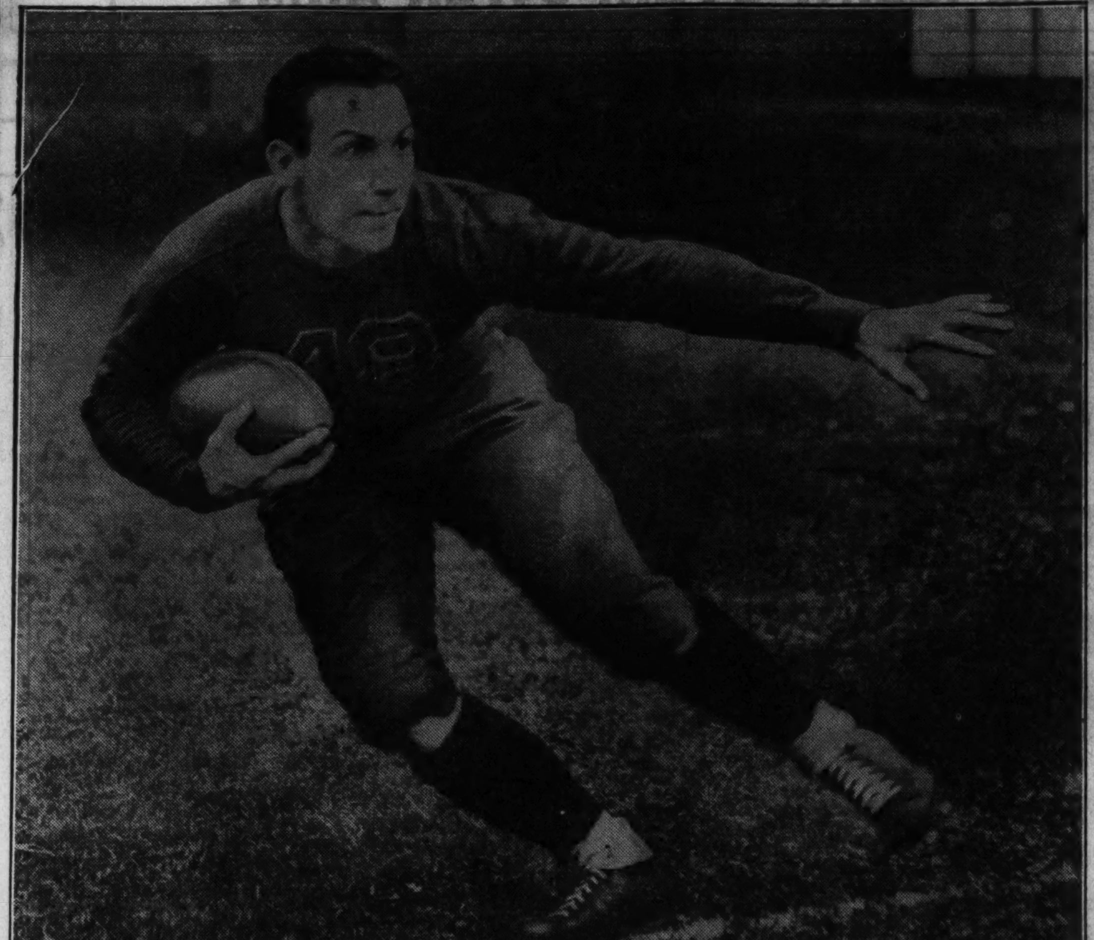
CARDS AT BROOKLYN

Brooklyn, Nov. 3. — [Special.] — Brooklyn will meet the crippled Chicago Cardinals here tomorrow in quest of its third victory of the season and seeking to remain in the race for the eastern division championship in the National Professional league. The Dodgers have won two games and lost three.

The Cardinals, composed almost entirely of new men in professional football, have been beset with injuries which have prevented them from presenting their full strength at any time this year. A new quarter back, Sarfoe, of Washington State, joined the team at Boston this week, after Paul Pardonner and Homer Griffith were injured again. He will make his league debut tomorrow in a patched up line-up. The Cardinals have won only two games in six starts, defeating Cincinnati twice.

AND 48 IS JUST FOUR TIMES 12!



Where's that goal line? It doesn't matter much to Beattie Feathers (No. 48 on your program, folks), just how far he has to go to score a touchdown for the Chicago Bears. Feathers, leading ground gainer in professional football, will be in action today against New York Giants at Wrigley field. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

13 Bike Teams Start Stadium Grind Sunday

Thirteen teams will face the starter in Chicago's 32d international six day bicycle race which starts a week from tonight at 9 o'clock in the Stadium. Harry Mendel, manager of the race, has brought to town an aggregation of 14 American boys and 10 foreign riders.

Six Chicago riders will compete. They are: Mickey Rodak, who will represent the Catholic Youths organization; Tony Shaller, winner of the last race here; Eddie Trieste, from the south side; Steve Wagner, Cecil Yates and Jerry Rodman, all from the north side.

Georgetti Back Again.

The race will mark the return to Chicago of Franco Georgetti, of Italy, probably the highest paid six day rider in the game. It has been three years since Georgetti has been in Chicago.

Georgetti won the motor paced championship four years in a row. The little Italian star has won 11 six day races, finished second in six, third in four and fourth in three. Gerard Gebaets has won 14 races, Reggie McNamara has copped 16, Alfred Letourner has won 12, Bobby Walthour has come home in front in 6 and Freddie Spencer has won 5.

There will be three other champions in the race. Alfred Letourner of France, is the motor paced champion of America; George Dempsey, the all around champion of the United States, and Bob Lipsett, of New York, the amateur titleholder.

Ten Teams Named.

Ten of the thirteen teams down to start in the race have been made up. The teams lined up to date are as follows:

Franco Georgetti and Avanti Martinetti; Reggie McNamara and Dave Lands; Jerry Rodman and Louis Cohen; Cecil Yates and Steve Wagner; Mickey Rodak and Charley Ritter; George Dempsey and Freddie Spencer; Boby Walthour and Franz Deulberg; Ewald Wissel and Willie Grimm; Alfred Letourner and Gerard Debaets; Gus Rys and Maurice Maeyens.

The race will be continuous from the time it starts at 9 o'clock next Sunday night until midnight the following Saturday night. The riders will be on the track all the time even when the building is being cleaned in the early hours of the morning.

There will be four series of sprints each day. The first at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, then a series at 9 and 11 at night and the final one at 1 in the morning. There will be ten sprints in each series, the points scoring 6 for first, 4 for second, 2 for third and 1 for fourth.

Quarter-Final C. Y. O. Fights Start Tuesday

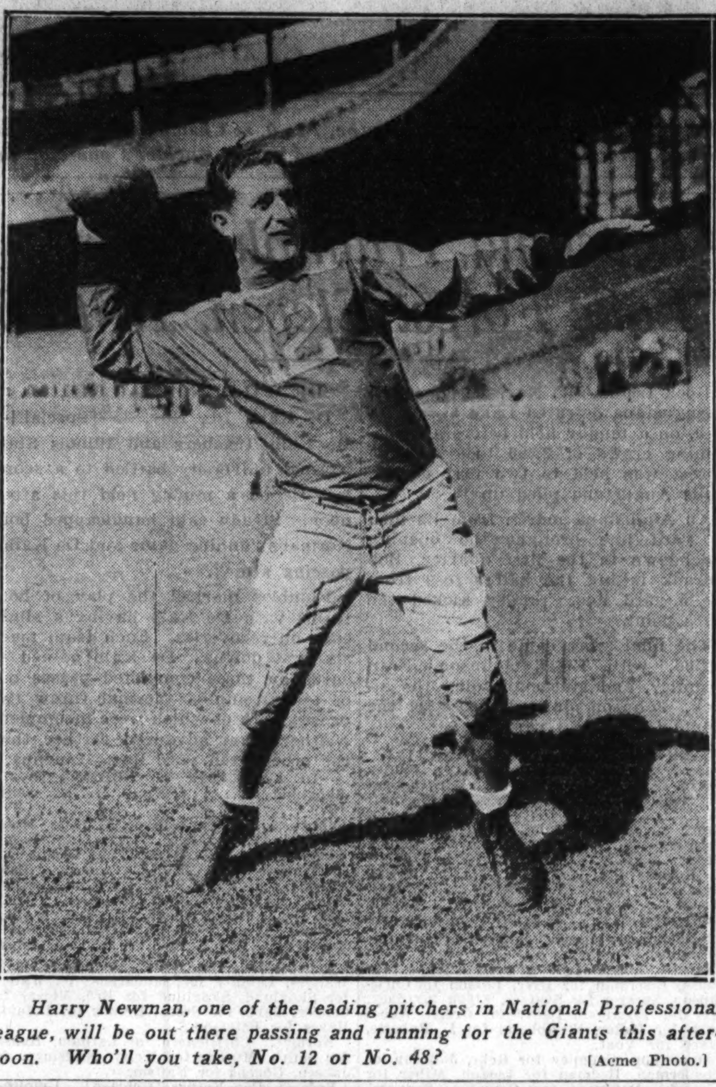
When the quarter-final bouts of the fourth annual Catholic Youth organization amateur boxing tournament open at the C. Y. O. Center gymnasium Tuesday night a number of class A boys who came to the front in the sectional preliminaries the last two weeks are expected to steal the show from the more experienced battlers in the championship class.

Packey McFarland, state athletic commissioner, who has sat at the ringside from the opening night of the tournament analyzing the work of the youthful warriors, at the conclusion of the Loyola trials last week said that the general caliber of competition has been higher than ever before.

Class A qualifiers for the quarter-finals who have impressed followers of amateur boxing include the following:

112 pounds, Eddie Zegan, St. Hedwig's. 126 pounds, Pat Berns, St. Genevieve's; Frank Bukowski, St. John the Baptist; Frank Balanch, St. Stephen's. 135 pounds, Bruno Claude, St. Pius; Bill Marshall, Help of Christians; Harry Ryan, St. Mary Celle, Berwyn; George Hecker, St. Jarlath. 147 pounds, Tony Catalino, St. Alphonsus; Leslie Brewer, St. Mary's, Lake Forest; Al Urlich, St. Barbara's. 160 pounds, Al Vanderbosch, St. John Berchmans; Paul Maina, St. Bernard's; Julius Szabo, St. Patrick's; Edmund Nelson, St. Thomas Aquinas. 175 pounds, Jim Featherstone, Ascension, Harvey; Mike Murphy, St. Gertrude's.

The quarter-finals will be run off next Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday nights at the C. Y. O. Center gymnasium, 31 East Congress street. Approximately 300 boys will be seen in action during the three nights.



Harry Newman, one of the leading pitchers in National Professional league, will be out there passing and running for the Giants this afternoon. Who'll you take, No. 12 or No. 48? [Acme Photo.]

MONARCHS OUT TO HOLD LEAD IN CLASSIC BOWLING

Meet Motors, 4th Place Team, Tonight.

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

With a two game margin over their two nearest rivals, the Monarch Beers are not figuring on being jolted out of first place tonight in the Classic Bowling league, but almost anything can happen, and has thus far in the race for the championship. The pace setters tonight are paired with the Vrba Motors, occupants of fourth place, in what promises to be the best of the four matches starting at 8 o'clock at the Garden Recreation alleys.

The up and coming Baby Ruths, now tied for second place with Pabst Blue Ribbon, see a chance to continue their climb at the expense of the lowly Cardinals. Edelweiss will form the opposition for Pabst, while Budweiser will roll La Salle-Windsor.

Here and There.

Continuing his week-end exhibitions, Otto Stein of St. Louis will appear at three alleys today. The national match game champion will roll Bill Heerman at the West Town at 3; George Kuhfuss at Elmwood Park Recreation at 7 and Otto Svestka at Forest Park Recreation at 9:30.

Mike Weir helped himself to a record 695 in the Peoples Gas Club league, getting games of 224, 235, and 236. No wonder Mike's South Shop No. 1 team totaled 2,975 and won three games from Custom Account. . . . Henry Mosher hung up a 667 series to beat out Ed Toycen by one pin for high in the Ideal Telephone league.

On South Side Alleys.

Charlie Wensel scattered the pins for a 716 series to snatch the individual lead from Dan Enright in the Bruck Major league. Their averages are 210 and 208. Frank Spencer is third. First place in the team race is held by the Dutch Masters. . . . Cunningham registered a 297 game in the Highland Major league, a 6-7-10 split keeping him from a perfect mark. The Pabst team won three games and rose from fifth to first place. With the aid of a 738 series, G. Apato, 211, tops the individuals. . . . Three victories hoisted the John M. Lees into first position in the Highland Senior league in which only nine games separate the top and bottom teams.

It took a 707 series by J. Skovie of the Cheltenhams to break the nine game winning streak of Reed's Butterscotch in the South End Traveling league. Nevertheless the Reeds won two out of three and now have 11 victories and 1 defeat. Komodka, averaging 219, leads the individuals. . . . Lee Hile tuned in with 244, 234, and 222 for a 700 achievement in the Woodlawn Major league,

Windy City Leagues.

The O'Keefe Coals picked up a total of 3,060 for second high series in the Windy City Major league. There still is no stopping the Mineralites, who have compiled a record of 19 won and 5 lost, the next best being the 18 and 6 of the O'Keefe Coals. Billy Rusch, averaging 211, is the only double century shooter. Theel is second with 198. Tomorrow's schedule:

Blazek Tailors vs. J. M. Kralovecs; Vrba Motors vs. Mineralites; Bender-Bluemke Dairy vs. Soper Brothers; Curtiss Buy-Jiminy vs. Charles Denby Cigars; McKesson Old Crows vs. O'Keefe Coals; Pilsen Olympia vs. Betinis Boosters; Mayor Cerny vs. Arcade Tavern; Vogel Brothers vs. Lauterbach Coals.

North End League.

The North End Traveling league's tie for first place now is a three-way affair. The Fox's De Luxe team scored two victories over the Michelobs while the Samuelsons and Milfords, who had shared the lead, were losing two games. Each of the leaders has 17 won and 10 lost. Frank Jerzyk of the Samuelsons shot a 664 series to supplant Frank Kartheiser of the Michelobs as the leader in the average column. Tomorrow night's schedule:

Milfords vs. Michelobs at North Town, 7 p. m.; Samuelsons vs. Superbs at Willow, 7 p. m.; Millers vs. Birk Bros. at Lincoln Square, 7 p. m.; Westers at Idle Hour, 9 p. m.; Butterfingers vs. Foxs at Kaadland, 9 p. m.

On North Side Alleys.

While Anheuser-Busch was making a mediocre showing the Curtiss Butterfingers, led by Jerry Juoron's 693, slid into first place in the Gold Coast Major league by winning three from McKesson Old Crow. The real fireworks were provided by the Luxors, who shot high series of 3,239 with games of 1,130, 1,155, and 954. Si Lock set the pace for the big series with 694, followed by Perkins, 684, and Kuhn, 646. . . . The Tam o' Shanter league celebrated Halloween with a costume party and the spirit of the affair seemed to have the effect of coaxing the pins to fall. Dr. Borchert, dressed ready to operate, carved out a 259 game, but the pins subsequently realized he did not have his scalpel

With 6 won and 3 lost, the Parker-Thomas-Tucker team is tied with Stack-Ryan for first place in the Chicago Junior Traveling league. In his last two series W. Banka of Stack-Ryan has shot 649 and 674. . . . Monte Cristo Recreation, with 11 won and 4 lost, is setting the pace in the Northwest Traveling league while Clark-Lunt and North Center are tied for second with 9 victories and 6 setbacks. J. Mutl is averaging 199, B. Udell, 197; F. Carney, 197; L. Shell, 196, and S. Paulsen, 195.

Randolph League.

Unable to break out of the 900 class, the Goldammer Milfords nevertheless won two out of three, but the champion Mineralites swept their series. All of which indicates that the possibility of any team beating out the Mineralites for this year's title in the Randolph league is lessening. Spoden got hot with a 723 series and as a result the Mello Ice Creams shot 3,032 to freeze out the Rebholz Gardens in three games.

About the Women.

M. Jenkinson put together games of 209, 182, and 227 for a 618 total in the Lorel Rug-Monte Cristo Ladies' Major league. Other high scores were: H. Miller, 566; A. Walz, 531; S. Walz, 528; G. Ritchie, 520; M. Hardenstein, 515; P. Strassburger, 523; C. Ehrns, 509, and C. Doerhoefer, 507.

At a meeting last night at the Morrison hotel the Congress Recreation alleys were selected as the site of the women's international tournament which will open on April 25. It is expected that 500 teams will compete.

Harrison Tech, 1933 champion of the Chicago Public High School league, was eliminated in the west section race yesterday when it lost to Crane Tech, 13 to 7, at Mills stadium. The victory sent Crane into a tie with Marshall. They will meet for the sectional crown next Saturday.

A short forward pass, Kriz to Peters, in the final quarter enabled Crane to defeat Harrison. Crane scored its first touchdown in the opening period, Cesarone racing 50 yards after catching a pass from Kriz. Harrison's touchdown came in the second quarter, Perri tossing a 34 yard pass to Nackiewicz. Lineup:

BLACKS WIN, 4-3, IN BLACKHAWKS FINAL EXHIBITION

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—The fourth and final exhibition game between the Blackhawks and the Whitehawks, composed of members of the Chicago Blackhawk hocky team, was played immediately following the Army-Illinois game today at the University of Illinois rink.

The game went to the Blacks in an overtime period when Bill Kendall shot the puck past Chabot. The final score was 4 to 3 and evened the series.

Tommy Cook, Leroy Goldsworthy and Louie Trudel were the scorers for the Whites, each making a tally. Marty Burke, Helge Bostrum and Norman Locking were other scorers for the Blacks.

10,000 WATCH CENTRAL WHIP RILEY, 25 TO 0

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Central High school of South Bend crushed Riley, 25 to 0, today in the fourth annual renewal of intercity rivalry. A throng of 10,000 saw the game.

Central's fleet Negro half back, Earnest Rice, scored three of the four touchdowns, leading a running attack that piled up 295 yards from scrimmage to 78 for Riley.

Riley threatened only once, reaching Central's four yard line in the fourth quarter through the aid of a 35 yard pass.

It was the fourth successive triumph in the series for Central, and gave it first place in the eastern division of the Northern Indiana High School conference.

Sparta to Meet Lawndale Today in Soccer Battle

BY OFFSIDE.

The Lawndale Rangers, fast improving National Soccer league team, will meet the Sparta Leaders this afternoon at Sparta stadium. Lawndale's goalie, Burda, is rated as one of the best in the league.

In the other National league battle the Maccabees will play the Hungarian Americans at Kuppenheimer stadium.

Three encounters are on the program for teams in the major league, in which the Armours and Wieboldt Wonderbolts are tied for the lead with three straight victories.

The Armours' foe will be Calumet which has won, lost, and tied in three starts. This game will be played at 100th street and Avenue N at 2:30 o'clock.

The Wonderbolts will take on the MacDuffs, third place team, at De Paul field, Sheffield and Webster avenues in what is expected to be the best game of the day.

The two teams which are fighting to get out of the second division—the Judans and Ravenswood—will meet at Winnemac park.

NATION'S BANKS TO CARRY LOAD IN U. S. SPENDING

Must Lend Vast Sums in Next Year.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Lending more money to the federal government will be the big job of the banks during the next twelve months. Billions of dollars will be added to the national debt, according to present estimates, and by far the larger part of this will have to be absorbed by the banks of the nation, inasmuch as other institutions and investors have largely abandoned their normal investments in government securities.

During the three months ended Sept. 30, 1934, the first quarter of the government's fiscal year, Uncle Sam spent more than a thousand million dollars more than he took in. And that was only the beginning. The big spending is to come during the winter, when a vast public works program is to be undertaken to replace last year's graft-ridden Civil Works administration as a job making and pump priming agency.

U. S. Spending to Go On.

In his speech before the American Bankers' association convention President Roosevelt disclosed that the government's lending and spending activities would not be curtailed until private industry and financial enterprise shall have taken up the slack. That makes a perfect deadlock, because private industry and finance have been holding back because of the unbalanced budget and threat of inflation inherent in the government's spending campaign.

The situation, therefore, resolves itself into something like this: Employment, business activity, and credit volume are all lagging because business men and investors hesitate to make forward commitments at a time when monetary uncertainty clouds the future, and to cure this situation the government will spend more money, further unbalancing its budget, and contributing still further to monetary uncertainty.

Banks Must Carry Load.

With the government spending increasingly more than it gets in revenues some agency has to lend it more and more funds. Gradually this job has been turned over to the banks.

Already having tied up more than a third of their assets in government bonds, the banks are in no position to get fussy about supporting the market for government bonds. They can't do otherwise without cutting their own throats. The banks' situation today, with reference to government bonds, is similar to their position in 1929 with reference to stock market loans. In 1929 more than a third of their assets were tied up in stock market loans and the bankers were all shoving their heads in the sand in order to avoid seeing the truth of a situation which was perfectly obvious.

In one respect, however, their present situation is less serious than was their situation in 1929. Government bonds can be rediscounted with the federal reserve banks, whereas stock market collateral in 1929 could not be so discounted.

U. S. Needs Aid of Banks.

One reason why the Roosevelt administration has been flirting with the bankers during the last two weeks may have been the realization that the continued support of the banks would be essential if the government were to borrow several billions more during the next twelve months to finance its big deficit. Most of the big banks are so loaded up with bonds that they daren't stop now for fear of consequences to themselves. There are a few banks, however, that might be in a position to start unloading if things should begin to look too bad and bond selling by even a few banks could break a market as thin as the government bond market is at present.

Gradually the banks are getting to a point where most of them not only dare not resist administration orders, but are afraid to criticize administration policies. Up to a year or two ago a banker had the right to criticize a politician just as a politician had the right to criticize the banker. Those days are gone and mute submission, no matter how questionable the order, is the rule.

Criticism Stirs Dissension.

Robert Hanes, the Carolina banker who attacked New Deal administration policies in a committee meeting at the bankers' annual convention, stirred up a veritable cyclone, because the word had gone down from the management of the bankers' association that nobody was to talk out of turn.

With one-fourth of all the bank capital in the country now owned by the government through the Reconstruction Finance corporation and with the administration "cracking down" on the banks not only through the RFC but through the deposit insurance corporation, the bank examiners, the federal reserve and the code authorities, it may soon be necessary to go to Greenland or Mexico, or possibly to the island of Yap, to find a financier who will say what he thinks and stand for having himself quoted in the public prints.

Thus saddled, bridled and checkreined, the bankers are going to keep on buying government bonds whether they wish to do so or not. And they are going to smile and kid their customers along in the best Pollyanna manner. They promised to do so at their Washington meeting, where it was pointed out that if the banker is gloomy and uncertain his customer is likely to be likewise. The solution that was decided upon was that bankers should enter into an open conspiracy to conceal inward gloom in a disguise of outward cheer.

Principal Markets Close Next Tuesday, Election Day

Principal stock and commodity markets and financial institutions will be closed Tuesday, election day. The Chicago live stock market will be open as usual.

State Banks Pay Only 18% of Deposits

Current releases of reports on the condition of Cook county's 146 closed state banks and the amounts returned to depositors give rise to the natural question: "What next?"

When these banks closed nearly 150 millions of deposits were frozen. Less than 27 millions have been freed—something like 18 per cent. Forty-six of the closed institutions, with deposits of almost 50 millions, have paid nothing. Excluding this group, returns to date average only 27 per cent on the banks which have paid dividends.

Assistance from the Reconstruction Finance corporation and recovery, particularly of real estate, disclose one way to substantial increases in repayment to depositors.

Need for Economies.

Elimination of waste, high expenses and fees, and expenditures of receiverships afford another means of improving the depositor's lot. Some attempts in the latter direction have been made in consolidation of receiverships for the avowed purpose of economy.

The increasingly important part to be played by the RFC is shown in reports for the last quarter, ended Sept. 30. The slow moving machinery of the RFC apparently has swung into action. Four millions was obtained—but 1½ millions of that went right back to meet interest and repay obligations contracted with the RFC before the banks in question failed.

In this lies an important factor in the entire situation. Forty-nine—more than one-third—of these closed banks already are indebted to the RFC for a total of more than 11 millions.

Must Repay RFC Loans.

Each debtor bank must repay every cent of its obligation, plus interest, before more money will be forthcoming. This fact eliminates these 49 banks from further dividends in the immediate future—with one possible exception. In cases where assets have increased in value, or where recovery has exceeded estimates on which the original loan was made, a second loan may be obtained.

One example of this situation might be the case of a bank which obtained a $400,000 loan on $1,000,000 in securities. Half of the paper, let's say, has been liquidated for $300,000 in cash Securities with a face value of $500,000 are left against a debt of $100,000. Then, it may be, the receiver may obtain as much as $300,000 for this remainder. The procedure would require repayment of the $100,000 balance first, leaving $200,000 net for dividends.

Loans Depend on Recovery.

If improvement in recovery value is not so apparent, it is likely that the entire loan would be liquidated before any further cash would be available. On such a variable quantity rest the hopes of further dividends in a number of cases—particularly where most of the remaining assets of a bank are held by the RFC as security for its loan.

In the case of the other 97 banks there is a possibility of new RFC loans if any worth-while assets can be shown. Applications now are pending for loans to 26 banks, but only 16 apply to institutions which already do not have borrowed money to pay off. In the other 10 cases part of the proceeds of any loan obtained must be used to pay off old debts.

BUSINESS DONE BY CHECK SAGS IN MIDDLE WEST

Business activity in the seventh federal reserve area declined 2.5 per cent last week, based on the value of checks drawn against individual account.

Debits by 154 banks in 40 leading clearing house cities for the week ended Oct. 31 amounted to $815,503,000, against $836,156,000 a week earlier. Excluding Clinton, Ia., and Manitowoc, Wis., for which comparable 1933 figures are not available, the total was $813,583,000, against $775,097,000 for the same week last year, an increase of 5 per cent.

Year to year gains were shown by all principal cities except Chicago, which reported an aggregate of $514,824,000, against $517,959,000 last year. Des Moines' total was $18,843,000, against $13,514,000; Indianapolis, $29,066,000, against $26,134,000; Detroit, $107,629,000, against $94,282,000; and Milwaukee, $47,857,000, against $40,107,000.

SILVER HOLDING EXEMPTION RULE IS PERMANENT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Under an executive order issued by President Roosevelt today silver which had been temporarily exempted from nationalization was permanently exempted.

The nationalization order issued Aug. 9 whereby the government took possession of the metal called for the delivery of all silver within 90 days except metal less than eight-tenths fine, coins or fabricated silver in holdings of less than 500 ounces.

Today's order, issued through the treasury, permits the melting of manufactured silver articles for further industrial use.

MOODY'S INDEX SHOWS BUSINESS LEVEL IS STEADY

New York, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Statistics appearing during the last week indicated no change in business activity, according to Moody's Index figures for freight car loadings, electric power production, and steel ingot output.

These index figures are adjusted for seasonal variation—that is, if the change from the previous week should coincide with the normal seasonal change, the index figure would be unchanged.

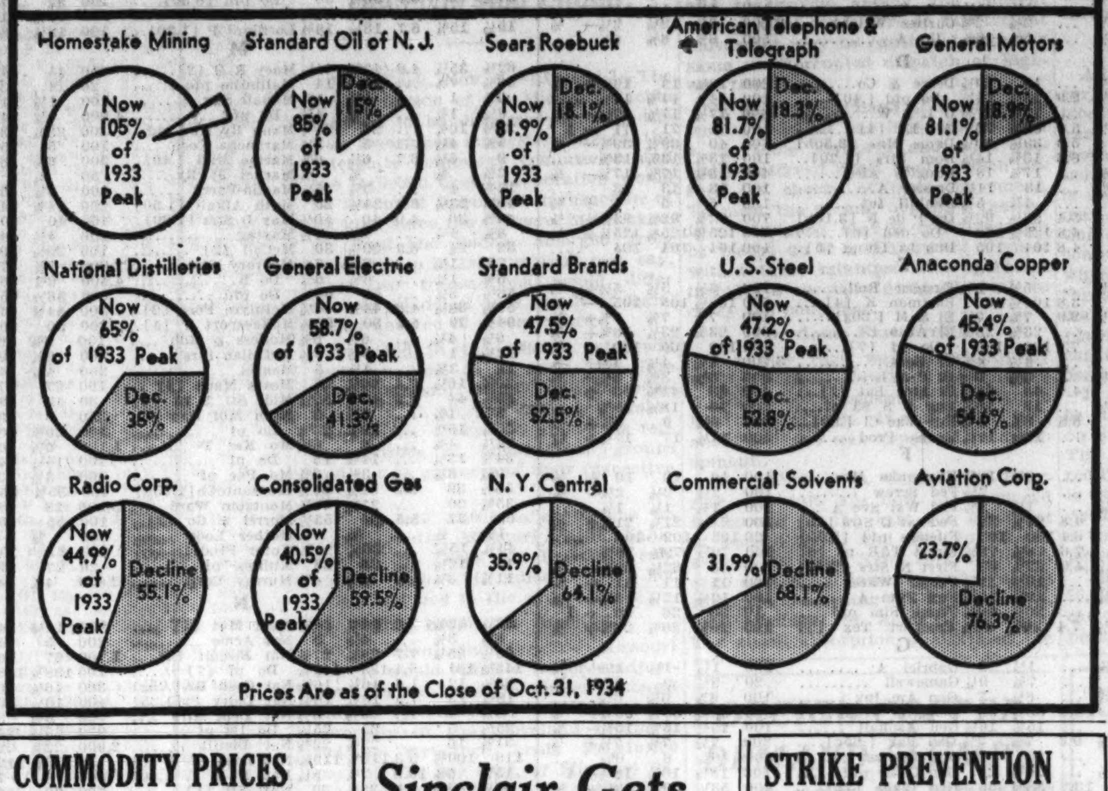
How Present Stock Prices Compare With the Peak of 1933



Prices Are as of the Close of Oct. 31, 1934

COMMODITY PRICES GENERALLY HIGHER DURING LAST WEEK

The trend of commodity prices during the last week was upward, with only a few articles failing to share in the advance. Nearly all commodities responded to the President's prediction of an increase in living costs by rallying briskly.

New high quotations for the season were touched by lard, eggs, and cottonseed oil. Coffee sold at a new low quotation. All grain futures registered moderate improvement.

The following table shows yesterday's closing prices on a representative list of commodities, the preceding Saturday's quotations and the high and low prices for the season:

	Close		*Season's range.
	Nov. 3.	Oct. 27.	High.	Low.

REPORT GASOLINE PRICE WAR IN EAST SETTLED

New York, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Agreement on a margin of 3½ cents a gallon on regular gasoline to dealers has been reached by leading oil companies, it was reported today, following a conference to discuss ways and means of ending the price war now going on between independents and major companies. This margin would compare with 4 cents prior to the recent wave of price cutting.

While no official statement was issued after the conference, which the independents did not attend, it was reported in reliable quarters that the gasoline purchasing plan will likely go into effect next Monday or Tuesday, depending, it was said, upon clarification of the marketing situation and restoration of prices to a more normal basis.

Small eastern distributors of unbranded gasoline have been steadily holding out for a differential of 1½ cents a gallon between their product and that of the major companies. It was reported that the majors have made a compromise proposal of a differential of 7-10 of a cent, but would be disposed to agree to a one cent differential if necessary.

U. S. FINANCE EXPERTS FIND MORE SAVINGS PUT INTO ANNUITIES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—A partial change in the form of savings of many Americans has been noted by financial experts of the government in connection with the sale of annuities. There is no agreement as to whether this form of savings is better than another, but an expert commentator does believe it will exercise a pressure on other varieties of investment.

Annuity payments represent an effort by the investor to guarantee himself an income by paying into an insurance or other company monthly sums which will be returned to him on a regular basis after he reaches a certain age.

Money of this kind received by 27 large insurance companies was $101,000,000 in the first six months of 1934, compared with $171,700,000 in all of 1933.

The plethora of this type of savings is expected to force conservative investment institutions, such as insurance companies, to make every effort to place the money on most favorable terms in the best type of loans. This effort in turn may force other investors, usually seeking safe but larger returns, to make even greater concessions. Such savings definitly are for long term investment also, whereas other types seek more liquidity.

The annuity pressure has become so great that in recent months a number of companies have placed maximum limits on the amounts of money accepted in payment of single premium annuities. That is where all premiums are paid at once with the idea of repayment of some quite distant future date on a periodical basis.

Sinclair Gets Richfield Oil of New York

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Over protests of the Standard Oil company of California, properties of the Richfield Oil company of New York were sold today to the Harry F. Sinclair interests for $4,760,000 under an order by Federal Judge William P. James.

At one time during the hearing attorneys for Sinclair, after a hurried conference with the oil magnate, dramatically offered $19,000,000 for the assets of Richfield of California. The offer was in addition to the previously made tender for the New York properties of the company and thus practically equalled the long standing Standard Oil bid for the combined Richfield assets in the Richfield reorganization program.

Extends Limit on Offer.

Oscar Lawler, attorney for the Standard interests, however, announced Standard would extend the time limit if its combined offer until Dec. 31, so today's proceedings were restricted to sale of the New York properties.

Sinclair paved the way for consideration of his bid for Richfield of New York by withdrawing his offer of $1,000,000 for the stock of Sherwood Brothers, eastern distributing company held by Richfield. The Sherwood stock is the principal asset of Richfield of New York.

RECEIVERSHIP IN 1931.

Richfield Oil company of California, parent concern of the New York corporation, was placed in federal receivership Jan. 15, 1931, and William C. McDuffie named receiver. Purchase offers were made from time to time by such companies as Cities Service company, Consolidated Oil corporation and Standard Oil company of California.

Settlement of the firm's difficulties was nearly arranged several times, but in each instance was blocked.

NRA PRICE PLANS CUT BUYING, SAYS CANADIAN BANK

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The monthly letter of the Royal Bank of Canada, published today, said that higher prices in the United States due to NRA policies have had a tendency to reduce the demand for products. It declared that one of the basic aims of the NRA—increasing profits by advancing wages—has not been realized.

Uncertainty as to future legislative action in the United States is a disturbing factor, the bank letter asserted. "The government which desires to secure coöperation in restoring employment must create conditions under which profits are possible," it said. "Such theories may not sound idealistic, but it is important that in this matter governments should be pragmatic—that they should do that which brings real recovery by the shortest route. The business world seeks stability, and prosperity can best be attained where basic laws are unchanging, and where peace is assured."

In the United States, the letter continued, excessive pessimism as to world conditions retards improvement, and this doubt holds back business in other countries, including Canada.

LABOR REQUESTS ROOSEVELT TO DROP AUTO CODE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—A telegram protesting continuation of the auto code, as ordered by President Roosevelt, was addressed to the White House today by F. J. Dillon, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, on behalf of the United Automobile Workers of the United States.

The message read: "On behalf of the United Automobile Workers of the United States, I respectfully protest the continuance of the present automobile code without representatives of these thousands of organized workers being accorded the opportunity to formally present either to you personally or at a public hearing their objections and proposals covering same."

In a supplementary statement, Dillon said: "It would be difficult for these thousands of workers to reconcile their average yearly wage of $800 with the net profit of $89,583,613 for the first six months of 1934, as made public recently by General Motors corporation."

STRIKE PREVENTION EFFORTS OF NEW DEAL CAUSE COMPLICATIONS

New York, Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Estimating wage losses at $100,000,000 through about 5,200 strikes in the United States in the first nine months of this year, the Standard Oil company of New Jersey in the current issue of The Lamp states that perhaps no effort to simplify relations between employers and employés ever resulted in complicating so many situations as the paragraph 7-A in the recovery act, inserted with the aim of making strikes unnecessary.

"To some extent the resulting confusion was due to a campaign to convince working men that the government had issued a mandate to organize," the publication says. "Of course this was not the case, but since provision had been made for collective bargaining it sounded reasonable to the workers that they must align themselves with an organization. They could not do this collective bargaining in a massmeeting but of necessity, where the number involved was large, only through selected spokesmen.

"But the collective bargaining section does not say nor mean that only unions shall be organized. The government does not specify what kind of a union or organization shall be considered the spokesman of the employés, leaving this for the workers themselves to determine."

DOLLAR STRONG AGAINST FRANC; POUND HIGHER

New York, Nov. 3. — [Special.] — Trading in foreign currencies was light today with the dollar showing slight improvement against the franc but a little weakness against other gold currencies and the British pound.

French francs eased ⅛ point to 6.58¾ cents, with the value of the dollar in terms of the old par of the franc at 59.47 cents, against 59.46 cents yesterday. Based on the new par of the franc the dollar was worth $1.0069, against $1.0068.

The Italian exchange rose ½ point to 8.55½ cents, and the Belgian belge and Swiss franc each gained 1 point. The German mark lost 1 point. Canadian dollars and Dutch guilders were unchanged.

Gold in London advanced 1 penny to 139 shillings 10 pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.81 based on the opening of sterling at $4.97⅞. Bars valued at $546,700 were sold.

Word from abroad stated that some $2,000,000 in gold had been shipped from France today to a New York bank.

GERMANY HALTS CASH PAYMENTS ON BOND INTEREST

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—[U. P.]—Germany will pay no cash interest due between July 1, 1934, and June 30, 1935, on her foreign obligations, including the Dawes and Young plan loans, it was announced today by the reichsbank.

Acting in accordance with the transfer agreement reached with foreign creditors on May 29, the reichsbank withdrew its offer of a 40 per cent cash payment on medium and long term debts held by foreigners. The offer, it was explained, was contingent upon foreign exchange conditions, which, the reichsbank reported, had taken an unfavorable turn.

In lieu of the 40 per cent cash payment, foreign bondholders will be entitled to accept 3 per cent funding bonds, due in 1945, for the full value of the interest on the bonds.

Ford Motor Loses Suit on Patent Infringement

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 3.—(AP)—A decision against the Ford Motor company in favor of the Gordon Form Lathe company for alleged infringement of a patented camshaft turning machine was on record today in federal court as the result of a ruling Friday by Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle. Determination of the extent of damages was referred to William S. Sayres, master in chancery. Charles Gordon of Milwaukee and Arthur W. Redlin of Saginaw, Mich., charged the Ford company with infringing on their patent.

COTTON EXPORT DROP ALARMS ROOSEVELT AIDS

Fear Loans Peg Price Above World's.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Growing concern over the shrinkage in this country's cotton exports had spread today from the AAA to other administration sectors, with various proposals being offered as remedies for the situation.

Figures tell the reason for the alarm. The cotton year begins on Aug. 1. Exports from that date this year to Oct. 25 were only 1,153,000 bales, compared to 2,202,000 for the same period last year. Exports have averaged around 8,000,000 bales annually for several years. A continuance of the present export rate would see the 1934-'35 cotton season end next Aug. 1 with only 4,612,000 bales sent out of the country.

Cotton Carryover Is Large.

Since the AAA began its crop adjustment plans, the 13,000,000 bale carryover of American cotton has been reduced to 10,634,000 bales, but the latter figure is the third largest carryover on record. This year's crop, estimated at 9,443,000 bales, is one of the smallest on record, but unless consumption, both foreign and domestic, increases, the AAA will have made little progress toward getting rid of the surplus.

The contention has been advanced that the government, through its offer to lend producers 12 cents a pound on cotton, has pegged the price and created an artificial value for American cotton which has caused consumers abroad to buy Indian, Egyptian, and other staples. The market price is around 12 cents now and 12 cent loans already have been made on 1,711,905 bales of cotton. Unless the price of the staple rises the Commodity Credit corporation may find itself with from one-third to one-half of this year's crop on its hands.

Differ on Cause of Drop.

Secretary Wallace and his aides assert that acreage reduction and the loan policy of the administration are not the real reason for the precipitate drop in shipments abroad of America's foremost export product. The secretary's explanation is that inability of other nations to buy dollar exchange—lack of purchasing power—is the real reason why customers abroad are cutting down cotton buying. He cites Germany as an example, and the plaint of German officials that they can not buy our cotton unless the United States buys more German products.

Administration critics, however, reply that there has been an increase in the use of foreign cotton because it is cheaper than the domestic product. From the south has come the suggestion that Secretary Hull seek additional outlets for cotton in reciprocal tarif treaties now being negotiated.

Peek Urges Buying Exchange.

George Peek, special adviser to the President on foreign trade, has said that the treasury department might use a portion of its $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund to acquire German marks, for instance, so that former foreign customers might buy cotton again. Others have proposed a greatly expanded cotton acreage to meet the competition of other growths, and there are any number of other suggested solutions for the problem.

A bit bewildered, the AAA is proceeding cautiously toward its 1935 voluntary program. In 1934 the plan called for a reduction of 40 per cent from the yearly average planting of about 41,000,000 acres. The contract was for two years, and the maximum acreage reduction which may be made this year is 25 per cent from the 41,000,000 base.

Since so few bales of American cotton are going abroad the full 25 per cent cut probably will be ordered, although the AAA had hoped to announce an expanded acreage for 1935.

PANAMA CANAL TOLLS UP $3,000,000 IN TEN MONTHS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Nov. 3.—Panama canal tolls increased more than $3,000,000 in the first ten months of 1934 over a similar period of 1933. While United States shipping has shown a considerable increase, British as well as other nations have shown more.

In October 467 commercial ships paid $2,099,000 in tolls, against $1,947,000 paid by 435 ships in September. In the last ten months transits totaled 4,430; tolls, $20,268,000. In the ten months of 1933 transits were 3,704 and tolls $17,199,000.

Trafic in the last ten months showed a gain of 19.6 per cent in transit and 17.8 in tolls and a gain of 31.2 per cent in transits and 25.6 per cent in tolls compared with 1932.

Trade Gains, But Profit Fails to Show Rise

New York, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Business in most American industries in the final quarter of 1934 will show an increased dollar volume over 1933, but little if any gain in profits over last year, it is indicated by opinions of 125 business paper editors.

In nineteen fields where volume promises to be ahead of 1933, only ten appear to have a chance for profit improvement, according to the survey of editors of 125 member publications of Associated Business Papers, Inc.

Electrical apparatus manufacturing, sporting goods, heating and plumbing and building materials seem to provide the brightest outlooks, but textiles, machine shops and boiler-making are expected to lag behind last year.

No Estimate on Mining.

Mining industries have been unable to make any estimates, but the cement and rock products industry is expected to fall 15 to 20 per cent behind the last quarter of 1933. Despite a higher volume in the paint making field, profits are expected to decline due to higher costs.

With a 15 per cent rise in dollar volume, the building industries regard profits as doubtful. Heating and plumbing look for a 20 per cent gain in business and a rise in profits of at least a third.

The electrical industry expects to manufacture twice as much as last year and to show profits of 30 per cent more. Power utilities will probably increase dollar sales around 15 per cent and profits 1 or 2 per cent.

The improvement in small house building and remodeling is expected to raise electrical contracting 15 or 20 per cent and profits slightly.

Manufacture and sale of sporting goods, while 50 per cent ahead of last year, will leave profits at a low point due to mounting costs and lack of price control.

Textile Gain Expected.

Textile industry editors expect some improvement in the last quarter although both volume and profits probably will be less than in the 1933 quarter.

Railroads, street transportation lines and bus lines look for some gains in total income but declines in net profits. Aviation manufacturers foresee some improvement in both directions, but mail carriers and transport lines expect no special betterment of profits.

Fourth quarter business in automobiles and steel is expected to run slightly under the 1933 period, but steel company deficits may be less general than a year ago. The dollar volume in oil will be as great as a year ago, but profits will probably be less, due to low prices.

Packers are expected to have a larger dollar volume this quarter, with profits increasing a little on rising inventories.

ILLINOIS SPENDS MORE FOR MONTH THAN IT TAKES IN

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 3.—(AP)—State receipts from all sources for October were $11,058,712, and disbursements totaled $16,885,580, leaving a balance in the treasury of $52,591,453. John C. Martin, state treasurer, in his monthly statement of condition, gave the source and amount of receipts as follows:

Direct property tax, $439,839; inheritance tax, $606,518; sales tax, $3,341,831; liquor tax and license, $706,618; other taxes [insurance, corporation], $90,309; motor fuel tax, $2,790,093; motor vehicle tax, $185,133; interest on state funds, $29,888; miscellaneous fees, earnings and refunds, $1,166,800; federal aid, $1,399,380; trust funds, $301,469.

Among disbursements listed were: From general revenue, $3,728,611; state school distributive fund, $2,689,467; roads, $1,916,998; state teachers pension and retirement fund, $230,527.

The total bond and note indebtedness of the state was given at $231,602,500.

RUSSIA TO RANK SECOND AS PIG IRON PRODUCER

MOSCOW, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Soviet Russia will nose Germany out of her position as the nation second to the United States in the production of pig iron this year. Russia also expects to dislodge Great Britain from her position as third producer of steel and rolled metal, being surpassed only by the United States and Germany.

The soviet expects to rank second to the United States alone in all three lines of metal production this year. Already this year Russia has produced 8,700,000 tons of pig iron and will raise the figue to 10,000,000 tons during the next two months.

Russian steel production for the first ten months of the year was 7,800,000 tons, 2,000,000 tons more than had been planned. In rolled metal Russia has turned out 5,400,000 tons, with planned production for the remaining two months placed at 1,200,000 tons.

Demand Deposits Increase, Time Funds Decline in N.Y.

New York, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The weekly statement of the New York Clearing house shows total net demand deposits [average] increased $31,346,000 but time deposits [average] declined $4,669,000. Clearings this week totaled $3,118,948,602, compared with $2,879,692,715 last week.

U.S. PROPORTION OF WORLD GOLD STOCKS LOWER

Total Rises to New Peak, However.

New York, Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Although the monetary gold stocks of the United States have increased nearly $1,000,000,000 in the last nine months and now are the largest in history, from the standpoint of dollar value and, so far as available gold is concerned, also by weight, the proportion of the world's monetary gold held by the United States has fallen substantially since 1931.

At the end of August, 1931, the total gold reserves of central banks and governments was placed by the federal reserve bulletin at $11,283,000,000 in dollars of the old value. Of this amount the United States held $4,632,000,000, or slightly more than 41 per cent. On Oct. 31, last, the treasury reported total gold holdings of $8,001,522,568, which is equal to slightly more than 37 per cent of world reserves of about $21,500,000,000, expressed in new dollars worth 59.06 per cent of the old dollars.

Loss from Peak Larger.

If comparison is made with the highest point reached by American gold stocks prior to devaluation an even more striking decline in the proportion of the world's gold owned by the United States is shown. On Sept. 16, 1931, monetary gold stocks of the United States were reported at $5,016,000,000 which was equal to 44.54 per cent of the world's total stocks. At that date, however, the reported gold stocks of the United States included about $370,000,000 of gold coin in circulation, much of which had been lost, destroyed, or sent abroad, and was not actually available. Even after deducting this figure, the available gold stocks of the United States were equal to 41.25 per cent of the world's total monetary gold supply.

The rise of nearly $1,000,000,000 in gold stocks of the United States since devaluation, which has carried them from $7,018,263,923 on Feb. 1, last, to $8,001,522,568 on last Wednesday, has lifted them in dollar value far above any previous holding. Whether the present stocks are at a new high by weight depends somewhat upon the adjustment made for that portion of the formerly reported stocks which were really nonexistent.

Near 8½ Billions.

The reported total of $5,016,000,000 on Sept. 16, 1931, is equal at the new valuation of the dollar to $8,493,057,885, which is still far above the latest reported total. If, however, the estimated $370,000,000 of gold coin in circulation on Sept. 16, 1931, is deducted, the available total on that date becomes $4,646,000,000, which is equal at the new value of the dollar to $7,866,570,000. This figure was passed by revalued gold holdings on July 5, last, when they reached $7,867,117,503.

The recall of hoarded gold in 1933 proved, however, that at least part of the gold coin in circulation could be retrieved by the treasury. When revaluation took place on Jan. 31 the treasury dropped from the record $287,000,000 [old value] of gold coin nominally in circulotion, much of which had probably been nonexistent for years.

If this figure is accepted as the correct estimate of the portion of the formerly reported gold stocks which was completely unavailable to the treasury and adjustment for it be made in the Sept. 16, 1931 figure, the old record high for monetary gold becomes equal to $8,007,788,668 in new dollars, which is roughly $6,000,000 higher than the current total.

Should Close Margin.

This margin of $6,000,000 should be closed this week. Receipts of newly mined gold alone should be nearly equal to that amount, on the basis of recent weeks. But in addition there is en route here at least $3,500,000 gold from Europe, the forerunner of a new import movement, and some gold should come in from Canada or other producing countries which now send their newly mined metal here for sale.

The large gain in monetary gold stocks of the United States since Feb. 1, has been made chiefly at the expense of foreign central banks and governments. The net gain to American gold stocks through imports and changes in gold held under earmark here for foreign account is estimated at $848,700,000 in the nine months from Feb. 1, to Oct. 31. Some of this gold consisted of newly mined metal shipped from Canada, Mexico, and the Orient, or by way of the London open market, from South Africa, for sale to the treasury.

The largest single contribution was that of France which has exported $192,184,000 this year to the United States and has received exports of $30,186,000 from the United States. In addition, France was the source of much of the gold imported from London during February.

STOCKS RECORD MODERATE GAIN IN LATE TRADE

Preferred Shares Show Best Advances.

New York, Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Specialties and preferred stocks were trotted out to give today's abbreviated dealings on the stock exchange an appearance of activity. Gains in some of the more volatile issues ran as high as six points. G. W. Helme, and the preferreds of Celotex, Certainteed Products, Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company, American Woolen, and American Type Founders ran up some of the most impressive scores.

The general list after backing and filling most of the morning took fresh heart in the final hour and moved up to record net gains of a fraction to a point or more.

Dealings at 311,000 were about on a par with the recent average Saturday.

Oil Shares Strong.

A candidate for feature honors in the curtailed dealings was a mild showing of strength in some of the oil shares on reports that the basis of an agreement in the gasoline price war in the east had been reached and that a general boosting of prices might be expected early next week. Oil executives have been in conference on the subject for several days.

The present effort is the most comprehensive the industry has yet undertaken because it aims to settle questions of marketing policy which have been thorns of contention between the so-called major companies and independent dealers for years. If accord can be reached with the independents, one of the most prolific causes of the periodic gasoline price wars will be eliminated. Recent declaration of an extra dividend by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey also has attracted favorable attention to the oil group.

Common Rises Point.

The common stock of the New Jersey company rose a point today, and recoveries of from a fraction to a point were made by various other issues affected by the price cutting, including Seaboard and Sun Oil.

Merchandising shares again claimed favorable attention, with McCrory Stores leading. Rumors of impending mergers in this field are responsible in a measure for the demand. Universal Leaf Tobacco was an individual feature, selling at a new high price for the year. The issue rose nearly 3 points on the day's trading. Packing stocks were liked, Wilson preferred extending its gain to a new 1934 peak. Railroad, utility and food groups were slightly higher.

National Container Votes 50c on Common, Preferred

National Container corporation declared a dividend of 50 cents on the common stock and a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the preferred, payable Dec. 1 to stock of record Nov. 15. The present dividend on the preferred, plus $2 on account of accumulations authorized last February, completes the payments of arrears on the issue.

DECEMBER EGGS AT HIGH FOR SEASON; BUTTER DULL

December eggs sold at 22½ cents per dozen on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, a new high for the season as the result of short covering and new buying. Net gains for the day were ¼ to ⅜ cents. Butter was dull and finished unchanged to ⅛ cent per pound lower.

Fairly liberal withdrawals of eggs from cold storage were reported, but this movement is subnormal, and is said to be the smallest in 12 years with one exception. Butter lacked the aggressive support which has been in evidence for several weeks.

Sales: Butter, 29 cars; eggs, 114 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 10 cars; eggs, 10 cars. Prices follow:

COTTON FUTURES MARKET SHOWS FIRMER UNDERTONE

Cotton showed a firmer undertone yesterday. Strength in Liverpool and buying of October credited to coöperatives, Liverpool and shorts more than offset liquidation by holders of December contracts and pressure from the south and spot houses. Closing trades, while not at the top, recorded net gains of 1 to 7 points in Chicago and 2 to 8 points in other markets. Spot cotton closed 5 points higher with New Orleans and Houston, 12.45 cents; Galveston, 12.40 cents, and New York, 12.35 cents per pound. Prices follow:

LARD REACHES PEAK SINCE 1930 WITH TRADING LIGHT

Trading in lard futures yesterday was the lightest of the week, but there was no pressure on the market and it took but little buying to advance prices to a new high for the season and since November, 1930, at the last. Closing trades were at net gains of 5 to 7½ cents. Bellies were quiet but gained 32½ to 37½ cents on scattered buying. Average weight of the hogs being received here is too light to result in any material make of lard and stocks are decreasing steadily, according to trade reports. Cash lard closed at 10.02 cents; loose, 9.92 cents, and leaf at 10 cents, while bellies were 13½ cents per pound. Prices follow:

WHITE (?) COLLAR CLASS FOREMOST IN HOME REPAIR

Clerical Workers Borrow Most from U. S.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The white, but perhaps frayed, collared workers so far have shown the greatest interest in the home modernization program of the Federal Housing administration.

The administration reported today that the largest portion of the $2,000,000 of loans so far have gone to clerical workers. Almost a fourth of the loans have been used to give the home owner and his friends something new and more attractive at which to look. In this respect the home owner gave himself an advantage over his friends. Over 14 per cent of the loans went for beautifuying the interior of homes. Less than 11 per cent was used for painting the outside.

Loans Average $456.

The analysis by the housing administration of the 4,509 loans thus far made give the average loan as $456. It estimated that 10,769 jobs so far had been created by the modernization program. In the last week, it was announced, loans for modernization and repair have averaged $400,000 a day, increasing the total to date to $13,000,000 for fourteen weeks. It was estimated that $2,000,000 is being spent daily for this purpose.

Next behind clerical workers in the list of borrowers were skilled mechanics, and back of them were business men, salesmen, unskilled laborers, and professional men. There were thirty-one barbers, twenty-eight landlords, and one church on the list.

Heating Next on List.

Heating was the second most popular type of modernization, with roofing, plumbing and exterior repairs following in line. Garage repairs tailed the list.

The analysis of modernization loans was given simultaneously with the virtual completion of plans for beginning the insurance of loans for home construction—the second phase of the housing administration's program. A virtual army of employés is being assembled by the administration to investigate the applications for such loans to determine whether they are of a type which will permit insurance by the government under the plan.

Following the announcement that President Roosevelt had ordered a universal 5 per cent interest rate on home mortgages, the Guaranty Trust company of New York, the world's largest institution dealing in mortgages, applied today to Housing Administrator Moffett for the first approval as mortgagee under the housing act. The Riggs National bank of Washington applied for the first approval for insurance of mortgage required by the housing act.

VOTERS APPROVE $4,369,800 OF NEW MUNICIPAL LOANS

New York, Nov. 3.—[Special.]—New municipal bond issues approved by voters of 64 municipalities in 22 states during October totaled $4,369,800, as compared with $3,584,400 approved in September.

During October, the voters of 25 communities in 14 states rejected proposals to issue bonds aggregating $9,784,000, as compared with $2,189,000 rejected in September.

The following table, compiled by the Daily Bond Buyer of New York, represents a comparison of bonds approved by months for the last three years:

NRA FIXES COST ON COAL CARTAGE IN CHICAGO AREA

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The NRA today fixed lowest reasonable costs for the retail handling of coal in Chicago metropolitan area. These must be added by dealers to mine costs plus freight charges. The minimum set:

Steam coal, ten ton deliveries, $1.35 a ton; domestic [C. O. D.] ten ton deliveries, $1.95; four to ten ton deliveries, $2.15; other domestic prepared size and coke, ten ton deliveries, $2.15; four to ten ton deliveries, $2.35. Relief, prepared size, coke, and anthracite, $1.88; all other, $1.67.

To buyers at the yard the prices are made 50 cents less than delivered costs. This scale of charges was fixed for dealers' sale at the yards: Pocahontas, mine run, $1.20; other domestic coals, $1.65; steam coals, $1.05. On these dealers' sales there is an additional charge of 50 cents per delivery on smaller than four ton deliveries.

Government Places Orders for 5,040,000 Lbs. Butter

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The Federal Surplus Relief corporation today awarded contracts to five firms to supply 5,040,000 pounds of butter for the needy. The awards included L. D. Schreiber & Co., Chicago and New York City, 2,210,000 pounds, and C. H. Weaver & Co., Chicago, 420,000 pounds.

Block of Parking Space for Sears-Roebuck Store

The entire block of frontage on 63d place, between Union and Lowe avenues, has been leased for two years by Sears, Roebuck & Co. for parking space for their new Englewood store now nearing completion at 63d and Halsted. C. A. Pfingsten & Co. were brokers.

Illinois Emergency Relief Leases S. Chicago Building

The Illinois emergency relief commission has leased the two story and basement building at 9147-57 South Chicago avenue for two years for use as a shelter by the Service Bureau for Transients. C. A. Pfingsten & Co. were brokers. W. G. MacMichael represented the lessees.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 3.—The Boston wool market during the past week has been just about as active as during the previous week. Demand was centered to a great extent upon the shorter combing 64s, and finer territory and fleece wools in original bags at steady prices. A few lots of the better staple of the finer grades of Ohio and similar fleeces were sold at firm prices. Only a few lines of graded territory wools were sold and these comprised French combing and clothing 64s and finer good combing mediums. Some twelve months Texas spot and direct wools were sold at steady prices.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Estimate Argentine wool clip season 1934-'35 issued by Argentine Branch First National Bank of Boston based on average estimate in tons of one thousand kilos from fifteen leading wool exporters as follows: Production, 166,000 tons; carryover, 19,000 tons; local consumption, 23,000 tons; exportable surplus, 162,000 tons. Outlook for quality is generally very good.

REORGANIZATION OF MO. PACIFIC UP THIS WEEK

Largest Since Milwaukee Receivership Ended.

New York, Nov. 3.—[Special.]—The reorganization of the Missouri Pacific railroad to be discussed here by the Van Sweringen interests, bankers, the interstate commerce commission and the Railroad Credit corporation would be the most important transaction of its kind since the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific emerged from receivership in 1928, railroad men say. The two transactions would differ sharply in detail as a result of legislation enacted in recent years.

Included in the officials who will meet on Nov. 21 to decide the fate of the Missouri Pacific will be members of J. P. Morgan & Co. and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. They will appear as representatives of bondholders' groups and not as partners of their respective firms.

There are 12,000 miles of line involved in the Missouri Pacific bankruptcy, the Texas and Pacific, a subsidiary with 1,842 miles of line, not being included in the proceedings.

Rail Empire Is Involved.

A reorganization for the Missouri Pacific would entail a major readjustment in the Van Sweringen railroad empire, the Alleghany corporation, top company in the Cleveland brothers' holding structure, holds $19,410,000 par, or 27.3 per cent, of Missouri Pacific preferred stock outstanding and $52,290,000 par, or 63.1 per cent of the common stock outstanding. The stock was acquired at the high prices prevailing prior to the collapse of the stock market boom in 1929.

The Alleghany corporation itself is seeking to consummate a recapitalization to avoid a dispersal of its holdings. It defaulted on an interest payment on Oct. 1, the period of grace for which will end on Dec. 1.

Another railway in the Van Sweringen assembly for which a reorganization is in contemplation is the Chicago and Eastern Illinois. The Alleghany corporation controls the Chesapeake and Ohio railway, which in turn controls the C. & E. I. Hearings on a plan of reorganization for the C. & E. I. will begin before the interstate commerce commission next month.

May Invoke New U. S. Law.

The enactment of the amendment to the bankruptcy law affecting railroads will provide a means for reorganizing the Missouri Pacific in contrast to previous events of this nature. The Milwaukee reorganization has often been cited as an example of the costs likely to result from the transactions under the old laws. The Milwaukee emerged from receivership with more par value of securities than it had before. The interstate commerce commission fought the costs charged to security holders in the transaction, although it was overruled by the United States Supreme court.

Under the new law only two-thirds of interested security holders are required to bring about a reorganization of a railroad. This means that minorities may not block the proceedings, and hence do not have to be bought up with offerings of new securities. Moreover, a safeguard over reorganization expenditures is proprovided.

WHISKY RECEIPT SALES GO UNDER LIQUOR CONTROL

The ruling of Attorney General Otto Kerner on Nov. 1 that the sale of whisky certificates is, in effect, the sale of whisky, definitly brings dealers in that paper under the jurisdiction of the Illinois liquor control commission. It was indicated yesterday that the commission, in anticipation of the opinion, had made a broad survey of the situation and had formulated its plans to take immediate action to curb the sale of whisky certificates to the uninformed public.

The next regular meeting of the commission will not be held until Nov. 16, but it is expected that a recess order governing this classification will be issued prior to that date.

The committee, it is believed, now has the power to classify dealers in whisky certificates as "importing distributors" and demand that they take out a $250 license and post $5,000 bond. Even then they could sell the certificates only to persons and organizations that had been licensed by the state to deal in whisky. Dealers who have already sold such certificates to the general public are subject, it is believed, to penalties for having operated without such a license.

'Cushioned' Freight Car New Bid for More Rail Business

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Chicago railroad officials are watching with interest experiments with a new type of flat car container carrier with which its builders hope to offer highway truck operation as stiff competition as the new streamlined passenger trains will offer in their field. The new cars were designed with two major purposes in mind: To reduce damage to freight while in shipment, and to provide speedy and efficient unloading of containers so that freight movement may be continued with the same uninterrupted dispatch of highway trucking.

To meet the demand of the first objective, the flat car is equipped with a moveable platform and with specially designed draft gears which absorb the shocks of train movement. To meet the second objective the car is so designed that a container can be placed on it and removed from it within three minutes. The operation includes a specially designed truck to carry the container.

For Acme Fast Freight.

The new cars were developed by W. P. Kellett of New York for Thomas A. Bradley, president of the Acme Fast Freight, Inc. It was stated that about $500,000 was expended in development.

On exhibit at A Century of Progress, the cars are now to be placed in service in the east for shipment of bottled milk, and also in freight service between New York and Chicago on the Lackawanna and Wabash railroads, according to R. F. Locke, vice president of Acme in Chicago. The shock absorption qualities of the cars will permit freight shipment without the necessity of meeting the onerous packing requirements now in effect, it was said. Trucks using the highways have had a decided advantage in being able to handle freight without special packing.

In meeting the shock of train movement, the flat car's deck moves 4½ inches while there is a give of 4¾ inches in the new type of draft gear. The deck movement is controled through springs and friction plates.

Special Truck Used.

All the paraphernalia of the flat car, such as hand brake wheel, wheel blocks, etc., fold into the floor of the car to enable the container to be moved onto the specially designed truck body that carries it. The truck is constructed with a platform which may be raised or tilted in any direction through hydraulic power. The container is mounted on eight swivel wheels and is hauled on to the truck through a power winch. The container may be removed from the flat car or placed on it over the end of the flat car or over the side, as convenience demands.

It is stated that the flat cars may be handled easily in yards or sidings on outskirts of cities in units of five. The containers may be handled directly in distribution just as the truck is used by the highway operator. There need be no delay between arrival of a train and dispatch of freight to the person receiving it.

The container is designed to carry 25,000 pounds of freight and each flat car can carry two containers, giving a potential load of 50,000 pounds.

FOREIGN COPPER DEMAND SLUMPS; PACT IN DOUBT

Domestic Trade Fair at Steady Price.

New York, Nov. 3.—(AP)—A sudden slump in foreign demand for copper during the week reflected a less promising outlook for a marketing agreement to curtail world production. The domestic market, in the meantime, experienced a fair day-to-day demand at the unchanged basis of 9 cents for Blue Eagle electrolytic.

Prospects for a continuation of orderly conditions here were based on an agreement by producers to continue to waive their rights to sales allocations during November until custom smelters have disposed of quotas, and reports of reduced mine output by an important producer. The trade believes others may also curtail.

Antimony Rises Sharply.

Antimony was sharply higher owing to strength of the Chinese market, making higher replacement costs at a time when spot carlots here are relatively scarce. The Chinese exchange situation and buying there by Europe and Japan accounted for the Far Eastern strength, but domestic demand failed to expand materially.

On the other hand, zinc became available at a 50 cent per ton reduction as a result of indifferent consumer buying. Mine production, which has been resumed, was in excess of smelter intake. While the trade is said to recognize the necessity for ore curtailment, uncertainty exists as to whether producers will coöperate to reduce operations.

Lead Quiet and Steady.

Lead was quiet but steady throughout the week. Although smelters opened their books for December delivery, there was no immediate demand from generally well supplied consumers. However, because consumption is said to be at a good rate, resumption of buying is anticipated.

Tin was dull, with prices fluctuating over a narrow range. Tin plate manufacturers, who continue to operate around 40 per cent of capacity, have thus far displayed little inclination to provide for their early 1935 metal requirements. World visible supplies at the end of October showed the first monthly increase in slightly more than a year and a half.

CHICAGO BANK STOCK PRICES SAG SLIGHTLY

Chicago downtown bank stock prices suffered small losses last week. Continental sold up to 36, but sagged to 34½ bid, 35 asked, down a point for the period. First National also lost 1 point, closing at 79 bid after fluctuating between 77 and 81.

Harris Trust finished unchanged from the previous Saturday at 175 to 185, while Northern Trust lost a point at 371 bid. Terminal National held steady at 5 to 7 and American National was unchanged at 110 to 125.

In the miscellaneous division Chicago Title and Trust improved fractionally to 69½ bid, 71 asked.

Burlington's Loadings Slightly Above Year Ago

Total loadings of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad during October were 117,479 cars, an increase of 651 cars, or .6 per cent, over October, 1933, it was announced yesterday. For the first ten months the total was 932,350 cars, compared with 857,799 in the corresponding period of last year, a rise of 8.7 per cent. The Illinois Central reported a total of 128,820 cars for October, against 125,399 a year ago. For the ten months the total was 1,138,003, compared with 1,062,206 in the corresponding period of 1933.

Savings and Loan Shares Insured by Federal Act

Individual shares up to $5,000 in the First Federal Savings and Loan association of Chicago are now insured by the federal corporation created under the National Housing act to protect investors in the event of liquidation. Policies covering 301 share accounts and other members' holdings up to $5,000 were received here yesterday from the Federal Saving and Loan Insurance corporation. The Chicago institution is the first to be thus covered in this area.

Dr. Charles Wardell Joins Investment Counsel Firm

Dr. Charles A. R. Wardell, associate professor of statistics and finance at Northwestern university, has joined the investment counsel firm of Sheridan, Farwell & Morrison, Inc., it was announced yesterday.

REPORT TRANSIT LINE WILL REGISTER BONDS; HAD REFUSED TO FILE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Manhattan Transit company was reported authoritatively today to be planning to register with the Securities and Exchange commission the issue of bonds which it had formerly refused to register. The bonds were sold by the company in defiance of the commission's contention they should be registered.

The case developed into a dispute on the question of whether the sale was interstate or intra-state and when the commission took testimony Commissioner Ferdinand Pecora threatened to have the bankers and corporation officials responsible for the issue called to Washington.

The issue was for $8,000,000, and, under the company's plans, it was to be sold entirely within the confines of New York state. The commission developed that a large proportion found its way across state lines. This, the commission held, constituted an interstate transaction requiring the registration of the bonds.

The legal point in dispute was whether the commission had a right to deny listing of the bonds on the New York Stock exchange.

MUNICIPAL BOND NOTES

Public offering was made yesterday of a $1,000,000 issue of State of Texas relief bonds bearing interest from 3 to 3.5 per cent. The bonds are dated Oct. 15, 1934, mature from Oct. 15, 1935 to 1943, and yield from 1.5 to 3.2 per cent, according to maturity. Excellent demand was shown for the issue, it was reported.

An issue of $84,000 Lorain county, Ohio, selective sales tax and poor relief bonds was awarded yesterday to a group headed by Johnson, Kase & Co. on a bid of par plus a premium of $139 for bonds as 2¾s. Maturities average two years and nine months.

The state of New Jersey awarded a new issue of $2,000,000 of highway bonds, series C, due Nov. 1, 1936 to 1969, to a syndicate comprising Gertler & Co., Yarnall & Co., Edward Lowber Strokes & Co., H. L. Allen & Co., Adams & Mueller of Newark, M. F. Schlater & Co., Inc., C. A. Preim & Co., C. P. Dunning & Co., Newark, and MacBride, Miller & Co. The price paid was 102.139 for the bonds as 3¼s. The bonds were offered yesterday at prices to yield 1.25 to 3.10 per cent.

Los Angeles, Cal., will seek bids on Nov. 13 on a new issue of $2,000,000 of water bonds. This issue was originally scheduled for award on Sept. 18. The bonds are dated Oct. 1, 1934 and are due from 1935 to 1974.

Rochester, N. Y., will redeem on Jan. 1, 1935, $1,000,000 of its water works improvement 4 per cent bonds, dated Jan. 1, 1912, and due Jan. 1, 1942. Payment will be made at the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company. The redemption has been approved by the city council.

Award of a new issue of $500,000 Worcester, Mass., revenue bonds, dated Nov. 2, 1934, and due July 18, 1935, was made to the Merchants National bank of Boston. The bank named a 0.42 per cent basis.

Elmira, N. Y., has scheduled a new issue of $125,000 of school bonds for award on Nov. 8 at 10 a. m. The issue will be dated Nov. 1, 1934, and will mature from 1936 to 1938, with the rate of interest to be stipulated by the bidders.

A new issue of $90,000 Findlay, O., public library bonds, dated Feb. 1, 1934, and due serially from 1935 to 1943 has been awarded to Hayden, Miller & Co. of Cleveland. The price paid was 100.27 for the bonds as 3¾s.

A. C. Allyn & Co., Inc., and E. H. Rollins and Sons, Inc., bidding jointly, entered the high bid for a new issue of $110,000 North Hempstead, N. Y., Union Free School district No. 6 bonds. The issue, dated Nov. 1, 1934, and due from 1937 to 1964, brought a price of 100.66 as 4.30s.

Guttenberg, N. J., will be in the market on Nov. 13 with $74,000 of new 5½ per cent bonds. The issue will consist of $27,000 improvement bonds, due Nov. 15, 1936 to 1947, and $47,000 of assessment bonds, due Nov. 15, 1935, to 1941.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. was awarded a new issue of $60,000 city of Corning, N. Y., emergency relief bonds. The issue, dated Oct. 1, 1934, and due serially from 1935 to 1942, fetched a price of 100.20, with the interest rate named as 2.60 per cent.

103 MAJOR MARKETS REPORT COLLECTIONS AND SALES IMPROVED

Improvement in sales and collections in 103 major markets over the country continued slowly, but steadily upward, during October, the National Association of Credit Men reported yesterday in a survey released through the Chicago Association of Credit Men.

Buying showed the sharper increase, "good" sales being reported for eight cities in August, 19 in September, and 28 in October. The number of cities with "good" collections in the three months went from 11 to 19 to 21. Seasonal influences are credited with the October variations.

Chicago was grouped with Indianapolis, St. Paul, and Green Bay, Wis., as showing only good collections. But, generally, the largest cities lagged in obtaining "good" ratings.

Seventeen centers having both good sales and collections were Birmingham, San Diego, Tampa, New Orleans, Duluth, Omaha, Buffalo, Grand Forks, N. D.; Columbus, Dayton, Memphis, Austin, Tex.; Dallas, Lynchburg, Richmond, Roanoke, Va., and Spokane, Wash. Noting only good sales were Little Rock, Phoenix, Oakland, Peoria, Cedar Rapids and Waterloo, Ia.; Baltimore, Kalamazoo, Helena, Mont.; Cincinnati, and Salt Lake City.

British Afraid Prosperity Is Passing Phase

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The "prosperity phase of a short run business cycle" is the terse way which the Federation of British Industries describes the current position in these slightly bewildered isles.

The federation thinks this condition is pleasant while it lasts but the temptation to overproduce should be sternly resisted. As for the United States, the federation argues that they have already passed through the prosperity phase and a lot of American firms now wish they had been more cautious while in it.

All the well known indices in the British Isles are at sixes and sevens. At least one of the companies in the iron and steel industry—the Whitehead Iron and Steel—promises to double its earnings of last year, although last year's were in turn double those of the year before. It is working at better than 80 per cent of its capacity.

But Bank Clearings Decline.

Others are doing better than last year but bank clearings at Sheffield—center of the fine steel industry—are down 2.1 per cent below October, last year, suggesting a bit of recession. Bank clearings, always a popular index in this land of relatively few statistical indices, show Bradford, a woolen center, down 9.5 per cent from this time last year, while Bristol—thanks to a tremendous demand for tobacco and shoes, is up 14.7 per cent. A little fillip to shipping has advanced Liverpool clearings 7.7 per cent, while coal, iron, and steel improvement is reflected in Newcastle's jump of 8.3 per cent.

The British could easily report separate figures for two categories, just as the Japanese do, which would show how much the fluctuation is due to domestic activity and how much to foreign trade. But the English have never cared to reveal these figures.

Schacht Puzzles Britons.

Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German Reichsbank, has naturally bulked large in the week's news because of the gracious settlement reached with the British treasury regarding German payments on British exports to Germany.

Schacht is the world's biggest conundrum to London bankers. Debate goes on endlessly as to just how much personal conviction lies behind the Reichsbank governor's defense of the present day German policy.

Up to the time of Hitler's ascendancy Schacht believed in the pure gold standard and disliked the gold exchange standard which was improvised in 1925 to help various European countries back to stable currencies. His was virtually the only voice raised in Europe in criticism of the American federal reserve board's attempt to ease London's strain in 1927 by "coöperating." Since Hitler's régime began, however, he has shown a bewildering power of adaptation to new economic dogmas for which in the 1920s he had only brusque impatience.

American Radiator Will Double Its Advertising

Due to the results obtained during the first sixty days of the federal housing program the American Radiator company has decided to double its expenditures for newspaper advertising during the remainder of the year, Marshall Adams, sales promotion manager, announced yesterday. The number of newspapers used will be increased to 200.

WHEAT PRICES RISE, BUT SOON LOSE STRENGTH

Week-End Caution Again in Evidence.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The caution which customarily characterizes trading in the grain market in the short Saturday session was the governing influence yesterday, and all grains after an early flourish of strength declined to close slightly under Friday's quotations.

The continued moderate advance in wheat prices in the Buenos Aires market was the development which arrested the attention of the trade, although its influence as an immediate market factor was lost in yesterday's trading. It is the Argentine market that has been dragging on world prices for several weeks and any material advance in values would put Canada into a better position to sell her wheat abroad and at the same time, lift the price ceiling that now hangs over the Chicago market.

Winnipeg Fails to Follow.

Opening Friday after a holiday the Buenos Aires market advanced sharply and the rise was carried further yesterday. It is significant that prices in Winnipeg failed to follow the South American market, thus providing a start at least toward correction of the price differential between those two exchanges.

News from the Argentine said that the prevailing weather in some sections of the wheat belt threaten to bring about further rust damage to the crop. Up to this time the reports of rust damage have not been taken seriously here.

Liverpool wheat followed Argentine and closed more than a cent a bushel above Friday's last quotation.

Concern has been felt for some time here over the possibility of importations of Argentine corn. This possibility has acted as a check on corn prices, although the domestic news has been of a highly bullish character. A report from New York said that a cargo of Argentine corn has been worked into this country, but no confirmation was forthcoming.

Cost Above Chicago Level.

Bartlett, Frazier & Co. pointed out that at present prices it would cost 84½ cents a bushel to lay down Argentine corn in New Orleans, duty paid. This is 6½ cents over the Chicago price.

Final quotations on wheat futures here represented losses of ½ to ⅝ cent from Friday. The December contract closed at 98¾ cents and is now at the highest premium over the May contract that has yet prevailed.

Closing corn prices were down ¼ to 1⅛ cents a bushel with December futures at 76¾. Oats lost about ½ cent a bushel and rye fell back ⅝ to ¾ cent.

Good general rains were reported over the southwestern winter wheat belt and additional moisture was in prospect. The rains reported Friday night were said to be the best received in weeks and tended to lessen the concern that has been felt over the new crop.

WINNIPEG GRAIN BOARD WILL AID QUIZ ON TRADING

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The grain exchange council gave assurance today that the government will be afforded facilities to investigate the trading operations of all members. Wheat prices were pegged by the council last Thursday to meet a government request for restriction of trading in wheat futures.

The council in a statement took exception to "a mischievous dispatch originating from some newspaper service in Winnipeg." The article referred to organized "bear raids" during the first week of October.

"There was no condition existing that would justify such a story," said the statement. It added that international grain trading firms mentioned in connection with the raid were prepared to reveal their figures to J. I. McFarland, who has charge of the government's wheat operation, should he wish to see the records.

The reported raiding followed a statement made by McFarland on Oct. 1, in which he said he would recommend government investigation of large scale selling of wheat on the Winnipeg market. He also urged that the Argentine and British governments be asked to make similar inquiries into conditions in the Buenos Aires and Liverpool markets.

U. S. WILL GRANT CREDIT TO 675 FARMER CO-OPS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Organization of credit facilities for more than 675 farmers' coöperative marketing associations was announced today by Frank W. Peck, coöperative bank commissioner of the Farm Credit administration. The associations now authorized to make loans include 200,000 farmers in their memberships and applications have been received for loans to 110 additionals associations.

A total credit of $18,119,000 was made available to the associations, of which $11,813,000 went to supplement their own working capital and $6,300,000 aided in financing facilities needed to carry on operations. All loans to the associations are made by the twelve regional banks for coöperatives.

Farmer Bankruptcy Law Challenged in Nebraska

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Constitutionality of the Frazier-Lemke federal bankruptcy law today was challenged for the first time in Nebraska in a hearing before Federal Judge T. C. New York, Nov. 3.—Prices were firm and dealings were at the usual slow Saturday pace in today's bond trading. United States government securities and high grade domestic corporation issues were generally higher while speculative bonds were irregular.

The total of transactions was $4,612,000, against $4,602,000 last Saturday. Dealings in government bonds accounted for $1,360,300 of the total compared with $1,450,000 a week ago. Direct obligations of the United States government rose 1-32 to 9-32 point, the largest gain being that of the treasury 4s of 1944-'54. Called Fourth Liberty 4¼s were unchanged at 102 7-32.

Guaranteed Issues Less Active.

The government guaranteed issues were less active than the direct obligations. Home Owners Loan 4s rose 1-32 point to 99 11-32, while Home Owners Loan 2¾s were off 1-32 point to 94 27-32. The other guaranteed bonds were unchanged.

Measured by the "averages" utilities fared better than other domestic corporation groups. Rails were slightly higher, while industrials were lower on the whole. The combined domestic average gained 4 cents, while the foreign average was off 6 cents. The movement for the week was a reduction of 25 cents in the domestic averages and a gain of 15 cents in the foreign average.

Some of Active Issues.

In today's dealings the more active issues included National Dairy 5¼s of 1948, which dropped ⅛ point; Richfield Oil convertible 6s of 1944 and certificates therefore, which were up 2¼ point and 3 points respectively, and Chicago & Western Illinois 4s of 1952, which rose ⅛.

In the foreign list Germans were weak with losses of 1 point in both Dawes and Young plan loans. Belgium issues were moderately active with mixed results. Argentine issues were generally firm while those of Brazil, Chile, Colombia and Uruguay were irregular with a tendency toward softness.

Bootleg Insurance.

The recent announcement of Ernest Palmer, director of insurance of Illinois, that he will ask the Illinois legislature to pass laws giving the insurance department power to curb the shady activities of Illinois assessment life insurance associations; the article by Charles C. Greer, superintendent of insurance of Alabama, warning the public of assessment associations; the campaign of better business bureaus against this type of insurance that does not insure, and repeated warnings by Investors' Guide to steer clear of such associations are indications of a rising campaign to curb a flood of misrepresentation that has bilked thousands of people out of funds which they thought were being paid for insurance.

Those persons who wrote to Investors' Guide before sending any funds to the National Security Life association, and who followed the advice given them, were spared remorse when the federal authorities indicted the backers of the association for use of the mails to defraud.

Those who inquired about many similar associations have been spared the disappointment of having bona fide claims disallowed because of mere technicalities that are not found in standard life insurance policies.

Many such assessment associations operate in states in which they are not licensed. They, therefore, have no assets in those states. In the event a claimant wishes to sue the association, he has to go to the state in which it is domiciled—quite an expensive proceeding.

The plan itself, even where such associations were run legitimately, has proved unsound. It provides for payment of a membership fee, which goes into the pockets of the backers. At stipulated periods assessments are levied to pay for death claims which have accumulated. If insufficient funds are received to pay death claims in full, the claims ordinarily are scaled down. Thus, the beneficiary is ignorant of what amount, if any, his beneficiaries can collect.

Members of the association constantly grow older and, consequently, the mortality rate is always rising. When this becomes apparent, the younger members, those whose mortality rate is lower, drop out and still higher assessments have to be levied.

Policies issued by many of these associations are masterpieces of trickery. Unusual clauses, restricted benefits, and impossible waranties combine to make the insurance contract a lawyer's toy.

In the words of Mr. Greer: "It is worse than foolish for citizens of this state to buy insurance from these unqualified life insurance assessment associations. Beware of them or be disappointed."

EVANSTON PLANS LAW TO ENFORCE AUTO INSPECTION

Council to Vote Tomorrow; First in State.

The Evanston council tomorrow will vote on an ordinance requiring all automobiles registered in the municipality to pass two mechanical inspections yearly. Ald. Geroge A. Paddock, who introduced the ordinance, said the measure is indorsed by the parent-teacher association and other civic groups and that no opposition has been heard.

If the council votes favorably, Evanston will be the first city in Illinois to supervise the mechanical condition of its automobiles. The Chicago aldermen a few weeks ago passed a resolution asking Mayor Kelly to prepare such an ordinance. In Berwyn and Cicero, the Lions clubs have been promoting such safety legislation.

Many Cars Defective.

THE TRIBUNE this fall conducted a free and voluntary automobile inspection service. Of 10,000 cars that were tested, about forty per cent were found to have defects dangerous for operation in a trafic emergency, defects in brakes, steering, wheel alignment or lights.

Memphis, Tenn., was the pioneer in compulsory car tests. The system was inaugurated last spring and authorities report a decrease in the city's trafic toll of fatalities and personal injuries, and a reduction in the property damage losses paid by insurance companies.

Plan 75 Cent Fee.

The Evanston ordinance would become effective on July 1, 1935. A fee of 75 cents would be charged for the two annual inspections. After the first year or two, after the city had paid for its testing apparatus, Ald. Paddock said the fee would be reduced to 50 cents a year.

Evanston automobiles would be required to carry windshield stickers indicating that the vehicles had passed the tests. The ordinance would provide a penalty for driving a local car without the o. k. sticker.

HOGS ADVANCE 10 TO 15 CENTS IN LAST WEEK

Small declines in hog prices early in the week were more than offset by later rallies and final quotations showed 10 to 15 cents net gain for the period. The general average price for the week was $7.60, a decline of 5 cents from the preceding week.

Cattle prices followed an irregular course averaging slightly lower for the week, due largely to plainer quality. Some of the more desirable beef steers managed to gain 25 cents in the six days.

Changes in lamb prices were small, but the average showed a decline of 10 cents at $6.15. Top natives sold at $6.85.

The following figures on hog prices include $2.25 per hundredweight collected by the federal government as processing tax. There is no processing tax on cattle or sheep. The price quotations given below are per 100 pounds of live animal.

LONG ISLAND'S PARKWAY.

Long Island City, N. Y., Oct. 16.—Your issue of Oct. 6 contains an article by Willard Edwards devoted to Grand Central parkway on Long Island. This article is so full of errors and misconceptions, and was so evidently written for its sensational values, that I am impelled to give you some of the facts.

In the first place, please understand that Grand Central parkway was laid out in my office and under my supervision. Northern State parkway, which is the section in Nassau county—that is, outside my jurisdiction—was laid out by the Long Island state park commission. Both roads were constructed simultaneously by the state of New York, under the supervision of the Long Island state park commission.

Grand Central parkway was laid out definitly as a scenic drive along the crest of a ridge of hills forming the backbone of Long Island. From several places along the ridge on clear days one can see the Atlantic ocean to the south, and, looking in the other direction, can see Long Island sound on the north. These two bodies of water are 15 to 20 miles apart at these points of observation, and these points are at from 180 to 250 feet elevation above tidewater.

Mr. Edwards criticizes Grand Central parkway mainly on four grounds: [1] That it was very expensive; [2] that it is "interminably winding"; [3] that the right of way is "jammed with trees and plants"; [4] that vision is unduly limited at the grade elimination bridges.

Grand Central parkway was very expensive. No such great facility could be driven through the heart of a city of 1,200,000 inhabitants [Queens borough] without heavy expense. The court awards to property owners for land taken and buildings damaged totaled $6,260,000. That an appeal is to be taken on the ground that the amount awarded was excessive is beside the point. Any revised award will still be a very large figure. But, to repeat, one cannot throw a 330 foot wide parkway squarely across developed city property without incurring heavy damage costs.

Grand Central parkway is very far from being "interminably winding." Its total length, from Queens boulevard to city line, is 39,739 feet, or 7½ miles. An airline between the same two points is 36,558 feet, or 8 per cent less than the road length. That is, the road is 3,181 feet longer than the airline.

Nevertheless, as it was deliberately designed to follow, as nearly as might be, the crest of the ridge of hills, it certainly is not straight. But the curves are broad and sweeping; generally they have a radius of 2,000 feet or more. A straight line across the city was not desired. The parkway, as stated before, is definitly a scenic route. It is confined to pleasure cars; no business vehicles of any description are permitted on it. So a succession of easy curves—now to right, now to left—was laid out, and thus it was built.

Landscaping along the way was made a prominent feature of the project. The standard layout was a 44 foot central express highway flanked on each side by 100 feet of landscaped sward, and with two 43 foot service roads to care for local trafic, one outside each area of grass and shrubs and trees. That calls for 330 feet total width. In one stretch this was cut down to half that amount to avoid further heavy damage costs on account of dense building development. In another place a "corridor" connecting two parks a mile apart widens it out to about 600 feet, with the express highway running through the center.

This corridor is about the length and width of the famous Midway connecting Jackson park and Washington park in Chicago. But instead of being flat it traverses sharply rolling hills. Its two marginal service roads correspond roughly with 59th and 60th streets. But they are not straight; they follow the ground contours at distances of 500 to 650 feet apart. The intervening area is planted with green, and the whole is a delight to the eye. No one not engaged in "burning up the road" would want it otherwise. The speed limit is set at 40 miles an hour.

Here is a 44 foot express highway with all sorts of elbow room on both sides. The planting of that elbow room does not take away any of the utility of the motor road. But it does add a beauty of which American cities in general have all too little.

So much for the "jammed with trees and plants in veritable jungle confusion."

Any charge of limited vision at underpass bridges is without basis in fact. On Grand Central parkway thirteen bridges take care of all cross trafic. In nine cases the parkway is the upper road; in four cases it passes beneath—all worked out with due regard to topographical features. In every one of its four underpasses a view of at least 1,000 feet is available under the bridge. From that we go up to 1,900 feet, as a maximum, giving an average of close to 1,600 feet, or three-tenths of a mile. Once more—only a man burning up the road would cavil.

So much for Grand Central parkway.

Northern State parkway is a different story. It lies outside the city limits, and hence outside my bailiwick, but I am thoroughly familiar with it. About three miles of it was opened to trafic last year and an additional similiar amount this year.

What was opened in 1933, on the same day Grand Central parkway was opened, follows the same general line eastward. It has the same broad, sweeping curves and the same generous landscaping. Only the marginal service roads are missing. Being in a more rural setting, with much sparser population, these are not needed.

But the 1934 section, which is entirely outside the city of New York, turns sharply southward from the general direction theretofore pursued, making almost a right angle. Why?

Simply because some dozens of America's mightiest millionaires have their lavishly developed estates squarely across the way. Every effort was made to push the parkway through, but legal entanglements, delays, high expense of litigation loomed up; some of its was actually incurred. Then the senible thing was done. The huge legal fees were sidetracked and the road now passes around the estates instead of through them.

When this system of parkways is fully completed, which may be within the next two years, it will be possible for a motorist to travel more than 100 miles without a red light, without a left turn, without any cross trafic [at his level] whatsoever. And over that entire distance he will be in new territory all the time, never once coming back on the same route, but finally landing only a short distance from his starting point. This trip will be nearly 45 miles eastward out the island, then across the island and back by a different route. And every foot of that trip will be over gently winding roads, flanked with broad landscaped areas and completely free from all commercial trafic.

What more could one ask?

HIGHWAY USERS' BODY OPPOSES U. S. TRUCK LAWS

BY HAL FOUST.

President Roosevelt's suggestions for federal regulation of motor transportation are opposed by the National Highway Users' conference, representing mainly automobile manufacturers and truck and bus operators. A committee representing the conference recently called at the White House and left memoranda of its stand on the following ten points:

1. That interstate motor transport is now subject to code regulation, that great progress is being made in the elimination of improper practices and unfair competition, and that hurried federal legislation would destroy the benefits and prevent the accumulation of experience and data which could be made the basis of intelligent legislation, if found necessary in the future.

2. That restrictive legislation would adversely affect employment, since there are today more than one million people employed in "for hire" bus and truck operations, or substantially as many as are employed by the railroads; and that the actual return to the railroads of the small volume of so-called lost business would not increase railroad employment by one man, the records showing that they actually decreased employment by 10.53 per cent during the heavy business period of 1923 to 1929.

Demand of R. R. Origin.

3. That the demand for federal regulation of rates and practices of interstate motor transport is primarily of railroad origin and is "an ill-advised effort to turn back to the railroads that small portion of business they have lost by reason of more expditious and more economical truck and bus services."

4. That the extent to which motor transportation has been a factor in the reduction of railroad business in recent years has been "grossly exaggerated," and that this loss has been more than offset by the large volume of business accruing to the railroads from motor transport sources.

5. That the restriction of highway transportation services would result "in a great increase in the cost of transportation of passengers and commodities and would add to the delivery costs of millions of producers and consumers, which the business of the country can ill afford at this time."

6. That the rates for highway transportation "must be based exclusively on the cost of the service rendered," without reference to the rate structures of any other form of transportation.

Would Freeze Rates.

7. That highway users are opposed to the placing of motor transport under the interstate commerce commission, since the inevitable tendency under such a set-up would be "to freeze highway rates at railroad levels thus adversely affecting the public interest and particularly the interest of the farmers.

8. That no blanket form of regulation will fit the conditions, even as regards the "for hire" elements in the motor transportation industry, and that when the period of code regulation is over, bus operations should be dealt with in a separate and independent measure, if federal legislation is found necessary.

9. That there is serious question as to the possibility of regulating the "for hire" elements in the motor trucking industry effectually "without unduly suppressing the operation of private vehicles used by agriculture and by industry as plant facilities."

10. That the "subsidization" argument advanced as a reason for the "equalization of competition between rail and motor carriers" wholly overlooks the fact that motor trucks and motor buses, while constituting only thirteen per cent of all motor vehicles, pay $250,000,000 a year, or twenty-five per cent of all motor vehicle taxes.

Many Join in Petition.

The brief to the President was joined in by members of the advisory committee of the National Highway Users' conference, consisting of the following: Alfred P. Sloan Jr. [chairman], president, General Motors corporation; Ernest N. Smith [vice chairman], executive vice president, American Automobile association; L. J. Taber [secretary-treasurer], master, the National grange; Axtell J. Byles, president, American Petroleum institute; George E. Clinton, International Association of Milk Dealers; Emory Rice, American Bakers' association; C. O. Sherrill, vice president, Kroger Grocery and Baking company; A. L. Viles, president, Rubber Manufacturers' association; William B. Warner, president National Publishers' association, Inc.; also the following organizations: F. E. Mollin, secretary, American National Livestock association; Charles F. Whiting, president, International Association of Milk Dealers; A. M. Loomis, secretary, National Dairy union; Donald Kane, attorney, National Coöperative Milk Producers' federation; W. F. Jensen, secretary-manager, American Association of Creamery Butter Manufacturers; R. F. Sams Jr., president, National Vegetable Growers' association; Ben F. Gordon, National Food Distributors' association; W. S. Campfield, secretary, Eastern Apple Growers' council, and eighteen state horticultural societies; John M. Meighan, secretary, National Association of Motor Bus Operators; Thomas P. Henry, president, American Automobile association; Alfred Reeves, vice president, Automobile Manufacturers' association; B. H. Markham, director, American Petroleum Industries committee; J. E. Pennybacker, managing director, the Asphalt institute; G. F. Schlesinger, managing director, National Paving Brick association, and W. T. Rogers, president, Motor and Equipment Manufacturers' association.

Industrial Rubber Goods Prices Reported Stable

Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., says that despite some recessions during the dull selling period in the last two months prices of industrial rubber goods, such as footwear, clothing, and sundries, have been fairly well established at a level ranging from 20 to 35 per cent higher than that prevailing a year ago.

HIDE FUTURES.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Harry Hartz spent part of last week at the officers of the Chrysler Illinois company. He told of his experiences on the salt beds of Utah, where he recently broke 72 official AAA world records and then established an economy figure of 18.1 miles to the gallon in a run from Los Angeles to New York with the same Chrysler Imperial in which he established the speed records.

One of the important factors in the remarkable acceptance of the new 1935 Auburn models is that they are individual in design, according to Roy H. Faulkner, president. Factory shipments of the new models in September were 26 per cent more than for September, 1931, the company's banner year, he said.

For the third time in five months Oldsmobile in September outsold all automobiles except the three lowest priced cars. Registration figures just made public by R. L. Polk & Co. disclose that again the Oldsmobile is firmly entrenched in the coveted fourth position in the automobile industry.

"From the time the 1934 Oldsmobile was introduced, it struck a popular chord in public favor," said D. E. Ralston, vice president and general sales manager. "Oldsmobile retail sales have doubled in 1934 as compared with the preceding year. Oldsmobile this year had its best September since 1928, and was only a few cars behind the sales of that year."

The Zenith Radio corporation announces that the Hudson Motor Car company of Detroit has placed with Zenith its order for radios to be used in the 1935 cars. The Zenith Radio corporation was the exclusive supplier for the Hudson Motor Car company during the last season.

Ruby Chevrolet, Inc., announce the moving of their showrooms from 1422 East 67th street to new and more spacious quarters at 7158 Stony Island avenue. It will continue to operate the 67th street store as a service and truck department.

L. H. Spiner, who, since last February has been assistant manager of the sales promotion advertising department of Shell Petroleum corporation, St. Louis, Mo., has been appointed manager of that department succeeding Paul Ryan, resigned. Mr. Spiner joined the Shell organization five years ago as a district manager in the Shellane division of the technical products department, subsequently being made sales manager, and then manager.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Coffee was steadier today on local and trade buying, with the action of the market still influenced by reports of improvement in the mild coffee situation. Prices for the latter were somewhat steadier, although buyers were not ready to pay advances.

DEMAND HALT IN NEW DEAL WASTE

G.O.P. ASSEMBLY OUTLOOK BRIGHT ON SOUTH SIDE

Expect to Gain in Both Houses.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Prospects are good for Republican gains in both the Illinois senate and house on the south side, the county central committee believes. Some of the more optimistic go so far as to predict that all five Republican candidates for the senate will be elected and that two Republicans will win in each of the districts where there is a contest for the house.

Those more conservative in election forecasts were in a less jubilant mood, preferring to wait until the ballots are counted Tuesday night before they started celebrating, but even they were far from down-hearted. They were pondering reports from ward leaders which claimed that all was not well for the Democrats in the 11th [Englewood] and 13th [South Shore] districts, where the incumbent senators are Democrats.

Fight for Courtney's Seat.

The 11th district was represented by State's Attorney Courtney until his election in 1932 when John M. Lee, former representative, was named to fill the seat. Normally the 11th is Democratic territory but this fall the Republican nominee is given more than an outside chance to win. He is Lester W. Porter, retiring president of the Chicago Real Estate board and a pioneer exponent of the one per cent tax limitation.

With the backing of many home owners who feel that real estate has been overburdened unfairly, Porter is said to be gathering a considerable following. Lee, on the other hand, has the united backing of the powerful Democratic organization—state, county and city. He is a seasoned campaigner. Porter is making his first try at public office.

Senator Francis J. Loughran of the 13th district is opposed by Grenville Beardsley, Republican, former assistant state's attorney. Home of many Republican chiefs, including Floor Leader Elmer J. Schnackenberg of the house, the 13th is stubborn ground for both sides this fall. G. O. P. managers report that Loughran's sponsorship of the sales tax at Springfield has won him much opposition. Loughran says, on the contrary, that he hears little complaint concerning the impost.

One Per Cent Issue Popular.

This district extends down into the Calumet industrial territory where many of the residents own small homes. The one per cent issue is said to be a popular cause with them. Beardsley is backing vigorously the limitation.

To the north, in the 5th district, Senator Roy C. Woods, Republican, is engaged in what all concede to be a real battle with Prof. T. V. Smith of the University of Chicago faculty.

Woods, candidate of the potent George F. Harding group, will undoubtedly benefit from the conservative voters in the district while Smith, whose name is well known on the campus and the university environs, will draw support from the teaching bloc with radical tendencies. In addition, students have been campaigning for him.

Voters 46 Per Cent Colored.

The district has about 46 per cent colored voters. Normally this big bloc could be depended on to vote the straight Republican ticket. Last week's reports said that the majority was not wavering from former allegiance, but that the Democratic distribution of relief had made some inroads. Woods has been making a strenuous campaign and many believe that the current shift toward the Republican standard will send him back for a third term in the senate.

In one of his books on philosophy, Prof. Smith tells how Plato once took a governmental job because he feared he might become nothing but words. This might also apply to Smith, who is an erudite scholar.

Voters in the Third district will choose between two colored men, Representative William E. King, Republican, and Bryant A. Hammond, Democrat. Under rare circumstances does a Democrat get many votes in the Third. King believes he will defeat Hammond by not less than 3,000 votes.

7th District Outlook Bright.

In the 7th district, which includes all suburbs from Chicago Heights to the Lake county, Illinois, line, the Republicans believe they will elect both their nominees—Mrs. Bernice T. Van Der Vries of Winnetka, and Representative Frank E. Foster of Harvey. The Democrat given the best chance to win is Oscar S. Johnson of Mt. Prospect. His running mate is Frank G. Ring of Harvey.

In the 5th district the recent Republican swing noted by G. O. P. managers promises well for Representative Josephine Perry and Representative William J. Warfield, a colored man. Democratic candidates are Representative Bernard J. Kewin, and Louis G. Berman. Kewin, many believe, will poll more votes than Berman. However, the latter stands well with both Gov. Horner and Chairman Lindheimer of the Illinois Commerce commission.

CRESCENDO CLUB TO HOLD AN OPEN SESSION TUESDAY

The first open meeting of the Crescendo Musical club will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, in the Bethany Union church, 103rd and Wood streets. The program will feature women organists of the club, accompanied by instrumental music and the Crescendo vocal ensemble, directed by Mark S. Hallett. Mazie Odell Cardy is program chairman, and Irene Cox Banger is president of the club.

Miss Raena Kendall, vice president and program chairman of the Bryn Mawr Junior auxiliary, will be in charge of the next meeting, to be held at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at 7020 Jeffery avenue.

Tribune School of Cookery to Open Tuesday Afternoon

Approximately 20,000 south side women are expected to attend the fourth annual school of cookery being sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, which will open at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the Trianon ballroom, 6201 Cottage Grove avenue.

MRS. IDA M. CHITWOOD.

Again on the faculty will be Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, famous home economics expert, and Miss Mary Meade, TRIBUNE cooking editor. Sessions will be held also on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday afternoons. Admittance is free and hundreds of valuable prizes will be awarded at the opening and closing of each session. The school will adjourn each afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

Offer Entertainment, Too.

In addition to the more serious business of instructing guests in the manner of improving their tables, stars of the stage, screen, and radio will be presented during recess periods. Community singing under the direction of Carl Craven, Frank Bennett, Edward Clissold, and George Carlson will form a large part of the programs. Piano accompanists will be Allan Grant, Cathryne Bennett, and Leon Benditzky.

The schedule of entertainment on Tuesday will include the following: Ruth Pryor, premiere danseuse; Bob Becker, TRIBUNE outdoor editor; excerpts from "The Fatal Wedding" by Dixiana Showboat players, and Lynn Cole, vocal soloist with George Olsen's orchestra at the College inn, Hotel Sherman.

Ruth Lee, Stanley Hickman, and Red Hodgson, singers with Earl Burtnett's Drake hotel orchestra, will be featured on Wednesday's program. Also appearing that day will be the Lawson Y. M. C. A. Glee club, directed by Frank Bennett; William Blailock, Baritone; dancers from the Ethel and Gertrude Morgan School of Dancing, and Pat Kennedy, vocalist of the radio and stage.

One Man Band on Program.

On Thursday there will appear Joe Rardin, radio's one man band; Art Millett, WGN announcer; John Burdet and his Cotton Pickers, Uncle Cy; Illinois poet; Carlos Molina, orchestra director; Nacho Ruffino, baritone, and Gagnon and Broughton, dance team, all from the boulevard room of the Hotel Stevens, and Harriet Krauth White, dramatic soprano.

Bob Elson, WGN sports announcer, will be featured Friday afternoon, in addition to Stan Myers and his glee club and Romo Vincent from the Terrace Gardens in the Morrison hotel; the Ermie Schultz Dancers, Stanley Rimkus, bass; Sara Corinne Mason, soprano, chosen the best woman singer in the recent Chicagoland Music festival, and Berenice Taylor, soprano prima donna of WGN.

TRIBUNE women writers to speak briefly at the south side school will be Kathleen McLaughlin, woman's editor; Rhea Seeger, fashions; India Moffett, society; Eleanor Nangle of Through the Looking Glass, Ruth Young, clubs; Helen Bartlett, etiquet, and Virginia Gardner and Gladys Perrow, reporters.

The doors of the cooking school will be open at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. The culinary institution will move to the west side Tuesday, Nov. 13, at Guyon's Paradise ballroom, 128 North Crawford avenue.

G.O.P. CONGRESS NOMINEES SAY RADICALS FAIL

Pile Up South Side Denunciations.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

Up and down the lake front between the Chicago river and 138th street, two of Chicago's Republican congressmen are exhorting the electorate, in the brief period before Tuesday's march on the polls, to use their votes as brakes on the New Deal's experiments and expenditures.

Equally vociferous are the Democratic aspirants to congress, who want to move this stauch Republican territory over into the Democratic column. They are shouting praises of the measures that originated with the professorial Brain Trust and gave life to the national burocracy that has piled up billions of debt.

G. O. P. Leaders Confident.

Republican leaders are confident that these two south districts—the First and Second—which range eastward from State street with the exception of slight extensions west of that thoroughfare north of 43d and south of 99th streets, having withstood the local Democratic landslides in 1930 and 1932, will stand firm for the G. O. P. on Nov. 6.

Without any letup, however, Congressman Oscar DePriest in the First and Congressman P. H. Moynihan in the Second, are piling up last minute denunciations of the "socialism and radicalism" of the New Deal in whirls throughout their districts.

Moynihan is thrusting at the commission which has been appointed to draft a bill that will socialize the practice of medicine. He says 600 physicians have written him their objections to this proposed governmental control of medical treatment. He is cracking down also on the coöperative store idea proposed by Mrs. Perkins, secretary of labor.

Perils Small Business.

"This proposal, if carried out," says the congressman, "will regiment the small business man, who is the backbone of the community, and put him out of business. It was tried in the United States 25 years ago and was a dismal failure.

"Thirteen billions have been spent on priming the pump, but notwithstanding these great expenditures there are 10½ millions unemployed, 2,200,000 on relief rolls, and factories are standing idle. The case worker and the relief office have supplanted the employment office. Certainly, this is no evidence of a returning prosperity."

The word "billions" is an elusive term, the magnitude of which can easily escape complete comprehension, the congressman believes. So, turning to his audiences he puts it this way:

"If you picked up one dollar bills at the rate of one a second and kept at the task without pause night and day it would take more than 31 years to pick up a billion dollars, and more than 400 years to pick up the 13 billions that the national government has expended."

Rival Backs New Deal.

His opponent, Raymond S. McKeough, "stands shoulder to shoulder with the President in his program of a broader social service under the New Deal." McKeough has been a Democratic orator in the past, and he brings his talents in this respect to bear in lauding the planned economies of the national administration.

North of 43d street, the congressional campaign is attracting national attention. De Priest is the only member of his race in the national house of representatives. He has in Arthur W. Mitchell, the Democratic candidate, his first colored opponent in a congressional election.

De Priest is charging that Congressman John McDuffie of Alabama, is Mitchell's principal sponsor. Mitchell denies that there is any truth in this accusation, but DePriest has produced a copy of a letter that he claims was written by McDuffie to Mitchell.

Quotes McDuffie Letter.

In the letter McDuffie states that he wishes to be of assistance to Mitchell, but cannot for financial reasons contribute to his campaign fund. The letter suggests that Mitchell write to James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and also to the Democratic congressional campaign committee.

The letter was disclosed by DePriest in connection with Mitchell's challenge to him to debate issues. DePriest's reply was that he would consider a debate if Mitchell would publish his correspondence with McDuffie. Mitchell's answer, in part, was:

"As to Congressman McDuffie sponsoring my campaign no one knows better than you that there is not one scintilla of truth in the accusation. You know where it started. It is a false statement conceived by you and circulated from your headquarters." With this he inclosed a copy of the letter written him by McDuffie.

DePriest is berating the New Deal soundly, stating that the National Recovery act has forced many Negroes out of employment, and that the cotton control bill tends to reënslave the colored people of the south.

Calls Setbacks Temporary.

Mitchell characterizes himself as "strictly" a New Dealer. He states that there may be temporary setbacks, but that in the end the colored people will be carried farther forward than ever before.

In Will county, lying south and southwest of the Cook county line, Chauncey W. Reed, Republican, and James A. Howell, Democrat, are using the 48 hours before the polls open to advantage in getting their last minute

ST. PAUL CHURCH CELEBRATES ITS 75TH BIRTHDAY

Started When Kenwood Had but ½ Dozen Homes

DR. GEORGE H. THOMAS.

The days when Kenwood embraced but half a dozen scattered homes and when only three Illinois Central trains plied daily between Woodlawn and downtown Chicago are being recalled this week in connection with the diamond jubilee of St. Paul's Episcopal church, 50th street and Dorchester avenue.

St. Paul's opens its anniversary celebration today and the program will be climaxed with a 75th anniversary dinner Wednesday, with Bishop George Craig Stewart being the principal speaker.

Dr. George H. Thomas, rector, will preach an historical sermon at the 11 o'clock service today, telling something of the background of the parish and its beginnings. At this service will be rendered the musical program which was used at the 50th anniversary of the parish and at the consecration service held in 1909.

Charles H. Demorest, organist and choirmaster, will direct the choirs.

Begin Pilgrimages.

At 5 o'clock this afternoon will be the first of a series of pilgrimages through the church. These will feature explanations of the delicate and valuable carvings in the chancel of St. Paul's. Bishop Stewart and Dr. Thomas will be the speakers at the anniversary dinner Thursday night.

Records indicate that in 1857, when St. Paul's was founded, there were only three or four houses in Kenwood and a small settlement at Hyde Park and 53d street. Dr. Jacob Bockee and his family moved into the community that year, coming from Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

There was no Episcopal church south of 39th street and Dr. Bockee immediately started holding services and conducting a Sunday school in his own home, near Cornell avenue and 50th street. The house later was moved to 5200 Hyde Park boulevard and remains today a part of the house of Mrs. George O. Clinch, an active member of St. Paul's church.

Application for permission to organize St. Paul's was made to the bishop of Chicago in 1859 and the name was derived from Dr. Bockee's old parish, St. Paul's, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Dr. Bockee was named lay reader and continued services in his home. Later they were held in a small building erected by Paul Cornell as a community house at 53d street, near Lake avenue.

Use Presbyterian Church.

When the Presbyterians erected the first church in the neighborhood the Episcopalians were permitted to use it. Still later services were held in the Hyde Park High school, a frame building occupying the site of the present Kenwood school, Lake avenue and 50th street.

The first rector of St. Paul's was the Rev. Thomas Smith, elected in April, 1862. The first church was started in 1868 on the present site of the Bryson Apartment hotel. It was a wooden structure seating 150. The Sunday school raised funds for purchasing a bell, the same bell that hangs in the tower of the present church.

The Rev. Charles H. Bixby became rector in 1881 and remained until Easter, 1900. During his rectorship the church was twice enlarged. In 1893 the present site was purchased, but because of the depression of that year construction was not started until 1896. The cornerstone of the present Gothic edifice was laid in 1899.

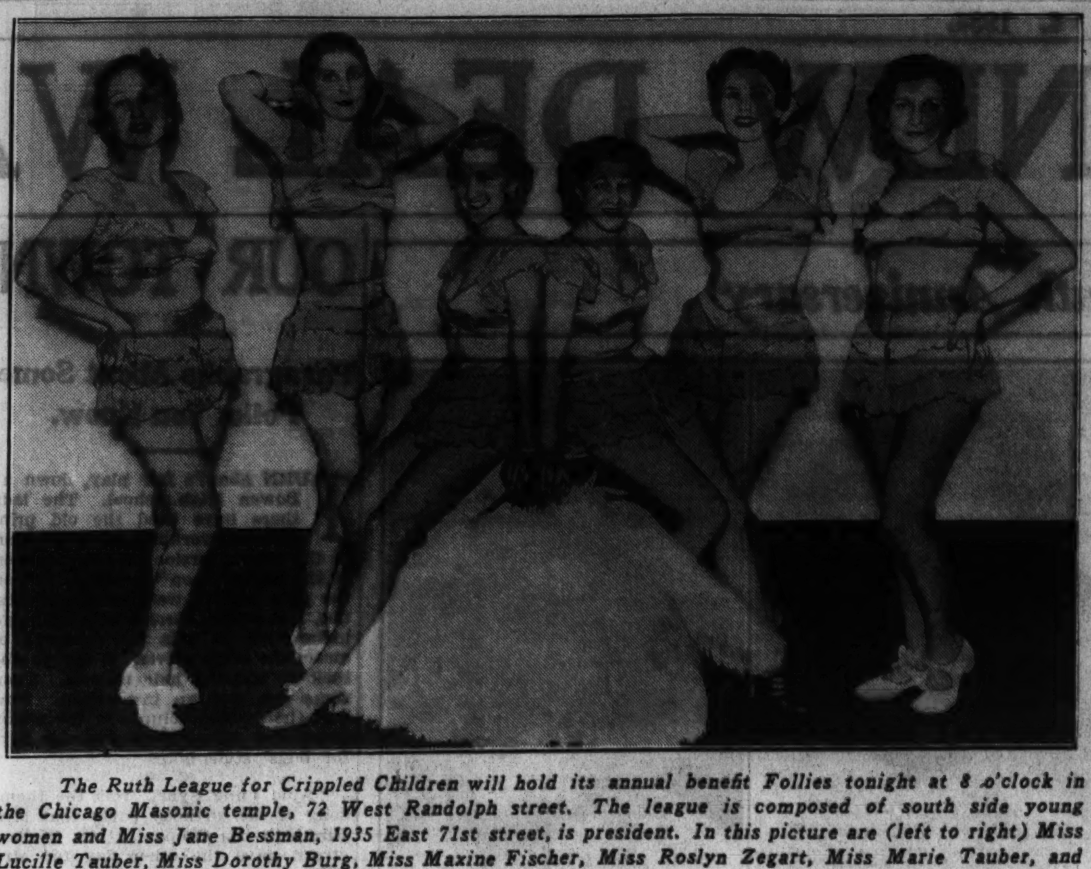
Builds Parish House.

In October, 1901, the Rev. Herman Page succeeded Dr. Bixby. During the first year of Dr. Page's rectorship the new church was finished. Dr. Page was elected bishop of Spokane in 1915 and is now bishop of Michigan. He was succeeded at St. Paul's by the present rector, the Rev. Dr. George H. Thomas. Dr. Thomas came to Chicago from Fitchburg, Mass. The most notable of the improvements made during his rectorship was the construction of the parish house at a cost of $100,000.

St. Paul's parish has been responsible for the establishment or supervision of several other Episcopal churches on the south side. One of the most unusual records in the parish is that of the Benton family. Mrs. W. H. Benton took charge of the "infant class" in 1886 and her work is still being carried on by her daughters, Miss Kate S. Benton and Miss Rita Benton.

Officers of the parish are: Wardens, Paul Willis and H. C. Cummins; treasurer, T. W. MacDougal; clerk, Wellington R. Townley; vestrymen, E. M. Anderson, D. R. Bryant, A. S. Cummins, T. G. Essington, C. W. Gennet Jr., Quintin Johnstone Jr., T. B. Kane, Dr. T. H. Kelley, Dr. R. H. Lawrence, and J. B. Spaulding. The Rev. Donald Crawford is assistant to the rector.

RUTH LEAGUE GIVES BENEFIT TODAY



The Ruth League for Crippled Children will hold its annual benefit Follies tonight at 8 o'clock in the Chicago Masonic temple, 72 West Randolph street. The league is composed of south side young women and Miss Jane Bessman, 1935 East 71st street, is president. In this picture are (left to right) Miss Lucille Tauber, Miss Dorothy Burg, Miss Maxine Fischer, Miss Roslyn Zegart, Miss Marie Tauber, and Miss Frances Mided, members of the cast. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

DANCE CHAIRMAN

Miss Marie Nosbisch was co-chairman of the Mercer club's annual dance last night at the Shoreland hotel. She was assisted by Warren Moulton.

pleas to the voters in the Eleventh district. This district takes in DuPage, Kane, and McHenry counties also.

All four of the counties have been banner Republican ones in the past and the G. O. P. leaders expect no exception on Tuesday. Their predictions are made despite the corn-hog checks that are bouncing around in the farming areas as bait for Democratic votes.

Reply to Questionnaires.

In this district attention has been called to the answers given by the two candidates in reply to a questionnaire sent out by the Illinois League of Women Voters. The candidates were asked about their stand on several matters, including extension of civil service, extension of the pure food and drug act, and the relation of the government to hydro-electric power development, such as embodied in the St. Lawrence waterway project.

Reed, who is state's attorney of Du Page county, replied that he is in favor of the extensions noted, adding that he is not convinced that the St. Lawrence waterway project will be beneficial to Illinois or the middle west. The league report adds:

"[He] suggests sale of firearms should be regulated and each purchase or transfer registered. States: 'Principal sources of revenue to meet the emergency program should be a tax on manufactured articles and perhaps an additional tax on certain limited luxuries.'"

Favors New Sales Taxes.

Howell also answered "yes" on the questions, modifying the extension of civil service "as far as practicable," and stating that he is "agreeable to view of President Roosevelt" on relation of federal government to hydro-electric power development. He suggested sales and liquor taxes for additional sources of revenue. For his platform, he said:

"Pledged to Roosevelt ideals and program to put human rights ahead of special interests. Favors an adequate army and navy, continuance of banking and securities laws for safeguarding depositors and investors, and vigorous efforts to aid agriculture, stimulate employment, and assist disabled veterans. Support legislation against chiselers on government and contracts."

BUSINESS GROUP SEEKS CURB ON FOOD PEDDLERS

A petition asking that food peddlers, many of whom, it is alleged, sell uninspected and impure products, be restrained from operating on the south east side will be circulated this week by the East Side Business association.

The petition will be sent to Mayor Kelly and the city council. It is expected that more than 1,000 housewives residing in the territory bounded by 95th street, Avenue N, 110th street, and Avenue H, will sign it.

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] has requested police in the East Side and South Chicago districts to aid in curbing the activities of peddlers.

Dr. H. William Elghammer to Give Talk for Nurses

Dr. H. William Elghammer will address the South Shore Alumnae association Tuesday evening at its weekly meeting at the South Shore Nurses home, 8006 Crandon avenue. Musical selections will be offered by Mrs. Dorothy Moffett Duke. Hostess will be Miss J. Krewson, Miss I. Lindstedt, and Mrs. E. Eckendahl.

"Around World on Penny," Subject of Alliance Talk

The University branch of the Southern Woman's Educational alliance will have Anita Willets Burnham, author and artist, as its guest speaker at 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening. Miss Burnham's subject will be "Around the World on a Penny." Officers of the branch sponsoring the address are Mrs. George Pollock, Mrs. Thurlow G. Essington, Mrs. William F. Ogburn, Mrs. Thomas Cross, Mrs. Donald Bean, Mrs. Lyman B. Flook, Mrs. Ronald S. Crane, Mrs. Charles C. Colby, Mrs. Edwin H. Sutherland, and Miss Anna Gwinn Pickens.

Pastor to Celebrate His First Communion

The Rev. Rex Wilkes, pastor of the Episcopal Church of the Messiah, 83d street and Dante avenue will celebrate his first communion as a priest of his church this morning. Mr. Wilkes attended Seabury-Western Theological seminary and for several months now has been deacon in charge of the Church of the Messiah.

SPONSOR

Mrs. Walter F. Riley, an active member of Mercy Federation, the members of which are former pupils of schools conducted by the Sisters of Mercy, is one of those sponsoring the eighth annual football game to aid the charitable work of the Sisters of Mercy. The game will be played this afternoon on Soldiers' field by Mount Carmel and St. Philip High school elevens.

CHURCH TO OPEN CELEBRATION OF ITS ANNIVERSARY

THE REV. J. A. PARKANDER.
[Sandstrom Photo.]

Gustavus Adolph Evangelical Lutheran church, 7426 Drexel avenue, will celebrate its 43d birthday with special programs today and Tuesday evening.

Services are to start at 10:45 o'clock this morning with the Rev. J. A. Parkander, pastor of the congregation, speaking on "Serving God Through the Years." The Gustavus Adolphus Luther league will sponsor the evening gathering at 7:45 o'clock, when Dr. Victor Pierson, pastor of the Gethsemane Lutheran church, Oakdale and La Monte avenues, will be the principal speaker.

Tuesday evening has been designated as family night. Every family in the congregation has been notified of a pageant, musicale, address and buffet supper scheduled for 8 o'clock. Dr. Joseph Brandelle, former pastor of the church and now superintendent of the Lutheran Home for the Aged, will speak.

The first meeting house, built of wood, was erected in 1892 by the congregation's 37 charter members on the site of the present $100,000 edifice. There now are more than 1,150 communicants. The Rev. Mr. Parkander has been pastor of the church for eight years.

POST TO INSTALL NEW OFFICERS ON ARMISTICE EVE

Stockyards Legion to Be Presented Colors.

Chicago Stockyards post, No. 333, of the American legion, will hold a combined Armistice and installation party Saturday night in the newly rebuilt Stockyards Inn, 42d and Halsted streets. New flags and post colors, donated by the Traders' Exchange and the Live Stock Exchange, will be presented. Art Gillham and an array of radio talent will entertain.

Officers to be installed are Harry J. Meyerhoff, commander; Roy W. Walker, senior vice commander; Leo J. Donahue, junior vice commander, and Harold E. Pfaffenberger, adjutant.

Three Links post, No. 361, and Paul Schmidt post, No. 322, will hold a joint Armistice day celebration next Sunday morning at the West Englewood theater. A parade will form at 10:30 o'clock at 63d street and Damen avenue, where a volley will be fired and taps sounded. Charles C. Kapschull, past Illinois department commander, will speak. Capt. John Powers, who was in charge of one of the details to select America's unknown soldier, will appear on the program. The public is invited.

Fort Dearborn post will hold its Armistice celebration tomorrow night at the Pershing ballroom, 64th street and Cottage Grove avenue. Miss Marion Keefe and James Whalen will lead the grand march, and there will be a colorful gathering of world war veterans, representing the allied forces, all of whom were decorated by their various countries for bravery. Badges will be presented to past commanders of the post.

Thomas Handley, past commander, is chairman of the celebration. Fred L. Boissy is post commander.

Chesterfield post, No. 695, will celebrate Armistice with a dance Saturday night at Liberty hall, 817 East 92d street. Music will be furnished by Armin Hand's Board of Trade orchestra. There will be refreshments. Ex-service men and their friends are invited.

Armistice day exercises, under auspices of Forges post, No. 196, and the Veterans' corps 2d [132d Infantry] will be held next Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Doughboy monument, Hamlin avenue and Madison street.

An address will be given by William D. Saltiel, and invocation by August A. Pahnke, corps chaplain, and there will be music by the 132d Infantry band. Wreaths will be placed on the monument.

Gen. John J. Garrity will be grand marshal of the parade, which will form at the 132d armory at 9:30 o'clock. William Lehr and Robert Wilmot will be aides.

Organizations scheduled to take part in the parade are West Park police escort, led by Sergt. Robert Hanna; 132d Infantry regimental band; 132d Infantry battalion, Col. Herbert E. Algeo commanding; veterans of the 2d corps, Joseph T. Wadsworth commanding; White Star auxiliary, Mrs. William Struve, president; Douglas Park post drum and bugle corps; Forges post, James Hoar commanding; Forges unit, Mrs. E. Andersen, president; Commodore Barry post, Paul J. Healy commanding; William C. Brand post, V. of F. W., John Cogley commanding; Brand post auxiliary, Mrs. C. Dougherty, president; junior legionnaires drum and bugle corps, Maj. Joseph Brady commanding.

An Armistice eve celebration program, including entertainment and dancing, will be given by Chicago Elevated post, No. 184, Saturday night at Arcadia Gardens, 4444 Broadway. Frederick E. Stout, post commander, invites all Legionnaires, auxiliary members and their friends to attend.

The auxiliary of Lawndale—Crawford post, No. 98, will sponsor a variety program at the Hines Memorial hospital Thursday.

Mrs. Isabelle Linton, second district director, will make a report on the national convention at the meeting of Hiram J. Slifer unit Thursday night at the Great Northern hotel.

Square post, No. 232, will hold its annual Armistice party Saturday night at the Medinah Michigan Avenue club. This will be the first downtown location for the event in a number of years, but the parties have proved such a success that larger quarters were desired. Arrangements are in charge of Peter J. Medema.

Lloyd D. Heth will speak Thursday on "Americanism Versus Communism" at an open meeting of Bell post, No. 242. Mr. Heth will be introduced by Kenneth Burgess. The meeting will be held in the Bell post forum on the 18th floor at 315 West Washington street.

MARRIED

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Aaron, 5224 Drexel avenue, announce the recent marriage of their daughter, Clarice, to Melvin Weil Mayer, son of Mrs. Lillian Weil Mayer, 5423 Harper avenue.

GRACE ABBOTT TO TALK BEFORE VOTERS' LEAGUE

Woodlawn Women to Meet Tomorrow.

MISS GRACE ABBOTT.
[Assoc. Press Photo.]

Miss Grace Abbott will be the principal speaker at the Woodlawn League of Women Voters' meeting tomorrow afternoon in the roof garden of the Wedgewood hotel. "Our Nation's Children" is the topic Miss Abbott will discuss from the standpoint of her 13 years' service as chief of the federal children's bureau, the post from which she retired recently to become professor of public welfare at the University of Chicago.

Mrs. Gelmer Kuyper, co-chairman of government and child welfare for the Woodlawn league, will present Miss Abbott, whose talk will follow luncheon at 12:15 o'clock. Mrs. Lynn B. Stiles will give a citizenship lesson, "Tomorrow." The foreign affairs study group will meet at 10 o'clock in the sunroom under Mrs. William G. Barry's leadership.

Southwest Group to Meet.

"Workers' Problems" and "New Developments in the Field of Consumer Protection" will be the topics considered by the Southwest League of Women Voters at an all day session Thursday at Ridge Park fieldhouse, 96th street and Longwood drive.

Mrs. Mitchell Dawson, and Mrs. Maurice Pollak, chairmen of the department of government and economic welfare of the Cook County and Illinois Leagues of Women Voters, respectively, will be the speakers.

Mrs. Dawson will speak on the former subject in the morning session at 10:30 o'clock, and Mrs. Pollak will discuss the second topic in the afternoon. Mrs. O. C. Horine and Mrs. Herbert Bebb, co-chairmen of government and economic welfare for the Southwest league, will be in charge.

Review Chase Book.

Culminating their study of Stuart Chase's "Economy of Abundance" in a summer study class sponsored by the Flossmoor league, several league members will review the book at the league's meeting at 2 o'clock Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Eugene Herthel.

Mrs. E. O. Jordan, program chairman, will present Mrs. Robert Echols, Mrs. Leslie Salter, Mrs. Franklin Barber, Miss Austine Stanley, and Mrs. Charles Ford as her speakers.

Bryn Mawr Community Church to Mark 8th Year

Special services will be held at 11 o'clock this morning by the Bryn Mawr Community church, 7000 Jeffery avenue, marking the eighth anniversary of the church. The musical dedicatory program given in 1926 will be repeated, and Dr. Morrison Russell Boynton, pastor, will speak on "The Glory of the Church." The Rev. Woodward D. Hulbert, assistant pastor, will give a brief talk.

BRIDE

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

MRS. C. S. CLARK INSPIRES CLUB ART CONFERENCE

350 Groups in 4 States Participate.

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Thursday morning in Fullerton hall at the Art institute. On one hand women, hundreds of them, representing some 350 clubs in Illinois and Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan. On the other hand, a professor of astronomy, or an opera singer, a dancer, a sculptor, or an explorer. Eight minutes is given each to display his talents. A world famous playwright has flown from New York to address the group for eight minutes. A clerk is relying on these eight minutes to pave the way for a musical career.

MRS. CHARLES S. CLARK.

Thus, in action, the conference of club presidents and program chairmen, clearing house of midwestern clubwomen for the artists who present their programs.

Mrs. Clark Heads Conference.

But the picture is not complete without Mrs. Charles S. Clark. In the words of a fellow clubwoman, the conference is Mrs. Clark. And there is more to it than the simple fact that she organized the conference in world war days and has headed it ever since. This is the way a clubwoman has described her own reaction to Mrs. Clark at the conference:

"When you first go there, feeling, perhaps, a little new and flustered, she puts you at ease with a simple and genuine cordiality, and forever afterward knows your name, where you are from, and is interested in your problems. When she mounts the platform it is truly 'as if another lamp had been lighted in the room.'"

"Who can analyze the quality of leadership? Poise, radiance, personal charm, the priceless gift of the happy word, an unequaled faculty for bringing out the best in people, play their part, but there still remains the mysterious "X," the unknown ingredient."

An Enchanting Timekeeper.

"It enables Mrs. Clark, who includes among her many duties the thankless one of timekeeper, to cut off an impassioned orator in midcareer and leave him enchanted, or with a few kindly words or perhaps merely a smile to encourage a trembling young artist to pluck victory from defeat—a victory made doubly sweet by her generous joy in it. And if defeat does come, as it must to some, who else could so gracefully cover a retreat as to make it seem like a triumphal march?"

Mrs. Clark is more than a presiding genius at the conference program. She is also impresario. It is an axiom in club circles that if a celebrity is passing through Chicago he will turn up at the conference under Mrs. Clark's wing. Others, with her encouragement, have burst through the chrysalis of obscurity.

Even more important, she is a propagandist. The term is Mrs. Clark's own. She has made of the conference something more than a proving ground for struggling young artists, a place where club women may find the best material for programs at minimum expense to their organizations.

Personal Contact All Important.

Of her own part in the conference Mrs. Clark said: "If during a season I feel that a single woman has had her life enriched, has been made happier through my efforts, I am rewarded. Years ago I wrote stories for my husband's grain journal, and he has asked me why I am content with the narrower audience when I might reach so many more people through my pen.

"I have always answered that there are hundreds of writers who can express things better than I can, and that, besides, the personal contact is all important to me. The influence we exercise isn't a matter of the numbers we personally reach out to, anyway. Jesus had only twelve disciples.

"To know that you are responsible for helping some one to reach a greater realization of beauty, to develop some of her submerged potentialities, is the greatest compensation I have found life can bring."

Poetry and philosophy are only two of Mrs. Clark's methods of driving home her ideas. On occasion her sheer eloquence has brought audiences applauding to their feet, and she is always illustrating a point with a humorous anecdote which not infrequently involved herself.

As she related once anent sincerity:

"It should not be like a gardener that I used to have some years ago when Mr. Lowden was governor. He always was telling me, 'Miz Clark, how do you ever know what plants to put in? You an' Miz Lowden sure am de very cleverest women in de whole state of Illinois.'

"I said, 'Well, Waymer, do you say that to every woman for whom you work?'

"'Sure I does! Dat's the way I earns my livin'.'"

Mrs. Clark has lived in Chicago since she was 6 months old and in the same house in Englewood for more than thirty years. Her family believed that every girl should demonstrate her ability to take care of herself, and so she went through the Chicago Normal college and taught Latin at the Chicago Latin school a year before her marriage.

Mrs. Clark was president of the Englewood Woman's club at the time of the war. The troubled state of the popular mind seemed to call for action on the part of community leaders, and she and the presidents of the Chicago Woman's club, the Arché club, and the Evanston Woman's club held a conference in order to consider ways of making programs more inspiring.

Origin of Conference.

From this beginning, always under Mrs. Clark's leadership, the conference has grown to its present membership of more than 1,000 club leaders. Barre Hill, Margery Maxwell, and Helen Freund gained recognition through the group when they were still young and comparatively unknown. Hundreds of others have been helped to fame and fortune through the conference, and Mrs. Clark has dozens of tales to tell of genius in the bud.

The only organization of its kind in the world, the conference has acquired such a reputation that it has a waiting list of hundreds eager to appear before it. Because the number of artists is so great chairmen have been appointed to pass on every one who appears before the conference as a whole.

An artist is allowed to appear only once in four years, and he is limited to eight minutes. The conference meets weekly in the spring, semimonthly the rest of the season, and, in addition, sponsors occasional literary or musical luncheons.

ST. COLUMBANUS CHURCH TO HOLD SILVER JUBILEE

Rev. O'Brien, Founder, Is Still Pastor.

Msgr. Dennis P. O'Brien, founder and present pastor of the St. Columbanus Catholic church, 71st and Calumet avenue, will open the parish's silver jubilee week this morning with special services during regular mass hours.

MSGR. D. P. O'BRIEN.

The 25th anniversary homecoming dinner will be held Wednesday evening. Several hundred former parishioners are expected.

Special entertainments will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. Several stage and radio artists are scheduled to appear. Proceeds will be donated to the congregation's charity fund.

Father O'Brien celebrated the first mass for the parish 25 years ago in an empty store room, with about a dozen communicants sitting before him on borrowed chairs and improvised benches. Today he ministers to 1,000 families and the parish has five buildings, church, rectory, school, convent and gymnasium. The church edifice was erected in 1923 at a cost of $400,000.

The site of the buildings was the center of a truck farm and was covered with a cabbage field when the parish was organized, according to Father O'Brien.

IRVING BERLIN TO BE HEARD ON W-G-N TUESDAY

Composer to Be Feted by Stokes Orchestra.

Election returns will be broadcast by W-G-N Tuesday evening. As returns roll into Tribune offices from every part of the country bulletins will be put on the air announcing the results. During the evening two political experts of the Tribune, Arthur Sears Henning and Arthur M. Evans, will give their views on the outcome.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Irving Berlin will make an appearance over W-G-N Tuesday evening, election night. Berlin is here for the opening tomorrow night of "As Thousands Cheer," for which he wrote the music. The popular composer will be interviewed on his musical career during the broadcast from 8 to 8:30 p. m. by Quin Ryan. The dance orchestra under the direction of Harold Stokes, assisted by Lawrence Salerno and the Doring Sisters, will present a program of Berlin hits. Among these will be "All Alone," "Everybody's Doin' It," "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Always," "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody," "How Deep Is the Ocean?" and "Russian Lullaby," as well as selections from "As Thousands Cheer."

IRVING BERLIN.

Stock Concerts Praised.

W-G-N's broadcasts of the Chicago Symphony orchestra popular concerts, under the direction of Dr. Frederick Stock, on Saturday evenings are attracting an unusual mail response. Following the first program of the season letters of praise have been received from almost every state in the union, from Canada, Mexico and Central America. Many of the letters from distant points commented on the exceptional reception.

One letter came from Carlos Castenada of Guatemala City who commented on the brilliance of the broadcast and asked for the schedule of future symphony concerts.

Another enthusiastic listener is A. B. Cochrane of Mayfair Farm, Saskatchewan. He wrote: "It is to be regretted that we have so little fine symphonic music on the radio. More power to W-G-N, Dr. Stock and the Chicago Symphony for this season's broadcasts of concerts."

Radio Has 14th Birthday.

Fourteen years ago Friday, Nov. 2, the radio broadcasting industry was born. The broadcast of the Harding-Cox election returns through KDKA, Pittsburgh, started the great gold rush of the kilocycles. And from a few hundred amateur wireless operators at that time the audience has grown to many millions—there are 18,000,000 sets in use in the United States alone.

The wireless operators seemed to enjoy the election broadcast and occasional phonograph music, baseball scores, and so on. And it was an advertisment that started the whole broadcasting ball rolling. An ad was inserted in a Pittsburgh paper calling attention to a stock of radio receivers which could be used to receive the audible programs being sent out by Dr. Frank Conrad from KDKA. This advertisment gave H. P. Davis, Westinghouse vice president, an idea.

"We decided that efforts being made to develop radio as a confidential means of communication were wrong," said Mr. Davis in recalling the beginning of broadcasting, "and that instead its field was really one of wide publicity; in fact, the only means of instantaneous collective communication ever devised. Right in our grasp, therefore, we had that service which we had been thinking about and endeavoring to formulate.

And that's how it all started. Next, television!

Air Stars Aid Charity.

The entire "House by the Side of the Road" cast will journey to Evanston next Wednesday to put on a program for the Community Chest. The show will be aired over WMAQ. . . . Moissaye Boguslawski, the WJJD pianist, celebrated his tenth year on the air last Thursday. He started out on the W-G-N Master Artist concerts. . . Irene Beasley is playing at the Palace theater. Expects to be back on the air locally soon. . . . Leon Belasco's orchestra, heard on NBC with Phil Baker, is airing its sustaining shows over ABS, with WIND as its Chicago outlet.

W-G-N Maestro and Listener

Jan Garber, who appears nightly except Monday with his orchestra on W-G-N, made many friends in Hollywood during his recent engagement on the coast. Among these friends is the beautious Joan Marsh, screen and radio star, shown with him here, who is a nightly listener to Jan's W-G-N programs in Hollywood.

CLUB LEADERS TO LAUNCH NEW W-G-N PROGRAM

The Illinois Federation of Women's club will present many prominent club women in short chats over W-G-N beginning tomorrow at 3:30 o'clock. Mrs. William Franklin Farrell, president of the Illinois Federation, will be the first speaker and on succeeding Mondays Mrs. Henry S. Gradle, state chairman of the Park Ridge school for girls, Mrs. Louise K. Phillips, winner of the state poetry contest, and Mrs. A. O. Larson, state chairman of conservation, will be the guests of W-G-N.

Dr. H. P. Van Dusen to Be Sunday Evening Speaker

Dr. Henry Pitt van Dusen, dean of students, Union Theological Seminary, New York, will address the Chicago Sunday Evening club at Orchestra hall tonight. W-G-N will broadcast his address at 8:30 o'clock. At 11 o'clock this morning Dr. Van Dusen's sermon at the University of Chicago chapel services will be broadcast by W-G-N.

AMATEUR NIGHTS TO BE LAUNCHED BY QUIN RYAN

First One Scheduled for 6:45 Tomorrow.

Would you like to be a radio announcer? Can you croon? Can you imitate radio stars? Can you make your own radio sound effects, such as reproducing sirens, barking dogs and reproducing sirens, barking dogs, and speak over the air on your favorite subject or pet peeve?

Well, you may have your inning in "Quin Ryan's 66 Amateur Night," starting over W-G-N tomorrow at 6:45 and to be heard on the air every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings. Radio listeners will be instructed in the methods and technique of broadcasting. Some will be interviewed in the manner of the "Inquiring Reporter" programs at A Century of Progress all summer.

Applications will not be accepted by mail. Candidates will learn in tomorrow evening's inaugural program how the application blanks can be secured. Then will follow auditions, not on the air, in which the finalists will be weeded out and given dates for their appearances.

A similar "amateur night" program, running a full hour, is becoming popular as conducted by Maj. Edward Bowes every Tuesday night over WHN, in New York City. Among the first "amateur night" programs on the air were those conducted at W-G-N in 1925 by Quin Ryan, Freeman Gosden [Amos], and Charlie Correll [Andy].

Boynton on Books.

Prof. Percy H. Boynton of the University of Chicago will discuss the book, "The Age of Confidence," by Henry S. Canby during his "Book Talk" program on W-G-N at 6:45 tonight.

Becker's tips on keeping a puppy out of mischief will be given to dog owners during the course of a visit with his friends the Parker family who will take part in this broadcast.

COMMENTATOR

ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Arthur Sears Henning, dean of the newspaper correspondents in the nation's capital and head of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S Washington office, will initiate a new series of his "Capitol Comment" programs over W-G-N tonight. Mr. Henning will speak from the Chicago studios of W-G-N on the national political situation from 9:30 to 9:45 tonight and starting on Sunday, Nov. 11, his talks will be heard from Mr. Henning's private office in Washington at the same time.

Mr. Henning is one of the most widely read newspaper men in the country. His stories on developments in government news at the capital have won him a host of readers and his radio programs last fall brought him thousands of letters from listeners. "Capital Comment" was one of the most popular on W-G-N last season.

BERENICE TAYLOR SOLOIST TONIGHT WITH ORCHESTRA

Studio Groups to Present 3 Fine Programs.

W-G-N'S two great studio orchestras will present three programs of music of the masters and popular melodies today. Henry Weber and the Concert orchestra have shifted their program time and will be heard tonight from 9:45 to 10:30 p. m. Harold Stokes and the W-G-N Dance orchestra will appear on two programs, 5 to 5:30 and 8 to 8:30.

Berenice Taylor, W-G-N's soprano prima donna, will be the vocal soloist with Mr. Weber and the W-G-N Concert orchestra. Miss Taylor will sing the "Birdsong" from the opera "Pagliacci," by Leoncavallo, and "Canzonetta," by Lowe. The instrumental soloist again will be the harp virtuoso, Edward Vito, who will offer Hasselmans' "Valse de Concert."

For the orchestra selections, Mr. Weber will present the great "Coronation March" by Myerbeer, Massenet's "Air de Ballet" from "Scenes Pittoresques," the overture to "Russian and Ludmilla" by Glinka, "Afternoon of a Faunt" by Debussy, and "Fête Boheme" from "Scene Pittoresques."

Craig to Be Featured.

Vernon Craig, soloist with the dance orchestra, will again be featured by Mr. Stokes during his two programs. In the 5 o'clock program Craig will sing "Out in the Cold Again" and "Anything That's Part of You." At 8 o'clock, Craig will offer "The Very Thought of You."

Included in the orchestra's offerings for these two popular programs will be: "One Night of Love"; a new football song, "Ten Yards to Go"; "A Needle in a Haystack," from the motion picture, "The Gay Divorcee"; a special arrangement in concert style of "Make Believe," from "Showboat"; a new tune by Duke Ellington, "Solitude"; "Limehouse Nights"; "Love's Old Sweet Song," in a new popular style arrangement, and a memories medley of "Just a Memory," "Memories," and "Among My Souvenirs."

Baggiore Soloist Friday.

Attilio Baggiore will be the soloist on Friday evening with the W-G-N Concert orchestra. Mr. Baggiore will sing "Cielo E Mar" by Ponchielli, "The Little White House," "Macushla," and "A Toi" by Bemberg. Included in the orchestra offerings will be Herbert's "Autumn Frolics," Dvorak's "Slavonic Dance in C Major," and "Huldigung's March" by Grieg.

P.-T. A. OF FENGER HIGH SCHOOL TO HOLD OPEN HOUSE

Annual Follies to Be Given Thursday and Friday.

The Fenger high school Parent-Teacher association will hold an open house meeting Tuesday night at the small assembly hall. Mrs. Laura Hughes Lunde of the Chicago League of Women Voters will speak on the subject of "Parents' Part in Education." John Woodward will be chairman of the program.

The Fenger Follies, an annual entertainment sponsored by the Parent-Teacher association, will be held in Hill auditorium Thursday and Friday nights. One third of the proceeds will be given to the school, and the remainder will be used by the Parent-Teacher association to promote its activities in the school.

Mrs. Warner Sivyer, 5608 Maryland avenue, president of the Hyde Park Parent-Teacher association, announces that the group will meet twice on Thursday, at 9:45 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. The first session will be in charge of Mrs. William Johnson, president of the high school council, and Mrs. C. B. Cochran will be the speaker. The address will be followed by a tour of the school and luncheon. Mrs. Walter J. Hipple, 6212 Ingleside avenue, program chairman of the association, will direct the afternoon session. She will be assisted by Ernst Schmidhofer and Miss Doris Betts. The Girls' Glee club, directed by Miss Grace Guller, will furnish the music. Dr. Harold Leonard Bowman, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will speak on the subject of "Paths to Mental Health."

Arthur Dixon Parent-Teacher association's annual old clothes drive is in progress and will continue until Saturday night. Donations are being delivered to the school office, 8306 St. Lawrence avenue. Mrs. Cecil E. Ball, 8549 Rhodes avenue, chairman of the student aid committee, assisted by Mrs. Ruth E. Cuske, a teacher at the Dixon school, will distribute the clothing to needy children.

Parent-teacher associations from the Shakespeare, Oakenwald, Kenwood, Harvard, and Faulkner, schools were in charge of a Halloween parade and party Wednesday night at 47th street and Drexel boulevard, where a variety entertainment was presented around a bon fire.

The Edward Coles association will meet Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the school auditorium. Mrs. Frank Ross will preside.

Mrs. Charles E. Roe, field secretary of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, will conduct a training class for parents and teachers all day Friday at the Stevens hotel. The morning session will be given over to those interested in high school work, when Mrs. Frank V. Marshall will preside. Mrs. Thomas B. Stephenson, third vice president of the Illinois congress, will preside during the afternoon, which will be given over to general parent-teacher information.

Loretto Woodlawn Group to Hold Meeting Tomorrow

The Loretto Woodlawn auxiliary will hold its regular monthly meeting in the academy, 1447 East 65th street, at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. N. J. Bryar Jr., is president, and Mrs. Hugh J. McPartlin is corresponding secretary.

CHAIRMAN

Mrs. George P. Mundt is program chairman for the south side high school council which is meeting Thursday at the Hyde Park High school.

ART AND CRAFTS CLUBS TO OPEN IN FIELDHOUSES

Instruction Free to Adults in All Sections.

Art and craft clubs, where all members of the family may make Christmas gifts under skilled guidance and at no cost other than that of materials, will open this week in all sections of the city under sponsorship of the newly consolidated Chicago Park board.

The club for the north side will be at River Park, 5100 North Francisco avenue; for the northwest side at Jefferson Park, Long and Higgins avenue; for the north central section at Blackhawk park, Belden and Lavergne avenue; for the west side at Austin park, Central avenue and Lake street; for the south central section at Gage park, 55th street and Western avenue, and for the south section at Tuley park, 90th street and St. Lawrence avenue.

Classes Each Day and Evening.

The clubs have headquarters in park fieldhouses and each club has its own crafts rooms furnished with machines and tools. Schedules are so arranged that handicraft classes will be in session every day and evening from Monday to Saturday, inclusive, during the next 55 days.

After the holidays the board plans to carry out the art and craft projects on larger scales, opening shops in fieldhouses of many of the smaller parks.

An interesting feature is the establishment of a nursery for the care of babies and young children at each of the clubs, so the fathers and mothers will have an opportunity to complete their crafts work without interruption.

Mrs. R. H. Alschuler, social worker who is conducting with nursery schools in coöperation with the Chicago board of education, is establishing these nurseries and will supervise their operation.

Gymnasium for Young.

As a further feature of service for fathers and mothers with children beyond the nursery age, yet too young to engage in craft activities, each club will have supervised gymnasium classes for the youngsters.

Miss Alice Beyer, supervisor of women's recreational activities for the former South Park board, will be the general supervisor of all the clubs.

"We are starting our new venture under the unified park system and trust that hundreds of men, women and children will avail themselves of the clubs," Miss Beyer said.

ELKS OF HARVEY TO GIVE 'JOLLIES OF '34' THIS WEEK

Songs of eight leading midwestern universities will launch the Harvey Elks' "Jollies of 1934" Thursday and Friday evenings at Thornton Township High school auditorium, Harvey.

More than 60 performers are taking part in the production under the direction of Joe Cooke. An old time minstreal show will climax the program.

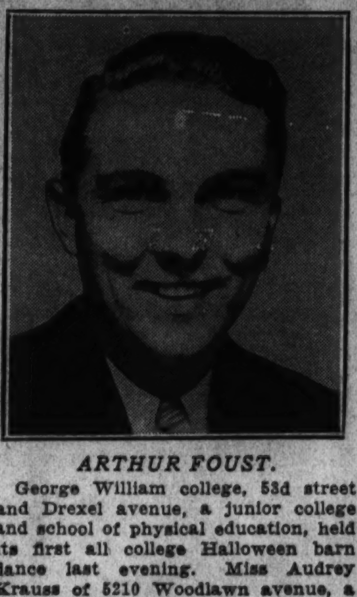
Among the soloists will be Harry Bugh, Cedric Cassler, Edward Houser, James Munro Sr., E. L. Tromley, William Johnson, Thomas Claffey, Miss Evelyn Cohen, and Miss Henrietta Hock. Ralph T. Crean heads the general committee arranging the production.

Seventh Presbyterian Women to Hold Bazar

The woman's auxiliary of the Seventh Presbyterian church, 86th place and Sangambn street, will hold its annual dinner and bazar Thursday evening at 6 o'clock. Mrs. Emil Mezek is ways and means chairman and Mrs. M. E. Peschong chairman of booth sales. They will be assisted by Mrs. J. M. Sullivan, Mrs. B. J. Kulk, and Mrs Rose Panzdegrau.

CO-CHAIRMEN

MISS AUDREY KRAUSS.



ARTHUR FOUST.

George William college, 53d street and Drexel avenue, a junior college and school of physical education, held its first all college Halloween barn dance last evening. Miss Audrey Krauss of 5210 Woodlawn avenue, a junior, and Arthur Foust, a senior, were co-chairmen for this event and all social activities for the coming year.

ROSELAND KIWANIANS TO HEAR JUDGE TELL COURT EXPERIENCES

Judge Cecil C. Smith of the Municipal court will relate his experiences on the bench at the weekly meeting of the Roseland Kiwanis club Tuesday noon at the weekly meeting of the Calumet Commercial club.

JUDGE CECIL C. SMITH.

Ernest Teberg, curator of railroad transportation at the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park, spoke at the luncheon last Tuesday, illustrating his talk on the various exhibits with motion pictures.

CLAIMS CREDIT FOR NEGRO AREA HOUSING PLANS

Woodlawn Group Writes to Secretary Ickes.

In a letter to Harold L. Ickes, secretary of interior and administrator of public works, who recently approved expenditure of $7,000,000 in rebuilding 35 blocks in the Negro district south of 37th street, the Woodlawn Property Owners' association this week called the administrator's attention to the fact that the association advocated the identical improvement months ago.

JAMES J. BURKE. [Ray Studios.]

"We attribute the government's selection of this particular district to the steadfastness of purpose and untiring efforts of our members and the metropolitan housing council," the letter said.

Efforts Often Misunderstood.

"Although often misunderstood by many south side Negro residents because of our segregation activities, the Woodlawn Property Owners' association has insisted for years that the entire south side colored district be restored in order that members of that race might have an opportunity to enjoy life in wholesome surroundings," the letter continued.

The letter urged the administrator to inspect other "blighted areas that should be rebuilt immediately with federal funds."

Good Property Damaged.

Chicago, according to the letter, has an ever increasing rim of deteriorating properties surrounding and adjacent to the loop, particularly the near south and west sides, where this rim is in proximity to the center of activities, lowering revenue of much good property to such an extent that it can no longer pay taxes.

Signed by James Joseph Burke, president of the Woodlawn Property Owners' association, the letter further stated that $100,000,000 should be spent by the federal government in rebuilding Chicago areas within the next 12 months.

PAPA - TELL ME - WILL I LOOK LIKE YOU WHEN I GROW UP?
WELL - YOU NEVER CAN TELL, CHESTER - IF YOU TAKE GOOD CARE OF YOURSELF - GO TO A FEW BEAUTY SPECIALISTS - AND LIVE RIGHT - YOU MAY - SIDNEY SMITH
STRANGER THINGS HAVE HAPPENED - LIKE FATHER - LIKE SON, THEY SAY - YOU'LL PROBABLY LOOK LIKE YOUR DAD WHEN YOU GROW UP -
OH, WELL - I WON'T GROW UP FOR A LONG, LONG TIME YET, WILL I?
WELL - YOU'RE GROWING PRETTY FAST, CHESTER - YOU JUST HAD A BIRTHDAY, YOU KNOW - WHAT DID YOU GET ON YOUR BIRTHDAY?
I GOT BORN, OF COURSE -
WELL - YOU'RE GETTING ALONG IN YEARS - JUST KEEP ON HAVING BIRTHDAYS - AND YOU'LL SOON HAVE TO BRUSH UP ON YOUR ARITHMETIC TO KEEP TRACK OF YOUR AGE -
I CAN DO SOMETHING IN ARITHMETIC YOU CAN'T DO - I'LL BETCHA - I CAN MAKE FIVE GO INTO ONE - FIVE GO INTO ONE! THAT SHOWS WHAT YOU KNOW ABOUT ARITHMETIC - HOW CAN YOU MAKE FIVE GO INTO ONE?
WELL - WHEN I GOT UP THIS MORNING - I PUT FIVE TOES INTO ONE SHOE - THAT'S MAKING FIVE GO INTO ONE - GEE - I'D HATE TO BE AS OLD AS NOAH - PEOPLE SAY YOUR CAR IS AS OLD AS NOAH'S ARK - HOW OLD WOULD THAT BE?
NOAH WAS A GREAT MAN - BUT HE HAD NOTHING ON YOUR GREAT GRANDFATHER'S GREAT GREAT GRANDFATHER'S FATHER'S GREAT GRANDFATHER'S FATHER'S GRANDFATHER -
THERE WAS A MAN - DO YOU KNOW WHAT YOUR GREAT GRANDFATHER'S GREAT GREAT GRANDFATHER'S FATHER'S GRANDFATHER'S FATHER'S GRANDFATHER WOULD HAVE BEEN, IF HE'D BEEN ALIVE TODAY?
NO - WHAT?
HE'D BE THE OLDEST MAN LIVING - HA! HA! HA!
WHAT I CAN'T UNDERSTAND IS - HOW DID NOAH GET ALL THOSE ANIMALS INTO THE ARK? ALL THOSE ZEBRAS AND CAMELS AND TIGERS AND BIRDS AND LIONS AND ELEPHANTS - HOW DID HE CATCH THEM - TWO OF EACH?
OH - I SUPPOSE HE LASSOED SOME - SET TRAPS FOR SOME - AND I SUPPOSE HE CAUGHT SOME IN THOSE LONG NETS - LIKE THE FISHERMEN USE -
HOW DO THE FISHERMEN MAKE THOSE NETS, PAPA?
THAT'S SIMPLE, CHESTER - VERY EASY - THEY JUST TAKE A HANDFUL OF HOLES - SEW THEM TOGETHER - AND THERE YOU ARE!
HOW COULD THEY CARRY SO MANY ANIMALS? IT CERTAINLY MUST HAVE BEEN A GREAT BIG BOAT - WHERE DID THEY CARRY THEIR FOOD?
WELL - THE PACK MULES PROBABLY CARRIED A LOT ON THEIR BACKS - AND THE CAMELS COULD GO DAYS WITHOUT WATER - AND THEN THEY PROBABLY PUT A LOT IN THE ELEPHANTS' TRUNKS -
BUT HOW COULD THEY SEE NIGHTS? DID THEY HAVE LIGHTS IN THOSE DAYS?
WHY CERTAINLY OLD NOAH HAD LIGHTS - LEAVE IT TO HIM FOR THAT - HOW COULD HE SEE ALL THE ANIMALS IF HE DIDN'T HAVE LIGHTS ON THE BOAT?
WHAT KIND OF LIGHTS?
ARC LIGHTS -

DICK TRACY
YOU SEE, PAT - I FOUND OUT "DOC" HUMP WAS RELEASED FROM JAIL A COUPLE OF DAYS BEFORE JUNIOR AND I SAW HIM DART OUT OF THE DOG HOSPITAL.
ON INQUIRING, I FOUND "DOC" CALLED AT THE DOG HOSPITAL TO PURCHASE A SYRINGE SIMILAR TO THE HYPODERMIC TYPE. FURTHER INVESTIGATION ALSO LED ME TO BELIEVE IT WAS "DOC" HUMP WHO CAUSED THE WOUND ON THE LEG OF JUNIOR'S SCOTCH TERRIER THE WOUND HAVING BEEN MADE IN AN UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPT TO CATCH THE DOG.
BUT WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT? WHAT'S "DOC" TRYING TO DO?
THAT'S WHAT WE'LL HAVE TO FIND OUT. I AM CONVINCED OF ONE THING — "DOC" IS ENGAGED IN SOME SINISTER EXPERIMENTATION WITH DOGS OR HUMANS — OR BOTH!
TRACY! LOOK! LOOK!
MY—!
KEEP QUIET, BIG FELLOW! IN A MOMENT OR TWO YOU MAY RAVE ALL YOU WANT TO.
LOOK, TRACY - HE'S INJECTING SOMETHING INTO THE DOG'S NECK!
WHAT IN THE NAME OF HEAVEN IS HE DOING?
WE'VE NOT A MOMENT TO LOSE! THERE'S A LIFE AT STAKE IN THERE!
ALL RIGHT, LITTLE PRANCER, GO AFTER HIM.
SNIP
GO AFTER "DOC" HUMP, PAT! I'LL RELEASE THIS MAN!
MY NAME IS BLAINE - I USED TO BE BUTLER FOR THE DOCTOR. HE PHONED ME TO COME TO SEE HIM AND THEN TOLD ME HE WAS GOING TO USE ME FOR EXPERIMENTATION. AT THE POINT OF A GUN HE STRAPPED ME TO THIS WALL.
THAT ANIMAL YOU KILLED HAD JUST BEEN INOCULATED WITH A HORRIBLE DRUG THE "DOC" DEVISED - WHICH HE BELIEVED WOULD MAKE THE DOG'S BITE INSTANTLY FATAL. HE WAS EXPERIMENTING ON ME!
"DOC'S" MADE A GETAWAY, TRACY.
I SEE! "DOC" HUMP IS APPARENTLY PREPARING TO MURDER BY PROXY! HE'S A MADMAN! A MADMAN WHO MUST BE STOPPED!

NICE WORK BOYS- BRING 'EM IN-
FOR THIRTY YEARS I'VE DONE MY BEST TO BE AN HONEST COP- NOW, WITH YOU IN CHARGE, I CAN GRAB THE REAL CROOKS AND KNOW SOME CHISELING POLITICIAN WON'T SPRING THEM IN FIVE MINUTES, AND MAYBE GET MY JOB AS WELL-
LET ME SAY NOW, COPS WANT TO DO THEIR DUTY- GIVEN A CHANCE, WE'LL CLEAN THIS TOWN IN TEN HOURS-
I'VE CHECKED YOU, CHIEF- YOU'RE O.K.- AND FOR ONCE YOU CAN DO YOUR DUTY AND HOLD YOUR JOB TOO-
AH- HERE COMES MR. PHIL O. BLUSTER-
THIS IS AN UNSPEAKABLE OUTRAGE- I'LL HAVE YOUR JOB FOR THIS, CHIEF-
TAKE IT EASY- SAVE YOUR SPEECHES FOR THE SUCKERS- LOCK HIM UP, BOYS-
WITH PLEASURE, MR. WARBUCKS-
COME ALONG, YOU-
AH HA! IF HERE ISN'T MR. BUSARD, THE ANSWER TO THE QUESTION "DOES CRIME PAY?"
YOU'LL PAY THROUGH THE NOSE FOR THIS- YOU CAN'T DO A THING TO ME-
YEAH? BLEEK AND HIS MOB HAVE BEEN ASKING FOR YOU- WE COULD PUT YOU IN THE SAME PEN WITH THEM FOR A WHILE-
NIX! NIX! YOU WOULDN'T DO THAT- WHY, THOSE MOBSTERS WOULD MURDER ME- I'LL BE GOOD-
HOWDY, HEELY- HOWDY, McBRIBE-
I'M BOSS IN THIS TOWN- YOU CAN'T HOLD ME- I'LL FIX YOUR CLOCK FOR THIS- I'LL--- PIPE DOWN, WARD- COGG IS ON HIS WAY OVER HERE TO SPRING US- WE'LL BE OUT IN FIVE MINUTES-
THIS IS GROSSLY IRREGULAR- I'LL HOLD COURT RIGHT HERE AND NOW- BRING THOSE CITIZENS BEFORE ME, THAT I MAY HEAR YOUR TRUMPED UP CHARGES AND RELEASE THEM-
YOU'RE THROUGH HOLDING ANY MORE COURT, COGG, FOR TWENTY YEARS AT LEAST- TAKE HIM, CHIEF-
THIS IS A BUM JAIL, BUT IT'S ONLY TEMPORARY- YOU'LL LIKE THE PENITENTIARY- I'VE FIXED IT SO YOU CAN HAVE THE SAME CELL THERE THAT I HAD-
WE'VE BAGGED ALL THE BIG ONES- THE LITTLE ONES ARE LEAVING TOWN BY EVERY ROAD- DON'T THANK ME, GOVERNOR- MY FRIENDS GATHERED THE EVIDENCE AND YOU AND OTHER HONEST OFFICIALS MADE THEIR PUNISHMENT POSSIBLE-
LOOK, "DADDY"- IT'S ALL IN TH' PAPERS ALREADY- I KNEW FROM THE FIRST YOU'D BEAT THOSE CROOKS AND MAKE EVERYTHING RIGHT-EXTRA!
WARBUCKS SMASHES RING LEADERS JAILED

NOPE, NOT A WORD SINCE THEIR RADIO CUT OUT OVER THE MOUNTAINS!
JACK'S PROBABLY HAVIN' A TOUGH TIME--BE DARN LUCKY IF HE PULLS THROUGH THIS STORM--
OH YOU MUST DO SOMETHING
WE'RE DOING ALL WE CAN--PLEASE GO HOME AND GET SOME SLEEP--I'LL CALL YOU FIRST THING IN THE MORNING--
SLEEP! HOW CAN I SLEEP WHEN THEY ARE MAYBE---OH I CAN'T BEAR TO THINK OF IT!
IT'S WORRY ALL THE TIME--IF JACK ISN'T TRYING NEW STUNTS WITH HIS FLIVVER HE'S OFF ON DANGEROUS NEWS-REEL FLIGHTS--AN' NOW PINFEATHERS HAS TAKEN TO GOING WITH HIM--
RRRRR-R R-R-R
LISTEN--A MOTOR!
QUICK! THE FLOOD LIGHTS--MAYBE IT'S THEM--
OH IT IS THEM--THANK HEAVENS!
WHY, MARY? WHAT ARE YOU DOIN' UP THIS LATE? WEREN'T WORRIED, WERE YOU?
HELLO, SIS! SAY YOU SHOULDA SEEN THAT STORM FLOP US AROUND--WE ALMOST HIT A MOUNTAIN TOO--BOY, DID WE HAVE FUN!
JACK, I CAN'T STAND IT ANY LONGER I HATE TO ASK YOU---BUT WON'T YOU GIVE UP FLYING?
WHAT? GIVE UP FLYING?
WHY--FLYING--THAT'S PART OF ME--I COULDN'T
BUT JACK, THE UNCERTAINTY--ALWAYS FEELING IT MAY BE YOUR LAST TRIP--IT'S TORTURE! PLEASE--YOU COULD GET A NICE SAFE JOB ON THE GROUND SOMEWHERE-- ME?-G-GIVE UP FLYING?--N-NO! BUT HOW CAN I REFUSE--MARY'S HAPPINESS MEANS EVERYTHING TO ME!

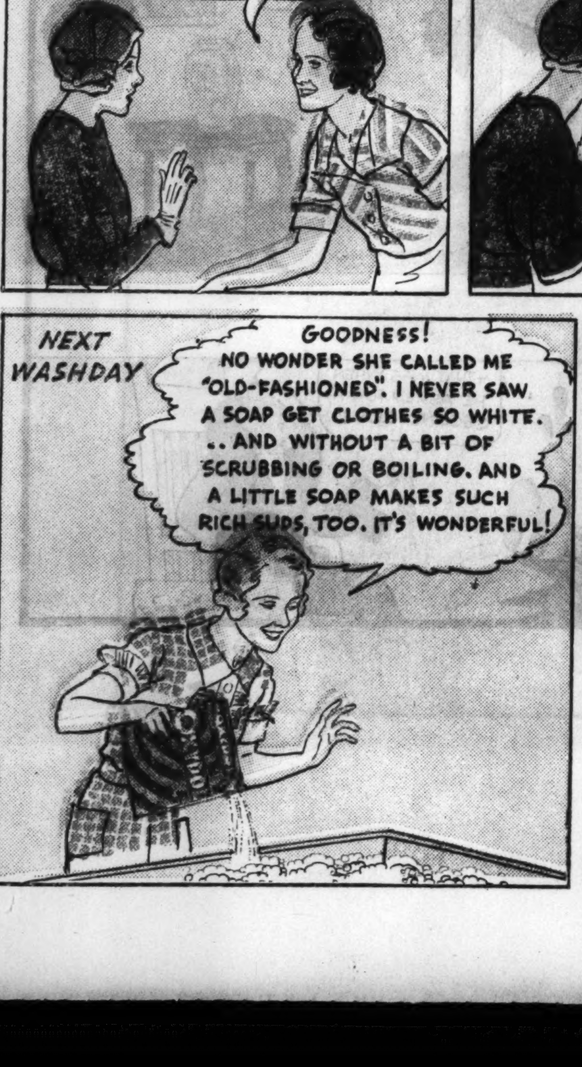
BOSH! I TRIED ONE ONCE.
"EVEN LADIES FIGHT"
I'LL PROVE IT! THIS ONE IS NEW.
CONTROVERSY ALWAYS FOLLOWS THE INTRODUCTION OF ANY NEW SCIENTIFIC DISCOVERY.
BUT NO DISCOVERY IN YEARS, PROBABLY, HAS CAUSED SO MUCH HEATED DISCUSSION, AND HAD SUCH FAR REACHING EFFECTS AS THIS ONE. SEE WHAT HAPPENED TO THESE TWO FRIENDLY HOUSEWIVES
HELLO, MRS. LITTLE. THOUGHT MAYBE YOU'D LIKE TO GO SHOPPING THIS MORNING... BUT I SEE YOU'RE WASHING.
I'LL BE GLAD TO GO MRS. HAMILTON IF YOU JUST WAIT ABOUT 15 MINUTES WHILE I FINISH THIS TUBFUL OF CLOTHES.
15 MINUTES! WHY THAT WASHING WILL TAKE AT LEAST AN HOUR. I'D BETTER GO ON.
OH, NO! I JUST LET THEM SOAK FOR 15 MINUTES IN OXYDOL SUDS—THEN TOUCH UP THE WORST SPOTS. NO SCRUBBING OR BOILING AT ALL.
WHY OF ALL THINGS! WHO EVER HEARD OF WASHING CLOTHES IN 15 MINUTES SOAKING!
WHY MRS. HAMILTON, YOU'RE JUST OLD-FASHIONED. THIS SOAP FLUSHES DIRT OUT OF CLOTHES AND GETS THEM WHITER IN ONE WASHING THAN OTHER SOAPS DO IN 2 TO 4 WASHINGS.
BUT DON'T YOU KNOW THAT FAST-WASHING SOAPS EAT UP CLOTHES AND FADE COLORS?
NO, NOT THIS ONE. OXYDOL IS A COMPLETELY NEW KIND OF FAST WORKING SOAP... AND IT'S ABSOLUTELY SAFE.
THAT'S BOSH! NO SOAP CAN SOAK OUT DIRT FROM CLOTHES IN 15 MINUTES... AND DO IT SAFELY.
IT'S TRUE... AND I'LL PROVE IT. I JUST DARE YOU TO STAY HERE FOR 15 MINUTES AND SEE.
15 MINUTES LATER
WELL, I GUESS THEY'RE CLEAN ALL RIGHT... BUT MARK MY WORD, ANY SOAP THAT WORKS THAT FAST WILL FADE COLORS AND RUIN YOUR CLOTHES.
AND THAT'S JUST WHERE YOU'RE WRONG. OXYDOL IS PERFECTLY SAFE. LET ME SHOW YOU SOMETHING...
SEE THIS PRINT DRESS—I'VE WASHED IT AT LEAST 15 TIMES IN OXYDOL. AND IT'S STILL ALMOST LIKE NEW.
WHO EVER WOULD HAVE BELIEVED IT!



NEXT WASHDAY
GOODNESS! NO WONDER SHE CALLED ME "OLD-FASHIONED". I NEVER SAW A SOAP GET CLOTHES SO WHITE. .. AND WITHOUT A BIT OF SCRUBBING OR BOILING. AND A LITTLE SOAP MAKES SUCH RICH SUDS, TOO. IT'S WONDERFUL!

IT'S TRUE! THERE IS A NEW WAY IN WASHING—READ THE FACTS—MAKE THE TEST!

New Million Dollar Granulated Soap Invention Combines Safety With Utmost Speed. At Last A Safe Fast-Washing Soap That Actually Loosens Dirt Out of Clothes In 15 Minutes' Soaking—And Gets Them 4 to 5 Shades Whiter Than Other Soaps Without One Bit of Scrubbing or Boiling.

● New and Improved OXYDOL is different from any bar, flake, chip or ordinary granulated soap you ever used. Different in the way it's made and in the results it gets.

Due to its patented process of making, OXYDOL dissolves instantly and completely in hard or soft water, and does these things:

First—gives thick, 3-inch suds, rich as whipped dairy cream. Suds that go to work on grease, dirt and stains—in any water—2 to 3 times faster than less modern soaps.

Second—sets up a unique, new "soak and flush" washing action. 15 MINUTES' SOAKING loosens dirt out so it flushes away—without scrubbing or boiling.

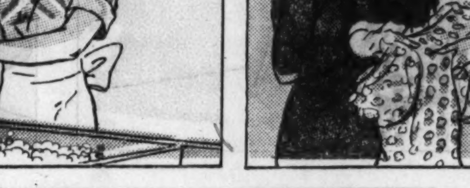
You cut washing time 25% to 40%, in tub or machine. You save long hours of soaking, scrubbing and boiling—you get clothes clean and white without washboard wear and tear.

And yet, due to its special formula—its special protective combination of mild soap ingredients—OXYDOL is safe. Absolutely safe to hands, colors, and fabrics!

Accept FREE Trial

Send your name and address to Procter & Gamble, Dept. C-51, Box 1801, Cincinnati, Ohio, and we'll see you get a regular 10c package (enough for 2 full washings) absolutely free. Or to avoid delay—get OXYDOL today from your own grocer.

YOUR MONEY BACK
If This Test Fails in Your Home



● Into 2 pans, filled with equal amounts of water, put equal amounts of (1) your favorite soap and (2) the New and Improved OXYDOL. Then soak a dirty towel in each for 15 minutes by the clock. Then rinse.

● IF IN YOUR OPINION the towel that soaked in OXYDOL doesn't wash out whiter, smell sweeter, take the unused portion of the package of OXYDOL back to your grocer with this ad and get your money back.

THAT'S GOOD NEWS. THANKS FOR TELLING US.
THE BOYS AND IGGIE HAVE BEEN AWAY SIX WEEKS AND I THINK IT WOULD BE NICE TO HAVE A PARTY FOR THEM TO NIGHT.
THA'S A GOOD IDEA. WE'LL HAVE A BIG DINNER FOR THEM.
THEY WILL BE AS HUNGRY AS WOLVES WHEN THEY COME. I'LL PUT A COUPLE OF BEANS ON TO COOK RIGHT AWAY.
WE'LL NEED A LOT OF FIRE WOOD FOR COOKING AND PLENTY FOR A BONFIRE TONIGHT.
DON'T WORRY, WE'LL HAVE PLENTY. WE'RE SAWIN' UP FOUR LEAD PENCILS, THREE CLOTHES PINS AND AN OLD PAINT BRUSH HANDLE.
BOY! BUT THAT SMELLS GOOD.
IT OUGHT TO BE GOOD. THERE ARE TEN GRAINS OF RICE IN THIS STEW AND A HUNK OF FROG HAM AS BIG AS A CHERRY SEED.
THAT THIMBLE FULL OUGHT TO BE ENOUGH SALAD?
WILL ONE OF YOU MEN SLICE THIS GRAPE.

HELLO? WHAT'S THAT? - WHAT? - OH, YOU SAY THE ELEPHANTS WILL BE HERE SOON - YES, I'LL BE RIGHT OVER
GRRR
I HAFTA GO AND HELP THEM BRING TH' ELEPHANTS OVER! I'LL BE RIGHT BACK!
GRRR
LETS SEE NOW... WHERE WAS I? OH YES, ... RIDING LIKE THE WIND, THE DARING SCOUT BROKE THROUGH THE CIRCLE OF PAINTED INDIANS, WHEN SUDDENLY HIS HORSE STUMBLED...

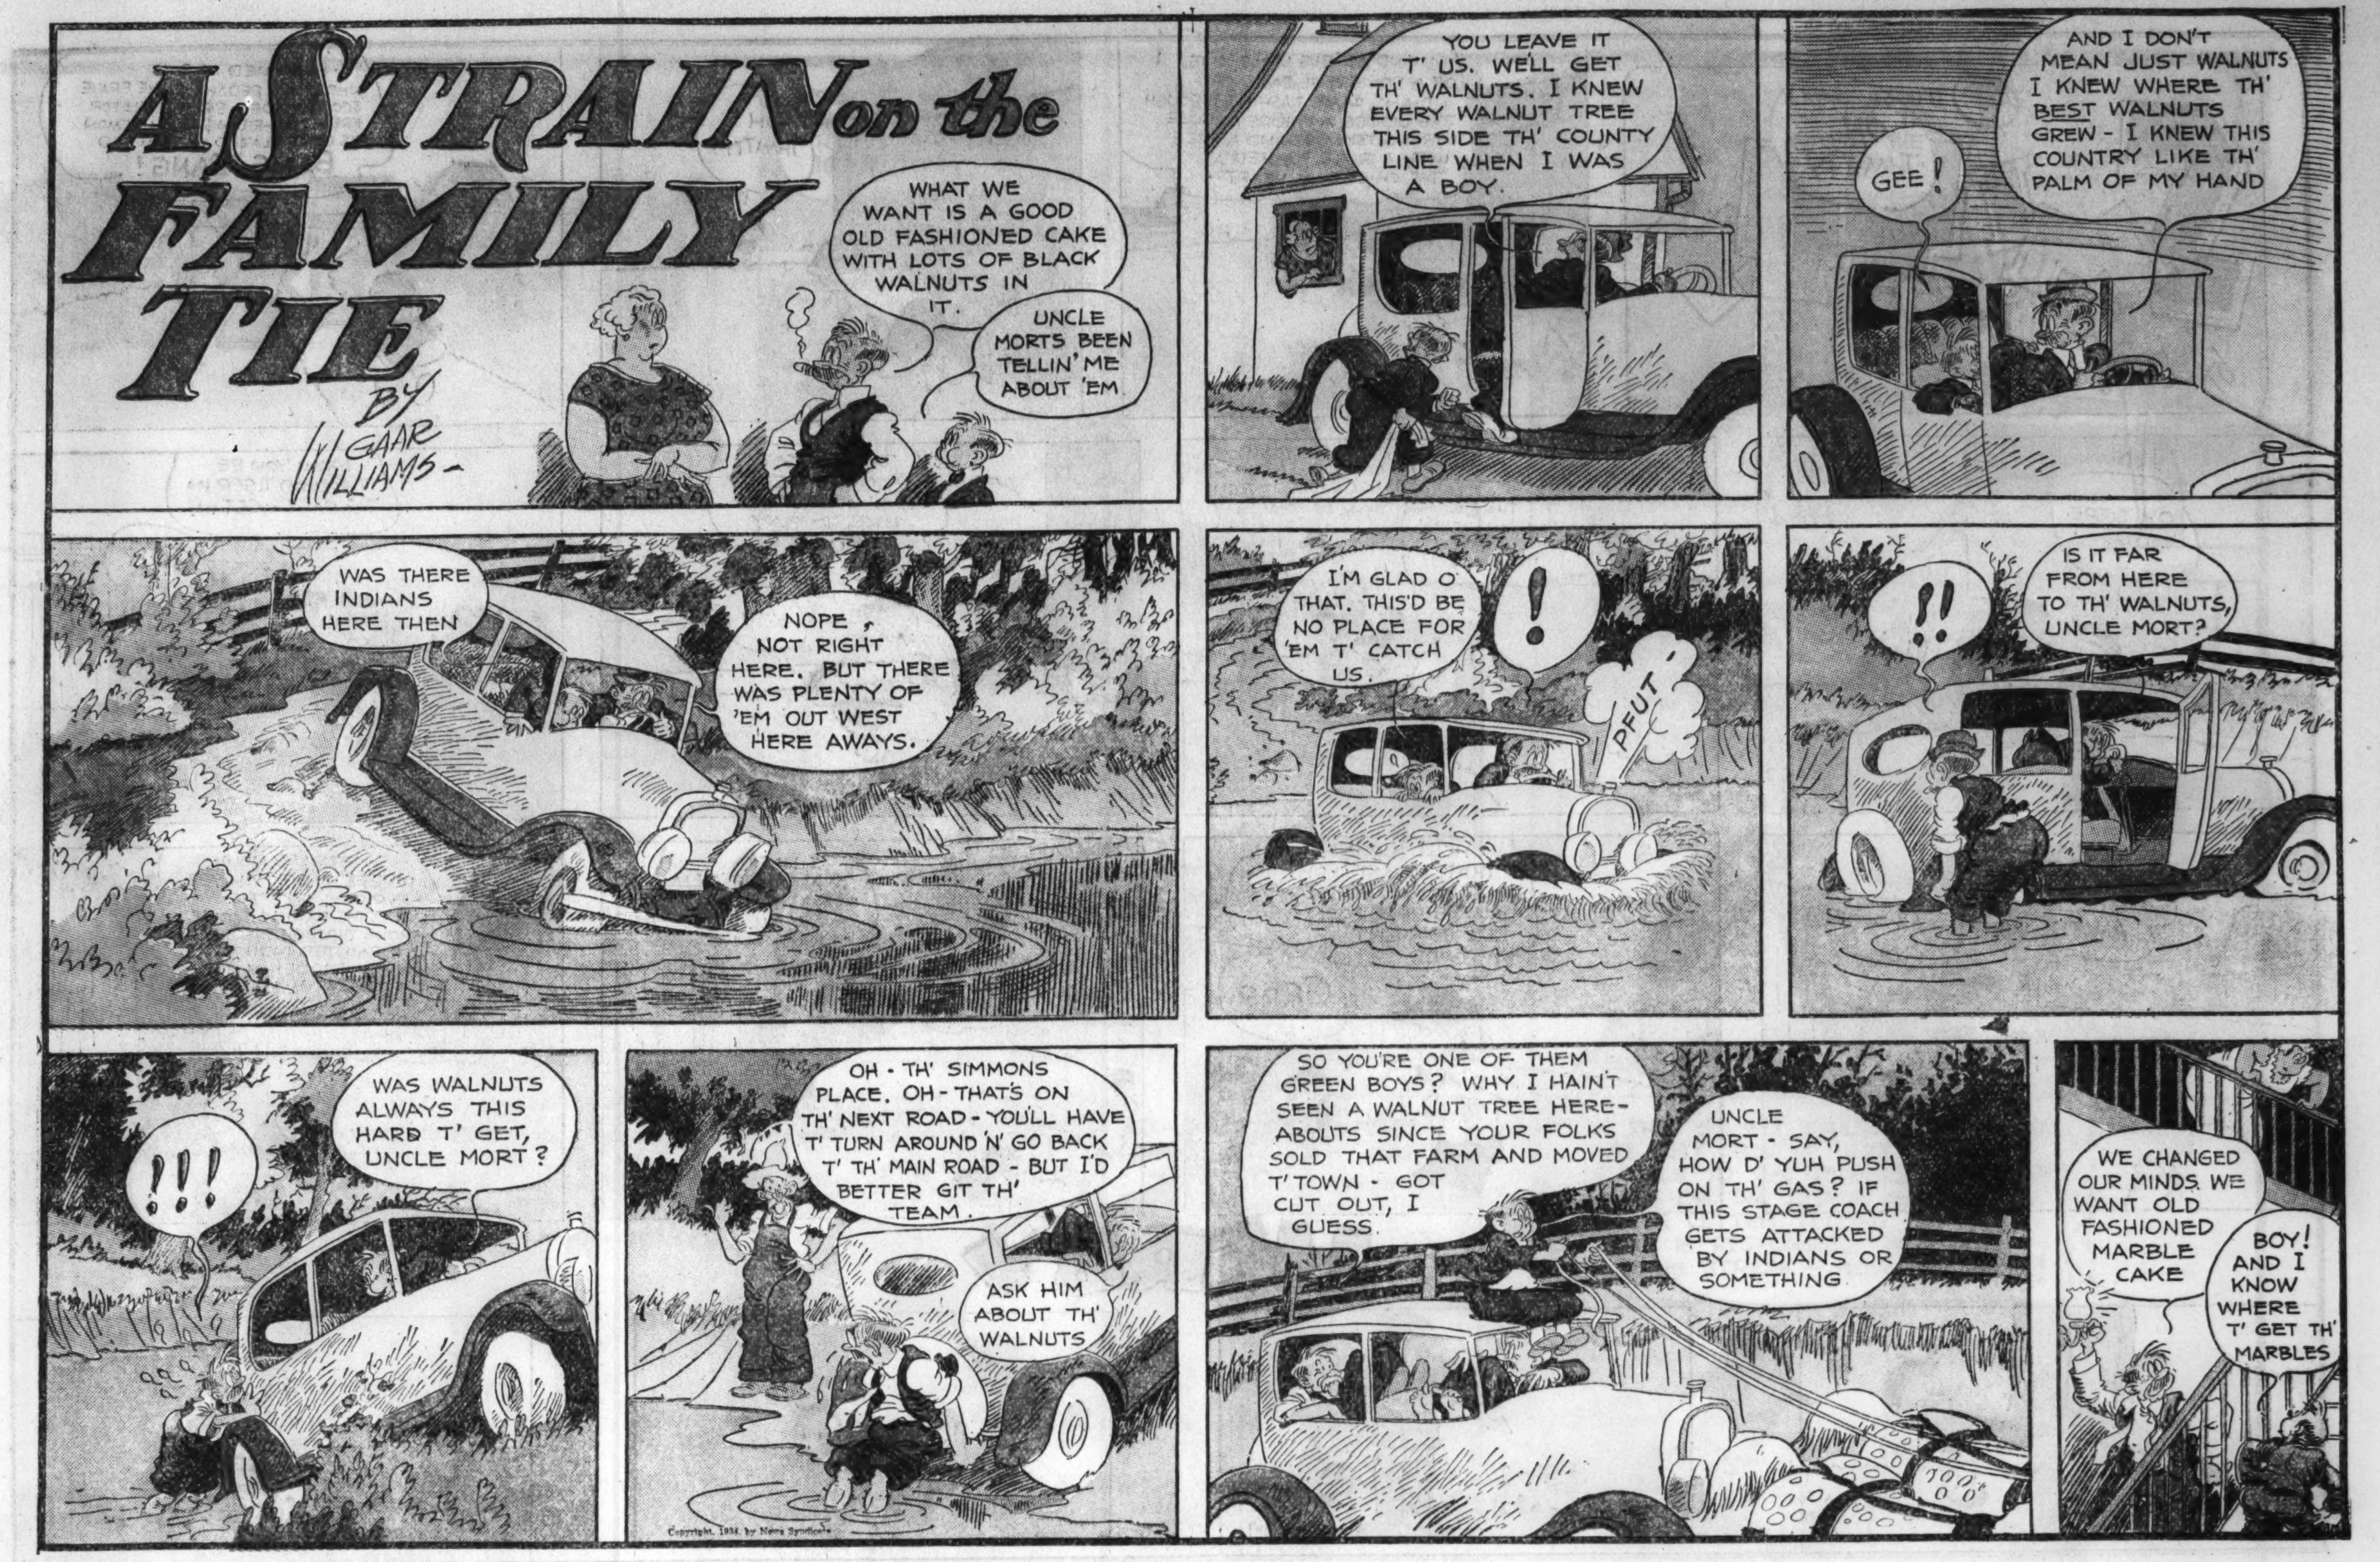
TINY TIM
by Stanley Link
AW-NOW DON'T FEEL SO BAD, TIM - YOU KNOW YOU CAN'T PLAY FOOTBALL WITH US BIG FELLERS - IT'S TOO ROUGH FOR YOU -
AW-GEE THE SAME OLD STORY -
WAIT A MINUTE - I'VE GOT AN IDEA - WE'LL LET YOU BE THE REFEREE - THAT'S A NICE EASY JOB - HERE - TAKE THIS WHISTLE -
OH, BOY! THAT'S SWELL -
YOU READY YALE? LET'S GO! BLOW THE WHISTLE, TIM!
TWEE-EET
NICE TACKLE, JIMMY - THAT'S THE LAST DOWN TOO -
I GOT 'IM! BLOW THE WHISTLE - HURRY UP!
TWEET
TOUCHDOWN! TOUCHDOWN! HEY! WHERE'S THE REFEREE? WHY DON'T YOU BLOW THE WHISTLE?
I DID -
WELL - BLOW IT LOUDER - WE CAN'T HEAR YOU -
GOOD NIGHT - WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THAT GUY? LAYING DOWN ON THE JOB -
WHAT'S THE IDEA, TIM? WHY DON'T YOU BLOW THAT WHISTLE SO WE CAN HEAR IT - WHAT ARE YOU DOING - QUITTING? AND AFTER WE GAVE YOU THE EASIEST JOB ON THE FIELD -
(PUFF-PUFF) WAIT TILL I GET MY BREATH - (PUFF) WHAT DO YOU MEAN EASIEST JOB? (PUFF) BLOWING THIS BIG WHISTLE IS THE HARDEST WORK I'VE DONE IN WEEKS - (PUFF-PUFF)



A STRAIN on the FAMILY TIE
BY GAAR WILLIAMS
WHAT WE WANT IS A GOOD OLD FASHIONED CAKE WITH LOTS OF BLACK WALNUTS IN IT.
UNCLE MORTS BEEN TELLIN' ME ABOUT 'EM
YOU LEAVE IT T' US. WELL GET TH' WALNUTS. I KNEW EVERY WALNUT TREE THIS SIDE TH' COUNTY LINE WHEN I WAS A BOY.
GEE!
AND I DON'T MEAN JUST WALNUTS I KNEW WHERE TH' BEST WALNUTS GREW - I KNEW THIS COUNTRY LIKE TH' PALM OF MY HAND
WAS THERE INDIANS HERE THEN
NOPE, NOT RIGHT HERE. BUT THERE WAS PLENTY OF 'EM OUT WEST HERE AWAYS.
I'M GLAD O THAT. THIS'D BE NO PLACE FOR 'EM T' CATCH US.
PFUT-
!!
IS IT FAR FROM HERE TO TH' WALNUTS, UNCLE MORT?
!!!
WAS WALNUTS ALWAYS THIS HARD T' GET, UNCLE MORT?
OH - TH' SIMMONS PLACE. OH - THAT'S ON TH' NEXT ROAD - YOU'LL HAVE T' TURN AROUND 'N' GO BACK T' TH' MAIN ROAD - BUT I'D BETTER GIT TH' TEAM.
ASK HIM ABOUT TH' WALNUTS
SO YOU'RE ONE OF THEM GREEN BOYS? WHY I HAIN'T SEEN A WALNUT TREE HERE-ABOUTS SINCE YOUR FOLKS SOLD THAT FARM AND MOVED T'TOWN - GOT CUT OUT, I GUESS.
UNCLE MORT - SAY, HOW D' YUH PUSH ON TH' GAS? IF THIS STAGE COACH GETS ATTACKED BY INDIANS OR SOMETHING
WE CHANGED OUR MINDS. WE WANT OLD FASHIONED MARBLE CAKE
BOY! AND I KNOW WHERE T' GET TH' MARBLES

SO YOU'RE NOT GONNA PLAY FOOTBALL WITH US, POP?
NOPE - NOT TODAY
BUT YOU RUN RIGHT ALONG, SON
OKAY--I'LL GO GET READY
I'M GONNA SPEND THE DAY WITH MA! I'M GONNA TAKE HER TO THE MOVIES!
WHY PA - I CAN'T BELIEVE IT--THIS IS TOO MUCH-
NOT AT ALL, MA-NOT AT ALL!
BUT I DON'T WANT YOU TO SACRIFICE YOUR DAY FOR ME
TUT, TUT, MA-BEING WITH YOU IS MORE IMPORTANT THAN PLAYING WITH A LOT OF KIDS
YOU KNOW, PA - MAYBE I HAVE BEEN TOO HARSH ABOUT YOUR RUNNING OFF TO PLAY WITH ALL THE KIDS IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD-
FORGET IT, MA
I KNOW HOW MUCH YOU LIKE YOUR SPORTS-SURE I DO-BUT YOU COME FIRST AND-THERE'S THE PHONE - R-RING
IT'S FOR YOU, SONNY
IT MUST BE JIMMY SPITZER
NO, JIMMY - MY POP CAN'T PLAY WITH US TODAY
BECAUSE HE'S GOT A TOUCH OF RHEUMATISM!
JUST A SECOND -

STREAKY
by GUS EDSON
WELL, IT DOESN'T SEEM TO ME YOU CAN BE TRYING VERY HARD — IS HE TOM?
WELL, ER — GEE, SURE HE'S TRYING — GEE WHIZ — SURE HE IS — EVERYBODY'S TALKING ABOUT IT! YOU WERE ALWAYS THE STAR — ALWAYS MAKING THE TOUCHDOWNS — BUT NOW - - -
ER — EXCUSE ME — THINK I'LL STROLL DOWNTOWN
WELL, IF YOU KNOW WHY THE TEAM IS LOSING ALL THE GAMES I DON'T SEE WHY YOU CAN'T TELL ME — I DON'T SEE WHY IT'S SUCH A SECRET!!
SO! DO THEY LET YOU FOOTBALL PLAYERS OUT SO LATE — WHAT DO YOU WANT?!
LISTEN HERE SLICK — I'M THROUGH DOING YOUR DIRTY WORK! YOU CAN GET YOUR OWN SIGNALS FROM NOW ON —
OH YEAH? WELL HOW WOULD YOU LIKE ME TO WRITE THAT LITTLE LETTER
YOU WOULDN'T DO THAT — I'M SQUARE WITH YOU ANYHOW — !!
IS THAT SO — I WOULDN'T EH — WELL YOU JUST SHOW UP HERE WITH THE SIGNALS TO THE MIDVILLE - PIKETOWN GAME, OR THE COACH GETS A LITTLE LETTER TELLING HIM JUST WHO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR HIS LOSING STREAK — NOW GET OUT!!

WHITEBOY
by Garrett Price
SNAKE-FACE DIED FROM THE BITE OF A RATTLESNAKE, PLACED IN THE FOLDS OF HIS ROBE. THERE COULD HAVE BEEN NO WARNING; FOR THE SNAKE'S RATTLES HAD BEEN CUT AWAY. BY THE BODY, IN A SPOT OF CLAY, WAS A STRONG CLUE, THE PRINT OF A BARE FOOT.
WOODCHUCK STANDS IN A BADGER HOLE TO CONCEAL HIS BARE FEET.
— BUT MR. BADGER IS AT HOME —
AH, SO IT WAS YOU?
QUICKLY WHITEBOY TAKES OFF HIS BOOT —
— JUST FITS! I MADE THAT TRACK!
BUT LOOK AT THAT CLAY — IT'S DIFFERENT FROM THE GROUND AROUND IT! I'LL SHOW YOU WHERE IT CAME FROM, AND THE TRACK TOO!
HERE'S WHERE I WALKED THROUGH THE CLAY BEFORE I FOUND MY BOOTS. SOMEONE HAS DUG UP ONE OF MY TRACKS AND TRANSPLANTED IT! — DON'T BE SO DRAMATIC. SNAKE-FACE WAS OF NO IMPORTANCE; BUT SOMETHING HAS TO BE DONE WITH THE GIRL, TO SATISFY THE NATIVES — CUSTOM YOU KNOW.
WHAT OTHER ORDEAL MUST STARLIGHT FACE IN THIS MAD LAND?

LITTLE JOE
GUESS IT'S AT TH' OTHER END-
WE'LL GET ALONG SOME HOW- IT WON'T BE THE FIRST TIME WE'VE HAD TO SCRIMP TO GET THROUGH A WINTER-
SURE- BUT THAT DON'T MAKE ME HANKER TO DO IT AGAIN-
AFTER ALL, WE'LL HAVE ENOUGH TO EAT- WE WON'T SUFFER-
WE'LL MISS TH' THINGS WE WAS COUNTIN' ON AND DIDN'T GET-
WE WORK HARD- WHY DO WE HAVE TO BE POOR?
WE WON'T BE, ALWAYS- PERHAPS NEXT YEAR WILL BE BETTER-
BUT IT SEEMS AS THOUGH WE DIDN'T HAVE ANYTHING-
OH, BUT WE HAVE- AND PEOPLE CAN BE HAPPY EVEN IF THEY HAVEN'T MUCH-KNOCK KNOCK
PLEASE, LADY- KIN I BORRY SOME MATCHES?
WHY-- WHERE IN TH'---? OH, YES- COME IN-
BUT WHERE DID YOU COME FROM? WHERE ARE YOUR FOLKS?
WE'VE JEST MOVED IN- TH' WAGON BUSTED AN' WE'RE STAYIN' IN THAT OLD CABIN DOWN BY TH' CRICK-
THAT CABIN IS A WRECK- HAVEN'T YOU ANY HOME?
NO, SIR- TH' CABIN IS BETTER'N SLEEPIN' UNDER TH' WAGON- AN' MA'S MAKIN' ME A COAT OUTA TH' HORSE BLANKET- GEE- IT WAS COLD LAST NIGHT WITHOUT NO FIRE-
NO FIRE? HOW DID YUH COOK?
OH, THAT DIDN'T BOTHER US- WE DIDN'T HAVE NOTHIN' TO COOK ANYWAY- BUT WE'RE PRETTY LUCKY- PA SAYS THERE'S FISH IN TH' CRICK-
HERE'S THE MATCHES, AND SOME COOKIES- YOU MUST BE STARVED-
GEE- THANKS- I NEVER KNEW RICH FOLKS WERE SO KIND- BUT I'LL TAKE TH' COOKIES TO MA- SHE'S AS HUNGRY AS I AM-
I'LL GO 'ROUND THIS WAY- THEM ROCKS IS HARD ON MUH FEET-
GOOD-BYE! THE POOR KID- SHIVERING FROM THE COLD- WITH NOTHING TO EAT-G'BYE!
BUT HE'S STILL CHEERFUL- WHY, NO MATTER HOW GREAT OUR TROUBLES, IF WE ONLY STOP TO LOOK, THERE'S ALWAYS SOMEONE WORSE OFF-
AND WE'RE GOING TO HELP THOSE PEOPLE, EVEN IF WE ARE POOR-
GEE, MAW- I DON'T FEEL POOR ANY MORE-

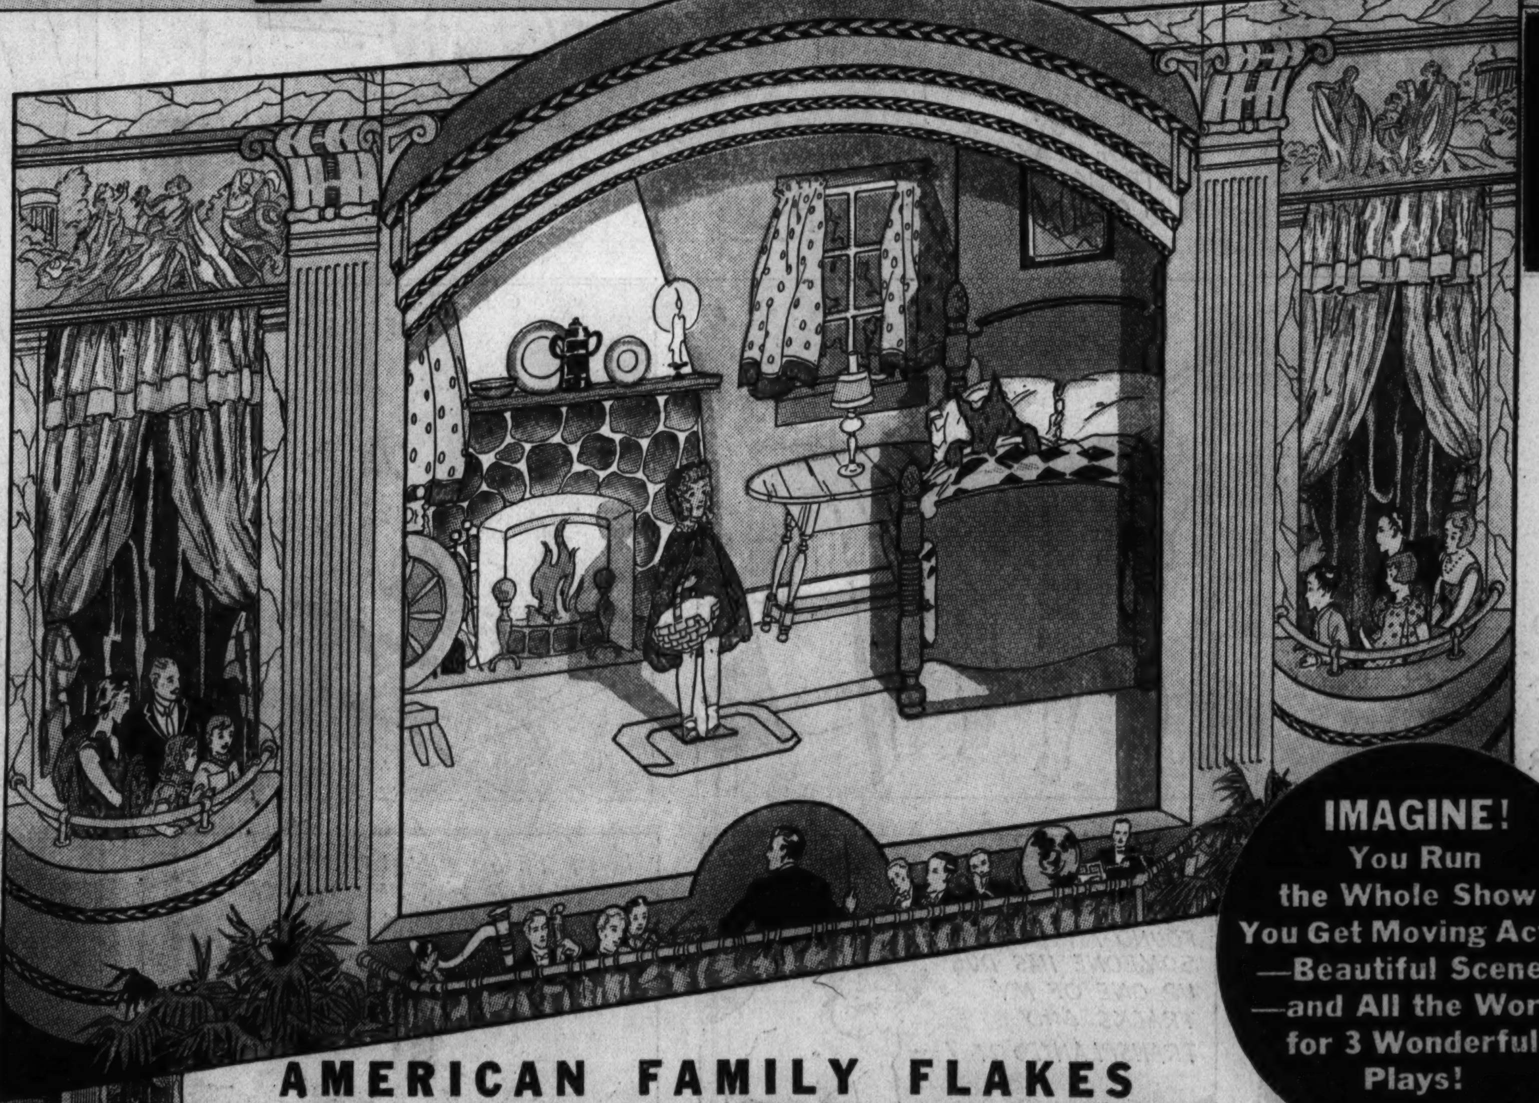
KIDS! GET THIS THRILLING AMERICAN FAMILY THEATRE
Greatest Show on Earth! Fun Galore!
Entertain Your Friends!

ANY KID CAN OPERATE IT!

Imagine what fun you'll have! You can fix the stage, pull the curtains and shift the scenes in a jiffy. Imagine, too, how swell it'll be to direct Little Red Riding Hood in the act where she meets the big, bad wolf. And remember how the Fairy God-Mother turned Cinderella's mice and pumpkin into a beautiful coach drawn by horses? And remember when Little Black Sambo met the tigers? All these scenes and all these characters—plus many more—are in these three wonderful plays. Between the acts there are minstrels you can make sing and dance. Honestly, kids, you've never seen anything to equal this elegant American Family Miniature Theatre.



FOR ONLY 25c
with Two Box Tops off
AMERICAN FAMILY FLAKES

Become the most popular kid in your neighborhood—get this wonderful American Family Miniature Theatre. Every one will envy you. Every one will want to be your friend. Because it's the swellest thing a fellow or a girl ever had. It looks and operates like a loop theatre. You get the stage, scenery (which you change for every act), and you get moving actors and the words to act three grand plays. You operate and direct the whole show yourself. Golly, is it fun! It's easy as pie to do, and just as easy to get. Just take the tops off two American Family Flakes boxes. On one of these tops print your name and address. Then mail or bring them with 25c to American Family, 230 N. Dearborn St., Chicago. Then you'll get your Miniature Theatre. Hurry! Be the first in your crowd to give this honest-to-goodness knockout show!

GRANDMA! WHAT BIG EARS YOU HAVE THE BETTER TO HEAR YOU WITH

AMERICAN FAMILY FLAKES

Why experiment with cheap soap chips when the experience of millions of women is yours for the asking? They've learned the truth about cheap chips. They've discovered that their weak, flimsy suds just won't get the dirt out of clothes. Not so with American Family Flakes! They create the double-suds that do double work—the rich, creamy suds that go after dirt and simply float it away. No strong arm methods are necessary—no tedious rubbing, no extra rinses. Little wonder, then, that Chicago women buy more American Family brand than all other soaps, chips and powders combined! They know "It's cheaper to buy good soap than new clothes!"

Unredeemed Pledges

Consisting of

Diamonds, Watches and Jewelry

WE MAKE LOANS TO PEOPLE FROM ALL OVER THE UNITED STATES.

They come to us from everywhere—to the oldest and most highly respected State Pawners Association in the middle west.

We do not represent new merchandise of inferior quality as unpaid loan pledges. This is a sale of actual unpaid loan pledges. Such an opportunity comes seldom in a bona fide Loan House. When it does you get the benefit. Items like these speak for themselves with those who know.

The weights that we quote are of the center diamond only and do not include the small diamonds in the mounting.

1.00 CARAT BLUE WHITE PERFECT diamond of unusual quality, very brilliant, has appearance of 1 1-3 carat diamond. Set in a modern iridium platinum mounting with 6 blue white diamonds. Our price.$218

.72 CARAT DIAMOND. A BEAUTIFUL BRILLIANT FINE MADE DIAMOND set in a 10% iridium platinum mounting with 16 small blue white diamonds. Our price....$100

DIAMOND BRACELET. A FANCY PLATINUM FLEXIBLE BRACELET set with 117 blue white diamonds and 36 sapphires. A rare value at $335

DIAMOND WEDDING RING—42 BAGUETTE DIAMONDS. Weight about 4 carats. Set in platinum. A very unusual ring. Was formerly worn by one of Chicago's smart set. Original price about $1,500. Our price........$310

HUNDREDS OF OTHER PIECES. PRICED FROM $10 to $3,000.

EVERY ITEM SUBJECT TO APPRAISAL BY ANY APPRAISER OF YOUR CHOICE.

We do not subject you to high sales pressure. The above advertised items are all unpaid pledges, numbers of which are properly recorded as required by law.

Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded

NOTICE TO DEALERS, IMPORTERS

If you are not dealing with us now you know us by reputation. We advise an early selection, for our Unredeemed Pledge sale announcement always brings a large response from dealers—and public.

MARINELLO BEAUTY CULTURE SYSTEM.

MARINELLO LEADS!

No other school even approaches Marinello in the number of graduates now steadily employed.

If it were possible for you to ask each of the 65,000 beauty shop owners in the United States which school they recommend — we are confident that the majority would answer "MARINELLO."

BECAUSE—

1st. The prestige of the name MARINELLO attracts business.
2nd. MARINELLO has graduated 55,000 skiller beauticians in past 33 years.
3rd. MARINELLO nation-wide organization aids you after graduation.
4th. MARINELLO is the largest and the most famous system in the world.
5th. Over 10,000 exclusive beauty shops use MARINELLO Beauty Products.
6th. MARINELLO training is recognized as the most thorough and complete.
7th. MARINELLO guarantees proficiency in beauty culture in every graduate.
8th. Every MARINELLO girl is graduated with the equivalent of at least a year's practical experience.

VISIT OUR SCHOOL

MARINELLO training means THOROUGH training in every branch of the profession, including ZOTOS MACHINELESS PERMANENT WAVING. Because MARINELLO instructs so completely in every phase of beauty culture, the proficiency of their graduates is known and recognized by higher class beauty shops everywhere.

LEARN Beauty Culture and Hairdressing with MME. LOUISE AT DeLEE

You'll find everything you've been looking for in beauty culture instruction, at DeLee; Expert instructors, up to the minute equipment, beautiful light, colorful classrooms, and the "university type" of training, which will prepare you for a BETTER POSITION and a BIGGER INCOME.

MADAME LOUISE, educational director at the DeLEE, is internationally famous as a hairdressing and beauty culture expert without an equal. She is recognized by the profession as the leading authority and is known both in America and abroad for her creative skill in fashioning coiffures for royalty, stage, and screen stars. LEARN BEAUTY CULTURE AND HAIRDRESSING WITH MME. LOUISE AND ASSURE YOURSELF THE BEST POSSIBLE TRAINING.

All Modern Equipment

Only DeLEE is equipped 100% with the most modern, up-to-date machines. Why train yourself in the use of old style equipment, when you can learn the very latest methods with Mme. Louise at DeLEE? When you are graduated the FREE DeLEE Employment Service makes it easy for you to obtain a good paying, pleasant position. DeLEE maintains both day and evening classes, so you can learn even though you are now employed. Previous experience or a high school education is not necessary.

Easy Payment Plan

DeLEE fees are reasonable and payment can be arranged to suit your convenience. Tuition fees are unusually low and a limited number of qualified girls can arrange to start with only a small payment, and then pay for most of their tuition after graduation. Come in and ask about this easy payment plan.

CALL IN PERSON and let us show you through America's most beautiful, most modern beauty school. Talk with Miss Ruby Lorrain Stevens, the DeLEE Dean. She will show you and tell you exactly why DeLEE training prepares you for a BETTER POSITION AND A BIGGER INCOME.

HAVE YOU EVER SAID

"I've taken classical for 5 years and still can't play." . . . Well . . . perhaps you were born to play POPULAR Piano.

Miss Callahan, who directs the popular piano studio at Wurlitzer, provides a training in chord construction and simplified harmony. Easy alike for classical students and beginners. Instead of parrot-like repitition you will be taught how to play your own arrangements in a surprisingly short period of time.

ENROLL NOW!

If you are not completely satisfied after your first lesson, the price of it will be cheerfully refunded. New! Different! No course quite like it in Chicago. Apply Miss Callahan, 4th flr., Wurlitzer, 329 S. Wabash-av.

HELP WANTED—MEN.

Miscellaneous.

ARE YOU SUCCESS-MINDED?

Your state of mind may be worth nothing to us or we may pay you profits on it amounting to thousands of dollars during the next year. We have noted carefully, nation-wide and world-wide, that the men who make money in this business are men who have not been crushed with adversity, and who do not feel that the world is against them or owes them a living without work. It makes no difference what past experience has been, because we have men between these four walls who represent as former occupations, civil engineering, tool and die making, teachers, mechanics, milk wagon drivers, upholsterers, tailors, salesmen, builders, contractors, managers, actors, farmers, engineers, railway men, umpires and pretty nearly all else you can name.

There are men right here who draw commission checks, including bonuses, ranging from $50 up to $100 and $150 for a week's work—but this means a real week's work. Yet there is no investment, nor is there any season. There has never been a time in the success-history of this big business, with its many electrical unit and specialty plants in various parts of the world [there are three in the United States and Canada alone], when men newly coming into this business started right in to make the amount of money these new men are making today. Here is one business that not only survived the depression but fattened under it, and is racing back to high ground years before general industry. It is a permanent business, is never in danger of saturation and does not impose any harsh conditions on any men whom we accept after an interview.

There are men right here in Chicago who are driving good automobiles, dressing well, taking the best care of their families and building for a future, who started in this work with just enough spark of optimism to see them through to the first check they received. This naturally means that such men have character, because character is both standing well with those who know you, and being able to overcome the obstacles that are strewn in your path. We want and help make optimists, and sometimes men as old as 50 or over succeed if they have health and stamina, but usually we prefer men from 25 to 50. The majority of men who call to see us have grit, courage, ambition. We want married men preferably, although some single men, with home responsibilities measure up splendidly.

We shall not tabulate or catalog the men in this business who are making money—and very good incomes. They are here and you can meet them. We say, ready to back up this statement and all others we make, that we have plenty of men—lots of them—right here in Chicago and its suburbs—who make from $50 to well over $100 a week—and some who make more—and we have other men who are just getting started, who make from $25 to $40 a week. It depends on the man and his adaptability to grasp the facts we teach him, and his power of persistence. Of course, a man who left his pride and ambition in some dead past is going to make a cemetery of his brain and a cortege of his dull thoughts and bury them—but the man who believes that there is still a future for everybody who is able to think and work, is going to learn this business, be happy in it and be independent. What's more, he is going to be prouder of his independence and money-earning power here than he ever was in his past occupation. There he spent years and money to learn a trade, business, or profession—while here he establishes himself in earnings quickly and very soon adds to those earnings, without investment, because very successful men train and coach him! We don't claim this to be Utopia, but you are not morally or mentally knocked down and dragged out in this business. You are built up and encouraged and aided in gaining increasing success.

The work we have open is specifically for the west side and western suburbs. These positions are immediately open. However, we do not take snap judgment on any man who comes in to see us. We expect to find out through going over matters with him if we believe he is adaptable. He must like us and like this business or else he will not succeed, and we wish men to succeed, because they are profitless to us as well as themselves without this success. We have no merchandise or securities to sell and ask for no deposits. If a man earns, he makes money for us, and we set up no ruinous competition against him. Therefore, if you wish to go into this thoroughly and are inspired to talk it over with us, call for a personal interview from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m., Monday, November 5th, suite 329 at 9 South Kedzie avenue. Men accepted are eligible for the success columns this week! You pass no examinations and are not placed on any waiting or deferred list. This opportunity is for NOW!

Use Our Money and Be Your Own Boss.

A new invention, an electrical product, exclusively patented, with an increasing sales demand, as important as sanitary drinking cups, cellophane, pasteurizing of milk, inspection of meat, etc., has created a vast money making field for intelligent and sincere men.

No Investment.

We supply the merchandise, pay the rent, place you where the business is and pay you weekly. Without one penny invested many Chicago men are earning substantial incomes and establishing themselves in a permanent business.

The successful facts that we will present to a few intelligent men suggest the statement that no man who will work hard and become skilled in our business need be in the "Army of Unemployed."

A. G., a comparatively new man, was paid recently $76.45; another green horn drew $99.52; another man with us for seven years and who has established a good clientele, earned $154.45, and another man with us three years drew $119.89—the above figures represent cash comm. and bonus paid to our men for one week's work, and the longer a man is with us the greater his opportunity is because of his ability to build a good will business. However, new men can immediately earn between $38 and $75 a week.

We are not interested in the "gold headed cane" man or the "has been swivel chair executive," but will give our consideration to the sincere hard worker with or without experience. We will discount sales experience in favor of a genuine desire to learn, work hard and make good.

In Chicago we have specialty sales executives of great prominence and successful experience and their training will be very valuable to you in getting established in this business.

We need a few courageous and determined men, and this may be your great opportunity. We will grant each sincere applicant a personal interview if you qualify. Investigate Monday. Room 1019 Mather Tower, 75 E. Wacker-dr., at 11 A. M. or 3 P. M. only. Ask for Mr. Welsh.

SEVERAL PERMANENT POSITIONS ARE now available to men with cars calling on our customers through our appliance department; good earnings on percentage basis paid weekly and ample opportunity for advancement to those who can qualify. Must be between 25 and 45, with responsibilities, and have local references. For appointment apply employment department, 11th floor, Monday, 9:30 to 10:30 only.

HELP WANTED—MEN.

Miscellaneous.

MEN.

If you live on the South Side or South Side suburbs, let me set you up in a profitable business of your own, backed up by our prosperous company.

I have been on this territory exactly nine months and have already set one hundred and ninety-seven men up in business for themselves between Cadillac, Mich., and Mattoon, Ill., and still have twenty-four opportunities left.

I am in control of this territory of a business unique in character, merchandising an electrical unit that has no competition, for which there is an ever increasing demand.

If in a personal interview you can satisfy me that you are honest, reliable and trustworthy and really have a desire to succeed, willing to study and are teachable, you may be the very man I am looking for.

Our business is very profitable. Many of our associates are earning as much as $50 on a percentage basis in a single day, and after they become experienced handling our business receive a sizeable monthly income, not regulated by the seasons, as ours is a year round business.

Selling experience not necessary, for if you are selected you are thoroughly trained at no expense to you. Some of our most successful associates never sold anything before joining us.

We stand all expense of your business, such as rent, light, heat, telephone, help, etc., and in addition to giving you merchandise on open account carry all of your time payment paper.

You do not invest one cent with us. We finance everything.

Our business is depression-proof, as same has increased every month of the last four years, with 1933 our busiest year. We have thousands of satisfied customers in the territory and are considered one of the country's outstanding organizations. There are no strings connected with this offer, and if you can meet the above requirements you will be granted a personal, confidential interview which will quickly determine our mutual interests.

Apply Monday between 1 and 3, Suite 404 Maryland bldg., 841 E. 63d-st. [1 block east of Cottage Grove]. Ask for G.A.Buckley

REAL ESTATE—FARM LANDS.

Alabama.

FARMERS IN BALDWIN COUNTY, ALAbama, are fortunately located; desirable climate, productive soils, good home conditions, abundant rainfall. Several thousand carloads of early produce are shipped to northern markets annually, growers receiving cash at shipping points. The early crops are followed by second crops on the same land. Baldwin County is a proved good, prosperous, general farming, live stock, poultry and trucking region. About eighty per cent of the farmers in lower Baldwin are from the North. Good land still available at reasonable prices. For illustrated literature, write E. J. Hoddy, General Development Agent, Dept. B-92, Louisville & Nashville R. R. Co., Louisville, Ky.

California.

IN CALIFORNIA SMALL FARM HOMES beat the depression. Such homes are the solution for many of our economic and social problems. Less working hours per week make it possible to derive a good part of the living for the average family from a small tract. California offers this opportunity, where many varieties of fruits and vegetables are grown the year round. The Small farm Home is a proven success in many localities in California. The Santa Fe Railway has no land to sell, but offers free information service to help you get right location. Low fares to California. Write for illustrated Southern California folder and our farm paper "The Earth," free for six months. C. L. Seagraves, General Colonization Agent, Santa Fe Railway, 900A Railway Exchange, Chicago.

Elegance emanates from this generous family platter, yet the foods themselves are simple. Flanking roast stuffed chickens we have whole tomatoes, hot buttered cauliflower and broccoli flowerets, baby carrots, and asparagus tips. At either end there sits a fried potato basket mounded with chubby fried potato balls. Ripe olives and watercress provide cool relief, while mushrooms, cut lemons, and truffles rise between the drumsticks. Not fried, it's true, but something equally luscious to conjure up when fried birds grow too familiar.

Cooking Editor Referees Current Controversy Over Fried Chicken a la McCutcheon

By MARY MEADE.

CHICAGOLAND, it seems, is still up in arms about fried chicken. Ever since John McCutcheon began the rioting with his own version of this famous dish shouts of approval and cries of dissent have been rolling in from readers all over the country. Some argued for Mr. McCutcheon and some against him. Most have offered their own interpretation of the way a fried chicken should look and taste. But, whatever their slant, all and each have given evidence that the subject is very near to the seat of emotion—the stomach.

The fact is, there is no "right" way or "best" way of preparing chicken. Our methods vary with the region, our traditions, and our individual tastes. Usually the term "frying" is applied to a food which has been cooked in a hot pan containing a little fat, or in a larger quantity of deep hot fat. When we add liquids and steam the birds in the oven the picture becomes more that of a smothered or baked fowl.

But titles always do not follow out our solemn definitions. Mr. McCutcheon's recipe, which appears in the box on this page has its own peculiar quirks and kinks, yet for generations this very dish has been known in some sections as "country fried chicken."

Peppers Added to McCutcheon Recipe.

In support of the McCutcheon version we have a letter from Winnetka, Ill. It reads: "Mr. Mc's recipe is perfect except for one thing. I add one or two dozen whole black peppers during the frying. This is a German touch and adds a great deal to it."

Another view of the matter comes from Marcellus, Mich. A letter from up that way advises: "Country fried chicken is begun and finished on top of the stove. Use half butter and half lard. Cook slowly, after browning, for ½ to ¾ hour."

But, if you really want to have yourself a time and net a porterhouse steak as well as a fried chicken out of the deal, then take a tip from a Dubuque contributor who does the deed this way:

FRIED CHICKEN IN STEAK DRIPPINGS.

"It is necessary to begin the day before, by securing a porterhouse steak of about 1½ pounds and a piece of suet about as large as a medium sized orange. Slowly render the suet until crisp. Remove the solid bits from the pan and fry the steak to suit the diner. Then add a tablespoon of butter and turn the steak twice before serving. Don't make pan gravy. Cover the skillet and set aside for the following day when the chicken is to be fried. Joint the chicken, wash carefully and dry with a clean towel. Roll lightly in flour and fry in the residue of the steak drippings. You will have fried chicken that will surpass anything you have tasted ever before in your lifetime."

COUNTRY FRIED CHICKEN

A la McCutcheon.

Dress and joint the chickens the day before they are to be fried. Put the joints in cold salt water for at least an hour, then put them on ice. Before frying, roll each piece lightly in flour and fry in ⅓ butter and ⅔ lard. Add salt and pepper after the pieces are in the skillet. Fry slowly until brown. Then put all the pieces in a roaster and pour a little water over them, also some butter. Cover the roaster and keep it in a slow oven and steam for an hour to an hour and a half. Add a little more water, if needed, to keep the pieces from getting dry. Add to a lightly browned (not too thin) cream gravy all the scrapings from the skillet and roaster.

Skillet Is Major Item.

"But," argues a Chicago reader, "it's not the chicken and method so much as the skillet which counts in good fried chicken." To quote: "The fried chicken controversy has been interesting, but the most important point of all has been overlooked. Regardless of the recipe, one cannot fry chicken perfectly unless a skillet or a pan is used which is thick and heavy enough to spread the heat evenly, allow for slow cooking, and prevent the meat from drying. For frying chicken you can't beat the old-fashioned cast iron skillet that grandmother used to use. The deeper it is, the better."

So you see that when we get into this business of frying chicken we turn up an endless array of possibilities. The most important point of all, however, is that chicken demands a moderate temperature or it will lose its juiciness and become stringy and dry. The general cookery rule is: High temperature at first for a short time to brown the chicken, then lower temperature to finish the cooking and develop the flavor.

We are at liberty to fry chicken just as it is, or to roll it in seasoned flour, sifted crums, crushed ready-to-eat cereal, corn-meal, potato meal, or batter. If your soul loves a smooth, crisp crust, dip the pieces first in flour or crums, then into an egg beaten with a tablespoon of cold water, then again into flour or crums. The speediest way to coat the pieces is to put the dry coating material into a large paper bag, drop in the pieces, a few at a time, and shake.

Batter Gives Crisp Crust.

If you're a deep fat frying enthusiast you will choose the French frying method for your chicken. In this the pieces usually are coated with batter which is made by beating together until smooth 1 cup of bread flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 2-3 cup milk, and 2 eggs. The temperature of the fat should be 375 degrees F., hot enough to brown a bread cube in 40 seconds.

I suspect that many dishes have been improved by the experiments of modern cooks, but I have yet to find a method which better suits most tastes than that employed by dusky slaves 'way back in 1639. As my own contribution to the argument, may I present

MARYLAND FRIED CHICKEN.

Cut a young, cleaned chicken into about twelve pieces, dividing the breast and back. Season each with salt and pepper, then roll in flour. Dip them next into an egg which has been beaten with 2 tablespoons of water. Finally sift fine, dry bread crums generously over the pieces.

Meanwhile, in a heavy skillet, try out the fat from ½ pound of salt pork, cut into small cubes. When all the fat has been cooked out, remove the solid bits of pork and arrange the chicken sections in the hot fat. When they are lightly browned, turn down the burner and allow the chicken to cook slowly, covered, for about an hour, turning the pieces often to brown them evenly. When the chicken is tender, transfer it to a hot platter and prepare the gravy. For this, add to the fat in the pan an equal amount of flour. Blend until smooth, then add gradually 1 cup of cream (not milk). Season with salt and pepper and serve the gravy over the chicken or in a separate gravy boat. To secure a crisper brown crust, uncover the frying pan during the last 20 minutes of cooking.

While the refereeing of a fried chicken squabble is rather a ticklish business, roast chicken should present no controversy.

When the bird has been cleaned, stuffed, and trussed brush it lightly with cooking oil or melted fat. It is better not to use butter for this purpose, since the salt and water in it tend to make the skin blister. Put the bird, uncovered, into a hot oven (475 degrees F.) to brown. Then reduce the oven temperature to low (275-300 degrees F.), cover the bird, and cook until done. If a soft, tender skin is preferred put a half cup of boiling water into the roasting pan before covering it.

Cider Gives Autumn Flavor.

If you like the flavor and aroma of late fall harvest time use hot cider or ginger ale instead of the hot water. Modern roasting pans and ovens have made basting unnecessary. Allow 28 to 30 minutes per pound.

Rice is a grand extender for chicken in this recipe from the southland:

CHICKEN PILAU, SOUTHERN STYLE.

2 young fowls, raw, cut for serving.
2 tablespoons chopped onion.
1 cup chopped celery.
2 tomatoes, sliced.
⅛ cup butter.
2 cups uncooked rice.
4 cups chicken broth.
1 green pepper, chopped.

In a large, heavy saucepan melt the butter and brown the onion, celery, tomatoes, and green pepper. Add the rice and the raw chicken, blend, and season highly with salt, pepper, and curry powder, if desired. Now pour over this the chicken broth, which may have been made from bouillon cubes or taken from cans. Cover the pilau and cook for about 40 minutes, or until the chicken and rice are tender. Use a low burner to avoid scorching.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Invalids with the Double Worry of Poverty and Ill Health Request Articles to Provide Comfort; Can You Fill Any of Their Needs?

If you are in need, perhaps I can help you. If you have household articles or clothing you no longer use, please let me place them with needy families. Address correspondence to Sally Joy Brown, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

By Sally Joy Brown.

"Life is mostly froth and bubble,
Two things stand like stone,
Kindness in another's trouble,
Courage is our own."

ADAM LINDSAY GORDON.

THIS wise little verse strikes me as being decidedly "more truth than poetry." I am often amazed at the courage displayed by people in trouble. This seems particularly true of invalids who bear the double burden of poverty and illness. Today, I present a few letters illustrating the needs of several people in this group, with the hope that readers will be able to bring them such small comforts as they request.

"Dear Miss Brown: If some reader has a large fish bowl for which she has no further use, I would be most grateful for it. I live comfortably in an old people's home, but have no income and, since I am deaf, my little fish are great company for me. A friend will call for the bowl, if you are able to secure for one."

"Mrs. E. J."

If you've tired of your aquarium, wouldn't you like to pass it on to this elderly woman who is shut off from so much by her infirmity?

"Dear Miss Brown: I have been reading your column and I wondered if some of your readers have discarded yarn that I could use to make hooked rugs. I am crippled and unable to get work, and this would help me pass some of my time and perhaps even earn a little money. C. S."

Here are two requests for easy chairs.

"Dear Miss Brown: I have never asked for anything, but my husband and I are old people in our sixties, and his pay is too small to buy anything but necessities. I would like to know if some kind person has a rocking chair of any type. We haven't a single easy chair, and as I have severe sick spells, it is difficult to sit in straight chairs. My curtains are completely worn, and I would appreciate some discarded ones. Mrs. C. L."

Mrs. L. Lives on the northwest side of the city.

"Dear Miss Brown: My brother, an invalid, is much in need of a reclining chair, as his back troubles him severely. If any reader has such a chair, I will be more than glad to call for it."

"R. L."

S. J. writes from a suburb: "My mother has been a bedridden invalid for almost five years, and as her right arm is paralyzed, she is unable to do anything to occupy her time. I would appreciate it very much if your readers could give her discarded magazines or some pamphlets from the World's Fair. We are in a critical financial condition, and cannot spend much money for recreation for mother."

From the far south side comes this appeal: "Dear Miss Brown: I have read of so many people receiving help through your column that I think probably you can aid my daughter.

"She is an invalid and unable to work. Her talent for drawing is remarkable but, due to our circumstances, she has never been able to study art. Do you think we could secure some discarded books on drawing or designing for her? Mrs. M. R."

Parents Should Save Time to Listen to Child

If Door Is Shut Once on Confidences, Offspring Won't Soon Offer Them

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

"WHEN there's a lot of company you're supposed to go anywhere but in the living room to do your home work—and, anyhow, there's a lot of noise there, with a lot of people around, so you can't think. Of course, you can go to your own room . . . but that's sorta lonesome—and, besides, if you strike a snag there's no one there to help you."

With these thoughts running through his head, he gathered up his books and trudged upstairs to grandmother's room. He knew his grandmother liked to have him come up there to do his home work. They always got along well, and she didn't mind stopping, if she was reading or sewing, to answer any questions he might ask.

This evening she was knitting when he opened the door. She looked up with her welcoming smile. She moved the lamp forward on the table so they could both have plenty of light on

Father Insists on Latin Study at Any Cost.

Tom dumped his books on the table, pulled up a chair, opened his Latin, and settled down. Long quiet reigned; then violently the book was pushed aside.

"I hate Latin! I hate it! I wish it had never been invented. I'll never be able to do it—it doesn't matter how hard I study."

His grandmother laid down her work.

"Doesn't it go any better than it did last month?"

"Nope—worse if anything."

"Why don't you talk it over with your father?"

"I did, grandma—don't you remember?"

"But I mean again—since you've had your last report."

A discouraged look passed over the boy's face.

"O, what's the use? I know what he'd say. He'd say: 'We've been all over that once, Tom, and settled it. I want you to take four years of Latin. We've always been Latin scholars in our family. We spent a lot of time talking it over, and I can't waste any more time rehashing all that,' and then he'd go on reading his paper. That's the way he was about my wanting to try for track instead of football—until I broke my collar bone. I could tell him what Dr. Johnson said if he'd only just listen."

Teacher Not as Harsh as Parent.

"Is that your Latin teacher? What did he say?" asked the boy's grandmother.

"He said that he thought I'd given Latin a fair trial, and that he'd advise me to give it up for a modern language or some other subject. What a relief that would be! Latin sure gets in my hair! What use is it, anyway?"

This led to a long talk between Tom and his grandmother about school and education in general and the value or lack of value in the various high school subjects.

As the boy went back with a sort of dogged courage to his Latin he remarked:

"Well, grandma, I sure am glad you have time to listen to all my yowls about school."

Trivialities Often Fill Many Valuable Hours.

Don't be too busy when these times come. Almost always your busyness is not as important as you think it is, or as your child's need of you. If you're always too busy to stop for these intangible things you will be slowly closing a door between yourself and him. This he himself will unconsciously sense—or express in some such phrase as "O, what's the use of telling mother or dad? They wouldn't listen," or "They wouldn't understand."

Most of us know what it is to be busy, tired, harried—with no much leisure. Unfortunately our lives are lived largely that way. Still, if it's only ourselves we're cheating, it isn't so bad. But when we have children we must live on a looser schedule, so that we can leave gaps of unplanned time for them or be able often to put aside the affair of the moment even if it throws things out—like letting the dinner dessert go unmade, or dropping your mending for another day, or letting the breakfast dishes stand, or closing your book at an absorbing chapter. If your child needs you at that moment, and you see that he can wait for no other, give yourself fully to listening or helping him.

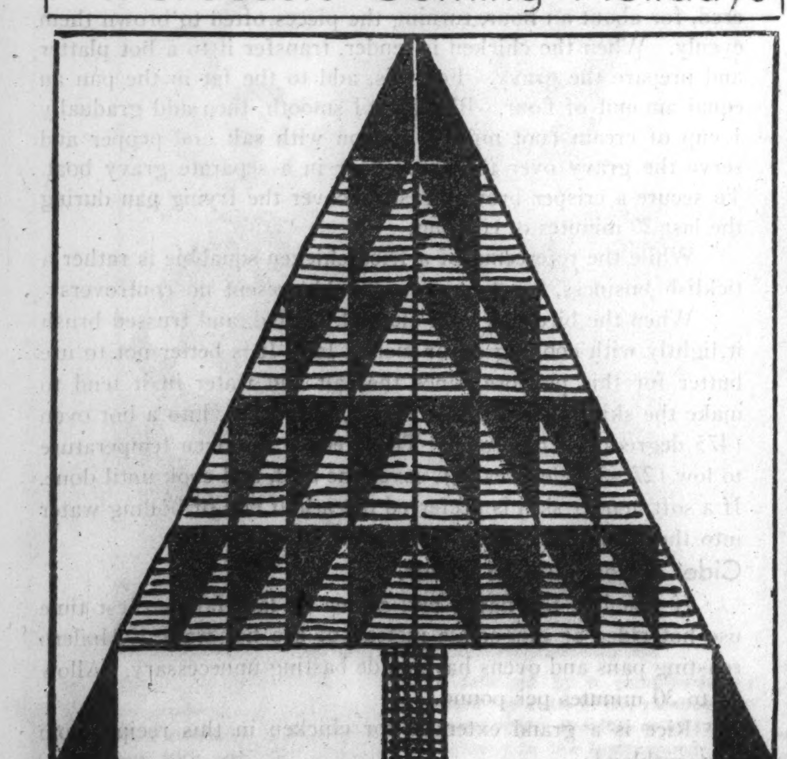
Pine Tree Quilt Pattern Forecasts Coming Holidays



Pine Tree.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

By Nancy Cabot.

PINE tree quilts are especially appropriate at this time of year, with the holidays rapidly approaching. However, this particular "Pine Tree" pattern is lovely and effective for any time of year, with its color scheme of rich green, pine cone brown, and soft yellow. This combination pieced and applique block possesses a modern touch which is so desirable this season. Only fourteen applique blocks are necessary for an entire quilt, and the pattern is one of those which work up with ease and rapidity.

Demureness and Elegance in Teatime Frocks

By Rhea Seeger.

WITH darkness falling early and noon tea drinkers, the season a thousand candle lighted tea tables drawing smart after-opens officially for some of the most interesting clothes of the fall wardrobes. We refer to the new afternoon dresses that are either demure models of semi-tailored wools, more befrilled affairs to complement highly feminine personalities, or long skirted costumes, usually glittering with gold and silver threads.

Street suits come in glorified versions for afternoon wear . . . radiant blouses under lavishly fur trimmed jackets and coats. Long, slithering dull crêpe skirts, or the same slinky models in soft velvet, are topped either with long tunic blouse or with snappy separate cocktail jacket, cut and fashioned exactly like a man's tweed sports jacket. Other clothes that stop in for tea or a cocktail that will make you hasten to spend your cash are the cleverly tailored new lace costumes in dark colors high-lighted with gold threads. These flattering laces are made with long sleeves, with high collars and sleekly fitted streamlines. They can double for dinner dresses and for Sunday night suppers with equal effectiveness.

Black dull crêpe, knowingly contrasted with brocade or lame, is almost a uniform for certain women who know just how slimming and youthful a faultlessly fashioned one piece dress can be when a master designer stresses a silhouette and uses shimmering bits of brocade for accent.

Four distinctive models from one recent showing have been sketched, four different styles featuring all the newest details, materials, and silhouettes. In the frock at the left rather old-fashioned trick shirrings, or ruching, are used to trim the demurely high round collar and the hemline. Center, left . . . black dull crêpe in almost classic simplicity, with long sleeves and an open neckline revealing a shimmering vestee of white crêpe banded with gold. Center, right . . . a long tunic blouse made with a distinct flare—it reaches the knee and is belted in tightly with a wide stitched belt. At right . . . dark cocoa brown lace, with the patterns outlined in gleaming gold thread, fashions one of the most picturesque and practical new lace costumes for afternoon.

Acknowledgment Made to Wedding Correspondence Gets Explanation.

By Helen Bartlett.

OUT of the mail sack!

Mr. M. P. writes: "I have been informed that when accepting a wedding reception invitation which is inclosed in a small self-addressed gummed envelope one need only write his or her name and address on the back of the card and return by mail, and that it is then used as a place card. Is this so?"

To be quite frank, I have never known or heard of this custom. According to all the etiquet authorities with which we are familiar, there is nothing about such a practice which conforms to the accepted rules of society. In the first place, an invitation, such as one to a formal wedding reception, which incloses a self-addressed envelope for reply, is rather insulting to the intelligence of the guest.

Formal Invitation Requires Response in the Same Form.

Another thing is that a formal invitation should be given a similar response, formal and in the third person. And about the place cards: That seems a thoroughly impossible idea. There are some invitations which are sent out to two persons . . . Mr. and Mrs. Jones. The cards then would be signed Mr. and Mrs. Jones. Such a signature could not very well be used on a place card. In the first place, it would be one card for two people and, in the second, Mr. and Mrs. Jones are never seated beside each other.

The only correct way of acknowledging a formal invitation to a wedding reception is to send a formal response, either an acceptance or a rejection. This should be written in longhand on the first page of folded white notepaper. The lines should be evenly spaced, and each line centered on the page as nearly as possible, all in the best penmanship:

MR. AND MRS. JOHN JONES
ACCEPT WITH PLEASURE
MR. AND MRS. HERBERT HOWARD'S KIND INVITATION FOR TUESDAY, THE FIRST OF JUNE

Wedding Announcement Does Not Necessarily Call for Gift.

Another letter, from Mrs. T. N. S.: "Will you advise me whether or not a wedding gift is required when one receives an announcement of a marriage?"

No, Mrs. S., you are in no way obliged to send a wedding gift. However, if you are an intimate friend of the bride, and would like to remember the newly married couple, you certainly may do so. What you are expected to do is to write a friendly cordial letter extending your best wishes to them both. Or, if they are living in your community, the correct thing to do would be to make a call upon them.

Questions pertaining to etiquet and correct social behavior are invited. For a personal response inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope with your letter. Address mail to Helen Bartlett, Etiquet Editor, Chicago Tribune.

Combination Door Gives More Light for the Kitchen

TO make a dark kitchen a little lighter it is possible to install one of the new combination glass and window outside doors. These are handsome in appearance and have the advantage of allowing more light to enter a kitchen.

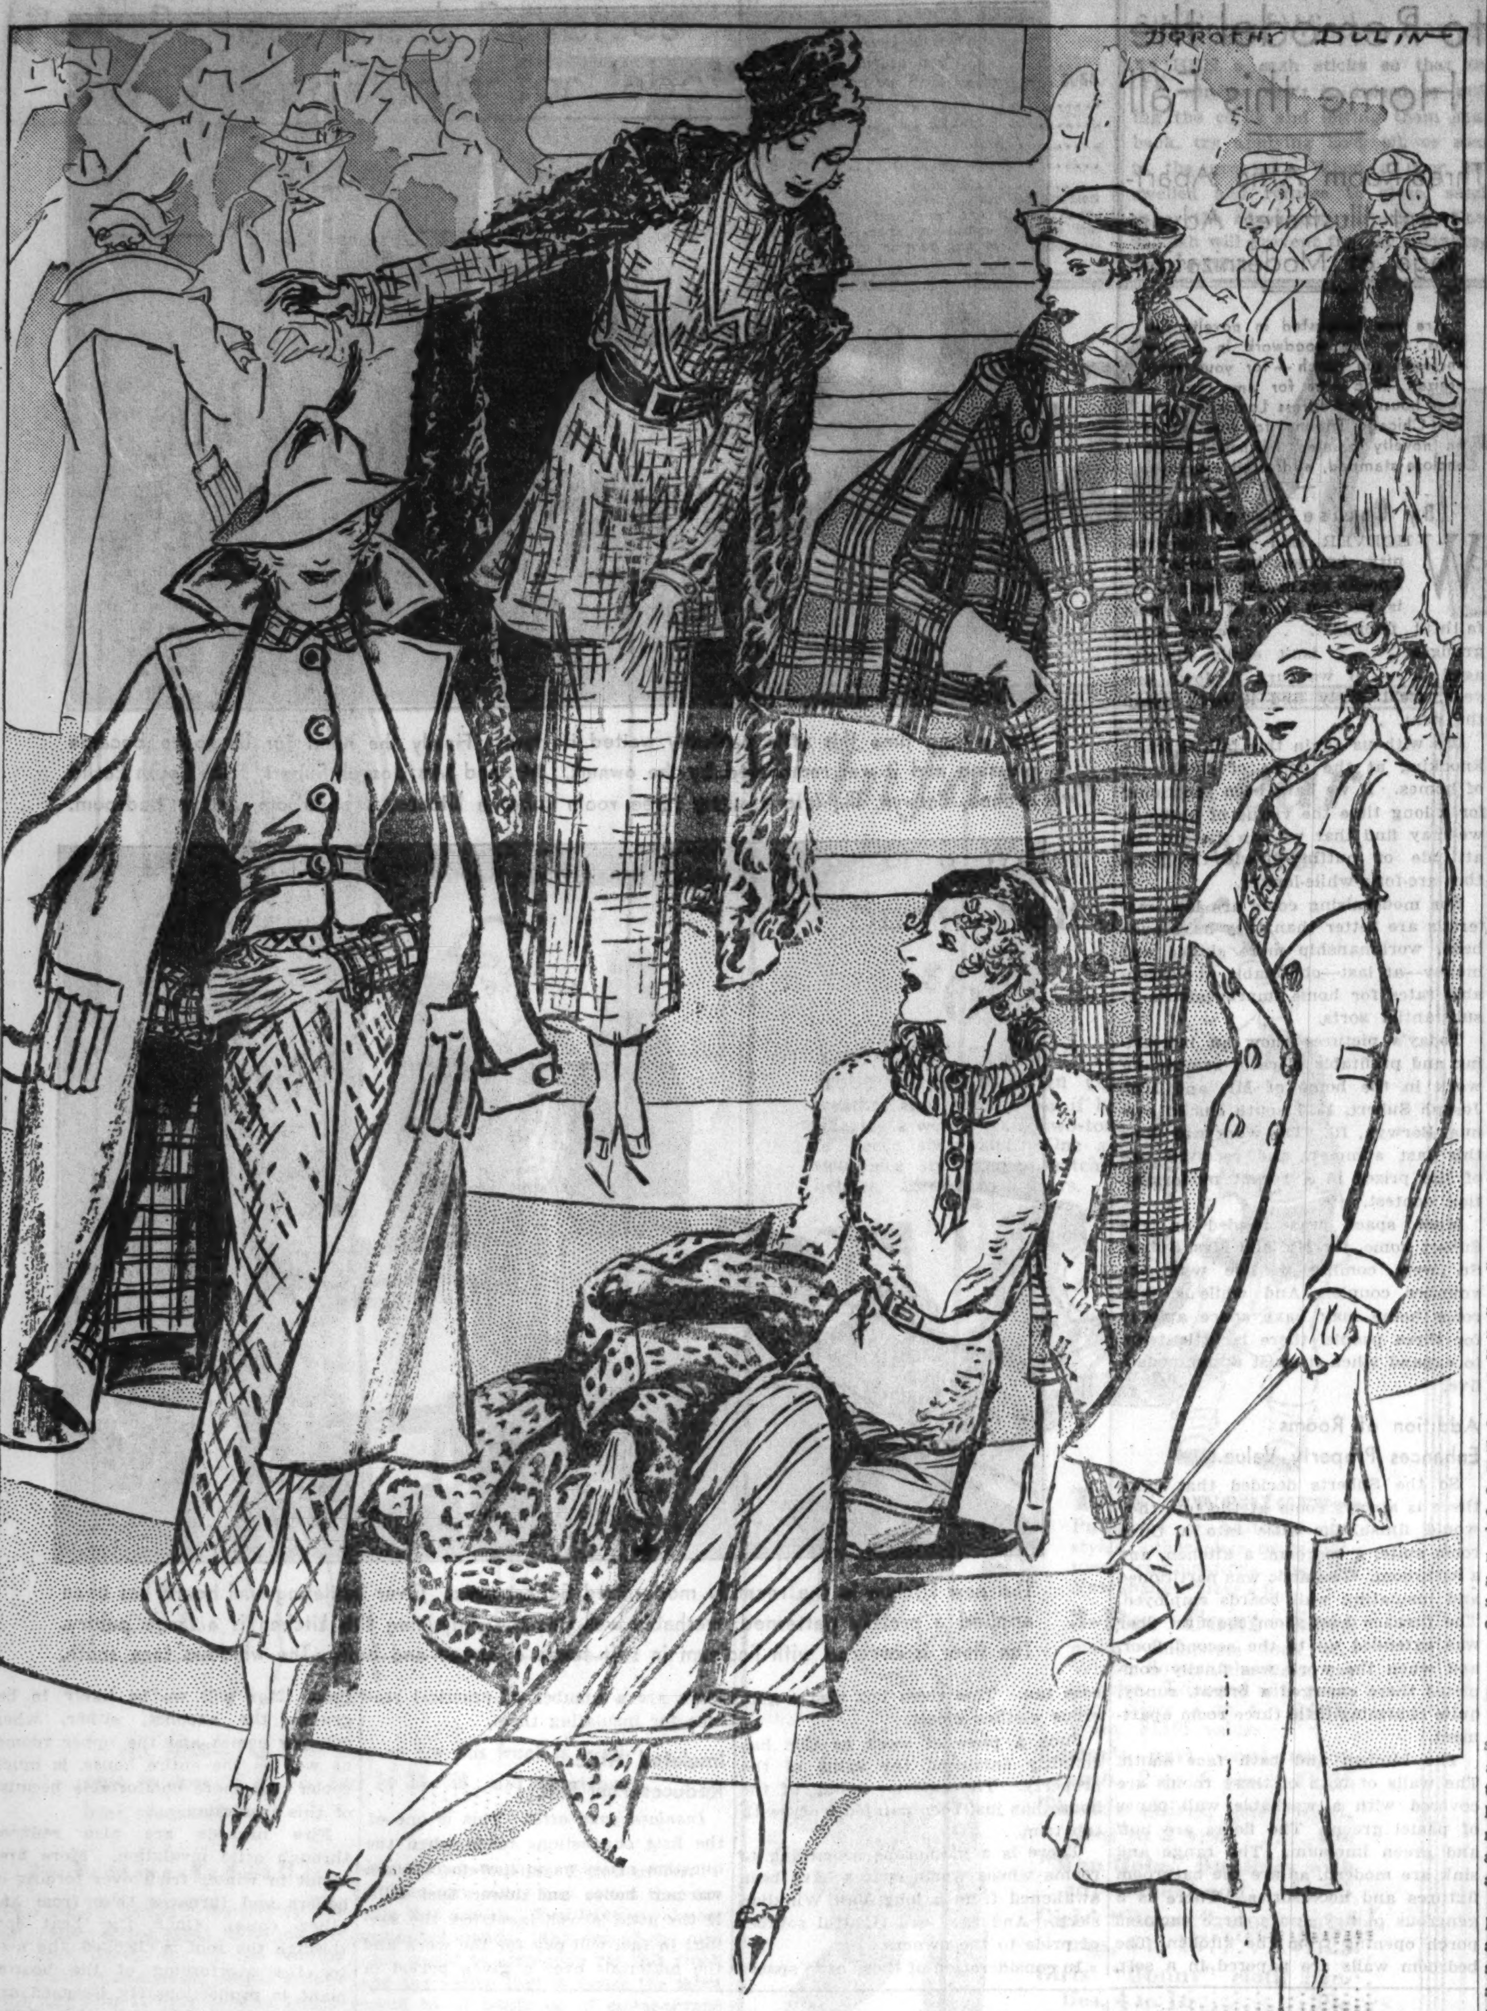
Home Treatment For Keeping Skin Young

MERCOLIZED WAX is the one beauty aid you can afford because this single preparation embodies all the essentials of beauty that your skin needs. It cleanses, softens, bleaches, lubricates and protects. It is so simple to use, too. Just pat it on your skin each night as if it were an ordinary cold cream. That's all. Mercolized Wax seeps into your pores and dissolves grime and dust and all impurities. It absorbs the discolored surface skin in tiny, invisible particles, revealing the beautiful, soft, young skin that lies beneath. It clears away freckles, tan, oiliness, sunburn or any other blemishes. You use such a tiny bit of Mercolized Wax for each application that it proves an inexpensive beauty investment. Beauty cannot be taken for granted. It must be cared for regularly if you want to hold it through the years. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin.

POWDERED SAXOLITE dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel quickly reduces wrinkles and other age signs. It is a refreshing, stimulating astringent lotion. Use it daily. At all drug and department stores.

SCORING IN THE FASHION LINEUP



SKETCHED IN PARIS BY A STAF ARTIST.

Paris Insists Sports Clothes Remain Simple

Rules Luxury Furs from Grandstands; Three-quarters Coat Oked.

By Bettina Bedwell.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—Sports in name only, incredibly rich and dashing ensembles are entered in the class of sports fashions here in the United States. We ignore French restrictions on fox and mink and such hothouse furs, and muffs, veils, and such things are not barred. White wolf and even fox make collars for coats that sit in the grandstands and viewing places of this land, whereas in Paris white fur daren't show before 5 o'clock duck of a fall afternoon.

Sports coats in the four star style class, however, pay more attention to the French standard. Three-quarter length swagger coats made of Scotch-born tweed, plaid blanket wool, and such sports furs as nutria, lapin, muskrat, and leopard are swanky and have been liberally indorsed. Shorter butcher boy coats in leopard, nutria, and lapin are sports coats that can be worn around the town too.

Sports Dress with Tunic a Topnotcher.

Sports dresses are pretty gay, too. The two piece dress that has a tunic blouse, or a sweater blouse worn à la tunic, is a topnotcher. It comes in patterned velveteen, a material unheard of in Paris for such clothes. Rough, clokylike knitted two piece dresses are on tap, and extremely smart. Giddy plaid velveteen and woolen tunic or shirtwaist blouses and plain or flecked tweed skirts are sports outfits that are strong here. Sweater blouses with broad turtle necklines, which button and can be worn two ways, made of brushed wool or cashmere, are united to plain or patterned tweed skirts and make knockout sports frocks. One piece dresses in strong, giddy colors with choked up hanky necklines are chic. They run to real sporting shades like reds, bright blues, and coppery fall greens. Narrow split or kick-plait skirts are featured on most of these dresses.

Crushed Crowns, Feather Quills Important Hat Details.

Sports hats come in brimmed felt shapes with important crushed crowns and feather quills or plain ribbon trimming. They come in dashing, high topped caps and toques that are made of felt or fur, and they come in a new toreador shape that turns up all around and is made of felt.

Some of the sports outfits that are homegrown and Paris made and that are extremely chic this season are shown in our drawing. At the left is an American designed sports ensemble with a three-quarters length coat of rusty, nasturtium brown Scotch tweed, lined with brown, bright dark green, and gray plaid velveteen. It has raglan sleeves that go into a yoke along the back of the shoulders, cartridge plaited pockets, and wide, dashing revers and collar. The sports vest is made of the same tweed.

Second from the left, background, is a knitted tunic dress in bright clear red. It looks like woven matelasse woolen and is trimmed with smooth, knitted zigzag bands. It has a crushed black lether belt. The tunic is cut like a Russian peasant's blouse, and the black astrakhan toque also carries out the Russian effect. A black astrakhan cape is worn over this dress.

Creed Typifies the Paris Sports Mode.

The figure in the center, foreground, is wearing a brushed wool tunic sweater blouse of deep gold, with the new extra wide, extra deep turtle neck. It can be unbuttoned and worn open. The slim skirt is made of diagonal wool in black and gold, and the baby leopard swagger coat is a plain, classic, knee length type.

The two figures at the right show the Paris type of sports clothes. In the background is a sports ensemble from Creed, with a jacket, cape, and skirt made of Scotch woolen plaided in brown, red, and blue. The straight skirt has a center front seam with a plait near the bottom. The wrist length fitted jacket has a square neckline and a big turnover collar. It buttons on four buttons made of braided lether and the cloth. The cape fastens on in epaulets at the shoulders and can be taken off when you like. The neckline is filled in with a scarf of brown cashmere wool.

The suit at the lower right is a Creed sports suit made of violet blue tweed. It fastens on six blue lether buttons. It is belted in back and the straight skirt is split at both sides.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

By Eleanor Nangle

One of the secrets of a complexion with the velvety softness of lily petals is the use of a liquid foundation cream in a tint that matches the skin. It assures a suave makeup and protects from the ravages of wind and cold. Some women omit powder with its use.

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo: Posed by Betty Hayden.]

Liquid Makeup Foundation Gives Velvety Finish and Skin Protection.

THE well groomed, knowing woman would no more step out of doors sans benefit of a makeup foundation than she would without shoes. It's come to be one of the cosmetic necessities, especially when summer has said its adieus and complexions aren't too satiny anyway.

We find that women are as strong-minded in their choice of foundations as they are about lipstick shades. Some swear by lotions, some by creams. And the creams may be thick or thin.

If you've a pet, and if it seems to keep your complexion on straight and to enhance the finished effect, all is well. But if you're seeking one, let us make a suggestion.

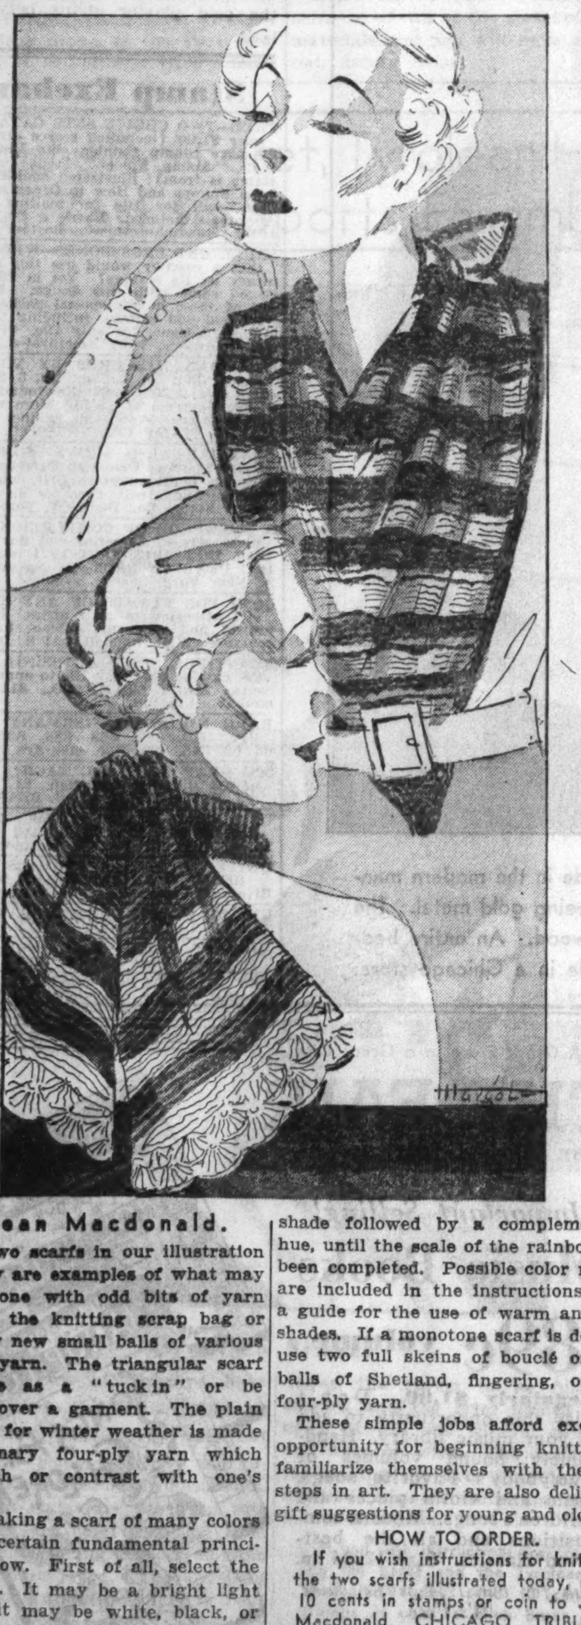
This is a liquid cream and not brand, spanking new on the market. But it deserves enthusiastic mention right now when winds are threatening skin suavity. It is one of the loveliest powder bases we have ever found. Because it is a liquid cream it spreads on easily and without breaks. Using it before powdering wards off the ravages of exposure, but, what is more important from a glamor standpoint, it gives an exquisite finish, faintly luminous.

Some smart ladies we know use this liquid finishing cream and skip powder. They're the one with beautifully chiseled features who can get away with a suggestion of shine. Most of us had better not risk it.

Powder over it looks suavely flattering. Like powder, it comes in a range of four shades, so that you can have perfect harmony . . . white, flesh, cream, and tan.

If you've been wondering why your rouge and powder looked a bit off and why your nose became shiny half an hour after you carefully made up, a foundation may give you all the answers. And this liquid cream, in the right shade, will seem like manna from heaven.

Knitting Scrap Bag Will Yield Materials for Bright Scarfs



By Jean Macdonald.

THE two scarfs in our illustration today are examples of what may be done with odd bits of yarn from the knitting scrap bag or with a few new small balls of various shades of yarn. The triangular scarf may serve as a "tuck in" or be worn tied over a garment. The plain knitted tie for winter weather is made from ordinary four-ply yarn which may match or contrast with one's ensemble.

When making a scarf of many colors there are certain fundamental principles to follow. First of all, select the basic color. It may be a bright light shade, or it may be white, black, or brown. Or it may be a combination of eight colors, beginning with a strong shade followed by a complementary hue, until the scale of the rainbow has been completed. Possible color ranges are included in the instructions, with a guide for the use of warm and cool shades. If a monotone scarf is desired, use two full skeins of bouclé or four balls of Shetland, fingering, or any four-ply yarn.

These simple jobs afford excellent opportunity for beginning knitters to familiarize themselves with the first steps in art. They are also delightful gift suggestions for young and old.

HOW TO ORDER.

If you wish instructions for knitting the two scarfs illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Jean Macdonald, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago. Be sure to send name and address with your letter.

THIS WEEK IN THE GARDEN

Monday, Nov. 5.

Carrots, beets, and other root crops may be kept in the cellar if covered lightly with sand or soil. Covering keeps out the air, the roots remaining in good condition without shriveling until wanted. As fast as vegetable plants are through growing remove and destroy them. Leaving old materials on the ground simply invites insects and fungi to infest the soil.

Spray oleanders and other cellar plants before they enter winter quarters.

Tuesday, Nov. 6.

Plant all kinds of spring flowering bulbs while the weather is fit. Try some of the small bulbous plants for naturalizing along the edges or borders of shrub beds in the perennial borders. The grape hyacinth, glory-of-the-snow, quills, and crocus will do well in a well drained, sandy soil. The crocus, especially, soon break up in a heavy soil, seldom giving good and abundant bloom the second season.

The early planting of narcissi is recommended, for the bulbs have an opportunity to become established before severe weather. King Alfred is one of the best, for the clumps will increase in size each season and give quantities of bloom for cutting.

Wednesday, Nov. 7.

The begonia makes a fine house plant. One of the finest flowering kinds is the B. semperflorens in variety. The ornamental leaved varieties include argentea guttata, Rex, maculata. Lucerna and President Carnot are beautiful in flower or leaf. Give a light soil, garden loam, a little sand, and leaf mold.

Lift a few parsley plants, as the new growth will be welcome during the winter. The plants may be placed in a light basement window. Fall plowing is good practice, for the action of frost will kill many insects and give an easily worked, mellow condition in springtime.

Thursday, Nov. 8.

Be sure to have a window full of plants, for they brighten up the long, wintry days. See that flowering plants do not dry out. More potted plants are ruined from underwatering than from any other cause. Potted plants, especially flowering plants, will last longer in a cool location than in a hot, dry situation. Cut flowers likewise do best when kept cool.

Pot and cut chrysanthemums are now available. "Mums" require copious watering or they will soon dry out. Examine them each morning. If green fly is noticed, spray with recommended preparations obtainable at supply houses.

Friday, Nov. 9.

Continue to plant shrubs, and trees, and perennials that are recommended for fall planting. Consult the nurseryman when ordering and be sure to include a substitute list in case a few items are not available. Do not have too many trees in the yard and do not plant them too near the house. Free circulation of air around the house is healthful.

Saturday, Nov. 10.

The following are excellent shrubs to attract birds, because of the fruits: Red chokeberry, gray dogwood, barberry, Cornelian cherry, hawthorn, bush honeysuckle, coralberry, snowberry, sumac, matrimony vine, and viburnum.

3417—Junior girl's dress. Sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years. Size 15 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material, with 5/8 yard of 39 inch contrasting.
3293—Woman's and miss' dress. Sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2 1/4 yds. 39 in. material, with 1 7/8 yds. 39 in. contrasting.

Major Chic of Two Frocks Is Above the Waist

By Clotilde.

PATTERN No. 3417 will make up into a smart dress, and it will be one you'll want to wear often.

The shoulder yoke is slightly caped, and note how interesting it appears in the small sketch of the back view, showing short sleeves. But you probably will choose long sleeves for this time of the year, and those sketched belong to the dress, and will be smarter for it than the usual plain, closely fitting ones. The neck is simply bound, and a large bow and buttons make smart trimming.

The fitted peplum slims the hips and narrows the waistline, and the plain, closely fitting skirt, flaring properly at the bottom, completes this attractive dress. If green is becoming, choose a sheer woolen in bottle green, and repeat this shade in the buttons. For the bow use plain brown taffeta. It isn't a difficult dress to make, and if you press each part well as you go, first removing bastings, you should find the work easy and the finished dress quite perfect.

Isn't the dress made by pattern No. 3293 wonderfully pretty? The bodice, of a contrasting color and material, is cut with large armholes and the sleeves below the elbow are closely fitting. The neck at the front is softly draped, and a narrow bias binding finishes the neck all around.

Turn in the sides of the bodice an even seam's width, and lay in place over the tops of the sleeves. Baste and stitch close to the edge. If you prefer short sleeves, the pattern provides for them.

The skirt extends up on the bodice at the center front, really forming the bottom of it in front, and across the back a slightly crushed belt, fastened with a fancy buckle, finishes perfectly.

The skirt is cut on sheathlike lines, but flares beautifully as the bottom is reached, making it exceedingly graceful. It is one of the loveliest dresses for afternoon wear for which any one could wish. The original dress was made of black silk crêpe, topped by silver lamè, giving charming above the table interest for bridge. Black in combination with turquoise blue, vivid coppery red, or gold silk crêpe are other lovely schemes.

With these patterns there is a clearly illustrated chart with directions for assembling, and you will have no trouble in making these frocks.

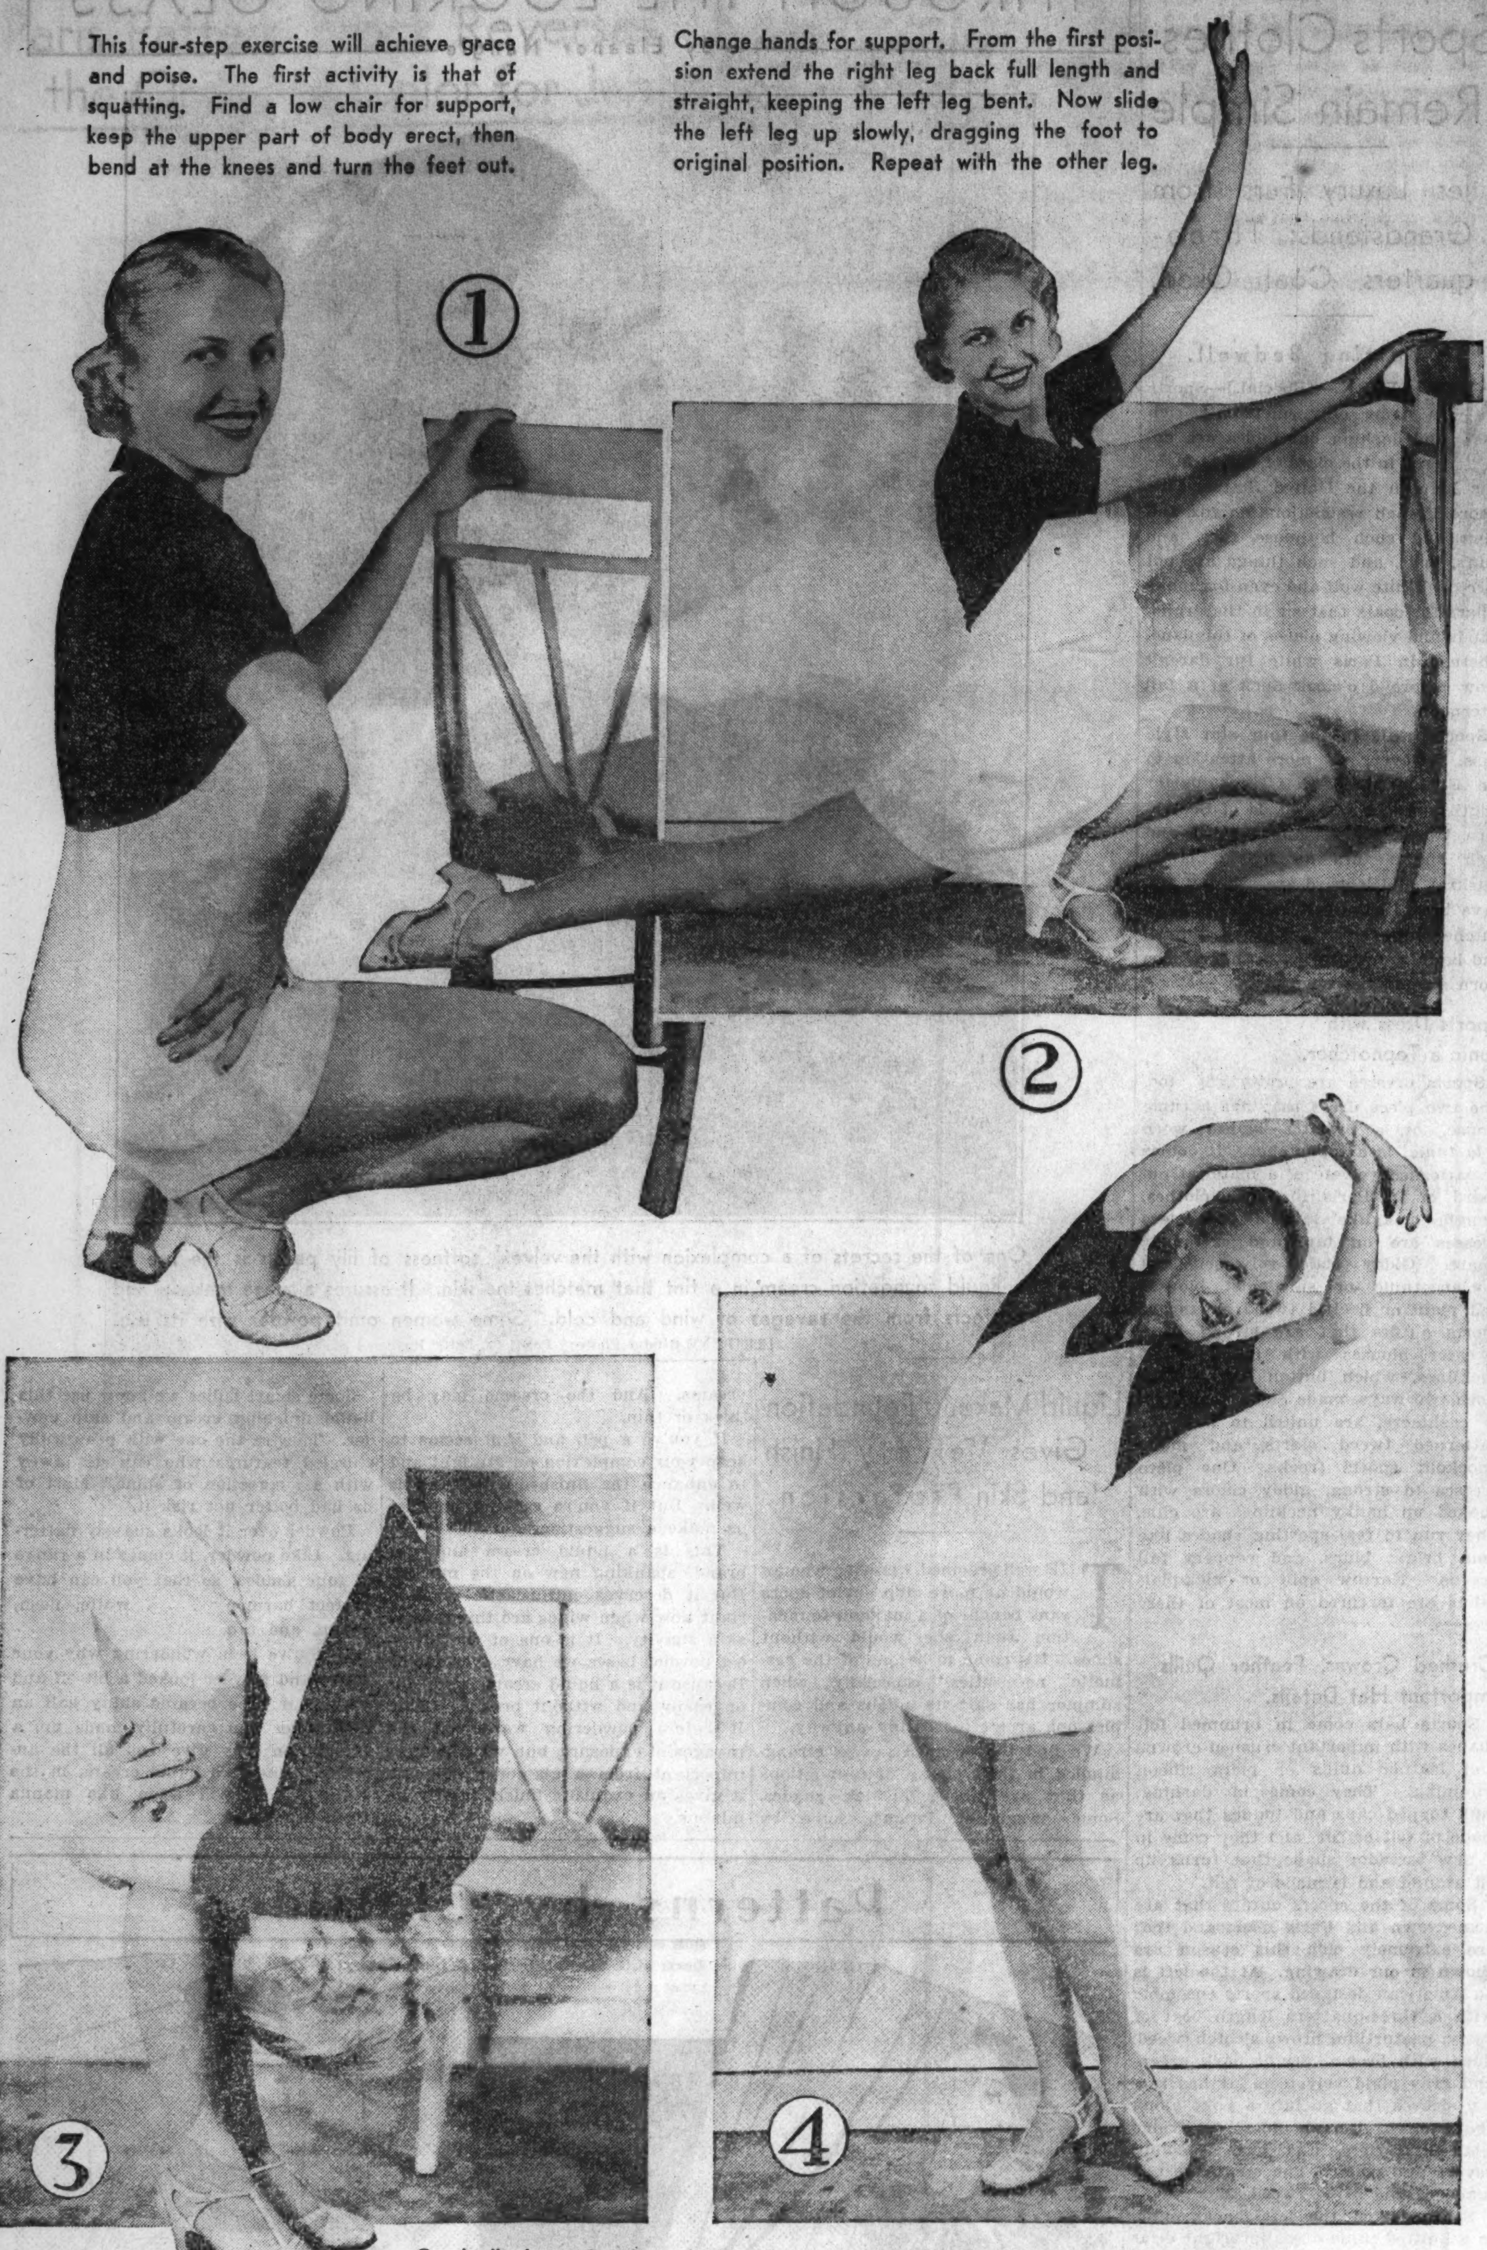
DANCE FLOOR PERFECT FOR LEARNING GRACE

This four-step exercise will achieve grace and poise. The first activity is that of squatting. Find a low chair for support, keep the upper part of body erect, then bend at the knees and turn the feet out.

Change hands for support. From the first position extend the right leg back full length and straight, keeping the left leg bent. Now slide the left leg up slowly, dragging the foot to original position. Repeat with the other leg.



Gradually bring hands behind knees, touching knees with the head.

The final step in the grace-producing and rhythmic exercise is a practice in posture for the upper body. Extend the arms over the head. Roll the upper body around and around, pivoting from the waistline. One knee may be flexed during the exercise to maintain essential balance.

By Antoinette Donnelly.

THE dance floor should be the perfect beauty setting. It IS the perfect beauty's setting. By the same token it becomes the imperfect beauty's Waterloo. All her weaknesses of posture, motion, grace-critical audience. Audiences at tables weaknesses of posture, motion, grace, are observed by a critical audience. Audiences at tables are a hawk eyed and merciless tongued group. They have to keep up a running fire of conversation. The dance floor occupants supply the material. It has been observed by those on the sidelines that for one couple gliding without apparent effort, affection, or distortion, there are twenty couples who create anything but a pleasant picture. The latter are stiff, unwieldy, jumpy, giggly, awkward, or doing their steps in so exaggerated a way as to attract attention.

With help in mind for the stiff, the muscle-bound, the awkward, the generally unattractive dance floor performers, I approached Miss Florence Rogge, director of the ballet at Radio City Music hall. Miss Rogge has had a world of experience "staging" girls for effective dance floor pictures as well as instructing them in the art of the dance. She enumerated certain of the dance floor errors commonly practiced by participants in ballroom dancing. You might check them over and see if you are hurting your appearance any way.

"Any sort of exhibitionism on the floor is not in good taste. This would include exaggerated positions while dancing, as bending a great deal, dipping a great deal, and that collegiate sillyism of walking around talking, doing tricky steps to call attention.

"Instead of following around in one direction, dancing all over the place, bumping into people, is another offense against taste, to say nothing of feelings.

"Dancing on the heels was a vogue for a while, but it is out now. Shuffling feet is another foot handling not done by the best dance floor patrons.

"Putting the head on the partner's shoulder makes a bad silhouette line for the girl, with her lower back projecting prominently.

"Doing or knowing only one step, or two, to which one tries to fit all music, waltz, fox trot, and tango, is bad form.

"Holding oneself with military stiffness is awkward, when what is wanted is an erect posture. Cultivate being 'at ease,' relaxed, the feeling of floating lightly around."

Graceful lines, in Miss Rogge's good judgment, are more important than trying to cut intricate figures. But what is most important of all is that you be limber of muscle, with the body in such complete and perfect control that once you step on the floor the music makes you forget you are flesh and bones, hands and feet.

THE STAMP COLLECTOR

By Richard McP. Cabeen

The fifth booklet of the series on United States commemorative stamps is now on sale at 5 cents by mail or 3 cents at Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street, or Tribune Tower. It is entitled "Discovery and Settlement Stamps, 1909-1928," and describes all stamps issued in commemoration of such undertakings, from the Hudson-Fulton issue of 1909 up to and including the Hawaiian issue of 1928. If questions are asked when ordering booklets, inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

THE stamp issued in 1928 to commemorate the battle of Monmouth and known to collectors as the Molly Pitcher stamp, stands lowest in the ranks of United States stamps. Suggestions for this stamp were made over a year before the anniversary date, June 28, 1928, but they were turned down and it was a complete surprise to all when the stamp made its appearance Oct. 20 of that year. There seems to be no record stating why the department reversed its ruling and finally issued the stamp, nor why it should have resorted to an overprint when there were paintings in existence showing the incident of Molly Pitcher acting as a cannoneer, nor finally why it should have been issued several months too late.

Since there was no advance notice given, the sales of the stamp amounted to only about 10 million copies, and it has promise of being scarce within a very few years. The stamps were made by overprinting the current 2 cent value with the words "Molly Pitcher" in two lines. The printing of the stamps was on the rotary presses and the overprint was added at the same time by a secondary roller such as is used in precanceling stamps. Plates 19070 and 19071 were used. The perforation gauges 11 by 10½.

Little America Cachet.

The Little America Times will sponsor a cachet on Nov. 29, the fifth anniversary of Admiral Byrd's first flight to the south pole. Send covers, not to exceed two, stamped and self-addressed, but unstuffed and unsealed, to August Horowitz, editor, 265 West Chester street, Long Beach, N. Y. Covers will be mailed at New York and must be on hand by Nov. 25.

Newspaper Wrappers.

The postoffice department has announced that newspaper wrappers will be eliminated from the list of stamped paper carried in stock as soon as supplies now on hand at offices are used up. The manufacture of wrappers was discontinued about a year ago and all on hand in subagencies have been distributed.

Club Notes.

The Chicago Air Mail society, which holds meetings on the second Friday and fourth Monday of each month, follows an unusual plan for their meetings. Those who care to, attend dinner at 6:30 p. m. at the address given, following which the program commences at about 8:30 p. m.

The La Salle County Stamp club has adopted some features in its organization for the ensuing year which should be considered by other similar community clubs. In addition to the regular officers the club has elected a vice president and an assistant secretary from each of the membership centers in the county. This enables the club to transact local business and arrange meeting places, etc., without unnecessary consultation with the principal officers. This club has also entered subscriptions to some of the weekly stamp papers in the name of the public library in each of five cities in the county, and at its last meeting voted to become identified with the National Federation of Stamp Clubs.

The annual open house meeting of the Chicago Philatelic society will be held on Jan. 18, 19, and 20, 1935, in the clubrooms at the La Salle hotel. The features will include an exhibition, a bourse, an auction, banquet, etc.

It's Economical to Remodel the Home this Fall

Three-Room Attic Apartment Illustrates Advantage of Modernization.

Are you interested in novelty finishes, for the woodwork in a new enclosed sun porch — for your modernized attic — or for any room in your house? Address Louise Bargelt, The Chicago Tribune, for free leaflet on novelty painted finishes. Please enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

By Louise Bargelt.

WHOEVER said that opportunity knocks but once? It knocks again and again . . . is in fact one of our most faithful friends . . . never bears grudges . . . isn't easily discouraged . . . if we turn it down one year, we'll likely find it back again the next. . . .

It's with us again this fall, literally knocking at the doors of thousands of homes. If we have been practicing for a long time the virtue of patience we may find that we can discard the attitude of putting-up-with-things-as-they-are-for-a-while-longer.

For modernizing costs are low, materials are better than they have ever been, workmanship more skilled and money—at last—obtainable at reasonable rates for home improvements of substantial sorts.

Today's pictures show an interesting and profitable piece of remodeling work in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Subert, 1516 South Euclid avenue, Berwyn, Ill. The work was done this last summer, and received one of the prizes in a recent modernization contest.

More space was needed in the Subert home, for Mr. and Mrs. Subert Sr. were coming to live with the younger couple. And while a four room home may have space aplenty for three people, there is little room to expand when it must accommodate five.

Addition of Rooms Enhances Property Value.

So the Suberts decided that since there is always room at the top, they would finish the attic into a three room suite; a bedroom, a kitchen, and a bathroom. The attic was partitioned and insulating wall boards employed. The furnace heat from the first floor was extended up to the second floor, and when the work was finally completed there emerged a bright, sunny, quite charming little three room apartment.

The kitchen and bath face south. The walls of both of these rooms are covered with a washable wall paper of pastel green. The floors are buff and green linoleum. The range and sink are modern, as are the bathroom fixtures and accessories. There is a generous pantry and a large enclosed porch opening from the kitchen. The bedroom walls are papered in a soft, rose tan. This room has also a generous clothes closet.

Such a piece of work as this has definitly enhanced the value of the property. The exterior siding of the house has just been painted ivory with tan trim.

There is a glamorous something to rooms whose waste spaces have been awakened from a long Van Winklian sleep. And they are rightful sources of pride to the owners.

In consideration of these attic spaces there are a number of practical reasons for insulating them.

Insulated Attic Reduces Fuel Bills.

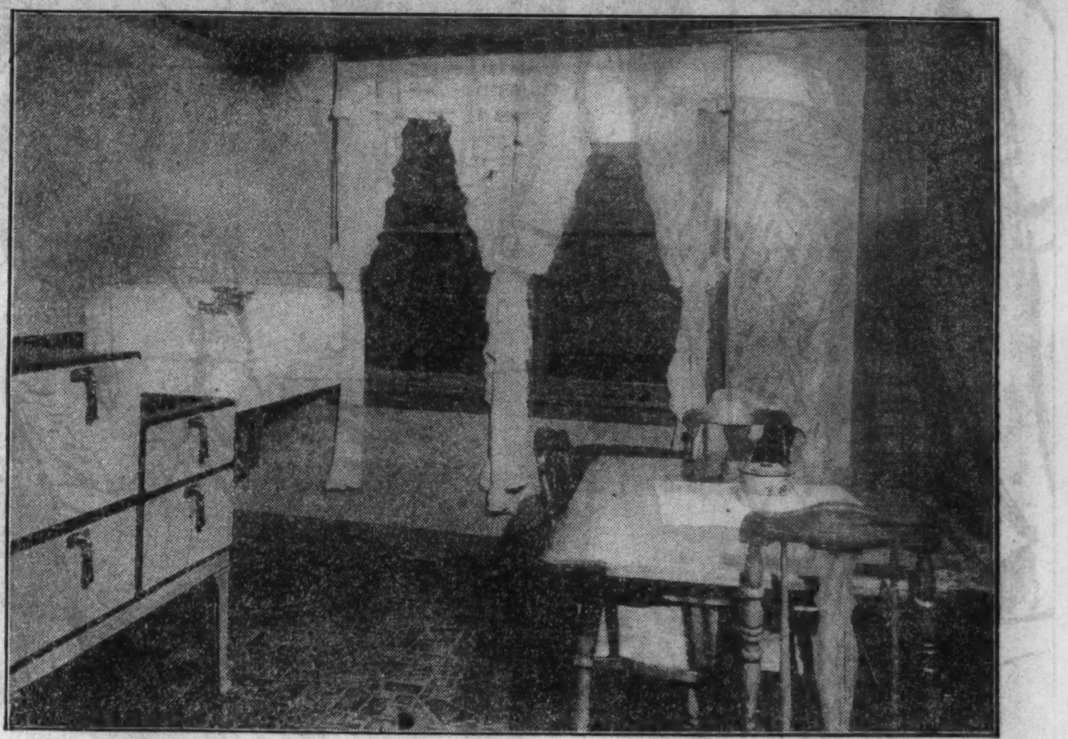
Insulate your attic. This is one of the first suggestions made when the question arises as to how to obtain a warmer house and lower fuel bills. If the attic is well insulated, the savings in fuel will pay for the work and the materials over a given period of time. Nor will we be likely to begrudge the expense, either, when summer comes and the upper rooms, as well as the entire house, is much cooler and more comfortable because of this insulation.

Fire hazards are also reduced through attic insulation. More fires result in winter from over forcing of boilers and furnaces than from any other cause. Once the heat loss through the roof is checked, the need for the overforcing of the heating plant is proportionately lessened and the danger of fire from this source greatly minimized.

Again, redecorating costs in rooms beneath the roof are often lessened. This is true when wood lath has been used for the uninsulated top floor ceilings and lath marks appear from the depositing of dust and dirt on the cold plaster strips between the lath.

FROM GARRET TO KITCHEN

For a long time this attic patiently waited its turn. Finally the need for its space became pressing and it was remodeled by the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Subert, 1516 South Euclid avenue, Berwyn, Ill., into a sunny three room suite: a kitchen, a bathroom, and a bedroom.



The new kitchen in the recently modernized Subert attic. Over insulating wall board has been applied a prettily patterned, washable wall paper. Adjoining this kitchen is a large pantry. The floor is covered with linoleum in soft tones of green and buff. The windows face south.

Fall Stimulates New Discussion of Furniture

Winter's Approach Brings Flurry of Questions from Alert Householders.

"Beautiful Bedrooms," a booklet by Edith Weigle, gives helpful suggestions for furnishings and tells how to make old rooms look new. It is 3 cents by mail, 2 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby. Miss Weigle will speak over W-G-N Tuesday at 2:30 p. m.

By Edith Weigle.

FURNITURE, apt to be a bit neglected during the summer months when gardening, golf, tennis, and the whole outdoors beckon, is coming into the spotlight again now winter is almost here. We have received so many letters in the last few weeks that we are going to answer some in this column today, hoping to help other readers who have more or less the same problems.

First, the photograph of the good looking, simple chest of drawers and mirror is in answer to a woman who says she wants modern pieces in her new bedroom, "but not too modern, please." She can get a whole set of this charming light holly wood, made by a Michigan firm known for its excellent workmanship. The drawer handles are of gold metal, interesting in their design. The mirror is framed in a circular piece of the holly which shelves down to the glass, and is a separate item from the chest. There are no legs on this bureau. It rests on two solid planks of the wood itself—another unusual feature. A Chicago store is selling this entire bedroom ensemble, which I saw originally at the Merchandise Mart.

Now, for the questions:

"Dear Miss Weigle: Would you be kind enough to inform me where I can get ideas for furnishing a modern apartment? If there are any books in regard to this would you mention them, also?—L. J."

The stores are simply full of ideas for decorating the modern apartment. I can't think of a single Chicago department or furniture store of any size that is not showing model rooms, or whole model apartments, done in the contemporary decore. A visit to these beautifully furnished interiors will show you just what can be done with 1934 styles.

Two books by Derek Patmore, "Color Schemes for the Modern Home" and "Modern Furnishing and Decoration," are published by the Studio Publications, Inc., 381 Fourth avenue, New York City. Each is fairly expensive, but beautifully illustrated in color.

"Dear Miss Weigle: I have always hesitated before buying veneered furniture. Do you think solid woods are to be preferred to ones with veneered surfaces?—C. T. G."

No, frankly, I do not. Veneering has reached such a high stage of development today that it is perfectly safe to expect it to give a lifetime of service. There is no danger of warping or cracking in fine veneers. And only through them can you have the beautiful grained effects; the crotches, the swirls, and the butts of the woods.

Solid woods are excellent when properly kiln dried, but sometimes this process is hurried, with a resultant warping and checking of the wood. So there is danger from solid as well as veneered pieces of furniture.

HOLLY AND GOLD METAL

This interesting chest of drawers, made in the modern manner, is of white holly, the hardware being gold metal. The mirror above is framed in the same wood. An entire bedroom set of this furniture is available in a Chicago store.

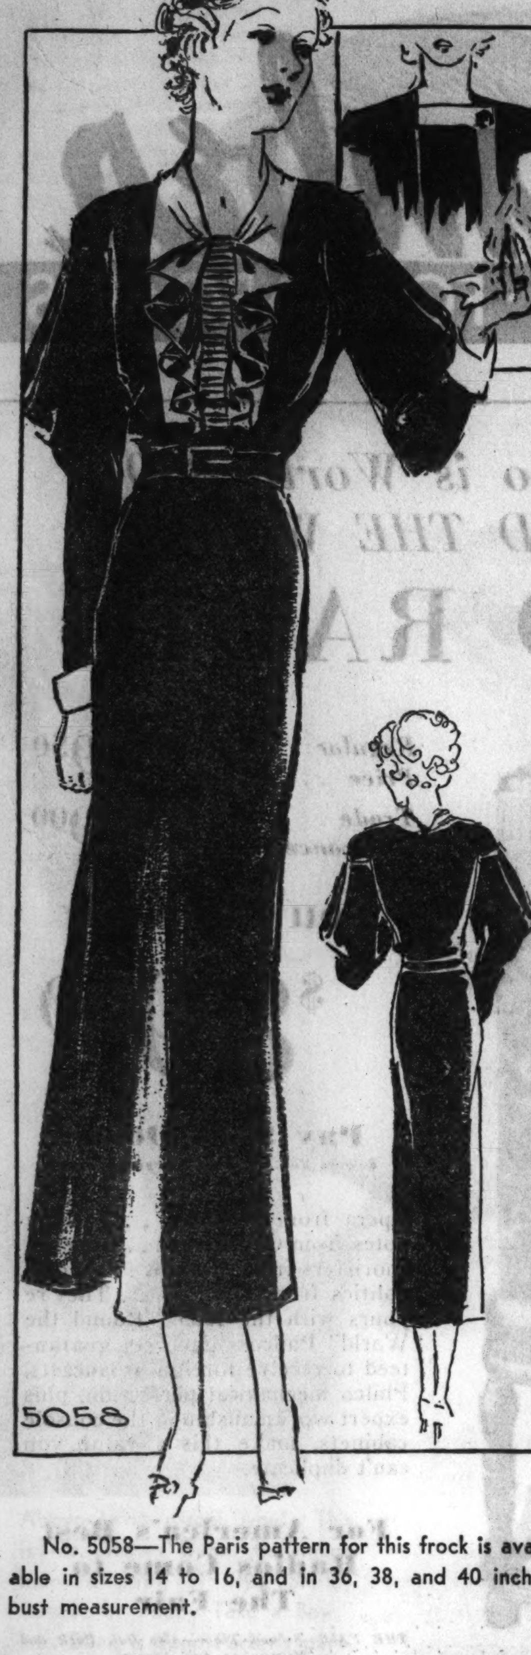
Paris Pattern Frock Reverses the Order of Color for Jabot



No. 5058—The Paris pattern for this frock is available in sizes 14 to 16, and in 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Reversing the order of the light jabot on the dark dress, one of the leading Paris dressmakers makes a dark jabot and puts it over a light vestee, and this, with the smart peg top sleeve, is the inspiration for Paris pattern No. 5058.

You can wear this dress for various occasions and it has that inestimable individuality that makes the Parisienne the best dressed woman in the world. The set-in vestee may be white, with the tucked jabot in black with a black dress, as the Paris creator made it, or you may have a more colorful combination if you prefer.

There are many gay colors that are chic this season. You have an almost unlimited choice. Any one of the new reds would be attractive for this frock and the vestee that is under the jabot could be of white or of metal-thread silk.

For the woman who desires a simpler neckline the one in the upper corner may be used and I suggest that the simple band be of silver cloth, of white, or, if you like, bright velvet or velveteen.

Make the dress of velveteen, of satin, or of one of the smart matelasse materials and you will have a knock out, dressy frock.

Simple Remedy Eliminates Sticking of Window Sashes

WHEN a sash sticks so that the window can't be raised by pulling the cords and letting them snap back, try applying lard, oil, or soap to the grooves. When a door has swelled and refuses to close, sandpaper the edges and varnish it. This varnish will prevent further shrinking and swelling.

IN THE FEMININE REALM

Miss Christina S. Leadingham, as head nurse in charge of the children's orthopedic wards of the Post-Graduate hospital in New York City, has been in the service for forty years.

Annette Gipson, amateur aviatrix of Athens, Ga., has won 25 air trophies. She is now learning stunt flying.

Miss Vera Turl, aged 20, of Tottenham, recently became the first woman to gain an air ministry parachutist's license in England.

Mrs. LaDessa Gibson Schaffnit, who manages the Westwood Memorial Park cemetery in Los Angeles, Cal., is one business woman who has no feminine competitors.

Hiding Furnace Creates Space for Recreation

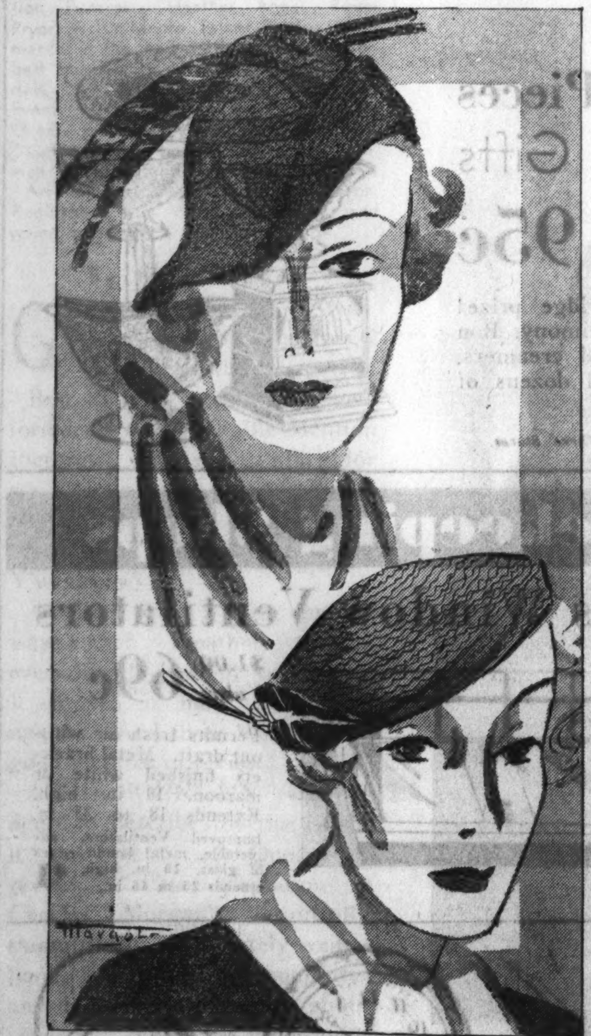
IT is a simple matter to segregate the coal furnace in such a way that, while it still functions as capably as ever, it is hidden from sight, and the remaining part of the basement is ready to be cleaned and painted for recreation purposes. A room can be built around it. In this way it will keep its dust to itself.

PARIS SNAPSHOTS

The sports mode in Biarritz presents a rather quiet color picture with dark red, dark warm brown, and white and natural shades in the lead. But the brightest belts of string or lether are worn around the waistline. Bright lether monograms appear on jackets and the gayest Provencal peasant scarfs are draped around the neckline.

The toreador sailor, made of stiff felt, is a sports hat that gets the okay of the fashionable woman at Biarritz.

Crocheted Beret, Tyrolean Hat Add Zest to Sports Ensemble



By Ellen Bruce.

BERETS we will always have with us in one modified form or another. And the Tyrolean hat is now being acclaimed one of the season's smartest head adornments.

Many hat styles are based on this simple crocheted beret pattern. It is one of the becoming models suitable to almost every type. The Tyrolean hat with its straight quills lends itself admirably to wear with knitted or crocheted tweed or worsted garments. Also, the use of a heavy tweed or worsted yarn for a hat of this type allows the crown to be folded or creased and the brim turned up or down at will and without benefit of stiffening or wire. The instructions for making the hats according to individual measurements are included in the directions.

If you wish instructions for crocheting the beret and the Tyrolean hat illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Ellen Bruce, Chicago Tribune; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

GOOD MORNING!

(Before I forget it, folks!—a copy of this resume of "Best Pictures" and "Best Performances in Honorable Mention Pictures" will be waiting for you shortly at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn, and Tribune Tower lobby. Y'wekkum.)

October was a nice month, wasn't it? Weather, movies, everything! It seems to me that I enjoyed it more than most months. And there WERE such good pictures to review!

"THE FOUNTAIN" was difficult to describe for the reason it "got" me so. . . . Quote from review: "This adaptation of Charles Morgan's beautifully, thoughtfully, deliberately written book, is a beautiful, thoughtful, and deliberately presented photoplay. . . . There has been caught to a remarkable degree, it seems to me, the author's sentiment. And there have descended upon the screen 'Fountain' those twin blessings of brilliant direction and perfect casting . . . a film which no adult should be deprived the pleasure of seeing. . . ." (Features Ann Harding, Brian Aherne, and Paul Lukas.)

Below—Who has all the world to give you? Who else but that Mr. Robert Montgomery! (Reads books, too.) You'll see this popular lead soon with Joan Crawford and Clark Gable in "Forsaking All Others."

Bet you never saw a nicer photograph than this of William Powell. He will be teamed again with Miss Myrna Loy in "Evelyn Prentice."

Danish Carl Brisson has a personality screen fans go for. He scored in "Murder at the Vanities" and will sue for favor in "All the King's Horses."

Fredric (Robert Browning) March! When he bursts into an invalid's life—enter hope—exit despair! In "The Barretts of Wimpole Street."

You haven't forgotten Ramon Novarro, have you? He is scheduled to support Evelyn Laye in "The Night Is Young."

And here's Greta Garbo's next leading man—Herbert Marshall. He will support her in "The Painted Veil." Since "Riptide" Mr. Marshall has been much sought after by lady players and their producers.

This page is all for you, girls!

Now let's see—where did all these handsome boys come from: James Dunn, brown haired, blue eyed, Irish, witty, first saw light in New York City. R. Montgom-er-y's first date was with his folks in New York state. William Powell—femme's mania!—hails from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Copenhagen's Brisson's birthplace. (Dimple like ravine in his face!) March? Racine, Wis., lad. Are the folks of his state glad! From Durango, Mexico, cometh Ramon Novarro. While on Merrie England's shores, Marshall emitted his first roars.

Broadway Gets a Windfall from 3 Playwrights

O'Casey, Coward, Rice Crowd Boards with New Dramas Simultaneously.

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—In the drama we have gone international again, with three interesting exhibits: Plays by Sean O'Casey, the brilliant Irishman; Noël Coward, the gifted Englishman, and Elmer Rice, a worthy progressive of the native theater. Mr. O'Casey gives us "Within the Gates," Mr. Coward his "Conversation Piece," with music, and Mr. Rice a drama of class consciousness, "Between Two Worlds."

Mr. O'Casey's "Within the Gates" was the real excitement of the week. A drama of symbols, representing a type of entertainment the author believes must be brought back into the theater if the theater is to be saved, it met a sharply divided press and a frankly mystified patronage. It is that type of play into which many meanings may be read, and from which the more vivid imaginations gain the greater satisfactions.

"'Within the Gates' tries to bring back to the drama the music and song and dance of the Elizabethan play and the austere ritual of the Greek drama caught up and blended with the life around us," the eloquent O'Casey has written. "It is a play written around life not from the outside looking in but from the inside looking out. It shows organized religion, good-natured and well-intentioned, unable to find a word or invent an action that will give to life the help it needs. It's life half running out to meet life and the other half running away again."

Heroine Determines to Live Adventurously.

This play of symbols, then, takes place within the gates of an imagined Hyde Park. The dreamer opens the gates and enters with a song, and is straightaway followed by a laughing populace. After which there are interludes and arguments by assorted individuals representing a nondescript humanity at its average.

So much of a main story as there is, and the only one with consistent narrative appeal, is that of a young prostitute, "symbol of those young women full of life and a fine energy, gracious and kind, to whom life fails to respond, and who are determined to be wicked rather than virtuous out of conformity or fear."

She is the illegitimate daughter of a bishop and her life is muddled. Her father, made aware of his responsibility, would bring her back into the fold through the penance of renunciation, but she will have none of this. She would marry a gardener, but marriage isn't in his line. She would go on living with an atheist, but he will have no more of her because he has failed to drag her away from her fear of hell. A Salvation Army captain would give her good advice while lusting secretly after her flesh. With too great or too little courage to barter life for religion, she goes finally to the dreamer, who sings to her of "deep kisses and the clutch of love." But she comes again in search of the church's help in the end and dies in her father's arms.

Down and Outers Symbols of Those Who Whine.

Around-about and in and through this joust with life Mr. O'Casey has woven many incidents. There is choral singing that is stirring and loud argument that is frequently holding. The four scenes represent the four seasons, with life and joyousness in the spring and death coming with the chill of winter. There is an army of down and outs, "symbols of all who are dead to courage, fortitude, and the will to power . . . of those who turn the struggle of life into a whine; of those, young or old, rich or poor, who in thought, word, and deed give nothing to life, and so are outcasts from life even as they live"—an army of down and outs that chants menacingly in the background. There are ladies in scarlet and gentlemen in plus-fours, nursemaids and policemen, caretakers and kids. A cross-section of the human race as Mr. O'Casey sees it.

Shot with beauty, stimulating to the imagination, "Within the Gates" is still a form of theater entertainment which playgoers of our day and training will have to approach gradually.

It is impressively staged by a new firm of producers, George Bushar and John Tuerk, and well acted with Lillian Gish as the prostitute, Moffat Johnston as the bishop, Bramwell Fletcher as the dreamer, and Mary Morris as an old woman.

Rice Has Trouble Adjusting His Mood to the Critics.

Things have been pretty discouraging for Elmer Rice at the Belasco theater, of which he and Mrs. Rice are now the owners. His first production was that of "Judgment Day," his own impassioned adaptation of a Nazi trial. It was, a majority of his reviewers told him, too embittered and prejudiced a statement. He had overindulged the luxury of getting mad.

So he sent "Judgment Day" to a smaller theater, where it could take care of a limited but interested audience, and last week he produced a second play called "Between Two Worlds," also of his own authorship, at the Belasco. This, now insist the same reviewers, reveals Mr. Rice in a much too peaceful mood. It lacks action; it lacks force; it lacks purpose. A discouraging business, this show business.

"Between Two Worlds" is a costly venture and not a bad play. But it is quite uneventful as a narrative, and therefore not likely to build into such popular success as would justify its production.

Gallery of Travel Types Vivid and Amusing.

The new play is the story of an Atlantic crossing. You, as a spectator, are looking into the cocktail bar at the stern of the boat on the promenade deck. In and around this lounge such drama as there is develops.

Mostly it is a parade of types familiar to all travelers—the comic old couple excited by the sight of their first whale; the lady who sits mournfully sipping her highball eighteen of the twenty-four hours; the superior who can always top a story of travel adventure with a better one of a stranger place; the young lovers stealing kisses on the boat deck while mamma isn't looking; the older lovers suffering an attack of sea madness in the moonlight; the lady song interpreter on her way over for a new set of costumes; the life of the party full of bad puns and talkative liquor; the illiterate movie queen and her abused maid, a colored college girl.

These are amusing types and Rice has a gift of moving them naturally from incident to incident. But they provide nothing that stirs much interest. The thread of serious drama is the meeting of Margaret Bowen [Rachel Hartell], representing capitalistic America as the daughter of a department store magnate, and N. N. Kovolev [Joseph Schildkraut], representing communistic Russia as a movie director returning home from Hollywood nursing a healthy disgust.

Junior Leaguer Succumbs to Bolshevik.

They at once repel and fascinate each other, these two. Margaret is taunted into defiance by the constant criticism of both Kovolev and a chap named Maynard, a windbag out of Harvard and in the advertising business. A parasite and a coward they call her until she allows the Russian to overcome her Junior league defenses and carry her away to his cabin. The adventure both disgusts and awakens Margaret, leaving Kovolev quite as before. She leaves the boat determined to make something of her life. He goes on to continue his fight against the capitalistic oppressors.

Mr. Coward's contribution, which is a romance with music called "Conversation Piece," is light and gay and rather charming. It brings Yvonne Printemps, for long the wife and stage partner of Sacha Guitry, now separated from M. Guitry and playing her first English rôle. The Guitrys, you may recall, came over some years ago in a comedy fashioned from the life of Mozart, which they played in French and for which they were admired freely and understood but little.

Town Hall Tonight

THE most unusual theatrical booking of the season took George M. Cohan and the Theater Guild's "Ah, Wilderness!" company to North Brookfield, Mass., recently for a one night stand. The town has a population of only 1,356 persons and the production played in the town hall, which has only 463 seats. No scenery or costumes were used.

This jaunt to North Brookfield was a "sentimental journey" for Mr. Cohan. The town was his summer vacation home in his childhood. There he wrote his favorite song, "Venus, My Shining Star." He has never appeared there as an actor and it had always been one of his ambitions.

"MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH"

All dressed up for "Cabbage Patch" doings! This is Miss Evelyn Venable as she appears in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." At the Chicago theater.

"THE BARRETTS OF WIMPOLE STREET"—"Whether you saw the play or whether you didn't, the picture adapted from the play is bound to delight you. It has captured all the original's flavor. Real people live for you on the silver sheet as they did behind the footlights. The romance of the frail poetess, Elisabeth Barrett, and the virile and impassioned poet, Robert Browning, is a vital and lovely thing as unfolded by its present depicters. . . . You'll be a long time looking for, and a longer time finding, a film that gives you more enjoyment than 'The Barretts of Wimpole Street.'" (Features Norma Shearer, Fredric March, and Charles Laughton.)

"MADAME DU BARRY"—"History flavored to the popular taste . . . a mirthful, and in most respects, fundamentally authentic account of the affair between the nonchalant royal débauché, Louis XV., and the giddy, shrewd, extravagant mistress who succeeded the Pompadour . . . under expert direction it moves with speed, laughter, lavish detail and never flagging interest. . . ." (Features Dolores Del Rio and Reginald Owen.)

"THE GAY DIVORCEE"—"Provides a gay hour . . . a sparkling, music peppered, dance punctuated proposition in which everybody does swell work and Fred Astaire hands you the surprise of your life . . . picture has a clever little plot . . . big song and dance number features 'The Continental,' danced by Astaire, Ginger Rogers, and ensemble. A gorgeous, titillating affair . . ." (Features Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers, Alice Brady.)

"ONE NIGHT OF LOVE"—I thought that this picture "SHOULD make a hit with you. . . . It's alive with music—pouplar selections from the most popular operas, 'Madame Butterfly,' 'Carmen,' etc. It has a story which, though possessing no particular originality, still abounds with human interest. It has for a star an attractive woman with a glorious voice who can also act. And the leading man is a warmly romantic personality, known and liked by lovers of both the stage and screen. It has a well chosen supporting cast, excellent direction, AND—it never once goes highbrow. . . ." (Features Grace Moore and Tullio Carminati.)

"YOU BELONG TO ME" was notable for its introduction of a remarkable child actor—little David Holt. From the review—"Page Miss Shirley Temple, please! We've found a fellow to be her leading man! Little David Holt! And he's Shirley's male counterpart in winsome naturalness . . . innocently but completely hogs the limelight in this revelation of backstage life . . . picture splendidly cast and beautifully acted.

(Don't forget those lists. Taking for granted, you see, that you want one.)

See you tomorrow.

Contessina Makes Decision to Study Screen Technique

WHEN a young contessina takes her career and education into her own hands, there is nothing much her mother can do but sigh and hope. Fifteen year old Regina de Liguoro has made up her mind that she will study at night, and she knows what she wants to learn to aid her movie career in its progress.

"I will study camera angles, and makeup, and screen technique, and, yes, perhaps I shall find time for algebra and history and geography, too."

Regina's father is Count Wladimiro de Liguoro, Italian film director, and her mother Countess Rina de Liguoro.

Peggy Shannon Goes East for Engagement on Stage

AFTER two years in the movie colony, Peggy Shannon is homesick for the footlights. She recently boarded a train for New York, where she will appear in a new play. She said she expected to return to Hollywood in about six months.

BROTHER AND SISTER DANCERS

Audrey and Don El Mere, now dancing with the George Olsen-Ethel Shutta cabaret show in the College Inn, are recent arrivals from Hollywood. They invented the dance steps used in the current motion picture "Gay Divorcee." They call themselves "the Continentals," and the principal number of their present repertory also bears that title.

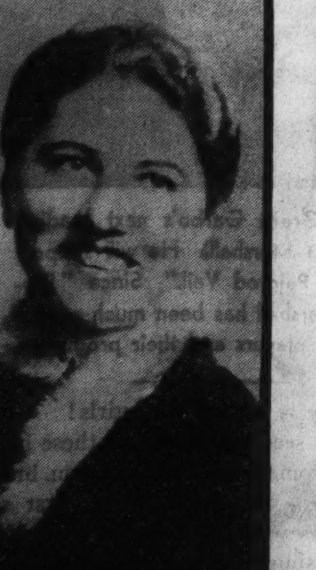
Margaret Lindsay Revolts Against Slovenly Attire

STARS who appear at previews and other events attired in accoutrements appropriate only in the sanctity of the boudoir recently aroused the justified anger of Margaret Lindsay, Hollywood actress. She didn't mind voicing her irritation, since she has a reputation for being decidedly outspoken.

"In the privacy of her own home an actress has a right to dress as she pleases," Miss Lindsay said, "but when she appears in public carelessly dressed she is destroying the most valuable thing a motion picture actress possesses—glamor."

In her invective Miss Lindsay described the lack of grooming of some of her co-workers as "sheer laziness," and it is her belief that if Hollywood women who offend haven't the intelligence to correct the fault, some action should be taken to remedy the situation. Most actresses are meticulous about their appearance, and it is only an "unfortunate" minority that goes to public places poorly groomed.



SINGS IN "FLEDERMAUS" TONIGHT

Mme. Miga March-Fichtl, a prima donna from Germany, will make her Chicago debut tonight in a special production of Johann Strauss' classic operetta, "Die Fledermaus." This picture shows her in costume as Prince Orofsky.

Lou Tellegen's Early Exploits with Bernhardt

Footnote to Tragedy of Actor Who Looked Like a Greek Statue.

By Charles Collins.

THE tragic death of Lou Tellegen, who in the darkened close of a flamboyant career butchered himself with a pair of scissors, carries a suggestion of the ancient Romans who put an end to their despair by falling upon their swords. It was, emphatically, a grewsome theatrical gesture; and in many ways Tellegen was a full-blown specimen of the theatrical temperament.

He had been told too many times in his youth that he looked like a Greek god, and when middle age and illness and professional frustration came upon him he lost the courage to live. His story is a bitter illustration of the perils of being an actor—a handsome actor.

Tellegen's career on the American stage began twenty-four years ago when he came to this country as leading man for Sarah Bernhardt. Four years later he became an English speaking actor, and his identification with the French drama was rapidly forgotten by playgoers. Nevertheless, I always think of Tellegen as the brilliant and commanding youth who was practically a co-star with Bernhardt during her American tour of 1910-'11.

A Moral for Matinee Idols.

He seemed to have genius then; but nothing that he did in this country, either on the stage or on the screen, fulfilled the promise of his early achievements. He was cursed with a fine profile and a reputation as a ladies' man, and the plays that served as his vehicles were fatuous affairs. A glance over their titles reveals nothing important or memorable.

The last two productions on his stage record may be cited as symbols of his American career. One of them was called "Love Technique"; it had a brief life in Chicago in 1930. The other, staged in New York in 1932, was "The Great Lover." The drama, to Tellegen, was a mirror in which he saw himself as the eternal and infallible amorist.

Great Roles in French Drama.

Tellegen's association with Sarah Bernhardt, however, was marked by plays and rôles of high distinction. They form a roll of honor for a career which has come to a disastrous and pathetic end, and I will read them out for his requiem:

The Duc d'Este in "Lucrezia Borgia"; Hippolytus in Racine's "Phèdre"; Armand Duval in "La Dame aux Camélias"; the Emperor Justinian in Sardou's "Théodora"; Baron Scarpia in "La Tosca"; the earl of Essex in "La Reine Elizabeth," and Raymond in "Madame X."

He had the flame of greatness then. Transplanted to the commercial American stage he became merely a matinée idol, a film favorite, and the husband of several women, including Geraldine Farrar at the peak of her operatic vogue. This country gave him wealth, which he wasted, and an easy, deceptive route to ultimate disappointment and a dismal exit.

John Bunny in Shakespeare.

Speaking of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," coming to the Auditorium theater Nov. 15 in Max Reinhardt's spectacular staging, can you remember when John Bunny played Bottom the Weaver in a large scale production at this same theater? That was when the enormous Mr. Bunny, now long dead, was on the verge of his career as the fattest and funniest man of the silent screen. [The date was 1910.]

Or can you remember when Annie Russell played Puck at the Grand Opera house? [The date was 1907.]

Or when Donald Robertson's disciples and Ben Greet's cross-country troupers gave the fantasy in the open air on summer nights at Ravinia park?

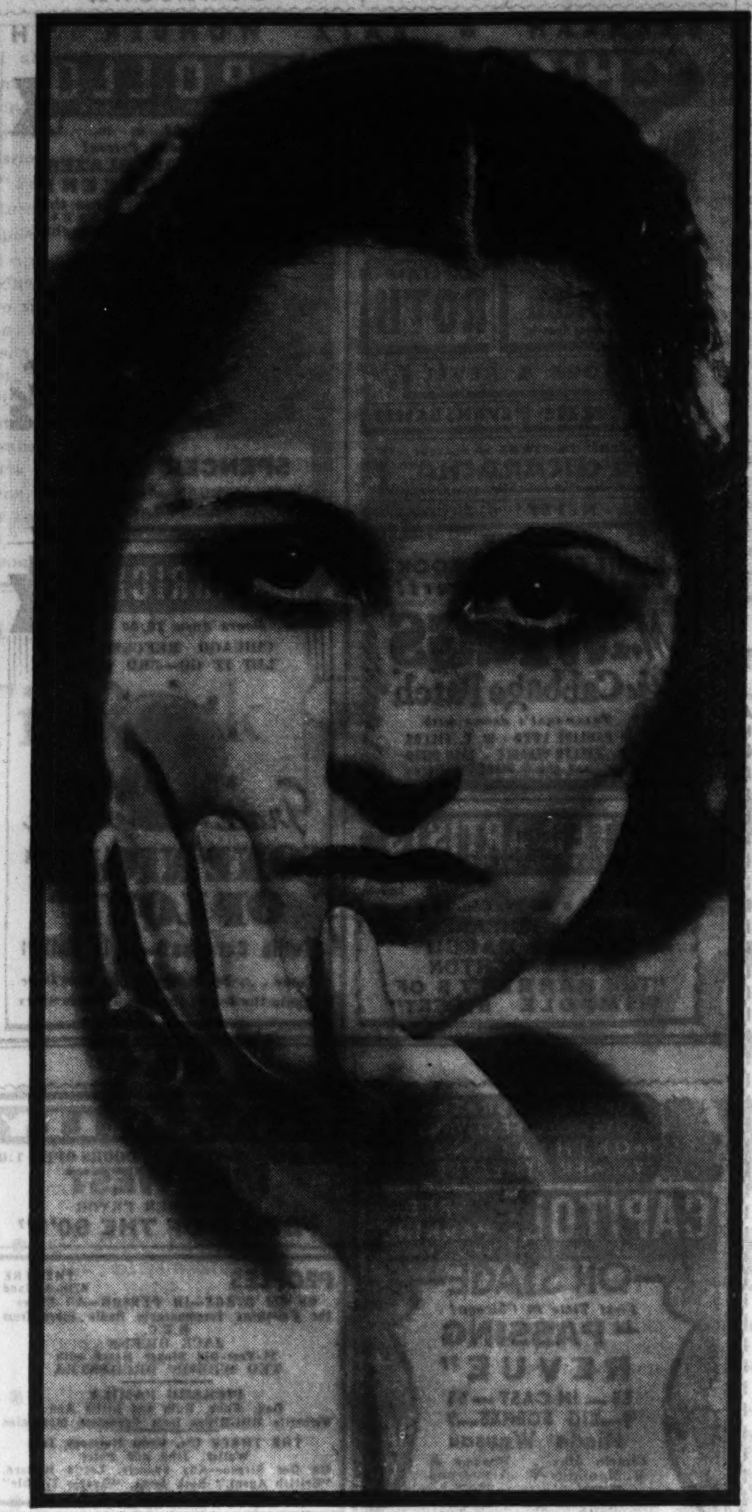
The play is rich with theatrical traditions, but it has not been staged in Chicago for many years, save for the comic excerpt used by the Old Globe Theater company of recent and blessed memory. The Reinhardt production, employing orchestral music, ballet, and the full technical equipment of the theatrical arts to supplement Shakespeare's lovely pastoral poetry, will come as a new experience to the present generation of theatergoers.

The most frequently quoted line in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" is Puck's: "I'll put a girdle round about the earth in forty minutes." It has been in constant use by panegyrists of the development of the communications systems during the last three decades. The empire builders of the telegraph, the telephone, and the radio adopted this bit of Shakespeare as their advertising slogan.

HOLLYWOOD HAPPENINGS

Shorter gowns, of the slinky sort, are the innovation in evening gowns according to René Hubert of Fox's. A floor length evening gown is of but one type, bouffant, if it is smart.

Marrying a movie star is the test of a brave woman. There are some things, though, that even such a woman can't anticipate. Chick Chandler's wife, Jean Fontaine, claims she has the most goofy experience to relate of all the wives in the film colony. When the recent rainy spell settled down, with boulders from the Hollywood hills nudging each other in their hurry to get to the boulevard, Chick got worried about his bees. After two days and nights of the heavy rain Chick got up at 2 a. m. and carefully carried in all his beehives, setting them up in the living room. When available space was used up there the rest went into the bedroom.



OPERA AND CABARET DANCER

Alta Warsawska is a young Chicago dancer who has been making a name for herself during the past year. She got her training with the ballets of the Civic and Ravinia opera companies, she was prominent in the dance spectacle recently staged in the Ford Gardens at the Fair, and now she is appearing with her own "petit ballet" group in the Marine dining room of the Edgewater Beach. Feud Between Hollywood and Society Bitter Elite of West Rage When Movie Stars Snare Season's Best Catches.

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.]—Hollywood is located between Pasadena and Santa Barbara, to put it geographically, but is away beneath either, socially speaking.

The twenty-five years that Hollywood has been on the map has seen the growth of the feud between society people and movie stars until it has become quite something. Not that in special instances the two have not overlapped as when Irene Rich married David Blankenhorn of Pasadena's socially élite; but that ended in a divorce, so the less said the better.

Young society belles drift into the movies, but most of them drift out again—rather soon. For instance, Thelma Morgan Converse [Lady Furness] in the silent days. Few remain to accomplish real careers in films, because the work exacts a discipline for which they have not been fitted.

Yet, with the overlapping that does occur, feeling is bitter indeed. The real source of the trouble is that each group steals the spotlight from the other. It's a difficult business for a society mother to spend thousands and thousands of dollars to send her children to select schools, bring them out, and hope that a suitable marriage will be ensuing. What makes it difficult is that some movie gal with a cute tilt of her nose can romp into a spot in the society of princes and millionaires and skip off with the catch of the season. Titles and millions come tumbling when the movie queen arrives in town.

Prince George's Weakness for Actresses Upsets British Navy.

When Garbo went back to her native Sweden for a visit she rated a prince. Quite a jump from the girl with runs in her stockings and overlong, scraggly hair, who appeared in Los Angeles in a lumpy tweed suit, unknown to American film fans.

There's no way of stopping it. The British navy had a bit of something or other on their hands when Prince George, a few seasons ago, spent his leave from the ship cavorting around Hollywood as the guest of the lord and lady of Pickfair, who were obliging enough to ask all the young charmers that the prince expressed interest in.

Then there was Prince Louis Ferdinand, son of the ex-crown prince of Germany. When he landed in Hollywood did he call up the Spanish consulate and get a list of names of the old Spanish families [the real local aristocracy] that he could be safe in being seen with? He did—like fun. Lily Damita and Charles Chaplin were his ideas of good company. Maybe you think that the local society dowagers didn't sizzle when this was going on.

Debs, in Turn, Pursue Clark Gable.

When Lord Tennyson arrived in Hollywood last summer the papers were full of his social engagements with Claire Windsor, while the dowagers glowered. But the wily lord pulled a fast one by marrying the prominent and wealthy Mrs. Joseph V. Donner from Santa Barbara and Buffalo, so the honors went to the society group that time.

Then there's that exasperating bit of business about Clark Gable at the exclusive Spinster club's costume ball, where the creme de la creme of society in these parts may be found yearly. According to the traditions of the ball the girls cut in on the men.

Clark Gable received an invitation, perhaps because he is a movie star and also perhaps because he is married to a woman of some social position. At any rate, those debutantes rushed for Gable and took him apart, practically. The socially serene ones gasped at such mutiny in their own ranks. Yet the girls admit to nothing but a desire to "kid him along."

Society Girls Find Stars Have All the Breaks.

Another burn-'em-up business is when the entry of a movie star, oozing glamor and dripping diamonds and glittering as to hair, steals all the attention at the opening of the opera, at the horse shows, or any of those functions that the social folks consider their own private stamping grounds. When Polly Moran, who is not famed for her pulchritude, attended the opera in her self-styled "side winding" diving suit with satin fixings, she attracted more notice than anybody in the place. The public, even the society people, gazed and gaped at Polly in her box. Imagine, then, what chance they will have this season when Mae West comes floating down the step of her limousine and makes her grand entry.

There are few things that the movie girls don't have on the society folks. Their business is to be beautiful. They can't allow their figures to depart one little bit from the perfect line that the studio judges advise for them. They are clothed by experts whose services no money could buy for a debutante. They know their makeup. their particular style, and when they want to put over a scene in a studio or in a ballroom they know how it's done.

Outside of working hours they pick up an amazing amount of knowledge about what a man likes in a woman. All day before the camera they talk dialog written by the world's greatest authors. It's only natural that even a dumb girl would pick up a swift line of patter from this. What can a poor little debutante do with that kind of competition?

There was an amazing outfaring of bitterness from the socially important ones at the recent production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," by Max Reinhardt. Hollywood felt that this was as much its show as it was society's. The picture people attended en masse. When Marlene Dietrich and Josef von Sternberg made their entry the crowd began to applaud enthusiastically, but a more than damp blanket was thrown on this welcome when the social crowd began making audible and ridiculing remarks concerning the star and her escort, who weren't human if they weren't embarrassed.

Yet, let any society debutante get a chance to work in films, even for a short scene, and the casting offices are stormed with them. They do all sorts of things to impress a director and try to get a contract just as any girl from less choice background would

DANDY MAN IN REVUE FROM B'WAY

Chicago Stage Gets Star Show from Broadway

THE appearance of "As Thousands Cheer" at the Grand Opera house tomorrow night will be a gala event of the Chicago theatrical season. Conceived by Irving Berlin and Moss Hart, the music and lyrics were written by the former and the skits by the latter. It was staged by Hassard Short and produced at the Music Box theater, New York, by Sam H. Harris, Oct. 3, 1933. It remained at that playhouse for 49 weeks. The revue is said to have grossed $1,200,000 before it left Broadway.

The original plan to tour "As Thousands Cheer" for twelve weeks only, visiting seven cities, including Chicago for four weeks, has been altered by the unusually heavy business attracted to the play. In both Boston and Detroit an extra week had to be added to take care of the customers. In the latter city the advance sale totaled $28,000 before the show opened, or capacity for the first week.

Much of this success on tour is no doubt due to the determination of Mr. Harris to present his entertainment precisely as it was shown to New York audiences, with Clifton Webb, Helen Broderick, Dorothy Stone, Ethel Waters, Leslie Adams, Hal Ford, Albert Carroll, Clifford Menz, Thomas Hamilton, Letitia Ide, Jose Limon, Hamtree Harrington and Harold Murray in their respective rôles, together with the Music Box production, which requires five baggage cars to transport it.

There are twenty-four scenes in "As Thousands Cheer," despite which the curtain is down by 11 o'clock. Albert Johnson designed the settings, and Charles Weidman arranged the dances. The orchestra is under the direction of Harry S. Levant.

The satirical skits in "As Thousands Cheer" include take-offs on the Hoovers, the Rockefellers, the British royal family, Barbara Hutton and Prince Mdivani, Joan Crawford and Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Mahatma Gandhi, Aimee Semple MacPherson, Josephine Baker, Noel Coward and Lynn Fontanne.

Irving Berlin's musical numbers include "Heat Wave," "Lonely Heart," "The Funnies," "Her Easter Bonnet," "Supper Time," "Our Wedding Day," "I've Got Harlem On My Mind," "Not For All the Rice in China" and others.

Ginger Rogers' Suit Brought for Principle of Thing

GINGER ROGERS' suit against Sylvia Ulbeck, well known Hollywood masseuse, was brought for the principle involved. not for the financial consideration. "I wanted to put an end to an embarrassing situation," said Miss Rogers. "I wasn't the only person to suffer, but I was chosen to lead the fight. I did, and I won it."

The litigation was settled out of court for a smaller sum than was asked. Miss Ulbeck has agreed that, in her radio broadcasts, she will not infringe on the privacy due her actress clients.

"Die Fledermaus"

WALTZES and songs by Johann Strauss will be heard tonight in the Civic opera where "Die Fledermaus" ["The Bat"] will be presented in the original version by an all star cast of German operetta singers. Guest artists from New York are Ilse Marvenga, the original "Katie" of "The Student Prince," and Georges Trabert. A recent arrival from Germany is Mme. Miga March, and so is the conductor, Otto Vandsburger. Among the Chicago artists appearing in principal rôles of "Die Fledermaus" are Mme. Lucie Westen, soprano, formerly with the Chicago Civic opera; Mark Oster, Frederick Bittke, Kurth Kupfer, Frederic Mueller, and Curt Benisch. A large chorus and a ballet directed by Mme. Antoinette Ludwig will also participate.

"Die Fledermaus" was produced for the first time sixty years ago in Vienna. Costumes of the period of the Viennese première will be used.

Singing Girls Lead New Bills of Vaudeville

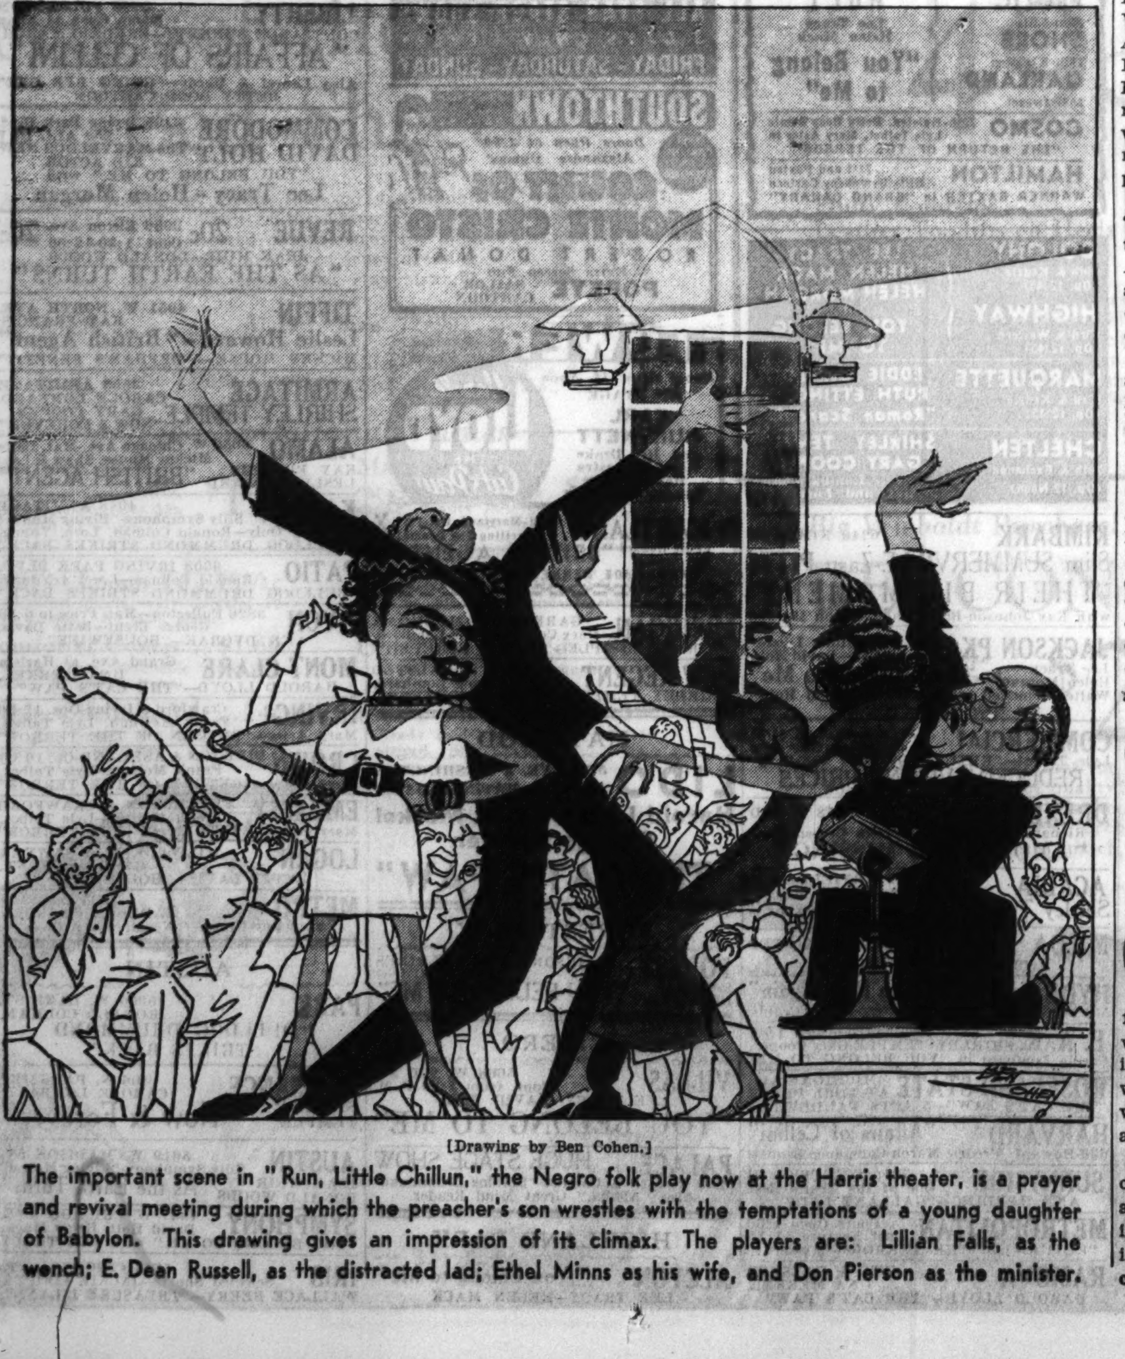
THE CURRENT vaudeville bill at the Chicago theater is called "all star." It includes Lillian Roth, screen singer; Borrah Minnevitch and his harmonica troupe, recently at Chez Paree; Billy Revel and Jane Moore, dancers for many weeks last summer in the Empire Room and the Villa Venice and now engaged for the next edition of the "Ziegfeld Follies"; Les Ghezzis, European entertainers; Dorothy Crooker, the Evans ballet, and a stage spectacle based on the Mexican ballad, "La Cucaracha." Alexander Olsha-Ketski is guest conductor of the orchestra.

The Palace theater's vaudeville show for this week is headed by Irene Beasley, a radio singer called "the long, tall gal from Dixie." Other acts are contributed by Billy House, the comedian formerly featured in "All the King's Horses" and "The Vanities"; Bert Walton, raconteur, and a company of singers and dancers who give a novelty called "Living Jewels," based on numbers from a French musical show.

Gypsy Nina, singer and accordionist of the broadcasting chains, is the leading entertainer on the new vaudeville program at the State-Lake theater. She is of Chicago origin. The other acts include: Naida and Ernie Perez, acrobats; Le Paul, card manipulator; Ben Yost and the California Varsity eight in a brief musical comedy; Harry Howard, eccentric comedian; Harris and Shore, dancers, and Verne Buck in a revue, with the State-Lake ballet.

The Uptown theater's vaudeville bill for the current week is led by Blanche Calloway, singing sister of Cab Calloway. She leads a company of 50 Negro entertainers.

LIMB OF SATAN AT PRAYER MEETING



[Drawing by Ben Cohen.]

The important scene in "Run, Little Chillun," the Negro folk play now at the Harris theater, is a prayer and revival meeting during which the preacher's son wrestles with the temptations of a young daughter of Babylon. This drawing gives an impression of its climax. The players are: Lillian Falls, as the wench; E. Dean Russell, as the distracted lad; Ethel Minns as his wife, and Don Pierson as the minister.

To Parents With School Problems

In a world administered by technicians and experts, the trained man has the best chance of attaining economic sufficiency. When your child is as old as you are, the world will belong even more to the experts than it now does. Education and training are the answer to this quandary. But often the right course of study and the right school are indeed a difficult question. ● The Chicago Tribune School Bureau will be glad to aid you in solving this problem. For your service it has on file accurate, complete information about practically every school and college in the country. Much of this information is based on first-hand, personal knowledge. At the Tribune School Bureau you can be assured of getting expert, individual consideration. ● The services of the Tribune School Bureau are at your disposal free of charge. Sophie Tucker at Chez Paree; Cabaret Shows

Roy Cropper Making His Debut as Cafe Artist in Empire Room Revue.

SOPHIE TUCKER, who has been singing popular ballads about "red-hot mammas" and "jazz babies" for twenty years and is still going strong, will begin an engagement at Chez Paree next Friday. She recently returned from a European tour, during which she appeared in London, Paris, Edinburgh, Berlin and Monte Carlo. A royal command performance in London was among her experiences.

She will be accompanied at the piano, as usual, by Ted Shapiro, and will bring a wardrobe of the latset French styles for buxom ladies. Her engagement at Chez Paree, of indefinite length, will be followed by a sojourn in the Hollywood motion picture studios.

- Irving Aaronson and his Commanders orchestra began an engagement in the Joseph Urban Room of the Congress hotel last Friday night. The organization comes here after long runs at Manhattan Beach, New York, and the Casino on Catalina Island. Its featured musicians and entertainers are Phil Saxe, master of ceremonies, Lois Still, "Skippy" Carlstrom, Dick Dixon, and Emil Mathias.

- A new night club was added to the entertainment activities of the West Side last Wednesday night with the opening of the Madison Casino, 4812 West Madison street. It provides a dance orchestra and floor show for the amusement of its patrons.

- Roy Cropper, fondly remembered as the first of the many "Student Princes," in Romberg's perennial operetta, is making his debut as a cabaret singer in the new "Autumn Revue" in the Empire Room of the Palmer house. He is one of the best tenors in the field of operetta, and recently sang principal rôles with the Gilbert and Sullivan Opera company at the Studebaker theater.

- Recent additions to the George Olsen-Ethel Shutta floor show in the College inn are the Four Marvels, dancing girls, graduate of the Merriel Abbott ballet who have just returned from an engagement in Mexico City. They answer to the names of Bee Robinson, Rose Turman, Tillie Corum and Roslyn Schwartz . . . The Embassy Four provide vocal and instrumental music for the patrons of the Celtic café in the Hotel Sherman every night.

"TALL GAL FROM DIXIE"

Irene Beasley, headline performer on this week's variety bill at the Palace theater, comes out of the field of radio singers. She was recently elected to the title of "Radio Queen of 1934." She is informally known as "the long, tall gal."

Hollywood

By Sidney Skolsky.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Hollywood has seldom been the subject for a best selling book. The people prefer to get what they want of Hollywood on the screen, in the columns, and from magazine articles. They simply will not buy books on the subject.

Therefore, Gene Fowler's publishers objected when he announced that his next book would be about the cinema town. They probably shouted louder when they were informed that it was to be a biography of Mack Sennett. The book is off the presses now. It is called "Father Goose." It will break tradition and therefore open a closed road; there is much about Hollywood that rates to be recorded.

MACK SENNETT.

Fowler's book is more than the biography of Sennett. It is a history of slapstick. It wires the days of silent flickers for sound, and lets our early movies and movie heroes and heroines speak for themselves.

Sitting with the book is like sitting alone in a projection room and watching those delightful "screen souvenirs" unreel on the screen.

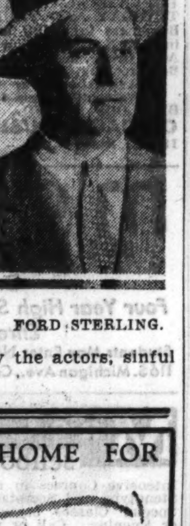
There is much amusement and there is much knowledge. You can learn that directors and actors used to hire diamond rings to wear when they applied for a job, so the executive would believe they were wealthy and didn't need the work; that the first time Mack Sennett talked about spectacles he was recommended to a good optician in Los Angeles, and that Charlie Chaplin's first flicker was never released. It was that bad.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN.

The chapter devoted to Chaplin tells how Charlie made his first picture in a Desperate Desmond makeup. Chaplin worked in the flicker as he had appeared on the stage, wearing a frock coat, checked vest and spats, and sporting a long, drooping mustachio. It is far different from the Chaplin of the derby, the short mustache, the cane, and the huge shoes, the Chaplin who became an international trade-mark. Sennett had faith. He junked that picture and gave Chaplin another chance.

Chaplin also divulges from where he got that odd walk which made him famous. "The man from whom I learned that walk seemed to have something wrong with his feet. And, do you know, he was an instructor in a school for crippled children. He could barely walk himself, yet he had been chosen to teach those unfortunate children how to run."

Ford Sterling started the pie throwing era in flickers when one day they were filming a comedy in a bakery, and Ford picked up a pie and hurled it. This accidental piece of business started a new school of comedians. Although they have gone down in history as custard pies, blackberry pies were always used, for they were better for photographic reasons.



FORD STERLING.

The salary list is amazing to look back at. Sterling topped the regulars with $200 a week. Chaplin received $125; Marie Prevost, $40; Wallace Beery, $50; Chester Conklin, $50; Ben Turpin, who started as a janitor in the studio, $75, and Gloria Swanson, $65.

Mack Sennett was a boilermaker who took vocal lessons, had a passion to wear a policeman's uniform, and plenty to do with advancing the style of ladies' bathing suits.

Mack wore a high priced Panama hat, but always removed the top of the crown with a scissors, for he believed the sunlight would help his hair. When he became wealthy he purchased a large bathtub. He insisted that he could do his best thinking while lounging in a large tub filled with hot water.

The Hollywood of the early days was practically the same as today. The movie crowd went in for the same amusements, and the local citizens resented the invasion by the actors, sinful and worthless people.

Dolors del Rio Honored by Mexico with Art Gift

HER native country has expressed its affection for Dolores del Rio by giving her an artistic bird which she admired when on a visit to a museum in Mexico. The gift, carved in lackered wood, is a remembrance from President Rodriguez. Her interest in the piece of art was called to his attention by Señor Montenegro, who was her escort on her tour of the museum.

WIEBOLDT'S IS THE BIG CHICAGO HOME FOR RED CROSS Shoes

They Feel Like Last Year's
They Fit Like This Year's They're Fashioned Like Next Year's

Wieboldt's is the big Chicago home of these famous shoes. For years Red Cross shoes sold for $8.50 and $10.50. Trim, trig, so very comfortable, because they fit your "walking" feet as well as your "sitting" feet. Straps, oxfords, pumps; suede, calf, satin-kid and combinations.

Twenty-five Native Chicagoans in Grand Opera Here

No less than twenty-two native Chicagoans will have positions of greater or less magnitude in the Chicago Grand Opera company's series this year. None of them, it is true, will appear in the special opening performance of "Turandot" next Saturday night. That brilliant spectacle will be presented by a cast of celebrities from elsewhere. Maria Jeritza will sing the title rôle, and other parts will be taken by Hilda Burke, Frederick Jagel, and Chase Baromeo.

But after that Chicagoans will begin to be numerous. A week from tomorrow night, in "Andrea Chenier," there will be debuts by Mari Barova as Countess de Coigny and Arthur Perrow, former student at the University of Michigan and the University of Chicago, as the major domo. Mr. Perrow will also appear in the second performance of "Turandot" on the following Saturday afternoon. Mario Fiorella, who made an excellent impression last season, will sing Silvio in "Pagliacci" Saturday night.

Ruth Mills will sing the song of the shepherd in "Tosca" Tuesday night and appear as Inez in "Il Trovatore" Wednesday night. Other young Chicago singers who have attracted more than common interest in the preseason activities are Alice May Baenziger, who was runner-up in the solo contests of the Chicagoland Music Festival of 1933; Marjorie Gillan, Elizabeth Kerr, Mary Krakowski, Maria Matyas, Lusinda Munroe, Dea Selma, and Jean Tennyson, the former headliner of Earl Carroll's "Vanities," who will appear later in the season.

Another list of those marked for later appearances includes the names of Evelyn Ames, May Barron, Lolita Bertling, Barbara Darlys, Hortense Drummond, Jennie May, Hilda Ohlin, Maud-Key Shelton, Alice Tobin, and Janet Fairbank.

The first special ballet performance of the season will take place on Friday night, Nov. 30, when Ruth Page will present the double bill of Aaron Copland's "Hear Ye! Hear Ye!" and Jacques Ibert's "Gold Standard." Miss Page will also direct all the ballet numbers in the regular opera season.

It now appears that, after all, Grace Moore is not to appear with the Chicago Grand Opera company this season. The gossip is to the effect that there is too much divergence between the price her manager asks for her appearance and the company's budget allowance. She will, however, appear in concert at Orchestra hall on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 9, and it is said to be her only Chicago appearance this season. She has also made a Brunswick record of two of her songs in the film "One Night of Love." One is the title song, the other "Ciribiribin." Wilfrid Pelletier of the Metropolitan Opera company is the conductor, and the male chorus of the Metropolitan furnishes the musical background.

Anna Fitzu and Edna Kellogg, both of whom have been soprano members of both the Metropolitan and the Chicago Opera companies, will begin a series of ten "Intimate Opera Mornings" in the crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel next Thursday morning at 11:30 o'clock. Taking the form of informal lecture-chats, these will consist of interpretations and explanation of various operas, including the novelties, in this season's répertoire of the Chicago Grand Opera company. Frederic Persson will be at the piano to furnish musical accompaniment, and it is planned to have members of the Chicago company present as guest soloists on each program. The two artists will speak on alternate weeks, Miss Fitzu leading off the series this week with Puccini's "Turandot."

Metal Costume.

The gown which Helen Broderick wears as the Statue of Liberty in "As Thousands Cheer" at the Grand Opera house is made of metal and weighs fifty pounds.

Incensed Censure Is Voiced Against "Down to Last Yacht."

Mae: One of the finest examples of "throwing a picture at the public" and making them take it, good or bad, was performed at the Palace in the outrage called "Down to Their Last Yacht."

This is not only my own reaction but that of those sitting by my side and behind me, for they voiced it out loud.

If I were to do some rating on the four star basis you used in the past it would be:

½ star to the producers.

¼ star to the theater management.

⅛ star to yourself for not yelling out loud in bold print. Sincerely yours,

TELL D. TRUTH.

Wild West Love Tactics Bring Up That Censorship.

Dear Editor: There is usually a lot of talk about censoring sex pictures on account of so much vulgarity attached making it dangerous for young people to see them. But, being a tax paying citizen, too, I feel that I should have some say also, being a woman movie fan as well. Although once a week is enough for me for entertainment, I do believe one extreme is just as bad as another when it is bad. I speak of the terrible wild west pictures in which so much seeming brutality is carried on in fighting such as knocking stoves down and excessive inhuman blows between two men, sometimes women, from obstacles and fists, making death a hideous spectacle. Although actresses may not really suffer these hardships in the screen, it seems real. I believe any woman's heart can be captured without two men beating each other into pulp about her.

MRS. I. E. M. A.

Editor's Note: Which brings us right back to the old censorship discussion, doesn't it?

ALL-STAR ENTERTAINMENT

HUNDREDS OF FREE PRIZES

MARY MEADE
Chicago Tribune Home Economics Editor

● Housewives! This is your invitation to attend the Chicago Tribune 1934 School of Cookery. There will be twelve big sessions on three sides of the city. The first session begins on Tuesday at the Trianon Ballroom, 6201 Cottage Grove Avenue.

You'll Enjoy It!

See and hear the lectures and demonstrations by the nationally known home economics authority, Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, who will conduct the school in co-operation with Mary Meade, Tribune home economics editor. Learn about appetizing new ways of cooking and baking.

Come and have a good time. Noted stars of stage and radio will be on hand to entertain you with song, dances and novelties. Well known choral conductors will lead community singing.

Loads of free prizes will be given away. Food and grocery products, kitchen and household equipment will be awarded to those who attend.

No matter where you live, you won't have to go far to attend a Tribune school. Note the timetable elsewhere on this page. It shows where and when the School of Cookery will be held.

Remember, you are invited to attend any or all of the sessions. Go to the division which is most convenient for you. There is no charge for admission. You will not be solicited to buy anything.

Doors Open Early!

Doors will be opened early. Ushers will seat every one promptly. Sessions will start at 12:30, so as to finish early enough to permit every woman to get home in plenty of time for the evening meal.

Make your plans now to attend the Tribune School of Cookery this year. Confer with your friends and make up a party. Remember, the men folks are invited, too. Note the time table at the right.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Coming Week a Vital One for Opera Lovers

Stein Opus Plays for Four Nights, Followed by Opening of the Civic.

By Edward Moore.

"FOUR SAINTS IN THREE ACTS" is coming to the Auditorium Wednesday night to stay until Saturday night with a Saturday matinée thrown in for good measure. Then, treading upon its heels, comes the first performance of the 1934 season of the Chicago Grand Opera company, "Turandot," at the Civic Opera house Saturday night. Wherefore the musical season will be reasonably wide open for a time.

After the expenditure of time, research, and consultation, a reasonably accurate view of the plot of "Four Saints in Three Acts" has been reached. In reality it is a quite amazingly simple affair, simple, that is, if you will remember that some of Gertrude Stein's collections of words are intended for sound rather than sense. In this respect the work hooks up with many foreign operas where you do not understand the words. One finds in the score many absurdities of repetition. In the words of Stark Young, Miss Stein's meanings submerge and emerge like a dolphin. But there is a distinct plot.

It has already been told that an all-Negro cast is used, both because it sang Virgil Thomson's music so well and because it could be and is completely in earnest and sober over the presentation of Miss Stein's book. The book itself is partly narrative, partly symbolism, with occasional branchings off into a dead stop, like every famous aria in every opera, and with explanations by the Compere and Commere, two figures lifted by Miss Stein from the ancient French revues.

"Four Saints" Starts in Spanish Sunday School.

The curtain rises on a Spanish Sunday school entertainment in front of the cathedral of Avila. Choral music is sung. The Commere describes the picnic. The time arrives for a study of some text on the life of a saint, and Saint Theresa of Avila is chosen. There is a cutback to a series of tableaux.

Here comes the first puzzle, which after all is no puzzle. The chorus sings "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." This is merely to indicate that to Miss Stein Saint Theresa had the American characteristics of being adventurous, pioneering, and venturesome. And the chorus adds, "Saint Theresa something like that."

The tableaux show the life of an elegant lady of Spain. The words, "Saint Theresa half indoors and half out of doors" indicate that she was becoming dissatisfied with a worldly life and turning to spiritual things. At the climax she is photographed with a dove in her hand, a symbol of her translation to the spiritual. The chorus sings "St. Theresa has been with him," and her conversion is complete.

Chinese Question Typical of Medieval Theology.

Now a bit of medieval theological dialectic. The words, "If it were possible to kill 5,000 Chinamen by pressing a button, would it be done?" are answered by "Saint Theresa not interested." Absurd? No. Dialecticians actually used to argue on how many angels could stand on the head of a pin, and Saint Theresa simply refused to concern herself with such matters.

In the second act there is a garden party, a fantasy of saintly life, with the saints singing and dancing. Saint Theresa politely and gracefully says, "Thank you very much." After the ballet the Compere and Commere have a love scene, corresponding to the actionless arias of the old operas. Then the saints and minor saints suddenly see a vision. The celestial mansion appears in the skies, and the choral comment is "How many doors are there in it?"

The scene shifts to Barcelona, Saint Ignatius, recently converted, talks to a group of fishermen, sees a vision of the Holy Ghost, and sings "Pigeons on the Grass," since the pigeon has always been the symbol of the Holy Ghost. Shaking their heads, they indicate a doubting attitude with "might it be, very well, very well." He repeats the aria. Suddenly in the distance they hear the angelic chorus in the famous "Let Lucy Lily," and its rustling melody stirs them into belief. They run to Saint Ignatius in supplication and plead for forgiveness, "Saint Ignatius and please, please, please, please." He grants forgiveness and they are rewarded with a ballet.

Women Skeptical of Pigeons and Trees.

But the women, now entering, are harder headed. They refuse to believe. They scoff, "ordinary pigeons and trees." They are punished for their lack of faith. The stage becomes dark. Saint Ignatius disappears, to return in a vision and preach a forceful jeremiad. The darkness deepens. A procession of penitentes is heard. The Compere and Commere in one corner chant words of dire import. The chorus stands out in silhouette bearing funeral trappings, and slowly the stage is emptied. Gradually the lights come on again and the curtain falls.

In the last act, a short one, Miss Stein has her joke on the musical comedy finale. Principals and chorus are drawn up in finale manner. Each has a moment to receive applause, and one of the principals sings an aria in the type of popular songs. The Compere announces "last act," the chorus answers "Which is a fact," and the opera is over.

Among other points of the season, Virgil Thomson will be here to conduct his own score.

News of Interest to Lovers of Music.

To those to whom harpsichord music means just the inventions and suites of J. S. Bach reduced to terms of technical studies in a piano lesson "The Days of the Harpischord" will be a welcome and pleasant surprise. Even those who have done considerable browsing around among the aristocratic music of two and three centuries ago will have their acquaintance agreeably widened. The book is recently from the press of Harcourt, Brace & Co., New York.

There is considerable Bach, of course—no collection would be complete if this music were omitted—but, instead of merely Father Johann Sebastian, there are excerpts from a good part of the Bach family. Incidentally, in the Johann Sebastian list, look for a fairly simple and highly attractive transcription of the chorale "Jesu, Hope of Man's Desiring," one of the loveliest melodies ever composed. In the others of the family you will find Johann Christian, who was the "London" Bach; Johann Christoph Friedrich, who was the "Bueckeburg" Bach; Carl Philipp Emanuel, known both as "Berlin" and "Hamburg" Bach, and Wilhelm Friedemann, the "Halle" Bach.

This is by far from being all. There are specimens from England a century before the birth of Father Bach, when England probably led the world in music; of early France, Germany, and Italy; of Handel, of Galuppi, celebrated by Robert Browning; of Tartini, the two Scarlattis—over fifty composers in all and about ninety works.

TENNYSON OF OPERA

She is young, she is American, and she is a newcomer to the Chicago Grand Opera company, soprano division. In spite of her name and every temptation of the press agents, Jean Tennyson refuses to claim relationship with the former poet-laureate of England. The picture represents her as Mimi in Puccini's opera, "La Boheme."

Affairs Mdivani Keep Gotham's Gossips Busy

Society Prophesies Alec's Ex-Wife Will Soon Wed Dashing Mike Farmer.

By Nancy Randolph.

NEW YORK That most publicized and discussed of the Princes Mdivani, Alec, is abroad. His present wife, the erstwhile Barbara Hutton, is also far, far away, and so is Alec's ex-wife, Louise Astor Van Alen Mdivani. But town is still highly conscious of the three and frightfully interested in their doings.

The daughter of Mrs. James Laurens Van Alen and kinswoman of Vincent and John Jacob Astor was supposed to have been so terribly cut up at losing Alec that there was no chance of her ever recovering from her be-roken heart.

However, as you and I know, tempus fugit, and the broken heart of yesterday becomes the amusing memory of today. Louise, far from pining for Alec, is wondering which of her cavaliers she shall accept for second noces.

The gossips had it that Baron de Pantz was Louise's choice. Now they insist that M. le Baron is out of the picture and that Louise is much taken with handsome Michael Farmer, an unknown on this side before he became the consort of glamorous Gloria Swanson of the movies. Mike Farmer, the handsome young Irishman who was adopted years ago by the rich and elderly Mrs. Hubbard, is still legally tied to Gloria, but the severance of ties via the courts is not far in the distance. At present Mike and Louise are sojourning in Spain as guests at the same house party, and seeing, no doubt, all sorts of rosy Spanish castles about them. Louise has definitly thrown in her lot with the continental crowd, and Mike Farmer is one of its most amusing and handsomest members. So we shan't be at all surprised if the ex-Princess Mdivani becomes Mrs. Michael Farmer.

Italian Cavalier Is Squiring Barbara About.

As for the Mdivanis, they are still abroad, living royally, as they can afford to. Alec plays his polo and Barbara dazzles every one with her beauty and her jewels.

Now that Cousin Jimmy Donahue is not about to fill in the moments with Babe while Alec whacks the willow ball, Barbara has got herself another young follower, one Count Alessandro Caetani, who is 19 and darkly handsome.

Some insisted that Alec was a wee bit jealous and went away from Venice this summer in a huff. However, Barbara says he went to Biarritz because one can't, obviously, play polo in the city of canals, and that she's as madly in love with her Georgian prince as ever.

Kommer Transfers Matchmaking Activities to Mayfair.

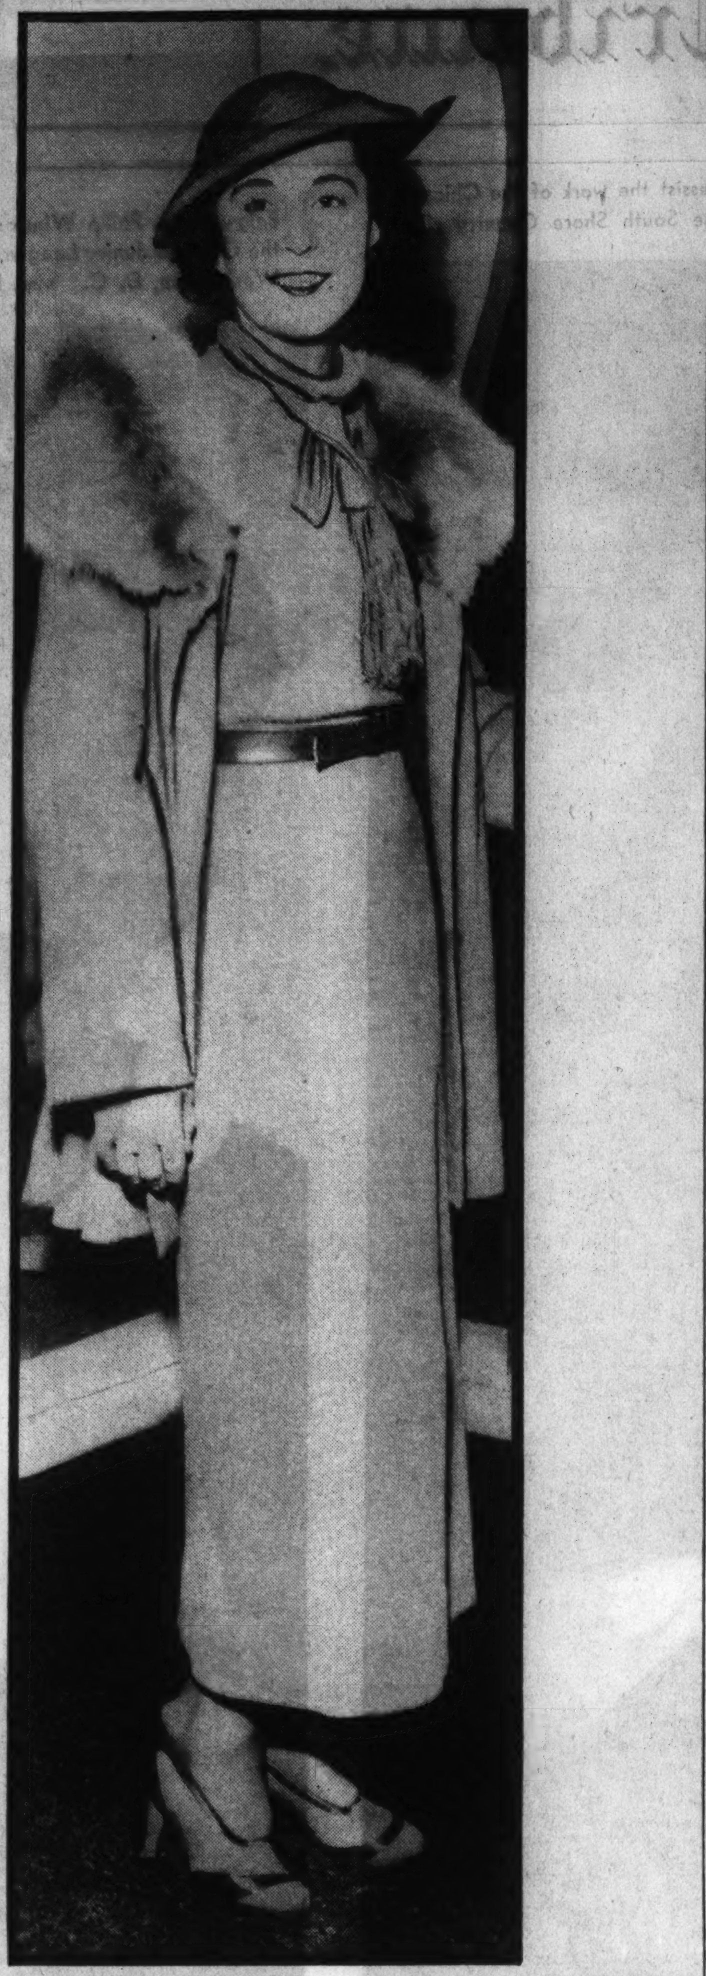
There was a gentleman around town until recently whom every one knew but no one knew anything about. Not a tall, dark man of mystery, but a heavy, bald one, by name Rudolph Kommer. His favorite haunt was the swanky Colony restaurant, where he occupied the same table daily at luncheon and entertained guests whose social standing was undoubtedly high.

Of Mr. Kommer it is reported that he was responsible for arranging several matrimonial matches, all of which have turned out none too well. He is supposed to have brought together Tilly Losch and Willy James, brother of the second Mrs. Marshall Field. You all know that that marriage ended in a sensational divorce proceeding in the British courts, with Willy winning, but losing society's approval.

Another marriage in which Mr. Kommer played Cupid was that of young Clendenin Ryan and Countess Marie von Wurmbrand-Stuppach. That exploded sensationally and the reverberations are still coming from Austria, where the countess resides at present, having recently been in court at the trial of her mother for some sort of peculation. Also Rudolph is credited with having arranged the marriage between Alice Astor Obolensky and Raimund von Hoffmanstahl.

Now the mysterious Mr. Kommer has deserted our New York and has turned up in London, where, at the Ritz, he holds court just as he used to do at the Colony. Town is wondering whether he has decided that the American market for "arranged" marriages is exhausted and that his talents will find better field in Mayfair. I don't know, but it's all delightfully mysterious.

Speaking, as I was, of the Marshall Fieldses, reminds me that the cognoscenti are willing to lay odds that Marshall, as soon as his divorce from the former Mrs. Dudley Coates is granted, will turn to his erstwhile wife, Mrs. Evelyn Marshall Field. The latter has lived quietly on Long Island and in her apartment in town. She hasn't shown any interest in cavaliers, and her friends say that her interest in Marshall is as great as ever.



NOVEMBER DEBUTANTE

Miss Nancy Doering, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond J. Doering Jr., is one of the season's charming debutantes. She will be presented to society at a tea at home Nov. 9, and the following night her parents will give a dinner dance at the Blackstone.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Salon Sponsors Series of Lectures on Spanish Life

THE Spanish salon is sponsoring a series of six lectures open to the public in the Ward building on the McKinlock campus of Northwestern university. They are held at 8 o'clock on Friday evenings, the first being given Nov. 9.

Dona Jesusa Alfan de Solalinde, descendant of generals and gentlemen in waiting to Spanish royalty, now at the University of Wisconsin, lectures on "Spanish Life in the Thirteenth Century."

Prof. Hayward Kenniston, well known Hispanist from the University of Chicago, will follow with a study of "Social Life in Spain as Revealed in the Romances."

Society Busy with Lectures and Luncheons

Gold Lace and Decorations Attend Sponsors' Farewell to World's Fair.

By Cousin Eve.

GOLD LACE, decorations, uniforms of our defenders on land and sea! It is the last fond farewell to our World's Fair. Winds blow wild and free, the lagoon lashes itself into a fine frenzy. To Admiral and Mrs. Wat Cluverius and officers of the Ninth naval district falls the giving of the grand final luncheon in the Trustees' lounge. Gallant seafaring men achieve the incredible at this party, for the lounge is warm and snug in spite of icy blasts.

Ladies with fur coats for laprobes were out of luck. Guests sat at a score of round tables, headed by the usual long speakers' table. Here our delightful host was flanked by Mrs. Rufus Dawes and Mrs. Frank Bolles. Others in the seats of the mighty [which Galsworthy said were often full of tacks] were Mrs. Cluverius, former Governor Edward F. Dunne, Rufus Dawes, Gen. Frank Bolles, Judge Sonsteby for the mayor, and Hon. Dolman for Gov. Horner. To repeat the speeches would be arduous, and in the case of Admiral Cluverius, noted for the spontaneous charm of his speeches, impossible. Garlands of verbal flowers were draped over Rufus Dawes for his successful leadership of A Century of Progress. And all bondholders in the Fair were wreathed with smiles, for they were paid for their civic virtue, in full.

Among the numbers of prominent invités, Mrs. Freeman Hinckley, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bradley, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. William Hubbard, former Gov. Walter Kohler of Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hinde, Mrs. John Crerar, Mrs. J. H. Lewis, Mrs. Frank Fuller, Mrs. Carter Harrison, Gen. and Mrs. Charles Dawes, Howard Gillette, Miss Emily Larned, Col. and Mrs. William Graham, Col. and Mrs. Charles Thuis.

Moffet Insists on Modern Sink for Every Farm.

A night or so earlier one had dined with the national housing people, also in the Trustees' lounge. Doesn't sound so exciting, but it was. Chairman was President Fred W. Sargent of the Chicago and North Western railway, who had just streamlined into town on the record breaking train. Guest of honor was James A. Moffett, national housing head, who had seen the metamorphosis of an ancient shack in the World's Fair that day. In six hours of magic grew white painted exterior, evergreen shrubs, bath, new floors, heating pipes, window boxes, closets, and what not. Every real estate man, architect, and contractor in town seemed to be present.

Mr. Moffett's program is—a sink with running water for every farmer's wife and heating pipes for every farmer in the United States. This modest program will cost 8 billions. This cash is to be borrowed at the banks, not to be shoveled out of the United States treasury. As for the vacant houses in the land, there are 18 million which need renovation and which will, when renovated, be able to pay taxes. For these, too, the bankers must play Santa Claus. Albert Deans of Chicago, national vice president of housing, was also present. These two executives are dollar a year men for the present national emergency. Receiving gayly at the door of the lounge, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Wilson, the former being local director of the better housing movement, and Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Sudler. I met also Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Mullaney, Mr. and Mrs. Gerhardt Meyne, Mr. and Mrs. Homer J. Buckley, and many more.

Mrs. Bradley Finds Sir Walter Scott Amazing.

I had the good luck last week to hear Mary Hastings Bradley spinning an entrancing web of travel talk. The well known walls and faces surrounding me faded away and I landed in Scotland with the beguiling author and her tall young daughter Alice as delegates to the International P. E. N. club.

From this point onward the experience amounted to quaffing champagne libations galore. We traveled in gay busloads in keen air of the Highlands. We week-ended in Scotch ducal houses, chez the Montroses, the Atholls. We met all kinds and sorts of writers in deathlike convention struggles, putting motions, and being firmly squelched for their hardihood. We tea-ed and garden-party-ed with polite people—the Scotch had raised $25,000 for the entertainment of their heterogeneous visitors. We dined, we danced. A current of merry wit pervaded the whole. We laughed and shrieked at Mrs. Bradley's vivacious sallies. A Scotchman was boasting of Sir Walter Scott, how he labored for long years to pay his debts—"a very noble thing" said the unwise Scot. That gave the redhaired American her chance. "I didn't know you believed in that sort of thing over here," said she.

Mrs. Haskell's Tower a Delightful Cage.

The high moments of our trip were when, on stout hunting horses, with a mere knapsack across the saddle, we rode for ten days along the byways and across the moors of Devon. Straight into the Lorna Doone country, Exmoor, with many a stop at wayside inns and gambols at jumping hedges, while feeling the pure air of the moorlands blowing cool on our sunburned brows. When, after this excursion, I found myself again on the Lake Shore drive it was with a decided feeling of "where on earth am I?" On Dec. 20 Mrs. Bradley receives with her daughter, and on Christmas eve is the debut dance for this charming creature, tall and lovely as a young Hebe.

Among the teas of the week, Mrs. Frederick Haskell settling into an eyrie on the twenty-fourth floor of the Drake tower, invited a lively world to meet her daughter Lila, Mrs. Henry Luce of New York. Handsome is she with violet eyes, dark hair, a most charming manner. The new apartment, in delicate gray blues and mauve pinks as a background for a few choice rugs and bibelots, is like the cage from which any small feathered bird surveys its universe.

All the guests kept peering out at the bediamonded expanse which, pierced by majestic towers, is our workaday town at eventide. Many were greeting Mrs. Luce—Mrs. Harry Shearson, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, Robert and Mrs. Adams, Harney and Mrs. Bassett, Mrs. Jacob Baur and Rosemary Bull, Mrs. Corson Ellis, Mrs. Freeman Hinckley, Eames and Mrs. MacVeagh, Arthur Wheeler, Mrs. John Chapman, Mrs. Paul Healy, Mrs. Herbert Bradley, Mrs. Charles Chadwick, James O'Toole of Venice, John Palmer, and others.

The great popularity of the Sheldon Clarks was demonstrated on Saturday when Rainbow Farm, their house at Barrington, was almost rent asunder by the number of guests. One saw the sun go down in brocaded splendor of pinks and purples, the stars come out. For a tiny bit lost were many. High flares, however, and a multitude of other cars finally showed the way. It was the debut tea of merry Bonnie-Jean, daughter of the house. Masses of flowers, battalions of young men, much gayety. Rainbow Farm is a low ceiled house with many-paned English windows. Some of the guests had come over from Wheaton, some from Lake Forest, the greater part from town.

Mrs. Goodspeed Prepares to Entertain La Stein.

On Monday the great allure was Mrs. Carveth Wells' talk before the Drama league on the theater in Russia. It was a luncheon meeting where all the people at the speakers' table, at which presided Mrs. Clarence Hough, had been in Russia. These included Mrs. Lewis Bernays, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, and myself.

Mrs. Wells is a pretty blonde, a Virginian. Her most amusing sally was at the people in Moscow inquiring about "Comrade Tugwell," who had at that time not dawned upon our political horizon. I was sorry not to hear Mrs. Wells' entire story. Her audience was large, and I saw many devotees of the league—Mrs. John Zane, Mrs. William Wright, Mrs. Welsh Dickinson, Mrs. Helen Walton, Mrs. Harold Pynchon, Mrs. Hayden Harris, Mrs. Charles Davis.

Gertrude Stein arrives by airplane for the première in Chicago of "Four Saints." Otherwise she could not lecture at Columbia university next day. Coming with her are Alice B. Toklas, her Boswell, and Carl Van Vechten. Waiting to receive her, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, whose several telephone chats with the great woman in New York have been electrifyingly nice. Whom to invite to dine with Miss Stein, where to find guests speaking the same language, should puzzle any hostess.

Before me "Tender Buttons" by Gertrude Stein, published in 1914. I open it at random and copy carefully a paragraph: "Suppose an Eyes." "Suppose it is within a gate which open is open at the hour of closing summer that is to say it is so. All the seats are needing blackening. A white dress is in sign. A soldier a real soldier has worn lace a worn lace of different sizes that is to say if he can read, if he can read he is a size to show shutting up twenty-four.

"Go red go red, laugh white,
"Suppose a collapse in rubbed purr, in rubbed purr get.
"Little sales ladies little sales ladies little saddles of mutton.
"Little sales of lether and such beautiful, beautiful, beautiful beautiful."

And the author of these lines is honored by Columbia university, and we go in best feathers to hear her opera Wednesday night at the Auditorium. Pigeons in the grass, indeed!

Lord Tennyson and Lady Back in the States

Culminate Summer Spent on Isle of Wight and at Various Resorts.

By Ann Whittingham.

LONDON Lord and Lady Tennyson, I hear, have returned to the United States with their children. Lady Tennyson's children have had a gorgeous summer, partly at their new home on the Isle of Wight, and partly at various summer resorts on the south coast. Thanks to the remarkably dry summer we have had, their introduction to English life was a more cheerful one than it might have been had skies been gray and overcast.

Channons Return to London After Summer in Austria.

Mr. Henry Channon and Lady Honor Channon have returned to London after their long and enjoyable summer in Count Paul Munster's castle, the Schloss Wasserleonburg, in Austria.

Mr. Channon has plunged into politics. He is now a naturalized British subject, and last June, through the influence of Lord and Lady Iveagh, he was adopted by the Conservative party in Southend as their candidate at the forthcoming general election, next year or in 1936. Lady Iveagh is now the member from Southend, but she plans to retire and be succeeded by her one time American son-in-law. According to the newspapers, local conservatives were somewhat disgruntled at being summoned to "get out the vote" for one who was not "born Britisher," but as the Iveaghs have held Southend for years, and are highly respected, everybody has fallen into line and there is every prospect that Mr. Channon will be elected to parliament.

However, he and Lady Honor Channon are expected to visit every house in the district to solicit votes, and there will be a number of small neighborhood meetings at which they will speak.

Leander McCormicks Back in London for Autumn.

The Leander McCormicks are back in town and are seen occasionally at Sovrani's and other fashionable places. It has been stated that Mr. McCormick is rebuilding on the site of the Heronry at Whitchurch, Hampshire, which was destroyed in the terrible fire.

The McCormicks are indignant at the version of that disaster attributed to the Hon. Mrs. James Rodney, whose husband lost his life in that fire, and who was herself so seriously injured that for a time her life was despaired of. Mrs. Rodney, in widow's weeds, is frequently seen at the Ritz and other places frequented by the McCormicks, but the gossip writers have reported that no signs of recognition pass.

Mme. Perez de Ayala, wife of the Spanish ambassador, who has been visiting friends and relatives in the United States, has returned to London.

Mr. Sheldon Whitehouse, American minister to Colombia, and Mrs. Whitehouse arrived at Claridge's on a little holiday.

Climax in Brilliancy

The Curtain Rises

The stage is set; the Opera Season opens; your most elegant evenings approach. The Salon at Blum's-Vogue is radiant with exalted fashions just completed. Gowns sing a song of splendor in gleaming lamé brocades, alluring velvets, shimmering satins. Over your gown, you fling a Russian ermine wrap of pulsing beauty, white as gardenias in moonlight. Rivalling each other in grandeur are exquisite bags, Costume jewelry, and other dramatic accessories, each a masterpiece.

An opportunity that many women have been waiting for—for women with expensive tastes and limited pocketbooks. These famous Kenwood Tweeds, cut by a master-tailor, have that precision of fit and individual styling that carry a distinction never found in low priced merchandise. Our New York manufacturer has given us his entire fall and winter sample line to dispose of. The sizes are mostly 16's with a few 12, 14, 18 and 20.

Chicago Colony of New England Women to Meet

Movies of World Tour and Musical to Feature Program on Thursday.

By Ruth DeYoung.

ONE HUNDRED women, gathered for luncheon Thursday at the Blackstone hotel, will enjoy motion pictures of far off Hongkong and pleasure loving Paris, but they won't hold charm for them equal to reminiscences of the pine clad slopes of the Berkshires or a rambling hillside farm in Vermont. Members of the Chicago colony of the National Society of New England Women, they all trace their ancestries to an Alden, a Bradford, or some equally famous forbear, and they all agree that there is nothing the world around to equal the delights of their own New England. The luncheon on Thursday will open for the colony a fall and winter season replete with interest and variety.

MRS. RICHARD S. JULIAN.

Movie and Musical Are Featured on Program.

Miss Gertrude Micon is to show the globe circling motion pictures after the luncheon, and Miss Katherine Gutekust is to present a musical program. As the newly elected president of the Chicago colony, Mrs. Richard S. Julian will introduce the artists. Eleanor and John Whitney, who settled Watertown, Mass., in 1635, are Mrs. Julian's earliest New England forbears. Her great-great-aunt was an Orne and married to Paul Revere.

According to its statement of purpose, the New England society was formed back in 1895 to bring together lineal descendants of those persons who settled New England prior to 1789 for the purpose of patriotic, civic, and philanthropic work and thus to perpetuate the lofty ideals and examples of these forefathers. Eligibility for membership requires one or more ancestors born in New England prior to 1789.

Except for special parties, the Chicago colony, which had its beginning April 11, 1907, would never think of meeting another place than the Blackstone, for it practically opened the hotel in 1911. While carpenters and masons were still at work, it met for its first luncheon in the new hotel. One of the special exceptions this year will be a Christmas party on Dec. 13, when Mrs. James A. Ostrom will entertain the Chicago colony at her home at 5124 Hyde Park boulevard. On this occasion each member will answer roll call by naming her oldest ancestor.

Group Finances Education of Girl at the U. of C.

The principal philanthropy of the organization is the education of a young woman of New England ancestry at the University of Chicago. At least a half dozen needy girls have already received this scholarship. One of them is now an Episcopal deaconess in Minghong, China. The colony also devotes hours of work to the Visiting Nurses' association.

Mrs. Julian, Mrs. Ostrom, Mrs. Urban Willis, and perhaps several more members of the Chicago colony will go to Detroit on Nov. 14 to participate in the round table discussion of the annual midwest conference. Next May the annual congress of the sixty-three colonies that form the national body will be held in Philadelphia.

Delegates to Have All-Day Meeting Tomorrow.

Presidents and delegates from the forty-four women's clubs that comprise the membership of the First district of the Illinois federation will open their year with an all-day meeting tomorrow in the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman. Following a board meeting at 10 o'clock department chairmen of the various groups will outline their programs for the fall and winter season.

Mrs. James G. Davidson, president of the First district, will be the hostess at the luncheon at 12:30, after which she will introduce federation officers who will attend as special guests. Mrs. William Franklin Farrell, president of the state federation, will speak briefly, as will also Mrs. Henry Hardy, president of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations; Mrs. Charles R. Holten, state chairman of motion pictures; Mrs. George Hanly Nippert, state chairman of radio, and Mrs. James Oldshue, state chairman of education.

New Monthly Publication Gets Plaudits of Women.

Off the press is a smart new monthly publication, Women, that has been accepted by the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Organizations as its official organ, and contains civic and cultural information of interest to women generally. The first issue contains a greeting to the federation from Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, as well as a stimulating message from Mrs. Henry Hardy, the federation president.

The federation is to have an all-day meeting on Friday in its headquarters at 209 South State street, with Charles Semmons and Joe E. Braun of the State Street council and R. A. Cenaugh of the Safety council as speakers.

Southern Woman's Club to Have Tea Thursday.

A gala program is in store for the members of the Southern Woman's club Thursday afternoon when the club holds a membership tea at the Hotel Sherman. Frances Coates Grace, whose performance in London was much acclaimed, will give Eleanor Everest Freer's "Little Women." Mrs. Freer will be a guest of the club. Mrs. William E. Mayher, as membership chairman of the club, has arranged the program. Mrs. Julian S. Hexton is the club president.

The same afternoon at 2 o'clock Thursday another group of women who are proud of their southern ancestry, the Southern Woman's Educational alliance, will hold its annual benefit card party at the Parkway hotel.

From a Doll's Song

By Eleanor Jewett.

Once I was a rider
On a nut-brown mare,
I rode upon the Carpet Land
That lies by Rocking-Chair.

Now I am a rider
On a horse of white—
My saddle is of shining gold,
My whip and reins are bright.

When I was a rider
On a nut-brown mare
I had to stay in Carpet Land
That lies by Rocking Chair.

Now I am a rider
On a horse of snow—
There's not a place in all the world
To which I do not go!

Announcing a very famous powder in a new travel size

● Elizabeth Arden takes pleasure in presenting this new and smaller edition of her lovely Illusion powder. It is exactly the same powder, in the same pink, satin-lined box, reduced for travel efficiency. (Carry three shades with you now!)

All of the popular Illusion tints are available, eliminating the trial and error of mixing your own—which you would never do successfully anyway, since it is a highly technical laboratory process.

And remember, no Elizabeth Arden powder ever contains rice powder, orris root, or any questionable material. Even in tinting, only the purest of food-coloring matter is used!

DOMESTIC TRAVEL

Honking Geese Lead Humans to Southland

Vagabond Crews in Mountain Areas Find that Jobs Have Given Out.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—[U. P.]—The endless trek of homeless, migratory humans is now following the flight of honking geese and arrowing ducks to the southland. Snow is mantling the cloud scraping peaks of the Rockies.

Federal officials in charge of transient shelters report their trade has fallen off considerably since the first frost late in September whitened the lowland meadows pocketed in wrinkles of the mountains.

They can almost predict the number they will help by thermometer readings. As mercury lines grow shorter and shorter, their customers come more hurriedly. The number staying over at the stations for a day or two to work for new clothes is fewer.

Lured West by Job Opportunities.

Their travel now is more definite than it was when the vagabond crew took the trail into the mountain country in early spring. Then they knew not where they were going—simply following their natural inclinations to see new places.

Some were lured by the seemingly endless fields of wheat in southern Albert's plains east of the mountains. As the hot, dry heat of summer slowly turns the grain to golden brown, it offers wages to harvest hands.

Thrill of fighting forest fires drew others. But that chance of employment was somewhat choked off this year as the forest service was strengthened by crews of trained CCC workers.

But They Did Learn to Ride.

The life of a hayhand was the lot of most fiction filled easterners who went out to the "cow country" sections of Idaho, Utah, Montana, and Oregon to "fork their broncs" and be "regular waddies."

They did learn to ride. But their mount was the bouncing seat of a two wheeled hay rake drawn by a pair of patient, plodding horses.

Such life wasn't very exciting. But they learned to get up in the morning at 5 o'clock and that in the west a working horse is fed before his worker has breakfast.

They worked until almost dark, ate three man sized meals a day, sought their bunks before the melancholy chirp of crickets emphasized the stillness of the country at dusk.

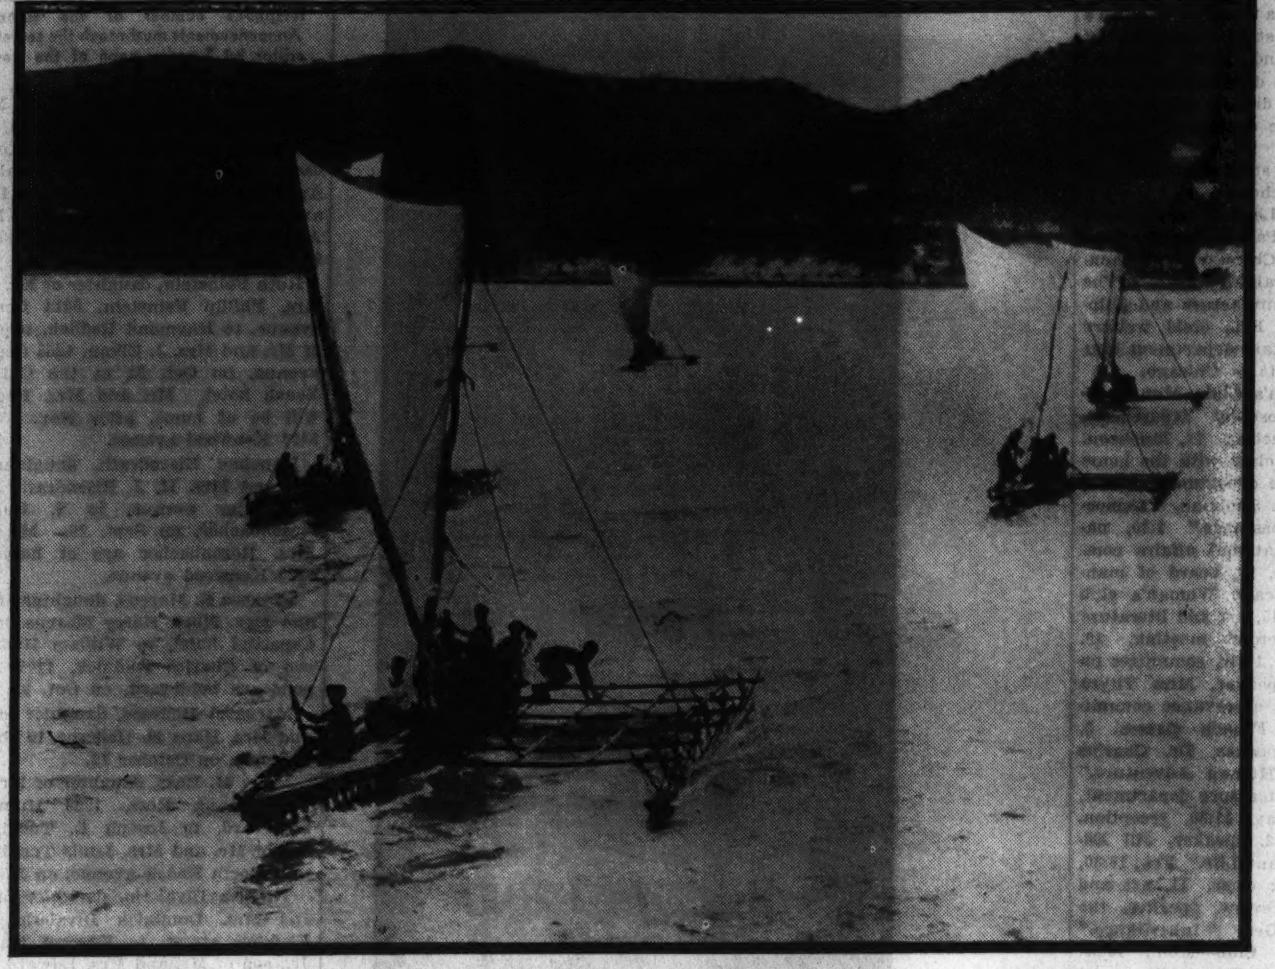
But winter stops all work they can do. Their summer stakes didn't last—they never do. They haven't homes to go to or don't want to be a burden on the family budget.

Public Is Turning to Winter Travel

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The largest list of winter cruises he has ever offered was announced here this week by Ralph Dellevie, president of National Tours. The schedule includes eighteen voyages to foreign ports and features a sixty day cruise in the S. S. Rotterdam.

"It is my belief that the cruise business this winter will be greater than we have ever seen before," said Mr. Dellevie. "The traveling public has become sold on the idea of winter vacations, whether for two weeks or two months, while a few years ago a steamship voyage in the winter was considered a luxury for the wealthy only."

The eighteen cruises will go in the trans-Atlantic liners of the Holland-America line.



THE PAPUANS' IDEA OF SPEEDBOATS

Awkward looking craft, yet the natives of Papua are able to propel them across the waters at a speedy rate at Port Moresby.

[Acme Photo.]

DETOURS

By Frederic Babcock.

LIEUT. FRANCESCO AGELLO, the "crazy boy" of Italian aviation, flies 440 miles an hour.

C. W. A Scott and Campbell Black, British veterans, cover the 11,300 miles from England to Melbourne in 2 days 22 hours 25 minutes.

Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith hops all over the Pacific, and manages the 9,197 miles from Fiji to Hawaii in a trifle over 25 hours.

Dr. Hugo Eckener urges establishment of speedy and regular airship transportation across both the Pacific and the Atlantic.

The Union Pacific streamlined train crosses the continent in 56 hours 55 minutes, makes the distance between the Pacific coast and Chicago in 39 hours, and negotiates one stretch at two miles a minute.

The Burlington lets it be known that its streamlined train will go from Chicago to the Twin Cities this winter in 6½ hours, as compared with 11 hours now consumed.

And Prof. Piccard soars ten miles into the stratosphere.

- The long heralded new day in transportation has arrived. Speed records and distance records are toppling so fast that to keep up with them you have to be quicker than a pedestrian crossing Michigan avenue under the new trafic rules. It's little short of a revolution.

- What will be the outcome? For one thing, the new day promises to restore the American railroads to their proper place in the scheme of things.

"Much of our business will be entirely new business," says W. A. Harriman, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific. "For example, folks will welcome a chance to make a trip from Chicago to Los Angeles in one day and two nights; folks who otherwise would not make the railroad journey requiring two days and three nights. Between cities 200 and 300 miles apart, such as Chicago and St. Louis and Chicago and Detroit, the fast train service will bring about a big increase in travel. A man will be able to leave his home in the morning, spend a few hours for business in the neighboring city, and return in time to sleep that night at home."

For another thing, there will be a lot more money put into circulation for new equipment. At least seven more high speed trains, similar to the one that made railroad history with its dash across the continent, will be cruising the country before long. The Baltimore and Ohio, the Illinois Central, and many others are in on the rebuilding program.

- Over in Europe the roads are refusing to be left behind. Germany has been experimenting with new fangled racing trains for some time. England's Cheltenham Flyer carried off the honors two years ago with a top speed of 92 miles an hour and an average speed of 81.6 miles an hour. Now comes Poland with the announcement that it is about to introduce motorized "torpedo" trains which, traveling at a regular rate of 150 kilometers, or 93 miles, an hour, will be the fastest on the continent. The new rolling stock will cut time tables in half. The run from Warsaw to Gdynia, for example, will take only four hours, instead of the eight now required.

It's the age of the quick and the dead, and the dead ones are those who have proved unable or unwilling to keep up with the struggle.

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations, to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

We are planning on taking a winter cruise on the Samaria this winter and have been told that it will follow the route of the Crusaders. Kindly give more detailed information. C. R.

The sea route taken by the Crusaders will be followed to a large extent. You will recall that some of the Crusaders attempted to reach the Holy Land by an all-land invasion through Asia Minor, while others took the shorter way by boat across the Mediterranean. The three principal islands reached by the latter group—Malta, Cyprus, and Rhodes—will be visited by the Samaria in the course of its cruise of the Mediterranean.

Is the 25 per cent fare reduction on the German railroads still in effect? L. L.

Yes. By decree of the railroad administration the cut has been extended to include the entire year of 1935.

Are there any good golfing around Berlin?—E. N.

Yes. Golf in Berlin, and elsewhere throughout Germany, has grown enormously in popularity in the last few years. The public course, open to every one, is within easy access of the city. But perhaps the finest course to be found in that vicinity is the one known as the "Golf-and-Land-Klubs Berlin Wannsee." Framed by dense forests, it is beautifully situated near the Havel lakes. Foreigners and other visitors are welcomed.

What may we expect to find when we reach Durban, South Africa, on our world cruise this winter?—F. T. S.

Durban boasts of having the most varied atmosphere of any city except Port Said. The shifting street scene shows ricksha "boys" wearing feathered headdresses, symbolic of speed, and widespread horns of oxen, signs of surety; Kaffir girls in beads and blankets, Mohammedans, Parsees, Hindus, Siks, and Arabs; East Indian coolie women clad in rags and golden ornaments; veiled and richly garbed women of rank; sturdy Zulus, and ships and crews from the seven seas.

I have been told that in Algiers there is a tomb of a man who was killed by being smothered in a block of mortar. Can you tell me about it? B. N. S.

It is the tomb of St. Geronimo, a Christian martyr of the 16th century. The cast may be seen in the museum of Mustapha Superieur, in the suburbs.

Sidewalk Cafes Are Banned Here But Not in Miami

MIAMI, Fla.—Partisans of the sidewalk café, who defended their favorite drinking place against unromantic city ordinances in New York and Chicago last summer, found another champion of the air-conditioned aperitif here when one of the leading hotels announced that the continental atmosphere would be preserved during the winter months.

While the sidewalk atmosphere suffers from frost bite in the north, Florida will continue to keep up the tradition by way of an open air terrace. It will be situated near the practice green and first tee of one of the golf courses and will be manned by waiters familiar with the Parisian technique of cocktails.

Poor Man Better Off in Far North

DULUTH, Minn.—The poor man in Alaska has more independence than the man in similar circumstances in any other part of the United States, M. M. Goodsill of St. Paul, general passenger agent for the Northern Pacific railway, told the Women's club of Duluth.

Mr. Goodsill said that in Alaska conditions are much the same as in continental United States, but that a poor man has better chances for advancement there.

Despite the fiction writers, he said, the population of Alaska is composed largely of self-respecting, law abiding men and women. He believes the territory is on the threshold of marked economic improvement, due largely to the attention it has received from tourists in the last year.

VAGABOND'S DIARY

THE Mediterranean, a million square miles of warm, blue, peaceful water. . . . Smallest sea on the globe, yet more famous in history than all the others combined. . . . The sea of the ages. . . . Linked intimately with the stories of Spain, France, Italy, Greece, Syria, Asia Minor, and North Africa. . . . An ocean with only one large contributory river, the Nile. . . . Phoenicians, Carthaginians, Venetians, Greeks, and Romans were among the ancient nations ruling its waves. . . . Here Odysseus journeyed home from Troy; here Aeneas made his voyage [and here Sam Insull made his futile flight to escape return to America]. . . . Memories of Caesar's dreadnaughts and the argosies of Byzantium. . . . The heroes of the Bible, of Greece, of Rome all knew the Mediterranean.

- Cadiz, Spanish fortress and seaport. . . . Founded a thousand years before Christ. . . . One of the oldest cities in the world. . . . Except for the oldest parts, a fine city of open squares, promenades and parks. . . . Tourists go there to see its sixteenth century and nineteenth century cathedrals. . . . A busy commercial center, with a population interested in tobacco, jewelry, soap, and sherry. . . . In the quiet, after the siesta, musings on Byron's "Girl of Cadiz." . . . Birthplace of José Mutis, the botanist. . . . Of Cadalso y Vasquez, the poet. . . . Sometimes called the Spanish Venice. . . . A clean and gracious city, with a delightful climate the year round.

- Pavia, provincial capital in northwestern Italy. . . . At the confluence of the Ticini and Po rivers of Lombardy. . . . Its large fifteenth century cathedral is one of 165 churches said to have existed there at one time. . . . And it's still unfinished. . . . One of the most interesting historic sites of Italy. . . . Chiefly remembered for Theodoric of the Goths and the capture of Francis I.

- Basel, Swiss city of the Rhine near where the Roman colony of Augusta Raurica was founded in 27 B. C. . . . Free imperial city in the middle ages. . . . Its university founded by the pope in 1460. . . . Seat today of the Bank for International Payments. . . . Travelers flock there to see its noteworthy buildings. . . . Its sixteenth century minster. . . . Its museum, once a fourteenth century monastic church. . . . The great art gallery with its Holbeins. . . . Home of Holbein the younger and of Durer. . . . Here Erasmus spent his last days. . . . One of the best kept cities of Europe. . . . Fountains, monuments, and promenades on the old fortifications.

- Syracuse, ancient city of southeastern Sicily. . . . Situated on an artificial island connected with the mainland. . . . Protected by walls, moats, and a citadel. . . . Less than one-eighth the area of the city founded by settlers from Greece before 700 B. C. . . . Still noted for its harbor. . . . Archeological museum with many treasures of pre-Hellenic times. . . . Ruins of old temples, walls, and aqueducts. . . . Impressive buildings of a later age. . . . Medieval cathedral with columns taken from the Temple of Minerva. . . . On his journey to Rome St. Paul spent three days in Syracuse.

Travel Business Breaks Records in Colorado Park

ESTES PARK, Colo.—[U. P.]—All former records for travel to Rocky Mountain National park were broken this year, with more than 350,000 visitors.

The tourist trade was 25.1 per cent better than the 1933 business, and a substantial increase was shown over the boom years of 1928 and 1929.

During the year ending Sept. 30, 365,392 persons in 109,642 automobiles visited the park, Edmund B. Rogers, superintendent, reported. The previous year 291,934 visitors in 83,022 automobiles came to the park.

A new weekly record was established this year when 30,428 persons in 8,734 automobiles were recorded. The record was made during the week from Aug. 11 to 17. The former record, made in 1933, was 23,501 visitors in 6,623 cars.

SOCIAL SEASON OPENING UP AT ST. PETERSBURG

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Nov. 3.—Making their bow to local society, several hundred young people vacationing here will be guests at a dinner dance at the St. Petersburg Yacht club late this month. The event will be followed by a crowded program of tea dances, swimming and sailing parties, style parades, golf, tennis, and bridge tournaments, and horseback riding, culminating in a horse show at the Jungle Country club.

Halloween was observed this week with a series of dances and parties at the hotels and beach clubs and at the Yacht club.

Committees of the Junior league and Cabana club have perfected their plans for the season's first outdoor fashion parade and beach frolic in the club's tropical gardens on Snell Isle Dec. 4. Smart sports, bathing, and afternoon wear for Florida winter and early spring will be displayed by models from the membership of the Junior league.

Following the precedent set by other leading resort hostelries, the Jungle Hotel and Country club will open earlier than ever before, admitting guests Dec. 10 with a formal dinner dance.

Historical Film Shown.

"The World Changes," a 10 reel motion picture, will be shown in the auditorium of the Chicago Historical society this afternoon at 3:30. The story deals with four generations of the Nordholm family who settled as pioneers on the prairies of Dakota in 1856. It sweeps through the pages of American history, showing such colorful figures as Buffalo Bill, Gen. Custer, and Wild Bill Hickok.

It's Colonel White Now.

Bert E. White, manager of domestic travel for the American Express company in Chicago, was made a Kentucky colonel by Gov. Ruby Laffoon last week. Mr. White was responsible for all American Express activities during A Century of Progress.

GREAT WHITE FLEET

MEDITERRANEAN CRUISE

If you have an interest in the ancient world, its marvelous architecture, its picturesque wars and its far-flung empires, you will find a Mediterranean cruise intensely interesting. For it was in countries bordering the Mediterranean that civilization spent its youth, and from which it spread to cover the earth. In two months' time, and at moderate cost, you can visit Spain, France, Italy, Sicily, Greece, the Aegean Islands, Turkey, Palestine, Arabia, Syria and Egypt—lands famous in song and story as long as man remembers.

If you have never taken a Mediterranean cruise, you have a great treat in store. Why not consider it as a vacation possibility? The Tribune Travel Bureau will be glad to help you plan the trip. This department of the Tribune Public Service Offices can supply you with travel literature and up to the minute information about railroad, plane, bus and steamship schedules, cost of transportation and accommodations en route for trips and tours everywhere. Services are free. Call in person, write or telephone.

French Experts Seek Secrets of Himalayas

Mountain Climbers Plan Ascent of the Second Highest Peak in World.

PARIS. — [U.P.] — A mountain climbing expedition is being organized here in an effort to wrest some of the scientific secrets buried in the snow capped peaks of the Himalayas. It is backed by the French Alpine club.

Composed of experts on geology, physics, meteorology and cosmic rays, the expedition will leave on March 1 for India from whence the party will start out for Kinchinjinga peak, rising to a height of 28,156 feet, the second highest in the world. Motion picture cameramen will be taken along to make documentary films of the undertaking.

Tested Against Severe Weather.

Tents and clothing to be used on the trip already have been tested against severe weather by a group of the explorers who lived for several weeks in the snow covered regions of Mount Blanc. The cameramen perfected their instruments for mountain climbing in another experimental trip to the top of the Green Needle peak in the region of Moine.

Owing to the great amount of scientific data that are to be collected in the Himalayas, the expedition will not return to France until late summer.

Seek to Confirm Geological Theory.

Efforts will be made to confirm the present geological theory that the entire site of the Himalaya system, which embraces the whole of the Tibetan plateau as far as the outer Kuen-Lun mountains, was in bygone ages the bed of a vast ocean.

Although the organization of this ambitious undertaking is in the hands of the French Alpine club it is receiving the collaboration and support of French scientific societies and geographical institutes.

Completes His 15th Trip Around World; Ready for the 16th

NEW YORK.—Rain or shine, feast or famine, good times or bad, Julius Brittlebank must have his annual cruise around the world.

Known in every civilized country as "the American Marco Polo," Mr. Brittlebank is back in America from his fifteenth circumnavigation, and in a letter to Dollar line headquarters here he announces he is already planning for volage No. 16, starting from San Francisco next spring.

Mr. Brittlebank, whose home [or voting place] is Charleston, S. C., says he is "hale and hearty after 76 years of living and 2,000,000 miles of wandering."

He is a retired tobacco broker. To the casual observer, his wanderings may appear pointless and 100 per cent selfish, but that isn't the case. Mr. Brittlebank is a student of world economics and writes fluently about such subjects. He also regards himself as an unofficial goodwill ambassador for the United States.

American Express Bought 1,200,000 Tickets to the Fair

THE American Express company last week brought to a close its World's Fair Tour department, established two years ago to accommodate clients of the American and Canadian railroads.

During the two year period the company printed 3,000,000 pieces of literature, distributed them through 15,000 railroad ticket offices, and coöperated with about 2,000 individuals who organized and operated their tours to Chicago.

The promotion expense was approximately $150,000. This, plus the operating units established in each of the six railroad terminals in Chicago, Navy pier, and five of the leading hotels, enabled the company to handle in Chicago approximately 139,000 people on tour. The promotion department carried on a campaign national in scope, providing information on Chicago arrangements to many additional thousands of people.

The company bought from the World's Fair corporation 1,225,000 admission tickets, thus becoming the largest contributor to the ticket department of the Fair. During the period of the Exposition the American Express employed 110 additional employés. There were 72 coöperating railroads in the United States and Canada.

Old California Ghost Town Is Being Revived

PLACERVILLE, Cal.—[U. P.]—Revival of "ghost" towns in the mining regions of northeastern California has followed in the wake of increased gold prices.

One of the latest to become active is Kelsey, which had been classed among the ghost cities for more than 20 years. Situated four miles from Coloma, scene of the first gold discovery in northern California, Kelsey played a prominent part in mining activities for many years after its founding in 1849.

With resumption of mining operations, every house and cabin for miles around Kelsey has been occupied and the school has an average daily attendance of 31 pupils.

Chicagoans Go In for Cruises Family Style

MR. AND MRS. RALPH W. ZIMMERMAN, their daughter Jeanne and their son William will soon have forgotten that there ever was a depression. Changing their vernacular from Winnetka gossip and La Salle street ticker tape to halyards and sheets and a stiff breeze, they will be under sail on their way down the Mississippi river.

It was last December that the Zimmermans invested in a 58 foot ketch, the Barbara K., now renamed the Zarark, in Stamford, Conn. They decided to rebuild it by their own labor and set off for far horizons to forget depression worries. The result is that the Zarark, now at anchor at the Columbia Yacht club dock at the foot of Randolph street, is the acme of comfort for a crew interested in making it their home.

After cruising down the Mississippi they will head across the gulf from New Orleans and into the Caribbean. From there on they have little idea what direction their course will take nor how long they will be away. The only other members of the crew besides the Zimmerman family will be Larned Bowman of Fairview, Conn., and Fritz, a friendly schnauzer.

Another family already afloat and quite unaware of depression worries is that of the William E. Everitts. Their craft is a yawl, the Sea Call, a belated wedding present from Mrs. Everitt's father, William R. Rummler. The Everitts and Mr. Rumbler recently set off on a cruise that will take them into the South Seas and perhaps around the world.

Right now they are heading down the Mississippi. They will sail to Florida, and then retrace their steps as far as New Orleans. From there they will cruise on through the Panama canal and thence the South Seas.

Southwest Sees Great Influx of Visitors

AN increased flow of winter tourist travel to the southwest, the Pacific coast and Mexico is anticipated this season by both the people in those areas and the railroads.

O. P. Bartlett, passenger trafic manager for Southern Pacific in Chicago, said last week that the guest ranches in New Mexico and southern Arizona are looking forward to an exceptional season, basing their expectations on reservations already made by eastern and middle western residents. The ranches in that territory have their principal season in the winter, as contrasted with dude ranches of the Rocky mountain area.

The desert resorts at Palm Springs and Indio, in southern California, are also receiving numerous inquiries. A growing number of people, including the Hollywood movie stars, who go to these resorts to relax and rest between pictures, have been "discovering the desert" in recent years.

Finds This Is Best Season in Indiana

CHICAGOANS have the word of H. J. Fawcett, manager of the French Lick Springs hotel, that autumn surpasses all other seasons in southern Indiana.

"The Cumberland hills," says Mr. Fawcett, "are never more lovely than in autumn. They blaze with the colors of the rainbow, making a sight that's beautiful to see. The air is fresher, crisper, and more delightful than at any other season of the year."

One of the high lights of the season at French Lick will be the annual fall golf tournament, to be held Nov. 9, 10, and 11. A large group of Chicagoans have entered.

Mid-Victorian Days in the Mid-Continent

"Martha Esmond" Tells of Scenes When Chicago Was But a Youngster.

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

By Herma Clark.

Chicago, Dec. 20, 1884.

DEAR Julia: Will and Sandy and Martha and I have just returned from New Orleans, where we attended the opening of the great exposition. We enjoyed our short holiday greatly . . . . Will's Christmas gift to the family. Sandy can't be gone long, and we thought this a nice little jaunt for the young people. Of course, we love having them with us.

New Orleans looked most attractive, "all decked in flags and streamers gay," for the opening. Every street was ablaze with color; and the orange trees looked almost artificial in their bright beauty. The New Orleans Cotton exchange, a fine modern building, bore, amid the banners which adorned its façade, an inscription which, as Will said, condensed a whole volume of history into a few words:

"1784..Cotton crop, 3,200 lbs.

Truly, cotton is king down there. The muddy Mississippi was alive with craft of all kinds, from the tiny rowboat to the stately French man-of-war, moving majestically along displaying its national colors in friendly recognition of our own Stars and Stripes. Just think how long the French held American territory, and might have held it now, I suppose, if Napoleon hadn't needed money for his wars.

Will chartered a boat for the day, and we saw the sights from the river. The trip from the Canal street dock to the exposition grounds was interesting. The banks of the river were clad in green, and against this stood out in startling relief the dazzling uniforms aboard the official boat.

When the address of the president of the exposition was finished, it was transmitted directly by telegraph to President Arthur in the White House. Then the President's reply, sent by telegraph, was read. After that, an electric button, pressed in the White House, closed an electric circuit, and the great fair was declared officially open. Isn't it wonderful how much electricity is being used?

Martha and I enjoyed it all without thinking much of the consequences of such an enterprise, but Will and Sandy, as we sat at dinner in the St. Charles hotel, discussed the effect it would have on the city's future. Will spoke of the Philadelphia Centennial exposition, for his people live there, you know, and he heard much of conditions following that successful fair.

Sandy had been talking to New Orleans business men who were enthusiastic about the future, feeling that the exposition would send the south bounding toward prosperity. Many real estate people are putting extravagant prices on their holdings, thinking that the tide of migration, which has hitherto set westward, will now turn south.

I sigh at all this talk, remembering how often Chicago, in its early days, had dreams of sudden wealth . . . how often real estate holders had visions of a rosy dawning. But, like the kingdom of heaven, real prosperity "cometh not with observation." We have to plod on, taking ups and downs as a part of the discipline of life. Usually, I think, buying good articles . . . such as furniture and clothing . . . which will wear and last long, and saving a certain portion of one's income, enables one to live comfortably in life's afternoon.

The foregoing, as I reread it, sounds deplorably like the words of a new popular song the young people are singing. Priggish and, in addition, couched in execrable English. The chorus is:

Waste not, want not, is a maxim I would teach.
Let your watchword be dispatch, and practice what you preach.
Do not let your chances, like sunbeams, pass you by,
For you never miss the water till the well runs dry.

Love and Merry Christmas to dear Julia!

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOTNOTES.

Has any reader a memory of the New Orleans exposition?

Pleasant people met this week: Giuseppe Bentonelli, whose bearlike handgrip speaks of his western origin; Mrs. Charles S. Clark, whose gown and smile were the most delightful seen at Carleton Smith's tea for Bentonelli; Constance Eberhart, who, though a grand opera singer, isn't temperamental; her mother, Nelle Richmond Eberhart, who writes words for Charles Cadman's songs. By the way, Mignon Eberhart, who writes mystery stories, is not a sister of Constance, as we had supposed, but the wife of a cousin.

ON TICKET COMMITTEE

Miss Bette Rich, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Joseph Rich of Evanston, is on the junior ticket committee for the Passavant Memorial hospital benefit on Nov. 15. The woman's aid society of the hospital, of which Mrs. Francis Johnson is president, has taken over the premiere of Reinhardt's production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Auditorium.

Tea Commemorates Donors to Orphans

THE little red and beige cardboard in the shape of a pair of shoes that bears an invitation of the board of managers of the Chicago Orphan Asylum for a tea the afternoon of Tuesday, Nov. 6, at the home of Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw, at 2450 Lake View avenue, has more than passing significance. The party commemorates the birthday of the late Mancel Talcott, a board member, who made a provision in his will for the purchase of shoes for the orphan children. Every year each child is to receive a new pair of shoes through this gift.

The party will also commemorate the late David Wallack, who gave money that the fatherless and motherless boys and girls might have music instruction. At the party the sixth movies will be shown of the children in their foster homes and in school.

Mrs. Shaw has been a member of the board of the Orphan Asylum since 1899, so she feels a sincere devotion for it. Little is heard of the orphans' home during the course of the year, since it has never found it necessary to have benefits, supporting itself entirely by endowment and voluntary subscription.

Black Horse Troop Sponsors a Polo Tourney This Winter

SOCIETY folk interested in polo have reserved the large circle of boxes in the Chicago Riding club, Ontario street at McClurg court, for every Saturday night from now until March 30. The Black Horse troop, which has spent most of the last two World's Fair seasons escorting visiting celebrities, is sponsoring a polo tourney which will reach its climax next spring with the presentation of a handsome new Babe Ruth trophy. Between games each Saturday night there is to be an entr'acte feature, such as a game of polo on burros.

For Bad Cough, Mix This Better Remedy, at Home

Needs No Cooking! Big Saving!

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough. It's no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water for a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and fill up with your sugar syrup. The pint thus made gives you four times as much cough remedy for your money, yet it is far more effective than ready-made medicine. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and clears the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, famous as a healing agent for throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Violet Oakley Shows League Heads at Work

World Statesmen Rescued from Abstraction by Her Geneva Drawings.

By Eleanor Jewett.

GENEVA and the league of nations do not touch closely upon the pattern of our everyday life. Sometimes a press story will bring them to life, but more often the beautiful Swiss town and its diplomatic visitors are like shadows in a glass, characters in a drama moving on a stage from which the curtains are never swept back. The league is a profound body acting through reams of paper upon subjects as diversified as are the nations of the earth. Still, in detail, the league consists of men and women.

The human qualities of the league of nations are assured us in the interesting exhibit of Geneva drawings by Violet Oakley which opened last Monday in the Robert Breckenridge gallery, 912 North Michigan avenue. The drawings are exquisite in quality and imposing in numbers. As portraits they are stunning, the likeness in each case being remarkably true. As you look around at the thirty odd portraits you cannot help a rush of emotion sweeping your spirit at the thought that Matisse, Picasso, or our fellow townsman, Ivan LeLorraine Albright, did not have a finger in the pie of this painting. Ye gods! what modernism would have done to those diplomats!

As it is, Violet Oakley has made an honest, exact, and brilliant series of character studies. She has simplified her presentation and kept only the important features to make each drawing complete. No time has been spent on accessories. We are introduced to one real person after another, and the result is that when an inspection of the exhibit is over one feels practically as though one had met these purposeful individuals, statesmen, and thinkers in the flesh.

Apponyi Thinks His Portrait Too Nice.

Stories that Miss Oakley tells with charming humor add to the interest of the portraits. For example, Count Albert Apponyi was painted while he was discussing warmly and fervently the condition of his beloved country, Hungary. When his drawing was completed he looked at it and said: "But you have made me too nice, I am not that sweet." "You are," the artist assured him, "and nicer, when you are talking of Hungary."

Another statesman was drawn by Miss Oakley while he was dictating to five stenographers and running through huge piles of letters. His finished portrait drew from him the ejaculation: "I was agitated, eh?"

"Not agitated, animated," corrected Miss Oakley gently.

Then, if one really wants to know what draws women to Geneva, look at the portrait of H. E. Monsieur Hjalmar J. Procopé, the handsomest young man one could meet in a month of Sundays.

Among the portraits of women are the brilliant likenesses of Mme. Tilma Hainari, called the Jane Addams of Finland, of Mrs. Pennybacker, president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs, a fascinating portrait of Dame Rachel Crowdy, and of Mme. Olivia Rossetti-Agresti.

There is really no point in drawing a line of distinction between any of these portraits, however. They are all well done and all most interesting. The exhibit will continue another week.

News of Interest to Lovers of Art.

In the Marshall Field gallery is a delightful exhibition of portraits in oil by Evelyn Bargelt. The artist has been particularly successful in her portrait of Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, which is a truly lovely canvas. The "Mrs. Mary Bargelt" is deliciously simple and sweet, and the "George Arliss" is stunning. "Col. George T. Langhorne" is another man's portrait which strikes one as being more than ordinarily good. The radiant portrait of Mrs. Philys Potter is fascinating in its color scheme of orchid. A luminous quality in the paint would make it noteworthy in any company. The exhibit will continue another week and is worth seeing.

Three important exhibitions are scheduled for November. The Hoosier salon announces an exhibition of the work of Wayman Adams from Nov. 12 to Nov. 24 at the Drake hotel. Mr. Adams is by all odds one of the finest portrait painters America has ever had, and possibly the finest American portrait painter working today. In fact it would be difficult to find his superior here or abroad. He is an acknowledged master.

An arresting incident in the Wayman Adams exhibition will be Mr. Adams' demonstration of portrait painting Wednesday evening, Nov. 14, at the Drake hotel. This will be an event which no one should miss, certainly no artist should. It is a breathlessly exciting adventure to watch a canvas come to life under Mr. Adams' sure touch.

The All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts will open its ninth annual art exhibition on Nov. 24 in the Stevens hotel. The jury for this will sit next Wednesday morning, Nov. 7.

Frederic Dalrymple will have a one-man show of water colors in the Highland Park Woman's club, Nov. 6 to 20. His work will be shown again from Feb. 15 to March 15 in the Peoria public library.

The department of museum instruction of the Art institute announces several interesting lecture courses for November. "The Art of Today" will be discussed by Miss Helen Parker in six lectures beginning Nov. 5 at 11 o'clock and continuing on successive Mondays. Tuesdays at 11 o'clock Miss Mackenzie will give illustrated talks on "The Architecture of Spain," a country from which she has recently returned. Fridays at 11 o'clock, Miss Parker will conduct a series of six lectures on the important pictures in the Louvre, Prado, Uffizi, and other foreign museums. This course started last Friday, but as each lecture is complete in itself the next five talks are open to new visitors.

A new evening course on the decorative arts wing and the oriental collections of the Art institute is to be given on Mondays at 6:15, starting tomorrow.

Quiet Flurry of Parties Will End Newport Season

NEWPORT, R. I.

There will be one last flareup this week-end before the season is definitly over. Many residents will be at their homes for election day. The Casino, which closed its fifty-fourth season on Wednesday, will be open informally for the voting members of the colony; as will the country club which has just finished its forty-first season.

Among those returning to vote are Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice, who are at Miramar until the middle of the week; Mrs. Nicholas Brown and her sister, Mrs. George Grenville Merrill, who have come from Chicago; and Mr. and Mrs. William Fitz Hugh Whitehouse, who are at Stone Villa.

Others here include Mrs. Amos Tuck French, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Louis L. Lorillard, at Pine Lodge; Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Andrews, and Princess Miguel de Braganza.

CONTRARY MARY
WOULDN'T EAT VEGETABLES AND HATED MILK — UNTIL....
MARY, DEAR--YOU AREN'T EATING YOUR CARROTS AT ALL--AND YOU SIMPLY HAVEN'T TOUCHED YOUR MILK.
DON'T CARE, MAMA. I DON'T LIKE 'EM AND I'M NOT HUNGRY AND I WON'T EAT 'EM.
REALLY—SHE GETS MORE CONTRARY EVERY DAY--SIMPLY WON'T EAT A THING... YOU KNOW ABOUT CHILD WELFARE PROBLEMS, JULIA--TELL ME WHAT TO DO.
IT PROBABLY ISN'T "CONTRARINESS" AT ALL, CARRIE. HER APPETITE NEEDS STIMULATION. WHY DON'T YOU TRY GIVING HER OVALTINE?
OVALTINE? YOU MEAN THAT SWISS FOOD-DRINK YOU HEAR SO MUCH ABOUT THESE DAYS?
YES--AND THE WAY IT HELPS POOR EATERS EAT IS SIMPLY SURPRISING. OFTEN BUILDS THEM UP AT THE RATE OF A POUND A WEEK OR MORE!
OVALTINE, PLEASE!
LATER
WELL, THANK HEAVENS WE'VE FOUND A WAY TO GET MILK DOWN HER AT LAST—WITHOUT ALL THAT BICKERING AND FUSSING.
GEE, MAMA--YOU WOULDN'T KNOW THERE WAS MILK IN THIS AT ALL. IT TASTES EVEN BETTER'N A CHOCOLATE SODA.
WHAT! ANOTHER HELPING OF SPINACH! SAY, YOUNG LADY, YOU MUST BE OUT AFTER THE EATING CHAMPIONSHIP. NOTHING "PICKY" ABOUT YOUR APPETITE THESE DAYS!
...AN' I WANT ANOTHER POTATO --AND SOME MORE OVALTINE, TOO.
STILL LATER
SAY, GIRLS—LOOK AT THIS! FIVE POUNDS' GAIN IN EXACTLY THIRTY DAYS!
SEE, CARRIE, WHAT DID I TELL YOU!
SCORE ONE FOR YOU, JULIA! YOU CERTAINLY DID YOUR "DAILY GOOD DEED" WHEN YOU TOLD ME ABOUT OVALTINE!
K. GUNNOR

Mothers! Here's How Ovaltine Helps to Make a Child Hungry!

WHEN a child seems "contrary" and "won't eat" there are two important things you can do to help. First, give him food that is very easy to digest. Second, give him food that is rich in appetite-producing Vitamin B.

It is for these, amongst other virtues, that Ovaltine is gaining world recognition as an important food for child building. For Ovaltine is not only rich in Vitamin B—but is processed so that it digests very quickly—even at times when digestion is impaired.

These features are tremendously important. For specialists will tell you that a poor eater is usually a child with poor or slow digestion. The stomach doesn't empty soon enough to produce the feeling of hunger for the next meal. That's why he shuns his regular food, such as vegetables and milk.

But once appetite is stimulated in a scientific way—the old objection to every-day foods gradually disappears. Very frequently he even relishes vegetables and other foods to which he formerly objected . . . and weight is often added at the rate of a pound a week or more.

For the sake of your child, try Ovaltine. You can get Ovaltine at any drug or grocery store—and results may surprise you. Or, if you like, send the coupon for a trial supply.

NOTE: Thousands of people, men and women, are using Ovaltine to restore vitality when fatigued. It is also highly recommended by physicians as a strengthening food for nursing mothers, convalescents, and the aged. When taken as a hot drink at bedtime, it usually induces sound sleep quickly.

IF YOUR CHILD IS UNDERWEIGHT OR A FUSSY EATER--SEND THIS IN AND SEE FOR YOURSELF WHAT OVALTINE CAN DO.

How to be comfortable in bed

FAULTLESS NOBELT • THE ONE REAL IMPROVEMENT IN PAJAMAS • LETS YOU SLEEP IN COMFORT

"The drawstrings on my old-fashioned pajamas were like manila rope. Every time I'd turn or toss in the night that rope would take another pinch around my middle. No wonder I often woke up tired."

"I've gotten rid of the rope that ruins sleep. This Nobelt waistband is so soft and gentle you never know it's there, so comfortable I sleep like a baby." (This striped sateen is one of a handsome group. $2.65 to $3.50)

NOBELT STAYS UP WITHOUT NOTICEABLE PRESSURE

The popular middy style is of smoothly woven cotton, with piped collar and pocket. The seated man wears light colored broadcloth with striped collar and pocket top. Both are $2.65

● If your waistline could talk, it would say, "Thank you, mister," after your first night in Faultless Nobelt Pajamas. No drawstrings to bite into your flesh. No drawstrings to rope you like a lassoed steer. No drawstrings to slip loose when you're roaming around out of bed. No drawstrings—just a supple, yielding, resilient waistband that holds your pajama trousers up without a bit of noticeable pressure.

The patented Faultless Nobelt is tailored into pajamas by Wilson Brothers exclusively. The only real improvement in pajamas, it lets you sleep in comfort. These pajamas are cut full size, too, and finely tailored. Try Faultless Nobelt Pajamas tomorrow night and learn how it feels to have a real good night's rest. In all fashionable styles, fabrics and colors, from $1.95 to $13.50.

WHY FAULTLESS NOBELT IS UNCONDITIONALLY GUARANTEED

● The Nobelt waistband is unconditionally guaranteed for the life of the garment. It is a broad, flat band of live sheet rubber which withstands severe mistreatment, because: (1) the rubber is chemically treated to stop oxidation. (2) it is rubber at rest, under no tension except while the garment is being worn. Nobelt is not like elastic webbing. Just a few tiny rubber threads are used in elastic webbing. To supply sufficient tension they must be stretched about 100% before being woven into the waistband. Each rubber thread is always under tension. It "gets tired" soon, loses its resilience, and the pajama is ruined. Remember, Faultless Nobelt is unconditionally guaranteed.

Blondes
why be blind?

DON'T shut your eyes to the fact that blonde hair requires special care. Its texture is so delicate that ordinary shampoo methods may cause it to fade, streak or darken.

Yet now it's easy to keep blonde hair always lovely. For there is a wonderful shampoo, called Blondex, especially made for blonde hair only, that will bring out all its rich, golden beauty. Helps keep light hair from darkening. Brings back the true golden sparkle to dull, dark, faded and streaked blonde hair. Not a dye. Safe. Leaves hair soft, fluffy, silky. Used by millions of blondes.

FREE—TRIAL PACKAGE

To get a generous trial package of Blondex entirely free, just send your name and address to Swedish Shampoo Laboratories, Dept. G-1, 27 West 20th St., New York City. Buy Blondex at any good drug or department store—either the economical $1.00 bottle or inexpensive 25c size.

Softly.. but insistently.. it whispers "Romance"!

How well, how vividly, remembered—the first meeting with Evening in Paris! It was a girl—and, perhaps, not a girl, but a gracious lady with the distinction born of long assurance of her charm. Whoever she was—when one met her—there was something that set one to dreaming—something that breathed romance—something that said more compellingly than mere appearance, "here is a fascinating creature." That something was the gaily romantic atmosphere, the very spirit, of an Evening in Paris, caught in the stirring perfume she wore.

For you, too, Evening in Paris perfume will whisper your charm, your mystery, your invitation to romance. Ask for it at your favorite toiletry counter.

"MADAME... what you suspected about hand lotions is TRUE!"

"Your own experience proves that ordinary methods of hand care aren't successful. These so-called 'softeners' try to feed the skin from the outside—to soften it artificially. That is impossible!"

The only way to really soften skin—science tells us—is to use a method that works with Nature. Now at last comes a lotion that does this.

Velure

SENSATIONAL NEW LOTION
helps Nature keep hands soft by restoring flow of natural oils

- Velure immediately softens the outer skin, of course. But it does more. The secret of Velure's amazing success is that it is quickly absorbed to the underskin where it protects and aids Nature's own oil cells and thus restores the normal flow of natural softening oils to the outer skin. Velure leaves no artificial veneer on your hands—no thick, sticky coating that may clog the pores.

To keep your hands always smooth and soft use Velure every day, especially after dish washing, exposure to weather, and washing the hands.

SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY OFFER 1¢

Your druggist or department store will sell you a purse-size bottle of Velure (holds 6 day supply) for just 1¢. Limit of one to a customer.

With this purse-size bottle comes a money-saving coupon. Save it. Try Velure—then present this coupon to your dealer. For the coupon and 39¢, he will give you a regular 50¢ bottle of Velure. But hurry! This special introductory offer expires December 1, 1934.

★ "The Forgotten 60"

WOULD any mother knowingly expose her child to needless risk? Unthinkable! Yet thousands of mothers allow decay to attack their children's teeth because their dentifrices fail to reach the hidden areas between the teeth.

Decay of children's first teeth is serious. It may affect their health—their future good looks. Guard those baby teeth as you do your own. Use a dentifrice that cleans and protects all the surfaces of the teeth—not simply those that can be reached by the brush.

Calox Cleans All Surfaces

Calox Tooth Powder is scientifically designed to reach every part of the tooth-surface. In the mouth it releases tiny, penetrating bubbles of oxygen, which foam into the narrowest crevices, purging away germs, deodorizing food debris. At the same time it creates a mild antacid, milk of lime, to neutralize the acids of decay.

With the safest known polishing substance, Calox whitens the teeth and restores them to lustrous beauty. It sweetens the breath and cleanses the gums, keeping them healthy.

Do you want your children's teeth—and your own—to be really clean? Forget old-fashioned methods. Try the modern Calox way. Pleasant. Refreshing. Marvelously effective!

A 50% Saving

When you buy Calox you save half. The handy-size package, costing no more than ordinary tooth-pastes, lasts twice as long! In the family size you get a full 5 months' supply!

Flood of Gold Pours Into TVA Projects

By Arthur Evans

IN THE Tennessee valley the traveler today sees a Utopian dream walking and talking to the tune of hundreds of millions of dollars of federal tax money.

The water-shed is the seat of the New Deal experiment in seeking to arrange society and to regiment industry and agriculture for the 2,242,000 residents of the valley. When the Tennessee Valley Authority, known as the TVA, was set up somewhat more than a year ago, it was hailed by the brain trust as the first large-scale project in social and economic planning ever undertaken by a government outside of soviet Russia.

Over this venture in paternalism is much conflict of opinion. Critics say the dream may become a nightmare when the project has to be paid for later by taxes, collected most largely in the industrial states. Other criticisms are that the TVA is putting the government into private business—in the electrical and fertilizer industries as a starter. As a rival against private enterprise in the power field it is accused of using cutthroat methods and of wielding government funds as a sandbag.

The Tennessee river is formed just above Knoxville, in eastern Tennessee, by the confluence of the French Broad and Holston rivers. In its length of 652 miles it loops into Alabama, nicks a corner of Mississippi, and flows northward through western Tennessee and Kentucky to Paducah, where it joins the Ohio. In its rambles it has a fall of 498 feet.

The basin of the river embraces 99 counties in seven states, with about 1,000 cities, villages, and towns. It covers some 40,600 square miles. Of its 2,242,000 population 52 per cent is on farms. The basin has 801,000 gainful workers 10 years of age or over. Some 10 per cent of its inhabitants, 238,000, are Negroes.

Plan New Social Order

Through TVA the New Deal purposes to develop a new social order in the valley through electricity developed from the 498 feet of fall in the river. Hydroelectric energy is to be the basis for the planned society. TVA workers deem the valley the spot where "rugged individualism" will be knocked out of the ring.

As to the cost, money is nothing to worry about, not with the federal treasury as angel. While the Tennessee river, turbid with silt, rolls its ribbon of golden mud down to Knoxville, from TVA headquarters in that city surges forth a flood of gold from the United States treasury. Knoxville itself has the air of a mining camp that has just struck pay dirt.

Expense is mounting to keep pace with the dreams of the burocrats. Originally TVA had an appropriation of 50 million dollars and power to put out 50 millions of bonds. These bonds have not been issued, but TVA, now 17 months old, has made commitments for the first 50 millions and has been given 40 millions more by congress and expects 8 millions more this year.

The cost is to run $310,000,000 over a five-year period for the water power development end alone of the project, as figured by TVA.

At present water power stands out as the main thing. Socialization of the inhabitants and the planning of their work and economic lives are to come later.

Norris dam, on the Clinch river, formerly called the Cove Creek dam, some 25 miles northwest of Knoxville, is the great center of activities just now. It is to cost 34 million dollars. About $3,234,000 has been spent this year.

One dam follows another dam. As the Utopian dream is now unfolded it has become a seven-dam project. The Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, which with its hydroelectric equipment cost the government 47 million dollars, is not profitable without Norris dam. So TVA says.

Wilson and Norris dams in turn need other dams. So the Wheeler dam is being built 15 miles above the Wilson dam. It will create a reservoir some 80 miles long and 100 square miles in area.

Wheeler dam is to cost 38 million dollars, of which about 4 million has been spent. Up to July the expenditures of TVA up and down the valley were placed at $17,789,000.

Four other dams are to be started with the 40 million dollars recently given by congress, according to the testimony a few weeks ago at Washington of Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, head of TVA. One dam is to be on the Hiwassee river not far from Chattanooga. Another is to be on the French Broad river above Asheville, N. C., and this proposal has got the inhabitants of the Henderson valley up in arms against it. These two streams are tributaries of the Tennessee, and the dams are for storage of water to be let out when water is low at Muscle Shoals.

Hundreds of Millions

Some 42 miles above Paducah, Ky., a dam is projected for Aurora Landing at a cost of 42 million dollars. It will form a pool 150 miles long and 2 or 3 miles wide. At Pickwick Landing, near Shiloh national military park and cemetery, another dam is to cost 39 millions.

The cost of the water power development as gathered from the Washington hearings is as follows:

Six dams:
Norris	$34,000,000
Wheeler	38,000,000
Hiwassee	13,000,000
French Broad	30,000,000
Aurora	42,000,000
Pickwick Landing	39,000,000
Bridges put out of use	4,000,000
		$200,000,000
Power distributing system		100,000,000
Fertilizer plants		10,000,000
		$310,000,000

This expenditure, it is figured, will develop the Tennessee water-shed power resources as an integrated system, although there is a private dam near Chattanooga which the engineers deem ought to be absorbed.

Add 37 millions already spent on Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals — 10 million of the 47 million cost being chalked off for navigation — and the power development, it seems, will cost the government around $350,000,000. TVA estimates 30 per cent should be knocked off as spent for navigation purposes.

The TVA directors say the program ought to pay for itself within 25 years after it gets on its feet, but this is met with skepticism.

The seven-dam $350,000,000 project is expected to develop 2 million kilowatts of installed power, of which 750,000 kilowatts will be primary or all-year-around power. With all this expensive program, the valley now furnishes no adequate market. David E. Lilienthal, power director of TVA, has been quoted as saying the region now has 30 to 35 per cent more generating capacity than the market absorbs. The power companies say their rated generating capacity is one billion kilowatt hours more than is now being marketed.

What TVA emphasizes is that the power development will furnish a yardstick to measure relative costs of private and public operation. On this strong diversities of opinion have sprung up. Foremost is the old controversy between engineering experts as to whether in a given region power can be developed as cheaply from water as from generating stations fueled by coal.

Chairman Morgan, himself a noted engineer, concedes this is a matter of technological dispute.

Chemicals from the Air, Vital on Farm and Battlefield, a Triumph of the Laboratory

By Thomas M. Beck

ABOUT fifty years ago Chile waged a successful war of conquest against Peru and as the only spoils of victory received a large stretch of sandy desert. This desert was quite valuable, however since beneath its surface lay immense beds of a soft, sandy rock that consisted to the extent of about half its weight of two valuable chemicals sodium nitrate and potassium nitrate. There were no other reserves of nitrates anywhere else in the world, and Chile proceeded to make the most of its monopoly. Assured of a large and continual source of national income the Chileans settled back to lead easy and prosperous lives. But during the last fifteen years, as a result of the activity of a few German chemists and engineers they have seen these nitrate beds become almost a national liability and are now facing the painful problem of trying to find some new source of income for the country.

But before going on with this story it might be well to explain why nitrates are so important. The element nitrogen is an important component of all living material. And while the air around us is four-fifths nitrogen this nitrogen is uncombined with other elements and happens to be too unreactive to be assimilated by living matter, and so might just as well not be there. In order to be useful to plants and animals, it must be "fixed," that is, combined with certain elements. The two most important forms of combined nitrogen are ammonia (NH_3) and nitric acid (HNO_3). Both of these, and especially ammonia, are needed to supply the ever increasing world demand for fertilizers; and nitric acid has the additional value of being the one essential ingredient in the manufacture of all explosives. Prior to about thirty years ago, most of the world's ammonia was obtained as a by-product from the manufacture of coal gas and coke, while the source of the nitric acid was Chilean nitrate.

But it was a fact that the sources of such highly essential commodities would some day be exhausted. At the start of the century the great British physicist, Crookes, painted a most gloomy picture of the white race, immersed in an ocean of nitrogen, starving to death for lack of it in the right form. This dreadful prospect spurred many scientists on to try to find some means of tapping the limitless reservoir of air. The first commercially practical method known as the Birkeland-Eyde process was first put into operation about 1905. It consists of blowing wind through a huge electric arc. At the inconceivably high temperature of the arc the nitrogen and the oxygen of the air combine to the extent of a few per cent, to form a colorless gas known as nitric oxide. The mixture is cooled rapidly whereupon the nitric oxide combines with some of the rest of the oxygen forming nitrogen peroxide, an unpleasant red gas. This gas, still mixed with air, is then bubbled through hot water, which converts it into nitric acid. This method while leaving nothing to be desired in the way of cheapness and availability of its raw materials unfortunately requires a tremendous amount of electrical power to run the arc. About 70,000 kilowatt hours are used up for each ton of nitrogen fixed. Consequently, the process is nearly obsolete at present. It is used only in a few out of the way places in Norway where there is a lot of water power and not much else to use it for.

A second method is the cyanamide process, developed in 1908. Calcium carbide is the raw material. This substance is well known for its power to generate the inflammable acetylene gas when mixed with water and is prepared by heating lime and coke in an electric furnace. When heated to 2000°F. and a current of nitrogen passed over it, the carbide absorbs the gas to form calcium cyanamide which in turn on treatment with water yields ammonia. This method which is the one for which the Muscle Shoals plant was built uses only a fifth of the power that the Birkeland-Eyde process does, but it is not quite so efficient as the later Haber process. However, it is by no means obsolete at the present time.

Since ammonia is a compound of nitrogen and hydrogen, the obvious method of trying to prepare it would seem to be that of bringing these two elements together and making them stick. The late Prof. Haber undertook this problem about thirty years ago in Germany, and while he found that its solution was a theoretical possibility, the practical difficulties were great enough to make commercial application rather improbable.

But in 1914 came the World war and the British fleet blockaded Germany in the confident hope of shutting off its supply of nitrates and therefore of its munitions. Consequently it became imperative for the Germans to investigate fully every possible source of nitrogen fixation. Great sums of money were placed at Haber's disposal and within a year or so he had developed a beautiful method of synthesizing ammonia thereby freeing the Fatherland from any further worry about a possible munitions shortage.

It may be of interest at this time to mention the subsequent fate of Haber. This outstanding scientist who had rendered a greater service to his country in its hour of need than any one else, was compelled to resign his positions and honors early last year because certain authorities felt that he was incapable of becoming a good German. He retired to Switzerland where he died shortly afterward.

This process of combining nitrogen and hydrogen involves all manner of technical difficulties. Haber had figured out that the reaction gave the best yields at very high pressures and low temperatures. But at low temperatures it goes on at an immeasurably slow rate, and Germany could not afford to wait a thousand years for its fixed nitrogen. Consequently it became necessary to find a catalyst for the reaction. A catalyst is a substance the presence of which speeds up a reaction in some mysterious way without itself undergoing any permanent change. The one chosen for this reaction was a special form of powdered iron.

Now the chief trouble in using catalysts is the fact that they are delicate things and are very easily poisoned by the presence of traces of certain impurities. This particular iron catalyst proved to be unusually sensitive toward these poisons and it was necessary to expend vast amounts of ingenuity and labor to find ways of preparing super-pure nitrogen and hydrogen. It was found that the best yield of ammonia could be obtained by running the reaction at 1000°F and under several thousand pounds pressure. Under these conditions, the hydrogen weakened the steel walls of the container, with the result that the whole plant occasionally blew up, but the engineers eventually solved this problem.

Of course, ammonia is not nitric acid, the parent of explosives, so the whole process would have been useless from a wartime standpoint had it not been for the simultaneous development of the Ostwald method of making this change. Ammonia when mixed with air and passed over a catalyst of hot platinum, is burned to nitric acid. Since this reaction gives off a lot of heat no power is needed for it. All that is necessary is that the ammonia be diluted with the correct amount of air to keep the platinum at exactly the right temperature.

With the return of peace, the Germans had the trick of fixing nitrogen so well worked out that they were able to challenge the Chilean monopoly. The natural nitrate magnates fought back with every trick that they could think of, such as price fixing and output restriction, but all they succeeded in doing was to encourage their rivals' expansion. The result is shown by the Chileans share of the world nitrogen market which dropped from 65 per cent in 1909 to 50 per cent in 1913 to 20 per cent in 1927 and to 10 per cent in 1931. So it would appear that Prof. Crookes' dire prophecies were groundless. Instead, worried bankers gather together these days and try to figure out what can possibly be done with the world's surplus fixed nitrogen.

Scientific Queries Answered

Mr. Beck will be glad to answer questions of scientific nature. Address Thomas M. Beck, Graphic Section, Chicago Tribune. For personal reply, inclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Recently I have been reading about a new synthetic rubber that is being prepared. Is this a result of the work that Edison was doing some years back?—R. R. L., Chicago.

No. Edison was looking for a new source of natural rubber. This new rubber differs chemically from the natural product and perhaps should be called an imitation rather than a synthetic rubber. This does not imply that it is inferior to the natural product. As a matter of fact, in some respects it appears to be superior, but it is still too expensive to find any great general use.

How do the refineries recover or separate the gold in jewelry from the base metals?—E. R. C., Chicago.

The lower metals, such as copper can be removed by heating the alloy with sulphur, nitre or some such oxidizing agent. The silver is separated from the gold on a large scale by complex electrical methods; on a small scale, by treatment with sulphuric acid or with aqua regia (a mixture of nitric and hydrochloric acids).

Are the differently colored neon lights all made by using the same neon gas?—C. W. H., Danville Ill.

No. Neon itself produces only the red color. Other colors must be made by using other gases.

Jap Police Radio Car

(Acme photo.)

POLICE of Tokio, Japan, recently have been equipped with two-way radio squad cars for patrol duty. This picture shows the first car of the fleet. The radio receiver gets the special calls and bulletins sent out at intervals from the police radio station, and a radio telephone in the car enables the police on patrol to call headquarters at any time. Most American city police departments now have radio equipped squad cars, but few of them are two-way radios.

More Consecutive Twins

THESE children, as you may guess, compose two more teams of consecutive twins. At the right are Otto and Robert Born, who will be 11 years old next December 27th. At left are Alfred and Alma Born, who were 13 years old on September 5th. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. E. Born of 1827 West 34th place, Chicago. Since the first picture of consecutive twins appeared in these columns several weeks ago, the pictures of nine more pairs have been received.

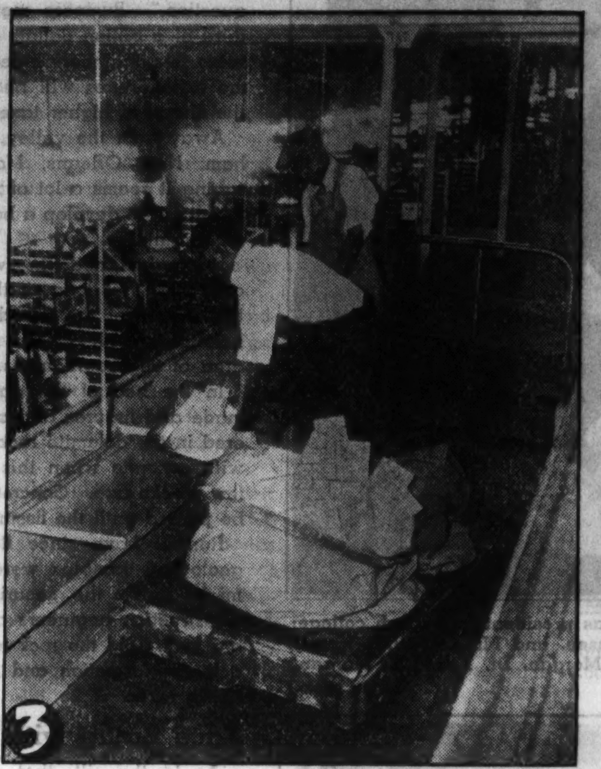
A Letter from Chicago to St. Louis

What happens to a letter after it is placed in the corner mail box? Let's follow one and see. Here is Miss Evelyn Hirsch of Chicago, pictured as she places a letter to a friend in St. Louis in the letter box at Chicago and Laramie avenues at about 7 p. m. The letter, of course, bears a three-cent postage stamp and is properly addressed. At the moment it is placed in the box it becomes part of the United States mails and the responsibility for its transportation and delivery to the addressee automatically passes to the postoffice department. The letter remains in the box until the time of the next scheduled collection.

It is about 8:30 p. m. A mail collector, driving a postoffice truck, stops at the letter box at Chicago and Laramie avenues. Into a canvas bag shaped like a valise he dumps all of the mail contained in the letter box. He is just completing his collection rounds and his next stop is the Cragin subpostoffice station. There the mail he has collected is transferred at 9 p. m. to a larger truck, which takes the mail to the general postoffice at Canal street and Jackson boulevard.



At the main postoffice the canvas bags of collected mail are placed in an elevator and taken up to one of the several mail-distributing floors. It is now 10:15 p. m. The bags are loaded on hand trucks and pushed along a mezzanine runway. At intervals the man pushing the truck dumps all of the mail in a bag down a metal chute. This is bulk mail, just as it was collected. It may contain air mail letters, parcel post packages, etc.

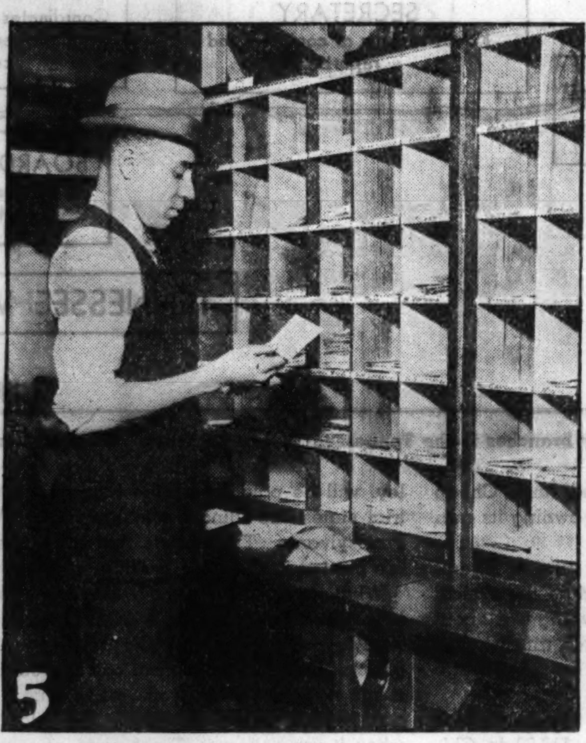
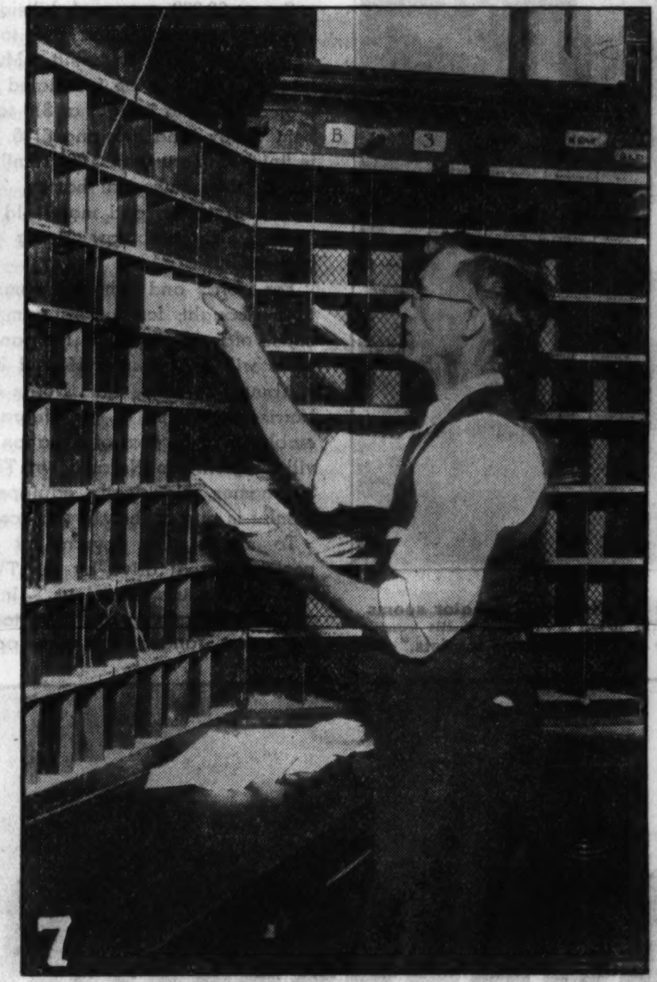
The mail dropped into the chute tumbles down onto a table below, in front of which are seated half a dozen workers. These men and women sort out the various classifications of mail. There are two moving belts in front and above them. Packages and air mail letters are tossed on these belts, to be taken to the proper distributing room. First class letters are placed on another moving belt directly in front of them. The letters then pass through a machine, shown in foreground, which cancels the stamp and prints the postmark on each letter.

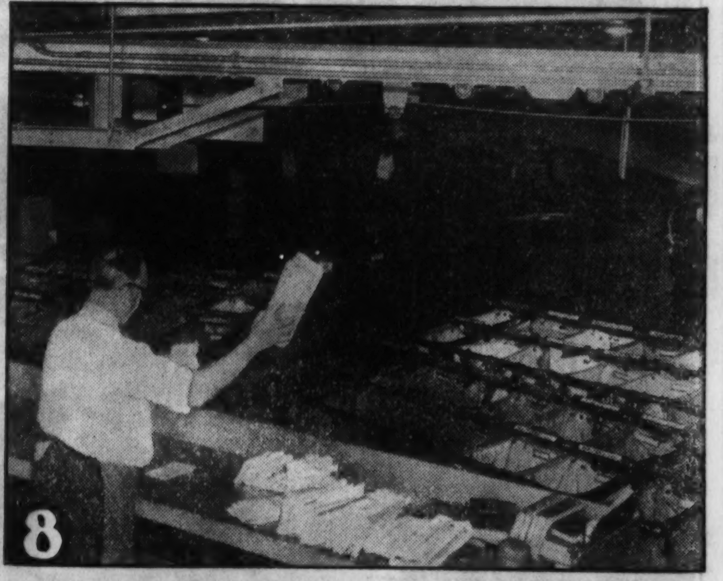


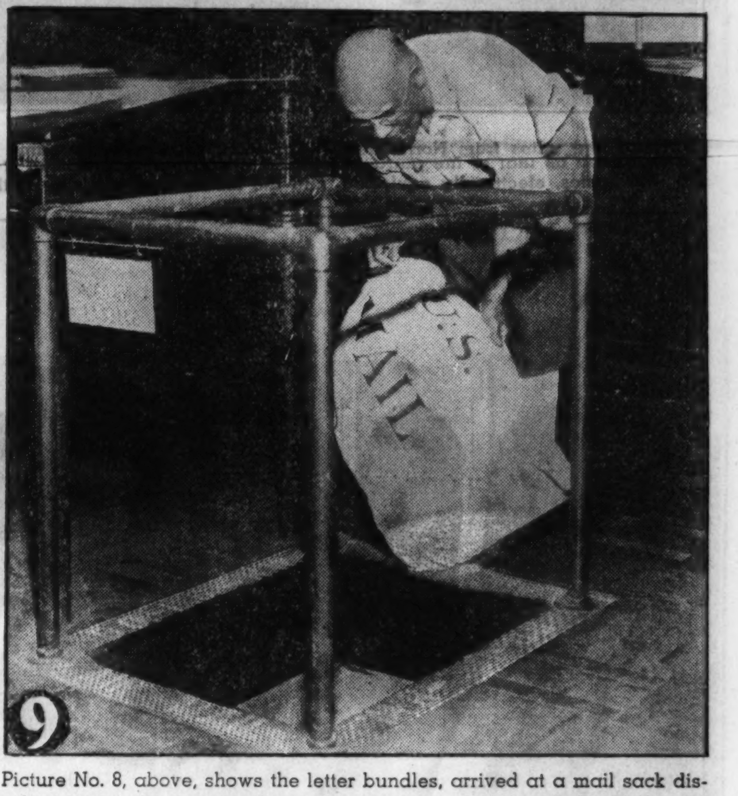
The postmarked letters are gathered up in bunches and taken to a primary distribution unit, of which there are many. Here the letters are distributed into cubbyholes marked with the names of the various states. The picture shows the clerk placing Miss Hirsch's letter to St. Louis in the Missouri box. The postmark showing the time of cancellation reads 10:30 p. m. The clerk is an expert and quickly distributes dozens of letters into the proper boxes, from which they are collected at frequent intervals.

Letters collected from the primary distribution units are placed in metal box containers, a separate box for each state. The boxes are put on a moving belt which delivers them to the secondary distributing units. This belt, of metal, and the boxes are parts of a mechanism. When a box of letters destined for Missouri is placed on the belt the box is automatically delivered to the Missouri distributing unit. This destination is on the opposite side of the building.

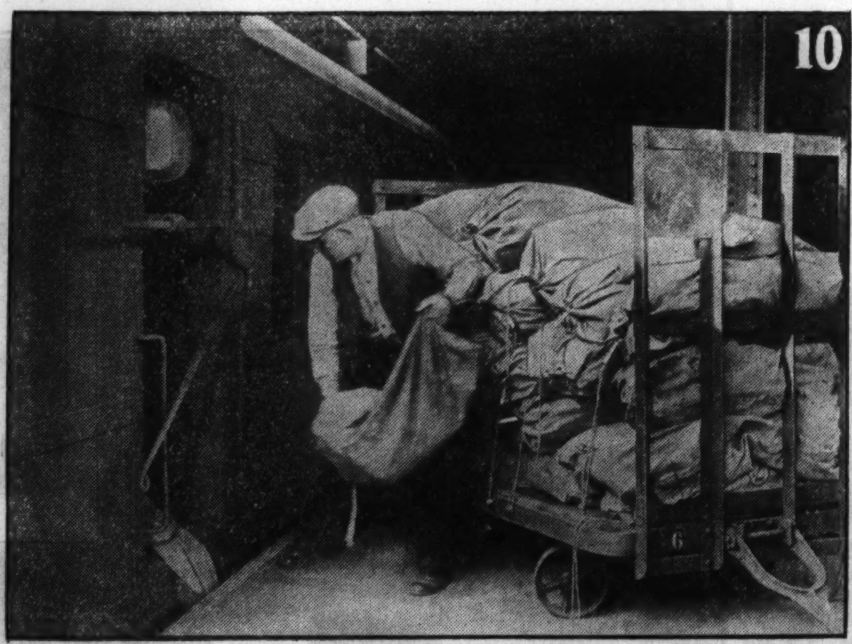


The letters for Missouri, having been delivered to the secondary distributing unit, are now redistributed into cubbyholes bearing the names of the various towns and cities of Missouri. It is now about 11 p. m. At intervals, when one of the cubbyholes is filled, the letters for St. Louis, as an example, are tied with string into a bundle. All of the Missouri bundles next are placed on a moving belt which takes them to a mail sack distributing unit, along with bundles of letters from other secondary distributing units. The secondary distribution requires only a short time and it is now only a few minutes after 11 p. m. The clerk is holding the St. Louis letter.

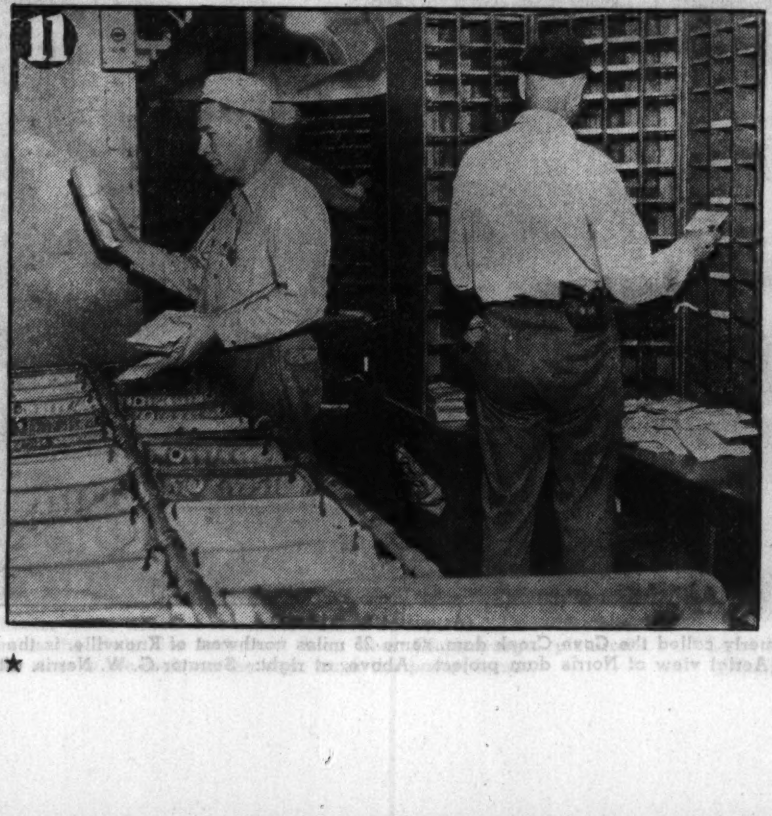




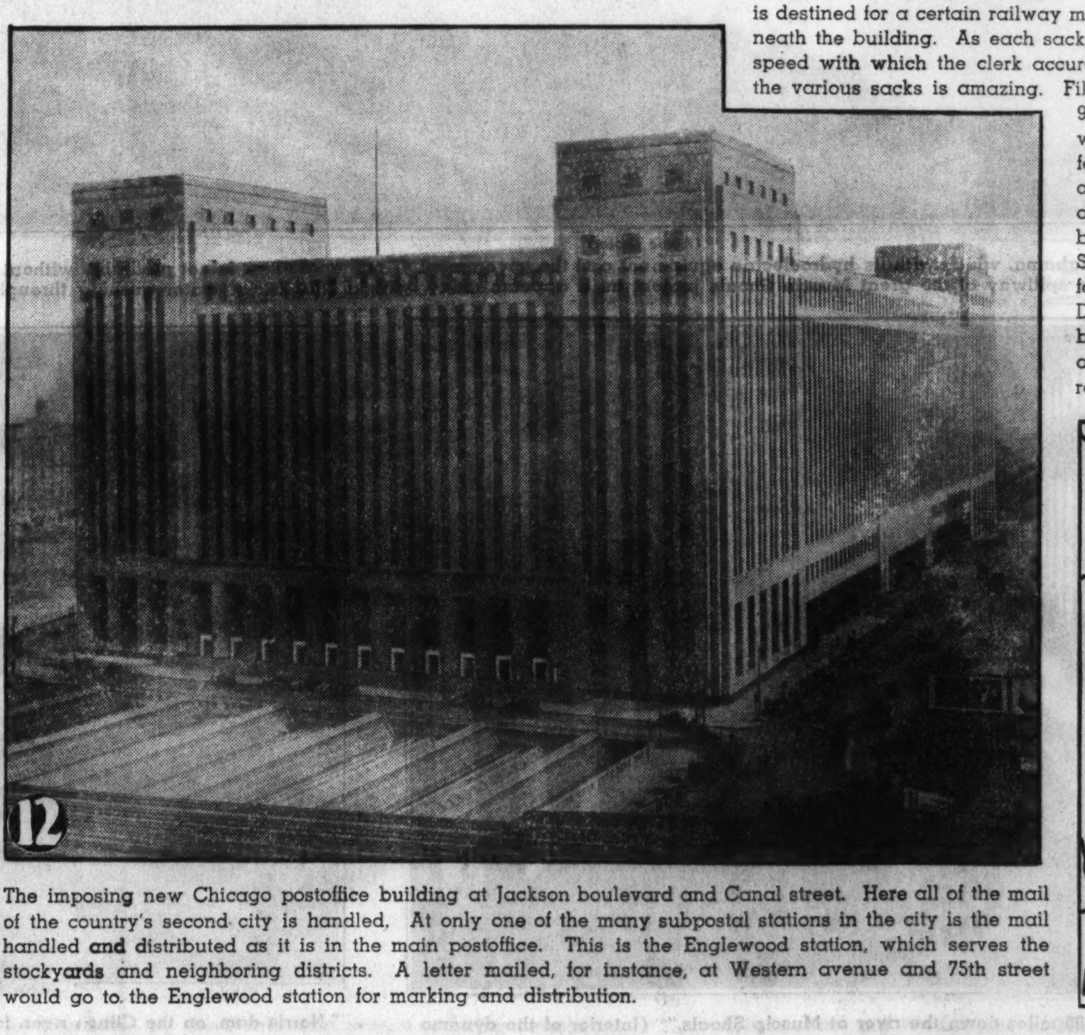
Picture No. 8, above, shows the letter bundles, arrived at a mail sack distributing unit, being tossed into the various sacks by a clerk. Each sack is destined for a certain railway mail car waiting on the tracks underneath the building. As each sack is filled it is tied and locked. The speed with which the clerk accurately tosses the letter bundles into the various sacks is amazing. Filled sacks, as shown in picture No. 9, are taken to a chute, through which they drop to the train platforms below. The Missouri sacks are dropped through the chute at about 11:15 p. m. On the platform below they are put on hand trucks. Since late afternoon the train platforms have presented a busy scene. Dozens of loaded hand trucks are being wheeled back and forth, to and from the incoming and outgoing railway mail cars along the platforms.



Sacks of mail for Missouri are wheeled on the hand trucks to a waiting railway mail car, which will be part of a train of the Chicago and Alton railroad, leaving the Union station at 11:30 p. m. Railway mail cars, dozens of them, are lined up along the platforms. Some have just come in and are being unloaded; others are about to leave for east, west, and south, carrying mail. At the side of the mail car in the picture can be seen the metal bar used to pick up mail at way stations while the train is moving at full speed. Clerks inside the car already are working on the mail.



Inside the mail car bound for Missouri there is considerable activity. It is getting close to 11:30 p. m. The sacks delivered from the hand trucks on the platform have been opened and placed in racks. The bundles of letters, each marked for a specific Missouri postoffice, are now rearranged. Letters destined for St. Louis and the larger towns are untied and distributed over again in accordance with the district mail routes of the cities. This distribution is for the purpose of saving time. The train is due to arrive in St. Louis at 6:45 a. m. The letters for St. Louis, by that time, will be in bundles addressed to the various postal districts of the city. No time will be lost in getting the letters into the first morning delivery, completed before 10.30 a. m.



The imposing new Chicago postoffice building at Jackson boulevard and Canal street. Here all of the mail of the country's second city is handled. At only one of the many subpostal stations in the city is the mail handled and distributed as it is in the main postoffice. This is the Englewood station, which serves the stockyards and neighboring districts. A letter mailed, for instance, at Western avenue and 75th street would go to the Englewood station for marking and distribution.

Hundreds of Millions for

"But," he says, "the TVA project will settle the question." Business men in valley cities say a third of a billion dollars is quite a price to pay to settle this engineering doubt, especially as later on the expenditures will be coming home to roost in the shape of higher taxes.

Away from the valley, men in Atlanta, Birmingham, New Orleans, Montgomery, Memphis, are saying it seems a lot of money for the government to put out to develop a basin containing 2¼ million inhabitants.

Norris dam, near Knoxville, is to be 253 feet high and 1,800 feet long at the crest. It will impound the waters of the Clinch river and form an artificial lake with a shore line of 800 miles and an area of 80 square miles.

In the bed of the damsite borings have been made and fissures and crevices have been discovered in the dolomite rock. These were being filled with concrete when this writer visited the dam a few weeks ago. Concrete for the dam was not to be poured until the fissures were filled.

Rumors have since floated in the region that geological troubles were being encountered that might make the security of the dam doubtful. Construction engineers at the dam, at the time of our visit, held the rock faults were not unusual for dolomite formation and said full precautions were being taken

Face Battle with Mud

As to the silt, that is another problem. The Tennessee is as muddy as the Missouri. The soil washes off the hillsides. A battle against erosion and for reforestation is part of the TVA program which is well applauded. But the silt is still in the river water, and, once the water is gathered into reservoirs, much of the mud settles to the bottom. In North Carolina two dams are spoken of by TVA where the silt has almost filled the reservoirs, until the dams now get only the run of the river.

Some 60,000 acres of hillside now are being bought for reforestation and to protect the reservoirs from filling with silt. Much more is to be bought. Land to be inundated by the Norris dam project is being bought at $10 to $30 an acre, some best valley land bringing $100. When Norris dam is finished more than 3,000 families will have to be out of their ancestral homes. Some hamlets will be under water, and many old cemeteries, bodies from which are now being removed to other grounds.

For Norris and Wheeler dams 240,000 acres are to be bought; for Aurora dam, 200,000. For purchase of land alone, Dr. Morgan says, the expenditures will be between 15 and 30 million dollars.

About four miles from Norris dam is the town of Norris—the name of the Nebraska senator seems emblazoned as that of a patron saint in the Knoxville region. In Norris town TVA has built some 300 homes, electrically equipped, and the model hamlet is one of the show places for tourists.

To market the government ownership electric power a great drive by the TVA is to make the region "electric conscious." Intensive campaigns are being made to get folks to put in electric refrigerators, ranges, and other appliances, of which TVA has brought out a low priced line. Cheap power is offered to any municipality owning its own distribution system.

TVA sets the rates at which such current is supplied the consumer. Under its schedule the typical general consumer would pay an average of about 2 cents a kilowatt hour. For a fully electrified home, which is the TVA objective, the rate would average 7 mills a kilowatt hour.

For 600 kilowatt hours minimum the TVA price is $7.30 a month, as compared with $18.90 in Chicago, $18.13 in Baltimore, $11.80 in St. Louis, $30.55 in New York.

One widespread criticism is that this low-price competition has impaired the investment of more than 100,000 investors in bonds and preferred stock of private power companies in the Tennessee valley with a physical investment of some $500,000,000. Critics declare that the cheap rates do not figure in taxes and much other overhead, which, instead of being carried on the consumers' bills in the valley, will be paid for by the taxpayer in the industrial states like Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin Pennsylvania. TVA insists that all proper charge are carried in the price making.

What many folks in the valley are wondering i how the hillside farmer with $150 cash income year is going to pay for electric ranges and refrig erators. One TVA economist has figured that $120.0 is the average cash income of the rural farm resi dent in the valley, or $480.12 for a farm family— when it can collect it. The figures, of course, do no include the food raised and used by the farmer

In some counties the cash income runs much smaller Dr. Morgan speaks of regions in which the average cash income of a mountain farm is only $45 a year. One survey of Grainger county Tennessee, gave $207 as the average cash family income in 1932, while outgo was figured at $299 leaving the family $92 in the red.

In the socialization program new industries are expected to be attracted to the valley by the lure complicated organizations of TVA, and each department's relation to all other departments.

of cheap power. This in turn, as TVA views it, will make possible a "balancing of agriculture and industry." Some farmers will be able to add to their income by working part time in factories.

Although heralded as a new discovery by the professoriat at Knoxville, this part-time idea has been operated for years by "rugged individualism" in many of the hill towns. At Kingsport, Elizabethton, Greeneville, Clinton, Lenoir City, Athens, Cleveland, and in other communities more than 50 per cent of the workers live on farms outside town.

Ice Cubes for Every Still

At Alcoa, where 30 per cent of the virgin aluminum produced in the United States is smelted, 45 per cent of the 2,863 workers live on farms and do part-time work in the plant.

This tendency has been moving along under private enterprise, and TVA, lifting the idea, is out to put it across in a big way in the water-shed, meanwhile, however, still continuing to larrup "rugged individualism" from Helena to breakfast.

Enthusiasts speak of the golden day when every mountaineer will throw away his kerosene lamp and touch a button to turn on the light, while hillside cabins will have electric toasters, washers, and ranges. And the millennium is sure to dawn with ice cubes for every still and an electric milking machine in every cow shed.

As to the hardy mountaineers, mostly of Scotch-Irish colonial stock, they seem to view it all with mixed emotions. While thankful for government easy money sifting into the valley, many of them seem to demur at being pushed around in any regimentation scheme.

At Hendersonville, N. C., farmers of old colonial stock are showing belligerence against the TVA scheme to drown their ancestral acres to make a reservoir in the French Broad river to feed the dynamos some 400 miles down river at Muscle Shoals. The proposed 30-million-dollar dam would inundate between 50,000 and 70,000 acres of the fattest land in the mountains and put some 6,000 people off their farms, many of them descendants of frontiersmen of the days of the Watauga settlements.

The French Broad Valley association has been formed to fight the scheme, and it has blood in its eyes. But TVA is equipped with eminent domain and the association seems in despair, although a temporary delay has been announced.

Criticisms in the south that TVA is using cutthroat competitive methods in putting the government into business were recently sharpened by events in Knoxville. They revolved around efforts under TVA auspices to establish a municipal ownership plant.

Here the yardstick was said to resemble a sandbag. Knoxville in November voted for a municipal plant. The city is now served by the Tennessee Public Service company, which operates in 25 communities in east Tennessee. It also runs the street cars in Knoxville, but these are running a deficit of $40,000 a year.

The city offered to buy the distributing facilities, the cream of the company's business, for $2,500,000 in bonds—excluding the street cars. But the bonds could not be sold and the company would not accept them. When appeal was made to the Public Works Administration it was explained that PWA money could not be used to buy existing plants, but only for new construction, to stimulate employment. So instead PWA allotted $2,600,000 to Knoxville to build a municipal plant, of which $600,000 was a direct gift.

Take It or Leave It!

The TVA directors, who say they are against duplication of systems, after negotiations offered the Tennessee Public Service company $6,550,000—take it or leave it—for its transmission and distribution facilities in Knoxville and other cities—but excluding the street car line.

The company officials answered that the amount would not suffice to pay off the bonds of the company, which amounted to $7,780,000, holding that the proposition was confiscatory. Knoxville went ahead with its plans to build a competing municipal plant with PWA easy money, and the public service company seemed caught in a nutcracker operated by federal funds. Its officials, realizing their position, finally consented to sell out at Lilienthal's price. Most recent development, that of Oct. 19, has the question of sale of the utilities properties in the hands of the Tennessee state railroad and public utilities commission, which is considering whether TVA may make the purchase—at a price finally fixed at $6,191,000.

The three directors of TVA are Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, chairman, who was president of Antioch college; Dr. Harcourt A. Morgan, former president of the University of Tennessee, and Mr. Lilienthal, former utilities commissioner of Wisconsin. There are 2,177 salaried employes, with a pay roll for personal services for the fiscal year of $6,800,000. Some 9,500 men at present are employed on the projects, and at the peak it is figured 20,000 will be on the job. In addition 20,000 are expected to find work in cement mills and other plants furnishing material. In addition 5,000 CCC workers are working on reforestation and soil erosion.

"When Norris dam is finished more than 3,000 families will have to be out of their ancestral homes. Some hamlets will be under water, and many old cemeteries, bodies from which are now being removed to other grounds." "Norris dam, near Knoxville, is to be 253 feet high and 1,800 feet long at the crest. It will impound the waters of the Clinch river and form an artificial lake with a shore line of 800 miles and an area of 80 square miles." Looking Through a Paddle Board

(Acme photo.)

CAPT. GEORGE WATKINS, chief of the Santa Monica, Cal., lifeguard corps, has invented a glass bottomed paddle board for use in searching for articles lost in water. Watkins received so many requests from bathing girls and others who had lost rings and other valuable articles of personal property that he decided inventive genius would be necessary to solve the problem. He is shown in the picture aboard his paddle board. The boat will be in demand also, he believes, for study of marine life and plants.

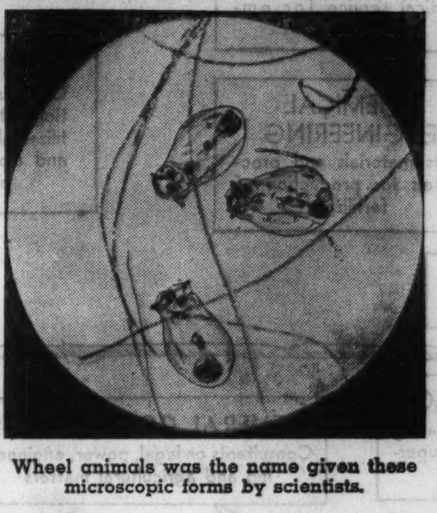
The dog's normally black hair has turned gray and his whiskers and paws are white.

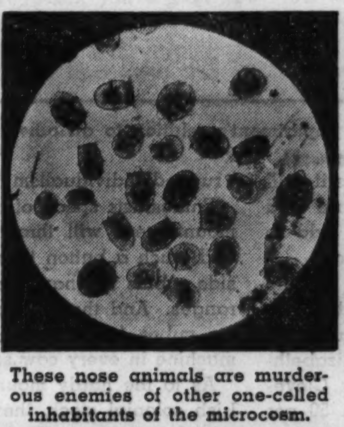
In a Drop of Water

These spectators are peering at enormously magnified spectacles of life as seen through the microscope.

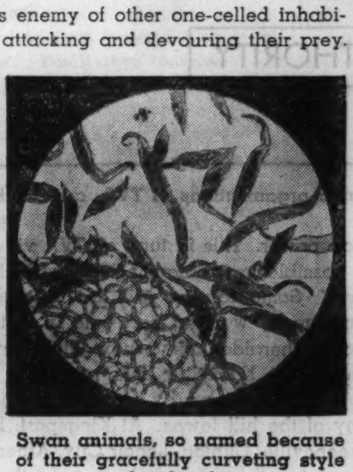
IN AN ordinary drop of water there are many wonders. They were seen for the first time by thousands of visitors to the Chicago World's Fair at the Microvivarium, conducted by Dr. George Roemmert. In the Microvivarium visitors see projected on a motion picture screen a series of microscopic slides, greatly enlarged, on which are living creatures seldom seen by the eyes of man. There are thousands of infinitesimal actors in Dr. Roemmert's show, and it is his difficult task to keep them alive by a delicate balance of temperature and food. Dr. Roemmert photographed scores of microscopic creatures with a high powered microscope lens, and these he projects on the screen in an amazing pageant. As shown in the microvivarium, the otherwise invisible life present in an ordinary drop of water is often beautiful, often grotesque, but always engrossing. Dr. Roemmert describes and explains the creatures shown on the screen at each performance. A dramatic climax of the show is a view of animalcules called nose animals, murderous enemy of other one-celled inhabitants of the microcosm, in the act of attacking and devouring their prey.



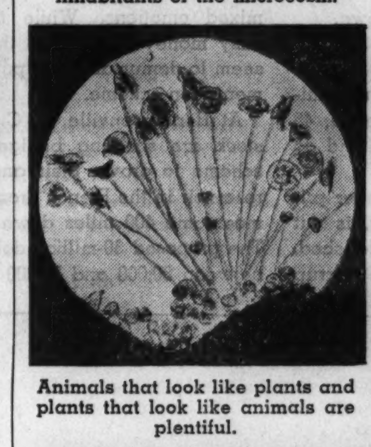
Wheel animals was the name given these microscopic forms by scientists.



These nose animals are murderous enemies of other one-celled inhabitants of the microcosm.



Swan animals, so named because of their gracefully curveting style of swimming.



Animals that look like plants and plants that look like animals are plentiful.

One-celled slipper animalcules, called "grazing cattle" by Dr. Roemmert of the Microvivarium.

Kidneys Cause Much Trouble Says Doctor

Successful Prescription Helps Remove Acids—Works in 15 Minutes.

Dr. T. J. Rastelli, famous English scientist, Doctor of Medicine and Surgeon, says: "You can't feel well if your Kidneys do not function right, because your Kidneys affect your entire body."

Your blood circulates 4 times a minute through 9 million tiny, delicate tubes in your Kidneys which are endangered by drastic, irritating drugs, modern foods and drinks, worry, and exposure. Beware of Kidney dysfunction if you suffer from Night Rising, Leg Pains, Nervousness, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes, Acidity, or Loss of Pep.

Dr. Walter R. George, for many years Health Director of Indianapolis, says: "Insufficient Kidney excretions are the cause of much needless suffering with Aching Back, Frequent Night Rising, Itching, Smarting, Burning, Painful Joints, Rheumatic Pains, Headaches, and a generally run-down body. I am of the opinion that the prescription Cystex corrects such functional conditions. It aids in flushing poisons from the urinary tract, and in freeing the blood of retained toxins. Cystex deserves the indorsement of all doctors." If you suffer from Kidney and Bladder dysfunction, delay endangers your vitality, and you should not lose a single minute in starting to take the doctor's special prescription called Cystex (pronounced Siss-tex) which helps Kidney functions in a few hours. It starts work in 15 minutes. Gently tones, soothes, and cleans raw, sore membranes. Brings new energy and vitality in 48 hours. It is helping millions of sufferers and is guaranteed to fix you up and make you feel like new in 8 days, or money back on return of empty package. Get guaranteed Cystex from your druggist today.

When Poisons Clog KIDNEYS and Irritate Bladder

JUST DO THIS

Go to your druggist today and get this safe, swift and harmless diuretic and stimulant—ask for Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules and start at once to flush kidneys of waste matter saturated with acids and poisons.

That's the way to bring about healthy kidney activity and stop that bladder irritation which often causes scanty passage with smarting and burning as well as restless nights.

Remember, the kidneys often need flushing as well as the bowels, and some symptoms of kidney weakness are: Getting up once or twice during the night—puffy eyes—cramps in leg—backache and moist palms. But be sure and get GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules—the original and genuine—right from Haarlem in Holland—the price is small (35 cents), the good results will fulfill your expectations.

Indian 'Gator Wrestlers

Look for your birthday or the group in which it appears throughout the following notes—it may be mentioned more than once. Mark it with a pencil wherever you see it, and then pay attention to the counsel given.

THIS week and next week are important because they mark the beginning of a strongly emotional cycle lasting about two years. Internationally, this does not help the pacifists at all, for the distrust between nations will be increased during its period. Privately and personally, however, each and all of us can and should avoid conflicts. This week is favorable generally for business matters and the making of new friends. But control the lower level of emotions—be sympathetic. Tomorrow and Tuesday: Keep confidential matters straight; otherwise routine as much as possible. Wednesday and Thursday: Be definite in everything of a personal nature; do as much of it as you can yourself. Friday and Saturday: Make financial adjustments if necessary. Next Sunday: Plan business matters ahead; also personal affairs in the community.

Shifting Sands

Changes in personal affairs, chiefly from inside (but it does look as though other people's attitudes shift as fast as ours when once we start 'em), are now to be expected and wisely followed up if you were born March 19-April 18, Feb. 21-25 Aug. 26-29, or Oct. 18-21. This also is true, but more in matters involving the emotions, for persons born March 2-5, April 6-9, Aug. 11-Sept. 17, and Oct. 9-12 (note overlaps). Changes in friends can be made by those born May 19-June 20; that is, they can make new contacts to advantage for some time to come. Meeting of new people who can help in developing your talents should now be sought if you were born Nov. 20-Dec. 20. But keep away from too hasty changes in matrimonial or other partnership affairs, whether you are in or out of them now, if you entered the world Sept. 21-Oct. 21 (information that applies to more than this week—watch it for several months to come). Avoid unnecessary shifts in occupational relations if you were born June 20-July 21.

Spending Wisely

Extravagance is now the temptation to elude if you were born July 11-Aug. 30, Feb. 17-March 19, or Dec. 17-Jan. 18; but wise spending and financial deals are to be encouraged. Safeguard your estate savings, and other assets with insurance and good management, especially if born May 13-June 12. Money matters can be vastly improved now in confidential matters and arrangements by natives of Aug. 31-September-Oct. 12; but don't be careless. Hold back on incurring heavy obligations if you were born Jan. 14-Feb. 19, Aug. 10-Sept. 16, or Dec. 1-Jan. 1.

Success

Success rarely comes all at once; it is more a matter of inching up toward it a little at a time. Now is a week favorable to such advancement in the affairs of those born Jan. 11-Feb. 16, July 31-Aug. 11, Oct. 9-Nov. 8, April 23-26, and April 15-24.

The Social Side

Make the most of social opportunities this week if you were born Jan. 10-Feb. 13, June 10-July 15, Oct. 12-Nov. 17, April 26-May 9, or Aug. 5-17. Follow up romantic tendencies if you are eligible and were born April 7-May 12, June 11-July 16, Oct. 31-Nov. 30, or Dec. 11-Jan. 9. Avoid the causes of scandal if you are a native of Sept. 17-Oct. 10 or Nov. 8-Dec. 10.

WILD PASTURES

By REX BEACH

THE STORY TO DATE

Tom Kennedy, young Texas cowboy, arrives in the Florida cattle country in the wild '90's to work for his uncle, Capt. Ben Noble, wealthy and respected cattleman. Tom falls in love with Rita Mendez, beautiful Cuban girl, who is visiting her relatives, the Rubio family, at Fort Myers. Tom incurs the enmity of Tad and Sonny Dolman, sons of Asa Dolman, banker and rancher, suspected of shady dealings. Tom's friend, Bide Willing, a cowboy, receives an anonymous threat against Tom. While the two are fencing in Captain Noble's pasture land, Nick, the ranch foreman, brings them news that part of the fence has been cut. They suspect the Dolmans. By a cowboy feat Tom wins the admiration of Belle Sprague, unconventional woman rancher. An attempt is made one night to kill Tom and Bide Willing. The two ride in pursuit of their unknown enemies and are joined en route by Belle Sprague. Bide is bitten by a moccasin and cannot continue. Tom and Belle ride on together into the 'Glades country.

INSTALMENT VII.

ALTHOUGH Belle Sprague was casual enough now and wholly preoccupied with other concerns, it was impossible to be long in her company without feeling the conviction that she was primitive, lawless, and—nine-tenths animal. A healthy, buxom, ruthless creature who had never denied herself a single desire! That was Belle Sprague. In his mind Tom likened her vaguely to a tawny lioness—savage, fearless, predatory. The more he tried to analyze her the more acute became his disquiet.

They saw no dwellings after leaving the river; there were no roads, no wagon tracks in these woods, not even an occasional skeleton tent frame to show that this range had ever been explored. They had passed the last frontier and were in no man's land.

It was a region unlike any Kennedy had seen so far. The pine woods were not continuous; patches of timber alternated with grassy prairies containing shallow, reed-bordered ponds from some of which rose the stuttering shouts of whooping cranes. The birds were here by the thousands. When they passed overhead the air pulsated to their throbbing cries.

Belle could certainly ride. Tom admired the way she sat her saddle and managed her horse. Her energy, her fixity of purpose, her indifference to discomfort were admirable, too. She was strong and tireless and swift of decision. A real pioneer woman, he admitted. Those settlers' wives who followed Boone's track across the Alleghenies and into the scowling wilderness of the Ohio and the Tennessee long before the west was even heard of were made of similar stuff. They were the Belle Spragues of their time. Or, to put it better, she was a throwback to the hard-handed, deep-bosomed, oxcart woman of earlier days. There must have been a good many of her sort, Kennedy told himself, who strode shoulder to shoulder with the men, sharing their perils and their hardships, lifting their faces to the wind braving the dark loneliness of the forest and the subtle menace of the unknown.

He admired the type. He admired "Miss Belle," too, in a grudging way. He would have admired her thoroughly, enormously, if only she were a decent woman. But, alas, those stories! He could not get them out of his head. And to think of finding himself in the heart of desolation alone with a loose woman! Too bad his hands were tied by the modern code; there were moments when he felt as primitive as she.

SUNDOWN A parklike island of pines into which an ax had never been laid. On either hand a sea of grass, broken by other islets of timber, and directly ahead a distant wall of vegetation resembling a short line of black rock According to Mrs. Sprague, it was the edge of the jungle guarding Lake Okeechobee. She and Tom unsaddled, for it was useless to go farther, and the tired animals stood with drooping heads and slack haunches while camp was made.

Supper was under way when the travelers saw outlined darkly against the copper horizon the solitary figure of a man. He was approaching them across the prairie; under his arm he carried a gun. There was something arresting either in his carriage or in the cut of his clothing, and this Belle explained by saying:

"It's a Seminole hunter. We're in luck."

She waved, and the Indian quickened his gait. He raised his arm in recognition, whereupon she cried: "Hello, Billy! Why it's Billy Goodbear!" She advanced and held out her hand. For several minutes she talked with the hunter in his own language, then informed Tom: "Billy's all right. He's been at the Lower Place many a time He's hungry, of course."

While she and the Indian talked, Tom went on with the supper. Here was a relief. Even the presence of a red man took the curse off of this situation to a certain extent. He could venture now to meet Belle's gaze openly. Of a sudden he realized how seldom he had done so since leaving Bassenger, and it stirred his anger. What a self-conscious ass he was!

Supper was finished, the horses were attended to, when Belle said: "Those fellows are about five miles from here with a 'gator plume hunter named Black Jack. Billy saw them this morning."

"Will he lead the way?"

"Sure! He'll be back for us at four o'clock. That'll give us time to——"

"Back for me, you mean."

"I said 'us.'"

"All right. But why let him leave? He can have my blanket."

"Don't be a fool!"

"I mean he may weaken, or——"

"What's the matter? Scared?"

"Scared? Of what?"

"Of me." Belle exposed her firm white teeth in a smile. "Why, Tom Kennedy! You act like you never slept out with a woman before."

In confusion he exclaimed: "I never did! I wasn't thinking about that, ma'am; I——"

"You've been thinking about nothing else all day. It has worried you sick. You're right peaked." Tom was silent. "Well, it isn't the first time I've slept alongside a cowboy. . . . All I hope is you don't snore."

"Suppose this Indian doesn't wake up?"

"No danger! I told him four; he won't miss it ten minutes. Well, I'm tired. It's time we turned in." The speaker's preparations for bed were simple. She placed her saddle for a pillow and spread her blanket on a mat of grass and palmetto leaves which Tom had gathered earlier, then, seating herself upon it, she pulled off her boots. Meanwhile she talked.

"How do you aim to take those two tophers?"

Kennedy shrugged. "I'll manage somehow. If they vex me I'll maybe cut down on 'em. Honest! You better stay here and——"

"O, I wish you'd hush. I'm right fond of you, Tom, but I can't take orders from you." Mrs. Sprague removed her jacket, loosened her belt, and unbuttoned her waist at the throat carelessly, exposing the white skin below her line of tan. "Have you got a girl?"

"Yes'm. That is, I've—kind of got one."

"Hm'm! You're so shy I thought maybe——" The speaker yawned she stretched herself, she ran her hands over her tired muscles and rubbed gently here and there "If Jim Sprague had been like you I'd have made a man of him, but he was an empty gourd." Her blue eyes gleamed, a smile flickered over her face when the cowboy picked up his saddle and blanket and moved away. "Where you bound for?" she inquired.

"O, just—over yonder."

MALICE mingled with her amusement. In apparent unconcern she protested:

"No, no! You've got to sleep close. I'm all right by m'self in the daytime, but when night comes I'm nervous as a cat."

"Why, sure. If you feel that way."

"I do." It gratified her to see how awkwardly Tom made down his bed and how studiously he avoided looking at her. After a while she said casually: "Good night. Sleep tight."

"Good night, ma'am."

There was a silence, which Belle found thoroughly agreeable. She thought some of asking Tom to kiss her good night and wondered what he would do. Stampede, probably; break a leg or butt his brains out against some tree. At length she said:

"Don't mind if I—reach out and touch you during the night?" No answer. "I said don't be startled if——"

"I heard you, Mrs. Sprague."

"O! . . . You must have been saying your prayers."

"Yes'm. I was."

Belle turned her head. "Honest?"

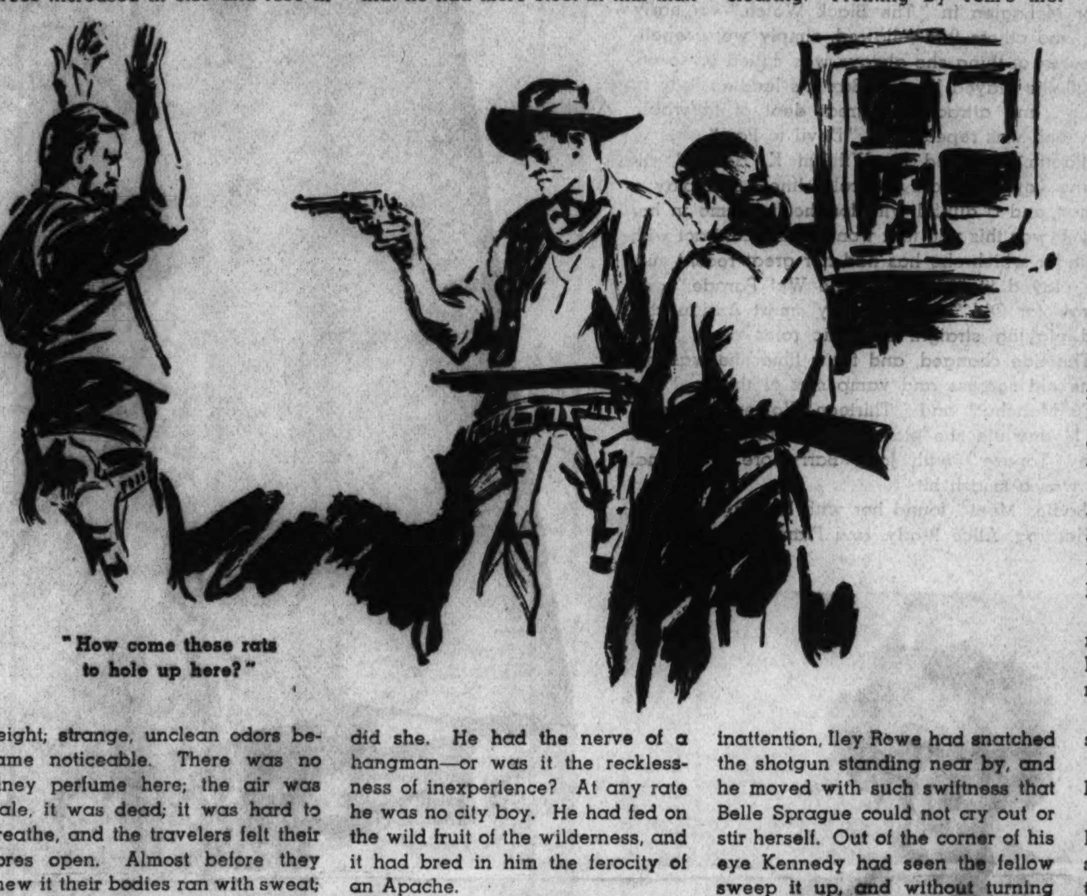
"It's a habit I never broke myself of."

"Well, I declare! . . . What were you praying for?"

"O, nothing! Things a person prays for he don't like to talk about."

THE forest was still gloomy when Billy Goodbear directed Belle and Tom to dismount and tie their horses. From here on, he said, they must go afoot. With her carbine under her arm, the woman fell in behind her two companions; soon they stepped into a blackness through which they had to feel their way. The jungle roofed them over, the earth grew damp and soft in places water stood ankle deep.

Leaves wet with dew slapped their faces, dampened their garments; thorns clung to their limbs, and roots, vines, ferns, an unseen litter of decaying vegetation impeded their feet. As they penetrated deeper into the swamp the trees increased in size and rose in height; strange, unclean odors became noticeable. There was no piney perfume here; the air was stale, it was dead; it was hard to breathe, and the travelers felt their pores open. Almost before they knew it their bodies ran with sweat; the noisome place seemed actually to radiate a heat like that from a rotting manure pile.



"How come these rats to hole up here?"

Plainly Goodbear was following a trail hewn out by hand, otherwise it would have been impossible to push through such a growth; once in it, moreover, there was no getting out.

It seemed to Tom and Belle that they must have stumbled through that chaos of slime and rioting vegetation for at least an hour before the ground rose, became firmer under their feet, and they realized that they stood at last on the saucer rim of the mighty lake. Here they could walk more warily, breathe more easily. Ahead was open water, and to the east the horizon was beginning to color.

Billy Goodbear stopped; he whispered to Belle and pointed with uplifted chin.

"He says the camp is maybe two hundred yards ahead," she translated. "He's going now. He says Black Jack doesn't keep a dog. A 'gator got it."

Even while she was speaking Goodbear vanished. When Tom raised his head the Seminole had dematerialized, evaporated.

Under their breath the man and woman outlined their procedure, and when the light improved sufficiently for them to see what they were doing they stole forward. Even yet distances were deceitful and objects were magnified in size. They came to a clearing under a grove of live oaks in the center of which stood a wattled hut with a roof of palm leaves. It was doorless, windowless; in the opening which served both purposes hung a ghostly curtain of mosquito netting. Near by was a crude shed roof supported upon four posts which sheltered a stove, a crazy table, and a cupboard made of packing boxes.

Either the dew or the damp night breath of the nearby lake had laid a thin coverlet of moisture over the premises, for foliage glistened, the eaves of the hut dripped, and in the silence every drop was audible The place was odorous of stale smoke, of fish, of half-cured alligator hides, of careless filth; it smelled more like the den of some wild animal than a human habitation, and in its utter sordidness there was a certain sinister menace.

The woman stationed herself; cautiously Tom moved forward to the shelter of a tree trunk; they waited.

The first hot rays of the sun were making an oven of the cabin and had roused a humming of flies and insects before there came a lazy stir, a mutter of voices from within. A black-bearded man in faded cotton shirt and ragged overalls pushed the mosquito bar aside and emerged. His pants were rolled up to his knees, he was barefooted, he was unarmed. The fellow stretched, he yawned enormously, scratched himself industriously; after a drink from a water jug swathed in wet burlap he went to the rickety stove and rattled it.

Belle Sprague was anything but a nervous woman, nevertheless she experienced difficulty in breathing and the lift of her bosom sounded like a loud noise in a narrow room. She wondered how much longer Tom could endure the strain. He was only a kid; his immaturity had amused her; but she realized now that he had more steel in him than did she. He had the nerve of a hangman—or was it the recklessness of inexperience? At any rate he was no city boy. He had fed on the wild fruit of the wilderness, and it had bred in him the ferocity of an Apache.

Again the flimsy curtain was brushed back and another man appeared; he was followed by a third. These two were cattlemen; they were booted and belted. One of them carried a repeating shotgun —"buckshot guns," the cowboys called them—which he leaned against the wall. They exchanged some sleepy comment which did not register upon Belle's mind, inasmuch as her ears were strained so intently for Tom's challenge.

It came suddenly, and it crackled. The men started, they tossed their arms like jumping jacks, reminding the woman for one brief, absurd instant of two loose-jointed wooden figures attached to a string which he had jerked. The water jug fell with a thud. There was a metallic clatter at the stove as the outlaw dropped his skillet; from his jungle of beard Black Jack's eyes glistened fearfully.

TOM had stepped out into view, moving not with the stiff caution of a man treading dangerous ground, but with a catlike eagerness; there was restrained fury in his face. He was throbbing with a baleful anger.

"W-what the hell——?"

"Mister! You cain't——"

"Stretch! . . . Quick!" He motioned with the muzzle of his pistol, and its silent threat lifted the three pairs of hands as if by magnetic force. The men turned their heads and for the first time saw Belle Sprague staring at them over the foreshortened barrel of her rifle. Apprehensively they searched the clearing for other reinforcements.

Tom halted a few paces from the pair he covered and without turning his head called to his companion:

"Take their pistols."

Belle advanced, whereupon one of the men recognized her and began an appeal intended to convey the depths of his indignation at this outrage, but he was still breathless and incoherent. She checked him with a curt:

"Shut up! Don't make a move!"

"Empty those guns, ma'am, and toss them to me." Belle did as she was directed. "Knives, too."

"Who ever put you boys up to murder?" Mrs. Sprague inquired as she stepped away.

"We never——"

"What do you mean?"

"O, we followed you every inch! Joe Long and Red Howell are hot after your partner, and they've probably killed him by now."

"I'd dearly love to gut-shoot both of you," Kennedy exclaimed in a grating voice.

"Come on. Speak up. Who set you to kill him and Bide Willing?"

There was no answer. The cowboys returned Belle's accusing gaze with stares of sullen defiance.

"What's your name?"

"Iley Rowe."

"And yours?"

"Sid Fisher."

"Humph! Bartow boys. I know your people. They're no good, Tom."

Kennedy turned upon the furtive, downcast owner of the premises.

"How come these rats to hole up here? Friends of yours?"

"No, sir! I never seen ary one of 'em till yestiddy. They just came in an' took up——"

Black Jack's words were cut short by a crash that roared through the clearing. Profiting by Tom's first inattention, Iley Rowe had snatched the shotgun standing near by, and he moved with such swiftness that Belle Sprague could not cry out or stir herself. Out of the corner of his eye Kennedy had seen the fellow sweep it up, and without turning his body, without even looking, so it seemed, he had fired. Mrs. Sprague realized later that he had whipped his weapon across his chest and discharged it under his left armpit, a maneuver she would not have considered possible had it not been clearly fixed upon the retina of her mind's eye, so to speak.

Rowe spun; his body was twisted, flung off balance. The shotgun slid out of his loosened fingers, he bent. Then, like a man whose arms were heavily weighted, he swung them forward, crossed them over his abdomen, hugged himself. They were leaden and nerveless. He stooped further; he held his feet for an instant, fighting some paralyzing spasm, then he rocked forward, head down, and buried his face in the sand. His knees straightened convulsively, plowing twin furrows in the soft soil with his boot toes; the air left his body in a wheezing cough almost like a sob.

There was a silence. Sid Fisher broke it with a moaning cry. The black-bearded renegade uttered a blasphemy, and Belle Sprague closed her eyes. She heard Kennedy's voice, peculiarly flat and emotionless, saying:

"Turn him over. . . . You! . . . Dead, isn't he?"

She saw Fisher kneel, then raise a blanched face with two bulging eyes ringed with white. They resembled the eyes of a terrified horse.

"Well, that's that!" Mrs. Sprague said, filling her lungs. "Now, Sid, is there any fight left in you?"

"No'm. I——"

"You reckon you can behave yourself?"

"Yes'm."

"Then get him into the cabin."

When the body had been carried into the shack Belle noticed how sick Kennedy looked, so she laid her hand on his shoulder and spoke quietly:

"Fast work, cowboy! Don't let it worry you. Now let's have a cup of coffee. We all need it."

PALMS! Palms! Scattered at intervals across a waving savanna as far as the eye could reach. They had pre-empted the entire country. There were hundreds, thousands of them, all about of a size and standing alone or in twos and threes. Here and there on some favored footing they were grouped more thickly and their peculiar shapes lent a distinctive character to the scene. To Tom Kennedy those trees, all of a kind, suggested an incredibly numerous horde of tufted warriors halted by black magic in the midst of a fantastic dance. Some were tall and erect, others crouched or were bent and crooked. All stood poised in the attitudes they had struck when the savage ritual was stopped. Their naked bodies were motionless, but their plumes stirred and rustled in the wind. They were listening, doubtless, for some long-awaited blast of ram's-horn or conch shell to set them whirling and stamping once more in thunderous rhythm. In his fancy he could see them tossing lances and clashing shields of rhinoceros hide.

All that day he and Belle and Sid Fisher had ridden west. The lake was behind them. Somewhere ahead lay the southernmost tip of the sand hills, and on beyond that, past pine woods and prairie, lay Arcadia, Fort Myers, the land of the living.

As usual, Belle had taken charge of things. Instead of retracing their course she bore across country in the direction of her lower ranch. There, according to her plan, they would rest up, clean up, and fill up before pushing on. Meanwhile she set herself the task of wringing a confession out of their prisoner.

Before leaving the outlaw's camp she had told Tom: "If these fellows were hired by Asa Dolman or the boys, as I suspect, we've got to get it out of Fisher this side of jail."

"Looks to me like a pretty plain case," Tom had asserted, but the woman shook her head.

"It'll take more than we've got to convict him. More than horse tracks. I reckon you're glad now that I came along. I mean—with Iley Rowe dead."

"I sure am, Miss Belle. I guess nobody will question your story of how the play happened. I'm a newcomer here——"

"Is that the first man you ever shot?"

"Yes'm! I never thought I'd have to——"

Belle had "worked" on the unhappy Fisher at intervals ever since. She rode near him most of the time, while Tom brought up the rear.

THAT night they tied the fellow hand and foot. The next morning Mrs. Sprague renewed her pressure.

In time they left the Okeechobee flatlands behind, crossed the ridge, and headed southwest. Belle dropped back to say:

"He won't open up, damn him! Knows he'll be safe with Tuttle, I reckon. I've been thinking about poor Bide Willing and——" She paused, she scanned Tom with her hard blue eyes. "You really want to learn who put up the job to kill you?"

Tom's face darkened. "If you'll jog on alone I'll find out."

"All right! I just wanted to make sure. I'll tell you when to start work." She spurred her horse once more into the lead.

A time came when the stately forest thinned and ahead stretched another marshy plain, down to the edge of which grew clumps of palmettoes and a low, thick scrub of dwarfed bushes.

Here Mrs Sprague altered her course, slowed to a walk, and followed the margin, her eyes roving from side to side. She seemed to pursue an aimless course, and her horse picked its way carefully with ears alert. A half hour, then it suddenly shied. It would have leaped out from under a less skilful rider than she. It stood trembling. From near by came a dry buzzing like the note of a locust.

"Snake!" exclaimed Sid Fisher. "There belongs to be plenty of snakes around this prairie."

"Yes. I see him."

"Better get out of here. We don't want no truck with them things."

"Tom! Put a loop on him!" The speaker inclined her head in Fisher's direction.

As Kennedy loosened his rope the prisoner stared at first one, then the other of his captors, then kicked his horse and it lunged forward.

"Catch him!"

Tom's was the better, quicker animal. Before Fisher had traveled forty yards the lariat settled over his head. Sid fought its closing loop for the briefest fraction of a second, then it ripped him bodily out of his saddle and he struck the ground with rib-cracking violence. He uttered a frightened shout; he struggled as he felt himself being dragged like a sack of corn; he clawed at the noose which was cutting him in two, but it resisted his fingers as rigidly as a wire cable. He managed somehow to scramble to his feet and come bounding behind Tom's horse. Towed by the lariat, he ran with exaggerated strides, yelling at every leap. As he approached the place whence that sinister death warning issued he "crow-hopped" and managed to avoid by a matter of some ten feet the glittering menace which lay coiled and waiting. The body of the thing, he could see, was as thick as his leg at the knee; its flat head was the size of his fist. Fisher collapsed to his knees. When the rope eased he rose and stood rocking.

"Jesus! . . . I'll tell! For God's sake, whoa! . . . Loose me!"

Mrs. Sprague spoke in a wintry voice. "Sure you'll tell! You'll tell everything or you'll be swelled up like a dead horse by sundown and the buzzards will pick you. . . . Was it Asa Dolman?"

"No'm. It was—Tad."

"Make haste! Tell us the whole story. We'll put it down in writing when we get to the ranch and you'll sign it in the presence of witnesses. Go on!"

STANDING with his body braced rigidly against the rope, his staring eyes straining from side to side, Fisher talked. The words came reluctantly, in painful bursts, and the effort of speaking brought a sweat to his brow.

"You reckon you can remember every single bit of that when we get to the Lower Place?" Belle inquired.

"Yes'm."

"If I had any paper I'd write it out now. You'll sign tonight?"

"Hell, yes! I'd as lief write it as tell it."

"Loose him."

Tom did as he was directed. He fetched the other horse and Fisher climbed unsteadily into his saddle.

. . . .

"So you like my ranch," Belle Sprague said that night.

"Yes'm! From what little I've seen this is the best cow country outdoors."

She and Tom had arrived at the Lower Place about sundown. They had secured their prisoner's signature to his confession and had turned him over to the help in the bunk house.

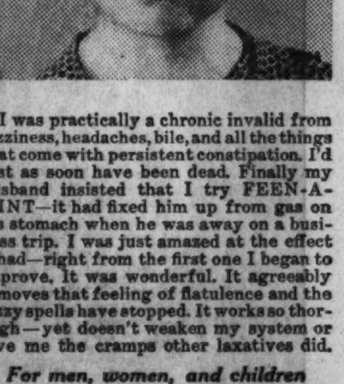
IT RELIEVED MY MISERY



●I was practically a chronic invalid from dizziness, headaches, bile, and all the things that come with persistent constipation. I'd just as soon have been dead. Finally my husband insisted that I try FEEN-A-MINT—it had fixed him up from gas on his stomach when he was away on a business trip. I was just amazed at the effect it had—right from the first one I began to improve. It was wonderful. It agreeably removes that feeling of flatulence and the dizzy spells have stopped. It works so thorough—yet doesn't weaken my system or give me the cramps other laxatives did.

For men, women, and children

Because it is effective and still gentle we are always getting letters from women about what FEEN-A-MINT does for them and their children. And rugged men find FEEN-A-MINT clears their system out thoroughly, too. Because you must chew FEEN-A-MINT the laxative spreads more evenly through the clogged intestines, works more thoroughly. No harmful violence. And so easy and pleasant to take—like your favorite chewing gum. 15,000,000 people depend on it. Try it yourself. 15 and 25¢ at your druggist's.

The Spindling Freckle-Face Who Became an Ultrastylish Star

By Rosalind Shaffer

Hollywood, Cal.

BEAUTIFUL, sophisticated, humorous, versatile Myrna Loy, who is the heroine of "The Thin Man" and who wears very ultra clothes by Adrian with such chic, is exactly nine years removed from the overtall too-thin, freckle-faced youngster who at the early age of sixteen was taking herself very seriously. It had not been long, in 1925, since Myrna Williams had been riding horses for most of her waking hours when she was not in school in Helena, Mont. Her father, David Williams, managed ranch properties, and his daughter's idea of fun was to ride for hours at his side.

Dancing and dramatic work were her passions, and it was this bent in her nature that influenced everything in her life and school work. When her parents passed several winters in California, Myrna attended Santa Monica and Venice high schools, mixing very little with her classmates, but always in every program of dramatics or dancing given at school. A recluse in those days, preferring books, she remains one so far as the general run of Hollywood affairs is concerned. Social circles see very little of her. She has friends, but they are not the smart partying and restaurant-dining type.

Something of the quality in the thin, freckle-faced, unprepossessing youngster must have shone through, for after several unfruitful contacts at the studios she received a role as "Spirit of Northern Ice" in the prologue at the Egyptian theater, prepared for Charles Chaplin's "The Gold Rush." Previous to this a photographer, Henry Waxman, had noticed Myrna when she was dancing in a Fanchon and Marco chorus and offered to make photographic studies of her without pay, as he considered her to have camera possibilities.

Handicapped at the Beginning

Rudolph Valentino and his wife, Natacha Rambova, noticed the pictures and were very much impressed by them. Natacha at the time was seeking a cast for her one and only screen production, "What Price Beauty?", an exotic fantasia, and she was taken by a certain exotic something in the Williams girl that the camera revealed. Valentino and his wife went to the Egyptian to see the original of the photos, and the "Spirit of Northern Ice" impressed them still more. She was signed for the role, and the stamp of the exotic half-caste was placed upon her, a stamp that was to last for a long time and hinder her dramatic career's progress, though it did keep her earning money before the camera in a series of oriental half-caste roles.

Natacha Rambova it was who gave her the name of Myrna Loy and accented the lure in the heavy-lidded eyes by deft make-up and slanting brows. Myrna took it all seriously and accented the oriental lure with her clothes and with her natural shyness as an ally in the building up of the legend that she was a half-caste. "I even studied oriental philosophy and tried to steep myself in oriental lore of all sorts to improve my characterizations," she says. "I had no idea how difficult it was going to be to get away from the type I was trying so hard to perfect."

"I took my career so seriously that I wore myself out with lessons and beauty treatments to improve myself," she confesses with a smile.

All of this diligence had won the girl a Warner contract. Previous to the Valentino recognition of her she had had only heartbreaks. At Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, the very studio where she now is a star, she sat about in the casting office for two weeks, to be used finally as the model on which Kathleen Key's costumes for "Ben Hur" were to have their screen test. Myrna herself was so ignored she was not even given a make-up to put on. Then Christy Cabanne, associated in directing the picture asked for her to play the Madonna in the Christmas sequence, an early piece of color photography. This hope was dashed, for the role was given to Betty Bronson whose sun long since has faded so far as films are concerned.

In Role of Oriental Charmer

A Fox contract, following the Warner one, found many wondering what the studio executives could see in the plain, overthin, freckle-faced girl who came and went so unobtrusively in no make-up and a simple tailored suit. The role of the oriental charmer Yasmini, who played opposit Victor McLaglen in "The Black Watch," an early sound film, and others that followed, simply were repetitions of the sort of thing she always was called on to do. Then in 1930 she played Warner Baxter's leading lady in "Renegades" and attracted a great deal of favorable comment, which was repeated in "Devil to Pay."

"Transatlantic," directed by William K. Howard, allowed Myrna Loy to "cross the color line" and play a white woman and a dutiful wife for the first time in her film career. It was this role that won her her contract with M.-G.-M., under which she has had her great recent success. She played in "Emma," "The Wet Parade," and "New Morals for Old," wearing very smart Adrian costumes and playing straight dramatic roles as a white woman. The tide changed, and for a time she was put back in the old seeress and vamp sort of thing. "The Mask of Fu Manchu" and "Thirteen Women" were of this sort. Meanwhile she played in "Vanity Fair," and then came "Topaze" with John Barrymore. "Animal Kingdom" was a smash hit.

"When Ladies Meet" found her with Robert Montgomery, Ann Harding, Alice Brady, and Frank Morgan. Her success was growing. She could do sophisticated roles to perfection; she could wear clothes very well.

"The Barbarian," with Ramon Novarro, gave her a most sympathetic role. The interest of the two in dancing and in opera and music brought about a close friendship between them, but Miss Loy denies a romance.

On Right Track

In speaking of the tide of success and popularity that has been flowing her way she says: "The decisive change in my screen career has come during the last year. I know I am on the right track at last. I'm not a type any longer. 'Night Flight' and later 'The Prizefighter and the Lady' proved this to my satisfaction."

"Manhattan Melodrama," "The Thin Man," and "Stamboul Quest" are her current successes.

Aside from her screen work, Myrna Loy still lives very quietly. She likes to work at her sculpturing and modeling, which is something that has interested her since her days at the Venice High school. In the grounds of the school stands a statue of Miss Loy, representing the spirit of inspiration, one of three in a group modeled by E. F. Winebrenner, art instructor, to express the mental, physical, and spiritual aspects of education.

Trips to the opera, to symphony concerts, and to see every famous dancer who comes to Los Angeles are the favorite recreations of Myrna Loy. Her own taste in clothes is conservative; she does not wear sport clothes by choice, only when active sports make it necessary. She prefers tailored clothes and is formal in her ideas. You will never catch her at a party in slacks or riding clothes.
